Washington Meets Hopkins Today

Rhinhold's Kicking To Be Big Factor

Washington College's foot ball eleven will go into action for its second game of the current season this afternoon against Johns Hopkins University. The Maroon and Black gridder, called "fighting midgits" by Baltimore sports writers as a result of their great showing against Maryland Saturday, will be rated as having at least an even chance against the Blue Jays if they display the kind of football they turned loose on probably the best grid combination the University of Maryland has put on the field in a decade. Much will depend on whether Fritz Rhinhold, star punter for the locals, can continue his sensational punting, which drew unstinted praise from all those who saw him consistently outpust "Shorty" Chalmers of Maryland, all-star half-back last year.

Due to the fact that the Baltimoreans have a more experienced and slightly heavier combination than the locals, many authorities look for the Jays to have a slight edge. Hopkins has the team that carried her colors last year, intact and has added several new faces to the variety squad, notably Don Kelly, all-American line backman of last year, who will hold down the regular quarterback post for Coach Ray Van Driman. According to reports the pupils of Coaches Kibler and Ekaltis will do well to watch this man in action with Captain Doug Turnbull, clever Jay broken field runner.

With possibly one exception local mentors will start the same combat against Hopkins that played most of the time Saturday at Byrd Stadium. Huey, 170 pound end is expected to be back in shape by Saturday and will replace Clements at end or possibly Gamble if the latter is not in ship-shape by that time. Coach Ekaltis expects much from Grossmith at center and if this fighting freshman keeps up his previous type of work he will give the opposition plenty to worry about.

Coach Ekaltis has added several players to quarterback Robinson's list that are calculated to make the local attack more effective. Both Kibler and Ekaltis declared that with Plummer continuing his hard backing and Robinson his brainy quarterbacking they were confident of the ability of the locals to roll up first downs and touchdowns.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

On Monday evening the Glee Club slipped its meetings and entered the annual at full speed along with the other activities of the college. In addition to the songsters already members some new voices were given private auditions of which several will prove useful.

Contrary to the custom adhered to in the past, we now have an advisory director who is not a member of the faculty in the person of Mr. Raymond L. Moffett, sometime student at Washington College. His presence will give to the Club the advantage of his training in various fields of music. Miss Russell has again resumed her post at the piano and has proved ready, as always, to give the result of her fruitful experience in music.

NEW ALUMNI EDITOR

A. E. Howard

Mr. E. A. Howard, Secretary of the Dupont Co., of Wilmington, Del., has accepted the position of Alumni Editor for The Washington Elm for the coming school year of 1931-32.

Mr. Howard, whose interest in Washington College caused him to donate the portrait of The Reverend Dr. Francis Waters, twice President of Washington College, graduated in 1904 with the degree of bachelor of arts. He was one time Editor of The Washington Collegian and his file of the college paper is complete from 1900 to the present day.

MT. VERNON HOLDS OLD FASHIONED PROGRAM

Scene Of Sketches Is 1847

The Mt. Vernon Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting Wednesday, Sept. 30th. Alice Dole, and Edwin Coulbourn were elected to fill the vacancies on the Board of Curators.

The setting of the program was Mt. Vernon in 1847, the year the society was founded. The participants dressed in costumes appropriate to the period. The main feature was a speech denouncing the one-year constitutional experiment being made by the College authorities.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

Quartette: Branford, Coulbourn, Shriver, Harris.

Talk: "A Gem of the Chesapeake," Walter Branford.

Vocal Solo: "An Old Fashioned Garden," Theodosia Chapman.

Solo: "W. C. Remain Coeduction," Robert Carey.

Musical Recitation: "The Patchwork Quilt," Jewell Jewell.

At the close of the program, approximately twenty-five new members were taken into the society.

DEAN JONES ANNOUNCES FORMATION OF CABINET

Dean J. S. W. Jones announced today that the formation of The Dean's cabinet would take place within the next week. This organization, which was begun last year, consists of the men that are holding the reins of the classes, the fraternities and the major campus activities. The aim of the cabinet is to discuss the student at problems and to do all in their power to promote better co-operation between the administration and the student body. In no way will their activity interfere with The Mer's Student Council.

Wade Bounds '22 To Give Prize

Wade Goldsborough Bounds, '22, President of the Washington College Alumni Association for 1930-31 will give a gold football, it is reported by Harry Russell, to "the person that does the most to aid football at Washington College for the coming year."

Wade G. Bounds

Mr. Russell, editor of the Chestertown Enterprise, recently received the communication from Mr. Bounds in which the idea was suggested to him for his comment. Although the exact conditions under which it can be won have not been completely decided it is believed that the award will be available to any person whether a player or not. The requirement will be that the recipient has given the most beneficial aid to the present football situation at the college.

Dr. K. Carpenter To Teach Here

Dr. Kathleen E. Carpenter of the Science Department, comes to us directly from McGill University, Montreal, where she was lecturing on Animal Ecology. Prof. Carpenter was lecturer in Zoology in the University of Wales for five years. For another five years she was connected with the British Ministry of Agriculture, and Fisheries, in charge of investigating the pollution of Welsh trout and salmon streams. Dr. Carpenter has published a book on Biology entitled "Life in Inland Streams," published in London and New York, in 1928. From 1928 to 1930 she was mainly interested with Physiological research work at Harvard University and the University of Illinois.

A native Englishwoman, Dr. Carpenter is delighted with Eastern Maryland, which she had never visited before, and looks forward to a pleasant year.

Juniors Elect Officers For Coming Year

In a hotly contested battle held in William Smith Hall last Thursday evening DeWitt Clarke defeated James Carey by the margin of a single vote for the office of Junior Member of The Blue Key Fraternity. When the votes were finally counted the score was twenty-three for Carey and twenty-four for Clarke. Previous to this Clarke had also defeated Joseph Dickerson for the presidency of the Junior Class by a somewhat larger majority.

The men elected Thursday evening will hold office until June when the class will once again go to the ballot box.

CHEMISTRY PROFESSOR

Dr. Buxton

The new head of the Department of Chemistry, Dr. Buxton, is rumored, is endeavoring to introduce at Washington a complete course in Physical Chemistry. This will be the first time that any such work has been offered, and if the rumor is correct this course will fill the only gap now existing in the successive courses in Chemistry.

Dr. Buxton fills the vacancy left by the death of Dr. Errol Fox.

Vocal Solo: "On The Road To Mandalay," Charles Harris.

Mr. John E. Davis Addresses Students

Ex-Washington Grad Is Now Physical Director

Mr. John E. Davis, senior physical director at the Veterans' Hospital on Perry's Point addressed the college assembly Thursday, October 1st on the subject of "Physical Training as an Aid for Mental Illness."

The problem of mental illness is a great one, said Mr. Davis, because of the large cost it entails the government and because the number of mentally ill is so great that they already equal the entire enrollment of all the colleges and universities in the country. This "submerged tenth," as they are called, come into this state because of mal-adjustment to their environment, poor heredity, and the increasing speed of our daily life.

These men and women should be thought of as sick persons and not as perverts and outcasts. It is this latter attitude that so often hinders their final recovery, and leads, in some cases, to acts of violence. They should always be allowed to return to their former social and economic positions when they are pronounced cured.

Physical training, Mr. Davis believes, aids considerably in bringing about a recovery, especially in the cases of dementia praecox, by instilling a new enthusiasm for living. Unlike a physical illness, however, there is no cure to be aided by other than the doctor. To stress this point the speaker quoted a favorite saying of many of his patients: "By the crowd have we been broken; by the crowd must we be re-made."

Mr. Davis who entered Washington College previous to the World War returned after serving with the 20th Engineers to graduate with a degree of Bachelor of Science.

At the opening of the assembly Dr. Howell announced that all those who had not completed the required three years of Physical Education must report to Coach Thomas Kibler on Monday at 3:30 P. M. in the gymnasium.

A meeting of the student body was held immediately after the address to discuss several dormitory problems.

YEAR BOOK MAKING PROGRESS IN THE ME

The Pegasus, Year Book of Washington College, under the leadership of Uriah Oscar Coulbourn, Jr., Business Manager and Irving Ross, Editor is coming along in its theme, the one-hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Washington College. This edition is being printed by The Dunsen-Vernay Company of Baltimore, Md., while the coloring is being done by The Baltimore Maryland Engraving company of the same city. The White Studio's are once again doing the photography.

Mr. Coulbourn reports that he is already in correspondence with The White Studio's concerning their first visit to the campus. A tentative date of October 11th has been set for the work on the senior individual portraits.

CONCERNING THE ELM

We have been connected with THE ELM now for some two years and in that time we have heard one bit of criticism leveled at the paper that is, to our minds, decidedly worthwhile. Not that there has never been any criticism. Grey hairs on the young heads and wrinkles on the noble brows of other editors testify that there has. But out of all this has come, as we have said, one excellent criticism. It is that THE ELM should have a definite policy by which it should always be guided. We intend to attempt this; we are a serious youth with a purpose. And if we fail blame it on evil companions and, the curse of doom.

First and foremost in our policy will be to present all the news there is in an unbiased fashion.

Secondly, we have that portion of our columns marked OPEN FORUM for the expression of student opinion with the usual, reasonable restrictions.

Thirdly, to any faculty member, administrator, or friend of the college that feels the urge for self-expression come upon him we will give suitable space with the usual, reasonable restrictions.

Fourthly, in the editorial columns we will attempt to comment as fairly as we can on all student activities and things concerning them. Here, we have to admit, our policy forming suffers a severe blow. Editorially we have no banners and take no stunts. We are not for larger beer mugs, compulsory Bible reading, letter before the law, or any other cause. It has always been the custom to have editorials in newspapers and we are continuing it, probably, because we enjoy doing it.

Lastly,—and this is the most important—THE ELM will try to provide for those rare souls that enjoy newspaper work a good deal of labor and some excellent fun.

FOR FRESHMEN ONLY

Freshman probably receive more bad advice than anyone with the possible exception of seniors at graduation. It seems to be the custom; everyone knows more than a freshman and all are pausing to inform him. Yet like these others we too are yearning to commit the same sin. So Freshman—out with your notebooks and assume a serious demeanor! Let the following become your precepts—and thus be true Washingtonians.

1. One must always complain about the food at the cafeteria. A haughty silence is permitted to seniors but freshmen must brag in the approval manner.

2. Assume an attitude of cynicism towards studies. Never allow an expression of interest in studies to pass your lips. "I never crack a book" is the password of good fellowship.

3. Draw pictures on your notebooks. Don't attempt such childish things as pictures labeled "teacher." Now that you are in college be dignified! Sketches similar to those in College Humor, signs reading "closed for the day," "Rock Hall bound," and " is a Reid Hall cadet" are all acceptable. The bookstore will furnish colored notebooks with a picture of a boy in a slicker for inspiration.

4. Don't mind the sophomores. You'll be working off an inferiority complex some day too.

5. Finally never mind what happens here. It always sounds much better when you tell it to the folks back home.

Follow these rules and when the mill turns around four times out you will hop a bright and shiny college boy just like all the rest. Bon voyage!

Alumni Notes

One of our most recent alumnae—attended the Elm with a letter containing news of some of last year's class. This alumna,—I like that word—Elizabeth Mac, is teaching at East New Market and joins that she is enjoying her work. It seems that one of Professor Mahan's former satellites, Sarah Littlejohn, is dispensing English at the Cambridge—High School. Thelma Twilley, Kappa Delta reporter, is selling books—exact whereabouts unknown. Eugenia Morgan, Naudin Moore, and Louise Croome, are teaching at Cordova, Boston, Mass., and at Denton, respectively.

A former student of sociology, Louisa Brown, felt the urge and joined Betty Sutton in the Family Welfare Association in Baltimore. It is said that "Silvers" Freney is carrying a lot of weight in Pomona. The new address of Virgil Bishop is the Hippodrome Theatre, New York City, where he is a student manager in the R. K. O. organization.

At Berlin High School, Marian Graham is teaching Latin and French. Margaret Hendrickson is at home in Chestertown.

Recovering from a rather severe case of astrigment, Vickers Hollingsworth is at home in Church Hill.

The former President of the Student Council, Nelson Burley, is teaching History and Science at Greensboro High School.

One of the members of last year's class Katherine LeKites, is doing graduate work in English at Duke University.

Louise Mandrell is on the staff of the Lincoln Library in Philadelphia. The R. K. O. Theatre in Cleveland, Ohio, has for its student manager, Kenneth Perrin.

Janelle Sexton, ex-23, and F. Jovan, of Berlin, were married during the summer.

Miss Margaret Rubin is taking a course in business and law at Bryn and Stratton Business College in Baltimore.

According to latest information received at the alumni office Maurice Rayne and Edith Reese are both teachers at Eastern High School. Rayne is coach of soccer for the high school and Miss Reese is director of Women's Athletics.

Miss Anna Martha Richardson is instructor of English and History at Greensboro High School.

Miss Margaret Russell is living at her home in Chestertown.

Shortly after graduation last June Leroy F. Shierley accepted a position as student manager of the R. K. O. theatre on 36th street, New York.

Miss Dorothy Simmons is at present at home in Hoppersville, Md.

During the summer months Miss Geraldine Harwood joined with Radio Kith Orpheum as production critic.

Charles V. Hickman is now in Sudlersville, Md., as instructor in general science.

Having finished his pre-medical course at Washington College Wray F. Tomlinson is enrolled as a student of The Medical School at Duke University. (Continued On Page Six)

BEYOND THE CAMPUS

Many Still Go To Jail in England For Debt Default

Sir Edward Parry in the Manchester Guardian Weekly, writes as follows: "Mr. Justice Swift was asked to learn that no fewer than 150 persons were imprisoned in Britain for debt last year. Yet there are still people who believe that imprisonment for debt is abolished in this country, as it has been in France, Germany, Germany, and many states of America, communities which in this respect are more advanced in social legislation than ourselves.

"The county court act is thought clear, that where an offender is liable to pay and continually refused is jailed. I know that some such belief is held by laymen, but it is not the law. In both county courts and magistrates' courts offenders are imprisoned for debt—or, if you prefer, poverty."

"Three things men will have in good times or bad, and, four, to wit: female beauty to inspire the mind, tobacco to soothe it, a little something to stimulate it, and a few shames on margin to give it hope."—Florens Ziegfeld.

Overproduction Of Street Music

Musical power to soothe, but much too often it may have the opposite effect. Take, for instance, a quiet section of London. Bagpipers, drummers, and piccolo players haunt its streets loudly playing their instruments.

Unemployment has prompted many Britons to exploit their musical talents. In Piccadilly Circus choirs of Welsh miners sing as they march along. A smart well-dressed band of cowboys blares a march against unemployment. Individual minstrelsy, players on portable organs and small groups of musicians frequent the suburban districts. When Baywater was treated to a succession of a corset—playing his organ at 8 A. M.—a month organ artist, a melodion player, a saxophone, a violinist, and a baritone with a portable piano, the residents applauded to the authorities.

It may be necessary for Baywater to add to its street signs, "Organs and street organs prohibited," a specific list of all the distributors of its kind.

Apparently this country is lucky with its apple selling complex for its unemployment, but nevertheless the residents of Baywater would probably be at home in the vicinity of Middle Hall.

In Marcelline last week a large inquisitorial snitcher followed her way toward the gangplank of the S. S. Rajputana to see what the gawking crowd was staring at. Having reached a point of vantage she suddenly recoiled in disgust.

"Horreur!" cried she. "A man in lingerie!"

The man in lingerie was none other than that pious midget, the Mahatma Mohandas Karmachand Gandhi. Portering porters rubbed elbows with St. Gandhi's chattering collection of stew pans, his mattress, his cans of goat's milk and his suitcase. But there were no Pourboires for the porters from Mahatma.

"I am as poor as a church mouse!" "I am as poor as a church mouse!" she said, flashing a toothless smile. "I have nothing for you. Besides don't let me thank you for performing a public duty."

Kappa Gamma Sorority News

Kappa Gamma is making plans to furnish the room in Reid Hall set aside for its use.

Last Sunday three of the alumnae who graduated in June, Edith Brown, Louisa Bowen and Louise Croome, visited at Reid Hall.

Sigma Tau Delta

The Sigma Tau Delta sorority starts its twenty-fifth year of organization with high hopes of advancement now that their ever present goal, the recognition of sororities, has been attained.

Miss Hartley has been chosen this year as an honorary member.

Three new members have recently been initiated. They are Elizabeth Schmidt, Elizabeth Willis and Katharine Hepburn.

Elizabeth Schmidt has been elected to the Girl's Student Council to replace Janelle Sexton Bowman.

A Sigma Tau Delta banner which was used here in 1910 has been presented to the organization by an alumna, Mrs. C. H. Metcalfe, of Sudlersville, Maryland.

It is of interest to note that Miss Lucy Brannan, an alumna member, is writing a book on conditions in Russia.

Phi Sigma Phi, Fraternity

Members of the Fraternity returned to find the House had undergone minor improvements. All the rooms were papered and the floors and woodwork repainted. Plans are being made to furnish one room, which will be made into a lounge room.

The new members living in the house are Mr. John Wagner and Mr. Edwin Coulbourn.

Mr. Rodney Layton and Mr. Joseph Bringham, Jr., made a brief visit before registering in Medical School. The other members visiting were, Mr. Edwin Freney, Mr. Kenneth Perrin, Mr. Lewis Whiting and Mr. John Bagley.

Open Forum

The necessity of patiently standing in a long line outside the cafeteria before luncheon is not at all a pleasant way to begin one's mid-day meal.

Last year the cafeteria cooperated with the student body by arranging the lunch hour from 11:30 until 12:15, thus giving a longer lunch period, and equalizing the serving of the students. So far this year we have been forced to stand, idly waiting for the doors to open at 12:10, a full ten minutes after the final dismissal from the classrooms. In my opinion, and in the opinions of scores of my fellow students this is very unfair to those who take advantage of the brief period between lunch and their 1:15 class for preparation of their recreation. Furthermore, it is the unnecessary waiting outside the cafeteria which so slows down the service of the students in line, that if one is not among the first, he is quite sure not to leave until 12:40 or perhaps 12:50.

My suggestion to the management of the College cafeteria is that the meal schedule for the noon-day meal be reverted back to that of last year which, everyone will say, was most satisfactory and efficient.

—Student Student.

George Ekaitis New Grid Coach

W. M. C. Star Installs Harlow System

George Ekaitis, of Atlantic City and a graduate of Western Maryland College, is the new head coach of Lacrosse and assistant coach of football at Washington, succeeding "Gus" Crothers who returned to his law studies at U. of Md. Mr. Ekaitis was quarterback and best bet on the All-Maryland foot ball team picked by Baltimore sports authorities last year. He was also a member of this same team the two preceding years and was intercollegiate light-heavyweight champion of the East in boxing last year. Besides these sports, Mr. Ekaitis was a varsity member of Western Maryland's Lacrosse team for three years and last year was student coach there. Upon his graduation last June he was given the honor of being voted "best all around college man" by his fellow students. Washington College is particularly fortunate in securing a coach who has such a thorough knowledge of foot ball and sports in general, as Ekaitis unquestionably does.

"Dick" Harlow, coach of Western Maryland, said Ekaitis was one of the best students of football he had ever known, while sports writers credit him with not having called one wrong play during his two years of quarter-backing at Western Maryland.

Head Coach Tom Kilber has turned over the backfield to Ekaitis altogether and Ekaitis has installed the Harlow system in full on Washington field.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETS

There was a meeting of the Girls' Interclass Athletic Association, Thursday evening at 6:45 P. M. The second vice-president, one member at large, and the Freshman representative were elected. There will be no gymnasium classes until the schedule is arranged, but athletics have already started in the form of hockey and archery. Miss Doris Bell has been teaching the elements of hockey to a group of new Freshman girls, while the upper classmen have been practicing together. Incidentally, the hockey field has been enlarged this year. Some new shin-guards and a few new sticks have been added to the hockey equipment, while the archery equipment has been augmented by new targets, several target stands, new bows, arrows, wrist guards and finger guards.

Sports Notions

By Phillip J. Wingate

It is evident that "Curly" Eyler's Old Liners expected just a little too much of the "same old line" in the football game with the pupils of Kibler and Ekaitis last Saturday and as a result had their pride "knocked in" to the middle of next week" to quote one sports authority who saw the game. The Terrapins crawled just a little too slowly to subdue the fighting bunch of maroon and black grid-ers in the manner which they had expected to. One big factor in the showing of the locals was the fact that safety man Poppleman of Maryland never seemed to be in the spot where Fritz Rhinehold's pants landed and these same punts exhibited an annoying tendency to roll out of bounds on or around Maryland's five yard line.

It is rumored that what Ray Van Orman's scouts of the Maryland-Washington argument reported to the Hopkins mentor caused him to start digging into his mind for plays—not to use against a set up but to prevent the hard fighting Washington line from up-setting their opponents too often.

WASHINGTON MEETS THREE STATE FOES

Washington College's opponents this year are more in our class than they have been for several years. The Maryland game last week, the Hopkins' tussle this week and the only home game, that with Mt. St. Mary's on October 24th, constitute the State games. Six other teams will be played. The schedule runs as follows:

Sept. 26—University of Maryland at College Park.
October 3—Johns Hopkins at Homewood.
October 10—Swarthmore at Swarthmore.
October 17—Haverford at Haverford.
October 24—Mt. St. Mary's at Chestertown.
October 31—Drexel at Philadelphia.
November 7—Albright at Reading.
November 14—Sinquehanna at Selingsgrove.
November 21—St. Joseph's at Philadelphia.

Gridders Bow To Maryland

Rhinehold's Kicking Features Contest

A plucky Washington College eleven outfought the veteran University of Maryland football team at College Park last Saturday but finally had to bow to their much heavier opponents by a score of 13 to 0. The Shoremen played handcup football and recovered all of the Maryland fumbles as well as their own. The Washington College team resorted to defensive tactics throughout the entire game as it was almost impossible for them to break through the bulky Maryland line. However on the several offensive plays tried Captain Plummer made some creditable points.

eyler's Rhinehold, sturdy Washington back displayed some excellent place punting which kept the ball in Maryland territory most of the game. Time after time he made kicks which went out of bounds on the five or ten yard lines.

Maryland's first score came in the second quarter when Woods, the quarterback ran 80 yards for a touchdown. The second touchdown was scored by Chalmers who, after the ball had been carried to the five yard line on a series of line bucks, went off tackle to the goal line. Chalmers kicked the point after the first touchdown but failed in his second attempt. A large amount of credit is due Coach Ekaitis for the good showing made by the Washington eleven last Saturday as he introduced a new style of play here at school.

It has been sometime since a real fighting football team has been seen at Washington College and the members of the eleven certainly did deserve praise for their efforts, especially the Freshman who played great foot ball in their first college game.

SLIPPERY ELM

By W. H. Danneberg

Thought is almost a new experience after a vacation of an entire summer's duration, albeit yet editor insists on sending the paper to press. Speaking of thoughts—there are many different ones on the campus at present. The seniors are on the home-stretch. Some are glad, and the others are glad, but at the same time a few are wishing they could make a fresh start. On the other hand the freshmen are not quite sure of the why's and wherefores as yet. Some wonder what to do in college; some wonder what they will have to do; some don't wonder; no wonder. It'll all come out in the Wash. (College).

Seriously, there are many new things on which to reflect—the Middle Hall reception room, signs on the campus, a new football coach, some new teachers, a clerk in the library, freshmen. You may run that, too, but it was through no ulterior motive that the signs were placed by the road. They will serve a much-needed purpose. No longer will the ponderings, meditations, and reflections of promiscuous students be rudely interrupted by inquiring motorists who wish to know what anyone or other signifies they are passing. In any case this kind of service will be appreciated only by a few. The others would rather reiterate contently to applicants for marriage licenses that their destination is further down the road.

The present freshmen class looks like a good one, despite the fact that, at times, looks are deceiving. They seem to have had no disciplinary training as yet. The girls seem to have been made to understand that they are freshmen, but the boys believe the rat rules are merely something to fill up another page in the Handbook. Maybe they will be taught before the year is out.

Paul A. Solandt

Mr. Paul A. Solandt, a New Englander, came to us directly from the Lenox School, Lenox, Mass., where he was head of the classics department for several years. Mr. Solandt looks forward to a pleasant year with the student body.

SEVERAL NEW COURSES GIVEN THIS FALL

Philosophy To Be Offered

With the beginning of the fall term the curriculum Committee of the Faculty has announced the introduction of five new courses, and also other extensive changes in the outlines and arrangements of several of the older, and established studies.

First among the new courses is to be found a course which is known as "Philosophy I." This course marks the introduction of philosophy as an organized study at Washington. Along with this study is found a new three hour course in Scientific German. In previous years Scientific German was only a one hour course. Since the number of pre-medical students at Washington has been on the increase in recent years it has been deemed advisable to increase the scope of the scientific German so as to make a course, complete in every phase. For the benefit of Freshmen who have had little or no preparation in the fundamentals of Grammar prior to their admission to Washington, there has been organized a new English I section which will be known as English 1A. This course aims to give the student a rigid training in the elements of English Grammar. Also the Department of Economics has announced two new courses. First, there is a course in Rural Sociology and Rural Economics. These courses aim to introduce to the student the problems of life in rural communities. This study has not been outlined as a course for farmers, or strictly for those who live in rural communities. Why should all of us understand the problems of the people who are the producers of our food? The Department of Education has also one new topic, that of "Educational Sociology." This new course should be of intense interest to all those who intend entering the teaching profession after their graduation.

Book Reviews

"Shadows On The Rock"
Willis Cather

For the first time since 1927 Willis Cather has broken her silence, and presented to the world a great book, that we cannot help pronouncing a modern classic. For it is of the same superb vintage from which such books as "Death Comes for the Archbishop" emanated, and which undoubtedly holds a great harvest for the future.

The setting of "Shadows On The Rock" is for Miss Cather a new one—Quebec in the last years of Count Frontenac's life, and she recapitulates the very tone and feeling of the seventeenth century in this quaint French city, built on a rock on the mighty St. Lawrence, to such a degree that the reader actually feels a part of the picturesque atmosphere.

The narrative deals with Avebich, the widowed apothecary, and his young daughter Cecile—their Lordships in the newly settled Canada, their longing for Old France, and finally the supreme happiness that culminates a life of trials and tribulations. Constantly moving in the book ground are two superb characters: the magnetic Frontenac, and the altruistic Bishop Laval. Once again Miss Cather has interested herself in the Catholic world, and has devoted an entire book to the beautiful sentiment, and the purity of a simple folk, whose religion is magnificent in tradition.

"Shadows On The Rock" is a book which is authentically the work of a genius, so immediately perceptible as a masterpiece, so emotionally beautiful and elegant in style, as to be great, even to a reader unfamiliar with America's foremost female writer.

Protestant Episcopal Church To Hold 300th Anniversary

One of the most important features of the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America which will take place at Metepoke on Kent Island, after 15, will be the re-enactment of the famous convention which was held in Chestertown in 1784 which unanimously adopted the present name of the denomination.

At the convention which has been styled the Continental Congress of the church, prominent clergy and laymen from all sections of Maryland gathered in Chestertown to discuss the state of the church and to give the denomination a name.

The presiding officer of the convention was Dr. William Smith, the founder of Washington College, which was established in 1782, and who was at the time rector of old Chester parish. Following a prolonged discussion Dr. Simon Winner, one of the leading members of the vestry of Old St. Paul's parish, which was at the time a part of Chester parish, moved that the name of the new organization should be The Protestant Episcopal Church of America. The motion was unanimously adopted during the following year a convention of the church in America was called to meet in New Jersey under the title adopted at the Chestertown convention.

Twenty hymns from Chester parish and three clergymen of the country attired in colonial costumes will re-enact the scenes of the famous Chestertown convention at the 300th anniversary to be held at Metepoke October 15. The Rev. Charles L. Atwater, present pastor of Chester parish will portray the character of Dr. William Smith. The Rev. John White, rector of Old St. Paul's parish, will enact the part played by Dr. Simon Winner, while the Rev. Dr. Sewell S. Hephburn, venerable rector emeritus of U. U. parish, which at the time of the holding of the 1784 convention was a part of Chester parish, will have a conspicuous part in the portrayal. The forthcoming celebration of the founding of the church at Metepoke which has been selected at the site of the occasion because of its religious association with Maryland's first settlement on Kent Island by Captain William Calhorne in 1631, will be one of the most colorful religious gatherings ever held in Maryland.

A chorus of 400 voices is being trained to sing the hymns of the church, while important scenes in connection with the colonial history of the denomination will be re-enacted by several hundred people from all sections of the State. The U. S. Naval Academy Band will head the pageant, which is expected to attract an attendance of more than 10,000 people.

Large Group Attending First Y. W. C. A. Meeting Of Year

Unusual interest and enthusiasm in the Young Women's Christian Association was shown Monday when so many of the Freshmen and upperclassmen attended the first program of the school year.

All those present thoroughly enjoyed the talk given by Mrs. Harry Wright, wife of the pastor of the Chestertown Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Wright's talk dealt with the life of Mary and Martha and their companionship with Jesus. She compared their life with the average college girl. If our speakers continue to be as instructive as Mrs. Wright, we feel that the "Y" is doing its share.

Membership cards have been distributed to all the girls, and the Y. W. C. A. hopes for a large membership. Everyone is invited to join this association. Without the co-operation of the girls the cabinet can make no progress.

Faculty Spends Profitable Summer

Many Travel Abroad; Some Teach

With some exceptions the faculty members of last year are back at Washington College, and having spent their summer in numerous ways.

Dr. Ingalls, head of the Department of English, was engaged in research on Jonathan Swift for 17th century satirist, who among other works wrote the famous Gulliver's Travels. This research work was carried on in the new seven million dollar library at Yale University.

Professor Lorenz M. Hartley, spent the early part of the summer in travel among some of the interesting New England cities. During the latter summer she remained in Chester-town.

Dr. Esther M. Duke taught history of art and history of education at Alfred University, New York. She also took a course in instruction in making jewelry.

Professor Margaret Brewer took language work at Catholic University, Brookland, D. C.

While pursuing his work as registrar, Dr. Howell spent a great deal of time in arranging the class schedule for the fall semester. In August he toured Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, visiting numerous historical sites including Gettysburg and Valley Forge.

From the 17th to the 20th of August he attended the Rural Life Conference at Cornell University.

Dr. Livingston taught at Seton Hill College, Greensburg, Pa. from June 20th to August 7th. He gave courses in educational psychology, educational measurements and curricular guidance, thus completing his second year of teaching there. Seton Hill, a Catholic girls' college, is the Mother House of the Sisters of Charity. In summer it is attended not only by the sisters, but by some lay students as well.

Professor Mahabey devoted his entire vacation to reading.

Dr. T. W. Ficker, head of the foreign language department and an accomplished linguist, spent three months of extremely interesting travel in Europe. The first two weeks, after he reached France, he devoted to sight seeing in Paris. From Paris he traveled to Naples, Italy, and while there visited Mt. Vesuvius and the historic city of Pompeii. A week was spent in Rome and several days in Florence, but here the mosquitoes were so bad that he decided to leave immediately for Germany. While in Germany he traveled much and visited many of the friends, whom he had met on his previous visits abroad.

Professor Ford studied for his Ph. D. degree at George Washington University during the early summer. Later he traveled and studied in the Province of Quebec, Canada.

Professor Cook traveled in the Southern states and studied for nine weeks at the University of Indiana.

Professors Damschott and Snodgrass spent the summer studying in preparation for the courses they are now offering.

President Flinorath attended a convention in Vienna, Austria, as Governor of the 34th District of Rotary International. He flew from Munich to Vienna. He spent a week at Oberammergau at the home of Anton Long, who played the part of the Christ in the Passion Play.

Dean Jones did some research work on the college history while at Chester-town.

New College Sign Made

Tourists passing through Chester-town will no longer wonder what the structures are which stand on the upper portion of Washington Avenue. The college has placed two very attractive signs, one at each end of the campus. These signs bear the inscription: "Washington College, Founded 1782." They were designed by Henry Hopkins and made by a firm in Baltimore. They not only serve to point out the college but also add much to the appearance of the campus.

New Picture Received Here

Dr. J. A. S. W. Jones, Secretary of the Alumni Association, received this summer a most of The Rt. Reverend William Murray Stone, of the class of 1799, who later became the third Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Maryland.

The portrait is now hanging in the alumni office in William Smith Hall. It was presented by a descendant of this illustrious man.

A VEST POCKET ESSAY ON HAIR From "The Diamondback"

A hair in the head is worth two in the comb and it's appalling the number of good whiskers are lost each morning. Ever notice how fast hair grows? The mystery is now partly solved by the results of a Research Institute. "Basal metabolism tests" they state, "show that the average woman gives off ten per cent less heat than a man of equal weight, height and age." To radiate off this ten per cent of extra heat, kind nature gave man whiskers. They not only save the expense of a necktie, but act as an awning to prevent sunburn, a hideout for revealing facial expressions, and a front line of defense to harpoon insects on the brittle tips.

A man that's bald—or whose hair is not—spends a lot of time mopping up the water that's squeezed out of a man with a full suit of hair and his head and beardless chops. While a fancy vest of whiskers saves valuable time because nature cools his skin. Each hair set in his skin collects the heat from the blood around its base, and conducts it up along its shaft like a spoon in a hot liquid.

With thousands of these distributing their heat to the passing breezes, it's obvious a cool head and whiskers go together. These air-cooled motors, with flanges all over them work the same way—just increase the cooling surface. The principle isn't new, for man has had a hair-cooled head since the time of Adam. If these results are correct, we have been shaving off the original nucleus, costless, infinite cooling system! "What fools these mortals be!"—From "The Diamondback"

Noticed On Kibler Field

Some close observer of foot ball activities on Kibler field noticed that there is no tendency whatever on the part of Washington backs to disagree with the opinion of Coach Ekaitis, probably due to the former Western Maryland's star's thorough knowledge of the gridiron sport. However, this same observer hinted that this might be partly due to the fact that, to the ordinary observer, Ekaitis looks to be in as good shape as he was the day he won the intercollegiate championship of the East by a one round knockout.

Dept. Of Commerce Merges

Since the death of Professor Kilpatrick last spring, the Department of Commerce has been merged with the Department of Economics and Sociology. A plan for the reorganization of the entire Department has been tentatively placed in the hands of the president, by Dr. Howell, head of the Department, for his approval. It is understood that Dr. Titaworth has placed his approval on this motion. If this is correct, and the plans progress as outlined Washington College should have in the near future a Department of Economics second to none in the entire country.

PRO BONO COLLEGIO

We have never been a librarian and probably never will be. Our only knowledge of librarians consists of a fairly regular patronage of them. In some libraries we even have to ask assistance when we use the filing cabinets. We know nothing about the, apparently, very complex library system at Washington College. The ways in which decisions are reached by the library committee are admittedly far beyond our grasp.

Thus you see we have no right whatsoever to criticize the college library and everything we say should be discounted as the r.beries of an immature and untrained college boy.

We think that the library should be opened to students not only on week days and nights and Saturday afternoons but also on Sunday evenings. We petition for this rather modest change because we believe that this is what we are more liable to get. It is not what we would like to see.

Along with all other right thinking people we have always been under the impression that a library should always be available. If Washington College hopes to spread culture about our old Eastern Shore and way stations it will materially aid its hopes if it makes its library a place where people go to browse through books besides to do home work.

The argument for Sunday evenings is very apparent. It is necessary for the preparation of Monday's lessons and the expense of having our extra librarians once a week for two hours is so minute that it can not be considered.

We wish to submit this to the authorities that govern all such changes in the spirit of co-operation. We are both striving for the good of the college and open comment is the path to this aim.

We are a great respecter of tradition. Men have worn pants for numerous centuries now and we will fight to the last scan for their continued existence. So is it with eating, sleeping and thousands of the other fine old traditions that we have been fostered on. We're all for them.

But Washington College has reached and passed its quota of traditions. We hear up nobly under the tradition of standing to sing in chapel. Rah-rahing at games, we believe, is a fine old custom. But our very soul rebels and our eyes grow wild when we hear Haverford sir" is what we are greeted with twenty times a day.

When we were freshmen we were told that this was to arouse spirit and in our credulity we believed it. Whenever we met a member of the team we would snap out a neat salute and cry with enthusiasm "Beat Woods, Sir." We were doing our bit. We were a part of the noble plan to wipe the books; foot of bestial Whoois in the dust. Then we had misgivings; our "Beat Whoois, sir" was going unnoticed. Never was there a glint of determination in a player's eye; never did a non-participating break into cheering when we let loose our cheery "Beat Whoois, sir."

If we were a player we wouldn't like this custom. After several repetitions we would begin to think that these people were doubting our prowess, and as for the non-combatant it only serves to constantly remind him that alma mater scorns his services in this manly game and that the right half-back is making him with his girl.

So to those that ordain such things we humbly petition that this tradition be abandoned. Then we might let Whoois this week and—who knows—old Whoois might let the next.

BEYOND THE CAMPUS

In these columns you have read of the part of the insolent of Mahatma Gandhi's mission. Mr. J. F. C.

Fuller, writing in the "Nineteenth Century," comes to St. Gandhi's rescue and shows some of the earnestness and seriousness of the man. Some statements he makes are: "Like Marx, he (Gandhi) holds that everything that ministers to the flesh is evil." Chastity is one of the greatest disciplines without which the mind cannot attain requisite firmness. Birth control, so necessary in India, he holds in abhorrence. To Gandhi the spinning-wheel is the panacea of all human ills, for it will kill leisure time, thought, and violence. He will now lay way like many another, who has trodden his thorny path, a saint who for the love of God has sinned against humanity."

Edlie Cantor with the help of David Freedman has evolved a five year plan under the title "You Has Prosperity." Here are a few excerpts: "Prosperity is back but don't breathe a word about it."

"It's a state secret. Luckily I was down in Washington when the school deal was closed and here is the real inside story."

"The President was in executive session with his cabinet."

"We have to do something," said Secretary Mellon in a hushed voice. "The time has come to talking about hunger and depression, because nobody has a strength left to talk. There's only one thing to do. Let's find out who discovered America and give it back to him."

"No, he wouldn't take it," said the President, impatiently. "I've got it!" he suddenly cried leaping on Mellon's feet. "Let's give Germany a

"The President continued to me before I left him that prosperity is just around the corner, but I didn't catch the name of the street."

"President Hoover has given us our first real hope for prosperity. He has started work on Europe in earnest and sent his cabinet abroad so we can achieve something here."

"Of course, we have to work fast before Mellon and Stimson get back."

An Atlanta Penitentiary inmate in writing to the Book League of America to complain that he had not received his July books said: "There must be a bunch of crooks around here."

The report of the Associated Press correspondent at Knoxville, Tenn., was printed in the "American Mercury" and is reprinted here:

"A proposal to install a bath-tub in the Youngs High School, long debated by County School Board members, was abandoned today."

"We don't have school on Saturday, so it won't be needed," a board member announced to the finance committee of the County Court."

No good women on the stage? There are thousands of them—and only about six actresses—Robert Buchanan.

College-trained engineers revisit the athletic field

Night photograph of Temple Stadium, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, floodlighted with GE equipment.

ON more than a hundred floodlighted fields, football is being played and practiced in the evening hours, before larger audiences than ever before—with fewer injuries and in better conformity with classroom duties.

This constructive revolution in athletics is largely the work of college-trained engineers—young men personally familiar with the needs of college and school. They are dedicating the technical experience gained in the General Electric Test Department to the practical service of undergraduate athletics—designing and installing floodlighting equipment for virtually every sport—football, baseball, hockey, tennis, and track.

Other college men in the General Electric organization have specialized in street-lighting and floodlighting projects, or in the electrical equipment of industries and mines or of immense power stations; some are designing and applying electric apparatus to propel ocean liners and locomotives. All are engaged in the planning, production, or distribution of G-E products and so are performing a work of national betterment and creating for themselves recognized spheres of personal influence.

Johns Hopkins Wins Close Game

BASKET BALL SCHEDULE LISTS 11 STATE GAMES Princeton Not Scheduled

Carozza Scores But Steps Out Of Bounds

On Saturday, October 2nd, the Maroon and Black gridiron warriors displaying an exceptionally strong defensive game, were finally forced to take the short end of 0 to 0 score from Johns Hopkins University. The only tally of the game occurred in the second period when Kelly, Jay quarterback took a short pass from Reynolds and ran 39 yards to within scoring distance, when the ball was finally pushed over on four plays. The point after the touchdown failed to materialize.

Carozza's best effort to score came in the second period. Carozza, an end, snared a pass and ran over the goal line. He was, however, declared out of bounds by the officials and the ball was brought back to the scrimmage line where it was finally given to Hopkins on downs.

In midfield the Shermans played an ordinary defensive game, but just as soon as the ball was brought into dangerous territory the line braced itself and refused to allow any of the Jay backs through. One time when the ball was a few yards from the goal and the Hopkins team had three downs to put it over, the staid line from the Eastern Shore rooted itself so firmly that the Jays could not put the ball across and had to give it up on downs.

Black could get off quite a few excellent punts the best of which came from behind the goal line 60 yards to Kelly.

If Washington College had played as well offensively as it did defensively the game would have been to doubt of the outcome of the game. As it was the Maroon and Black backs couldn't make much headway, although they did break through several times for long gains. Captain Plummer seemed to be only one who could gain yardage through the line consistently.

Except for the occasional fumbling on the part of both teams the game was well played and the teams were fairly evenly matched.

The lineup and summary:

Washington College's basketball schedule for the 1931 season includes 11 state and 4 out of the state games. Saint Joseph is billed for two games. It was the Philadelphians who defeated the Flying Penitents on their home floor for the first time in four years.

The University of Maryland, Southern Conference champs are corded for one game. Washington was one of the few teams to take the Old Liners into camp last year. The Flying Penitents beat the old line unit in one of the most thrilling games of the season. Hopkins is included in the state games to be played. The Blue Jays bounced out grasp on the state crown last year by defeating the Kibberites in Baltimore.

Washington will meet its traditional rival Loyola in two games this season. The Greyhounds are state title holders and it will be up to the locals to dislodge them from this much coveted pinnacle.

Saint Johns is again on the schedule, but our much prized game with Princeton has so far not been included.

Sports Notions

By Phillip J. Wingo

Washington College's gridiron will meet Haverford today in a pretty evenly matched contest, however, the reason for this situation are not hard to find. The pupils of Kibler and Elakitis played fine football against a great U. of Md. eleven and considered this good work against one of the best grid combinations John Hopkins has ever put on the field. Consequently, the let down in the Swarthmore game was not wholly unexpected and now the Maroon and Black should be set to go at top speed again. Also Haverford has a team that is entirely within our class, and this fact combined with the above reason seem to lend out the opinion that the Kibberites should be formidable, or maybe two better than the Pennsylvanians, when they meet on the gridiron today.

In view of the close contests which the locals played with Maryland and Hopkins, the victories chalked up by these two schools over Navy and Lehigh are particularly pleasing to backers of the Maroon and Black. If Coach Elakitis and Kibler keep their charges playing the brand of football they displayed in their first two games of the season, and there is no reason to think they will not, Haverford should turn in a creditable season. Lack of a powerhouse the greatest handicap the Washingtonians face; they have great coaching and plenty of fight.

The Mt. St. Mary's game, played here next Saturday may introduce two former Baltimore City College football players, who according to reports have quite a little football ability. They are McKeenize and Baker.

Observation of pre-season basketball activities under the direction of Assistant Coach "Dutch" Dunachett have led quite a few people to believe that Maryland Ball players may not have to look far to find eager to fill Bill Liston's place, an all star in the state, "Dell" Froudford, forward for the Flying Penitents, handles the ball around the basket in a manner that may be even a little flattering to the former Loyola star's style of play, to which Froudford's playing is likened.

The Freshmen will have a heavier team than the Sophomores in the annual test of war to be held Monday and should have a good chance to win. But the same may look to be true for the Sophs to win an annual test of war to be held Monday and should have a good chance to win. ## WALTER KARGIN CHOSE CAPTAIN OF LACROSSE

William Danneberg, Manager

Walter Kargin was elected Captain of Lacrosse for the season of 1932, at an election held by the lacrosse letter men of last year. At the same time William H. Danneberg was elected manager of lacrosse. Due to graduation last June and failure of several lacrossemen to return this year, only the following took part in the election: Kargin, Robinson, Giv, Elakitis, Williams, Reinhold, and Gamber. A captain of lacrosse was not elected, in the usual manner of electing captains at Washington in 1931, because "Gus" Crothers introduced the Maryland system of electing captains before each game. However, George Elakitis, new coach of the old Latin game decided to revert to the system formerly in use.

After football season is over, Coach Elakitis, will give a short fall practice for the lacrossemen who are not out for basket ball. Washingtonians look to the former Western Maryland star to get together a pretty powerful stick combination for the coming year. Elakitis played three years of lacrosse at Western Maryland and also put in one year of coaching at his Alma Mater.

Flowers In World Series

Jack Flowers, former Washington College second baseman, held down the position for the World's Champions St. Louis Cardinals, during the past world series. Flowers, who started the past baseball season with Brooklyn, was traded to the Cardinals in the summer. In the fourth game of the series, Flowers was struck in the face by a hit ground ball and was out of the lineup for the next game. However, Jake returned in the line up in the sixth game and scored the only Cardinal marker of the contest after Earl Dooling doubled against the score guard, when Lefty Grove served him a fire ball to his liking.

Flowers is a resident of Cambridge, Md; here he engages in a real estate business during the winter months. Flowers was also a member of the Cardinal team several years ago, under the management of Rogers Hornsby.

Washington Bows To Swarthmore

Locals Play Loose Contest

Washington College lost its third straight football game of the current season, last Saturday, to Swarthmore College at Swarthmore, Pa. The result was a disappointment to followers of the team as Swarthmore was considered only a fair opponent, having lost by a huge score to Pennsylvania the previous week. The defeat was largely due to over-cautiousness and not playing heads-up football during the early part of the game. At the beginning of the third quarter, the Maroon and Black gridiron more than held their own, but they finally in the last quarter did they show results of their line tutoring by the coaching staff, although no serious threat of scoring was made.

The game opened with Lord kicking off for Washington. Once in possession of the ball, Swarthmore was again stepping through the center of the line for five and ten yard gains, while the line refused to hand over a touchdown on a line back. The kick for extra point was good, Washington decided to kick off again and Swarthmore ran the ball back past mid-field. After a few plays, Washington College's goal line was again crossed, after a short pass had been thrown to the one yard line.

Swarthmore's last touchdown was scored on another line back early in the second quarter. For the first time, try for extra point was missed and the scoring for the day was over. From then on Washington played good football, but Swarthmore's kicking kept the locals out of danger, the game ended with the ball in mid-field.

The lineup and summary:

By W. H. Danneberg

Once upon a time there was a college where the professors were all masters of their own fields and the students were all mature enough to want to learn from them. These students exhausted every possible source to obtain vast knowledge of any project they were assigned. There were no doors in the dormitories which had given way to pedal pressure. Neither were there windows which had crumbled under the shock of flying milk bottles. For these students needed to learn by rational observation and instruction. Physical experiments were tried under conditions which did not admit draughts through broken barriers. Logic was studied to organize and make useful the reasoning powers. The mathematics were studied to aid scientific development. The classics were carefully read to display and aid an appreciation of the true, the good, and the beautiful. This college produced people who were moral and who were useful mentally. It is true that not everybody could pursue such a course of study but those who did so could USE THEIR BRAINS. Since that time that college less adept the modern usage of offering a very flimsy instruction in the departments named and substituting an altogether too frail training in a few technicalities. The abstractions that give mental exercise for increasing mental ability have nearly disappeared. Now students are turned out who have learned a few technical operations to fit very special cases but they have not learned either flexibility or adaptability. We are told to specialize long before we have an opportunity of knowing what we can do. Consequently many lives are wasted which have been spent in learning some of the minor details of technical branch before the student knows his own capabilities. After all, in the performance of the world's work, desire is a small portion. The ability to do well in some particular line is necessary, but how can we determine that line without trying something? Therefore, the good, old-fashioned method of teaching the classics, the mathematics, and logic, was successful in that it gave the student a flexible mind which was far more adaptable to one of several fields than the limited and meagerly trained (not educated) mind that pours forth from modern colleges every year.

The lower expense of the campus is again marred by the appearance of the two alleged hockey goals which resemble portions of an ——— or part of the menagerie equipment lost by a traveling circus. An actual inquiry was made as to the nature of the biological experiment that required two such unwieldy cages being placed in such a conspicuous location. This observation is not directed toward the abolition of any sport by the co-eds but I cannot help feeling that something more dignified could be provided. The nets used by the heroine team in their spring practice are very unobtrusive and certainly not objectionable to the most sensitive observer. Several pieces of iron pipe and some cold tanning would perform more efficiently and certainly more the same function for which the cages were placed in the midst of an otherwise lovely grass plot.

MT. VERNON SOCIETY ELECTS NEW MEMBERS

The Mt. Vernon Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting Wednesday, Oct. 7th, in room 21. The following students joined the society: Kathryn Baker, William Blake, William Comella, Mary Moore, Elizabeth Walbert, Evelyn Walbert and Clara Wyle.

The nature of the program was a discussion of articles selected from various current magazines. The topics discussed were:

Current Events—Ethel Henara.
"Football"—Charles Clark.
Humorous Reading—Mary Farr.
"Shakespeare"—William Richards.
"The Geometry of the Mind"—Robert Bouchley.

Womens' Honor Society Elects

A special meeting of the Women's Honor Society was held Wednesday, Sept. 23rd and the following girls were elected to membership:

Ruth Johnson, class of '32.
Alice Dale, Ethel Herrera and Ann Krueger, class of '33.

The regular monthly meeting of the Society was held Monday, Sept. 28th. The newly elected members were present. The failure of last year's society to elect a Vice-President and Secretary for the current year necessitated an election which resulted as follows:

Vice-President—Ruth Johnson.

Secretary—Alice Dale.

The purpose of the Women's Honor Society is to bring together women students of the junior and senior classes who have maintained a high standard of scholarship and leadership, and who have at all times shown their willingness to serve the best interests of the college. An average scholarship index of at least 2.25 is a requisite for eligibility for election.

The maximum membership is twelve: eight seniors and four juniors. The present membership is three seniors and three juniors or only one half the maximum membership. Members of the junior and senior classes still have an opportunity to raise their indices to the required standard so that they will be eligible for election at the end of this semester.

NON FRATERNITY MEN ELECT CLUB OFFICERS

At the suggestion of the Student Council to create better conditions in Middle Hall and promote better fellowship, a meeting of all the non-fraternity upper classmen was called on Friday, October 9th, at 7 P. M. This meeting was called to order by George Ekstis, Head of Middle Hall. After an explanation of the purpose of this meeting, the election of officers ensued. The following men were elected:

Pres.—Walter Branford.
Vice-Pres.—William Wright.
Sec.—Milton Noble.
Treas.—Mason Trapp.
Ser-at-Arms—Nelson Richards.
Faculty Adv.—George Ekstis.

"That bully old slogan hits me just right—

... no bamboozlin' about that!"

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! "Satisfy" just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance—no heavy inks or odors from ink. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying.

Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it. And again he's satisfied!

Satisfy—they've got to satisfy! The right tobacco, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and aged, blended and cross-blended, to a taste that's right. Everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. CHESTERFIELDS do a complete job of it. They Satisfy!

Open Forum

It is only proper that an honest criticism be given a reply, a reply in the same spirit in which the criticism was given, and that is the purpose of this writing. The criticism in question was the one which appeared in the last issue pertaining to the handling of the noon meal in the cafeteria. I presume that an explanation is about the only reply possible.

Everyone concerned would, I am sure, prefer to have the noon meal start at 11:45 and close about 12:15. Such a period would allow those not having eleven o'clock classes to eat their lunch before those leaving class at 11:55 would be able to get over to the cafeteria, as was done last year; also the waiters would be able to finish their work sooner. Yet, there is some difficulty and only one which presents itself and thus makes it necessary to start the meal after the eleven o'clock class closes—and that reason is that there are not enough waiters available at 11:45 to handle the work in the cafeteria. On Monday, only two men are available; on Tuesday, only three men are available; on Wednesday, only four men are available; on Friday, only two men are available; but on Saturday, six men are available. However, four of those six men are football men and are of necessity called away on Saturday, and it has not been deemed advisable to change the hour for that one day.

There has come to the writer's attention many and varied comments concerning the cafeteria situation.

menus, etc., this year, and it is only thru the cooperation of the students in their just criticism that conditions may become just as good as possible. A good constructive criticism is always welcomed by anyone who is desirous of obtaining the best results possible.

Another condition arising is the necessity of perhaps waiting in line during cold weather and wet weather. Regardless of the time any of the meals start, it is a fact that one will find some of the students in line before that time. Yet, regardless of that fact, it is quite possible that such a condition may be overcome by permitting the gymnasium entrance to the cafeteria during wet weather, or by serving the students by groups or the like. However, the solution of that problem will be a matter for future consideration.

—Ollie Robinson.

Archery Becomes Popular At W.C.

Elizabeth Walbert Ranks Best With Arrows

Archery is taking on the aspect of a tournament. There is an increasing large number out for this sport, and a daily improvement is shown in the shooting. Some excellent shots have been discovered, chief of whom are Elizabeth Walbert, who has a score of 55 out of a round of 24 arrows, and Mildred Tryno, with 56 out of 24. Evelyn Walbert also has a good score, 48 points out of a round of 24 arrows.

The girls have been slow in coming out for hockey this fall, but it is hoped they will be all out by the end of the week.

"Gym" classes are settling down to regular routine work with the apparatus.

Annual Tug o' War Set For Monday

On Monday afternoon, October 19, two teams representing the fifteen strongest boys of the Sophomore and Freshman Class will meet at Brook's Mill Stream to engage in the annual Tug-o-War.

The two teams will line up on opposite sides of the stream where they will take the rope. When the whistle blows they will pull their mightiest until one or the other has been pulled through the mud. There is a great amount of "chess playing" down in the stream, for upon it's outcome rests the honor of their class. For ten minutes following the tug-o-war there will be a general mud battle in which all of the Sophomore and Freshman boys will participate. The mud battle is even more interesting than the tug-o-war to the majority of the spectators.

The tug-o-war and mud battle has been staged annually for many years and has become an event of great local interest. Last year the scene of the contest was crowded with spectators and pictures of it were printed in the various city papers.

The Sophomore tug-o-war team will consist of Carey, Hall, Wagner, Dobbins, Glavin, Clarke, Benson, Anthony, Capel, Merrill, Gaudier, Parris, Williams, Jones, Colone.

Those to pull for the Freshmen will be: Ward, Wright, Blount, Lord, De Martin, Nicholson, Blackmore, Johns, Garrison, Thayer, Mooney, Sadtler, Barker, Standish, Taylor.

Peace Speakers Visit College

On October the eighth part of the Peace Caravan of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom passed on its way to the White House in Washington, D. C., and incidentally the final goal of its long trip from Hollywood, Cal.

The assembly was addressed by two very able speakers of the Caravan, Miss Emma Wolf, a lawyer at Washington State and Mildred Scott Olney, a World War Social and Red Cross worker and member of Hoover's war-time food commission. The speaker pictured the hazards and misery of war and brought out the fact that another war would practically blot out the human race through the use of poisonous gases. Steps that have been taken toward peace were outlined and the cordless wire would peace was through universal disarmament.

A petition for total disarmament was circulated among the student body and a final appeal made for everyone to sign.

Similar petitions have been circulated all over the world by members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The members of the Caravan hoped to place petitions, which they had collected all over United States, in the hands of President Hoover on October the tenth.

Hope was expressed that the work of the Women's League will have an influence on representatives of the International Peace Conference, to be held in February at Geneva, and will result in total world disarmament.

FRESHMEN DANCE HELD AT PARISH HOUSE HERE

The Freshmen Dance was held in the Parish House of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Friday night. Music was furnished by some of the members of the College Orchestra, and refreshments of cake and punch were served. Since the dance was given in honor of the Freshman Class, no admission was charged them, entrance being met by the 50 cents admission paid by the upperclassmen.

This is the second affair given this year by the young People's Guild, an organization formerly known as the Episcopal Club of Washington College. The next meeting of the Guild will be held Sunday, October 25th, and will probably be a supper-meeting.

Shoremen To Face Strong Drexel Team

Injuries Will Handicap Kibler's Gridders

Today the Washington College football team journeys to Philadelphia to play the strong Drexel aggregation. So far this year the home team has played excellent football but they are sure to hit a snag when the Shoremen buck up against them.

The Washington team was hit pretty hard in the Mt. St. Mary's game last Saturday, when Carozza, an end, suffered a torn ligament in one knee, as well as a broken nose, and Ward, star tackle, twisted both ankles. Both of these regulars will not be able to play. "Dick" Gamber while suffering from a bad ankle will probably appear in the starting lineup.

At the end positions there will be Plummer and Gamber, the former substituted to that place from the backfield because of Carozza's disability. At tackle "Johnnie" Lord will replace Ward while Blissard remains in his regular berth. Nicholson and Dickerson will play the guard positions and Creswirth will pass the ball back.

In the backfield Dobkins will back up the line and if he continues the same type of defensive play exhibited in the game last Saturday, he will be a constant source of worry to the Drexel backs. MacKenzie, a Freshman, who was unable to come out for the team until recently will probably start in the backfield. He is a big man and should add the recess and man power to the Maroon and Black backfield. "Ollie" Robinson will call signals and "Fritz" Rhinehold will be his running mate. Rhinehold will do most of the kicking.

Drexel is reported to have a fairly strong team this year especially on the aerial offense. If Washington wants to stop them they will have to discover a way to check this method of attack.

Editor Of "Equal Rights" To Address Student Body

It has been announced by Dr. Frederick Livingood, Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Chapel Speakers that Mrs. Donald Hooker, Editor of EQUAL RIGHTS of Washington, D. C., will address the student body at the next weekly assembly to be held on Thursday, November 5th.

The text of Mrs. Hooker's speech, although it has yet to be announced, is believed to concern the part of the college man and woman in politics. Besides being the editor of a nationally famous magazine Mrs. Hooker is a speaker of some note.

Amateur Photographers May Have Snapshots Printed

All amateur photographers that have in their possession any pictures of activities and important events about the campus who would like to see them reprinted in THE PEGASUS are asked to get in touch with either John Wagner or Oscar Coulbourn concerning them.

DR. J. S. W. JONES CALLS FIRST CABINET MEETING

Campus Leaders Chosen

Dr. J. S. William Jones, called for the first time of the college year, on Thursday, October 29th, a meeting of the Dean's cabinet. In this meeting Dr. Jones announced the aims of the organization which were he said, "to discuss the various problem arising on the campus and to act on them in an advisory capacity." In no way will this group of men who represent each fraternity, clubs, and organization on the Hill interfere with the Student Council, or the Faculty Discipline Committee.

The fourth Thursday of every month was set for the meeting date and after a short informal discussion the meeting came to an end.

TO BROADCAST

Walter T. Morris

Walter T. Morris, of the class of '29 who has been engaged in farming since his graduation, will speak over a nation-wide radio hookup on Saturday, November 7th. His talk, which will be a part of the National Farm and Home Hour, will be entitled: "Around the State with the Older Boys and Girls."

Mr. Morris' talk will be broadcast during the noon hour next Saturday.

Freshmen May Issue The Elm

Plans Being Made To Have Freshman Issue

It is the hope of THE ELM STAFF to have this year a freshman issue of THE WASHINGTON ELM. The entire paper from the writing of the copy to the planning of the make-up of the different pages will be left entirely in the hands of the men and women that the youngest class elects for the job.

It is the plan of the Editor and the Business Manager to obtain permission from the Dean of the college to hold a meeting of the Freshman class for the purpose of electing the Freshman Editor and Business Manager as well as their assistants. If this is secured the balloting will proceed in the customary manner as prescribed by the regulations of the Student Council.

This is being done to further interest in the school publication as well as to furnish numerous members of the freshman class excellent experience in the handling of a school newspaper. The men elected will appoint the other members of the staff with the exception of the assistant Editor and Business Manager who will be elected.

Because of the proximity of the Freshman-Sophomore football game and several other events of interest about the college it is believed that the next issue would be the ideal time.

If it is possible the staff will have its picture placed in The Pegasus along with the picture of their product. Freshman are advised to note the members of their class that have already had some experience on THE ELM so as to assure themselves of the best possible paper for their class.

Cotillion Club Holds First Formal Dance

College Criteria Of Penn. Furnish Music

One of the smallest crowds of any season packed its way past the doors of the gymnasium last evening to attend the Autumnal German of the Washington College Glee Club. The decorations that greeted them were fully in keeping with the spirit of the name for masses of corn stalks filled the four corners of the hall and wreaths of branches hung from all sides. In the center of the dancing space a square of black and orange streamers hung from the ceiling and was constantly being whirled about by the dancers. Surrounded by this was a small group of ghostly bomb stunts dressed in such suggestive costumes as Mrs. Bern Deland. Gone were the not familiar faces of the background behind the crested score of ghosts few lay.

The College Critterians from The West Chester State Teachers College who were formerly The Purple and Gold Orchestra furnished the music for the dance. There were eleven pieces in the band and they were led by Joe Hunsicker.

The dance committee was headed by William McAlpine Richards. He was assisted by John Gray McLain, John E. Fitzgerald, Richard W. Saylor, Bourke Wright, Charles T. Grosz and George H. Davis.

On the receiving line were The Reverend Mr. and Mrs. John White, Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, Miss Margaret Brewer, Miss Doris T. Bell, Miss Louise Russell, Dr. Thomas H. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ford. President Harold Shriver of the Cettilion Club headed the receiving line while Vice-President U. O. Coulbourn led the Grand March. The remainder of the committee was comprised of William McAlpine Richards, Walter E. Kueglin, DeWitt F. Clarke, Burdette Nuttall and Edwin T. Coul-

Among the alumni that attended the German were: George Carrington, James Allman, Nelson Hurley, Ann Walsh, Lewis Knox, Walter Morris, William Willets and Louisa Bowen.

SOME THOUGHTS ON CHEERING

One thing has been greatly lacking from the campus this year whose loss has caused this department no moanings and no many tears. We have ambled our leisurely way about the campus with great ease, if not a sufficient air of ease, to court our meditations. Naturally we speak of the great hue and cry that was raised last year about the necessity for cheering. Life proceeds along its way more calmly than when frenzied collegians were constantly commanding us to "cheer damn you, cheer."

Now undoubtedly the boys should be cheered to the last echo or last note or whatever boys are cheered to but we were always so constituted that organized cheering seemed to us the lowest level of insanity. Nothing is more stirring than to hear the sudden roar of a crowd as they rise to their feet and greet a brilliant play and conversely nothing is more pathetic and stupid than the usual rah, rah, rah and hiss, boom, bah coming from a group of heated freshmen. It is the great collegiate fallacy that such stuff makes the players die with greater eagerness for alma mater. If it was honestly analyzed it would be found that it was the mere presence of the crowd and the fact of the cheering game that give the player that odd nervous feeling as he sits in the dressing room. Ask any one and he will tell you that the first roar of greeting as he runs on to the field or floor is what thrills; the rest becomes a blurred background in the excitement of the game. It affects him only when the crowd expresses the feelings that are within him. A linesman might want to say a few of the things to his opponent that an excited crowd does but we can assure you that one tackle never looks at the other and says "Sis boom bah!"

But this is all very much aside from the main issue. What we object to is those people telling us that we should cheer. So after deep meditation we have come to a solution of the problem and for those affected in the same way we will let it out here. For each athletic contest we are going to have one freshman appointed to stand near us during the game and whenever a cheer leader or anyone else so effected with the "mania" approaches it will be his duty to jump up and down screaming the while in the approved manner. His title will be "The Editor's Cheer" and his reward our love and affection for the remainder of our college days.

A NOTE ON THE POWER OF THE PRESS

Our trusting belief in the much vaunted power of the press is beginning to leave us. Here we spent numerous paragraphs on the necessity of a library that was open on Sunday evenings, yet when we rushed to William Smith Hall last Sunday to see the effect of our labors we found nothing but the darkened corridors.

Well, we have tried to confer the torch of culture on those that should hold it; we have tried to light the abysmal darkness of the Eastern Shore; and we have failed. Like many of our speakers we will close our efforts on this score with a hit of verse:

Here's to the library, long may it stand,
Spreading knowledge in a darkened land,
With papers, magazines and books,
Cold drafts, hard chairs, and dirty looks.

Refrain:

Bend your elbow and tilt your head,
Twilt be the same when we are dead,
Drink her down boys, drink her down!

BEYOND THE CAMPUS

In the AMERICAN MERCURY, issue of November, 1931, Mr. Howard Wolf presents a number of last messages directed to a mortal enemy of the final thoughts in these passionate lives, Mr. Wolf denies that he doesn't know what they signify. He goes on:

"We have numerous anthologies huddled from the speeches, state papers, journals and autobiographies of Presidents, explorers, philosophers, poets and patriots, but it seems to me that the real voice of the United States is not to be found in the writings of such men, but in the scribbles of waitresses, truck drivers, beauty parlor operators, stenographers, junks, railroads, taxi drivers, morticians, postmen, bartenders, chirpidoes and bootleggers."

"There is a generally accepted theory that the American of these folk is imbecile. I have reason to believe that that is an error. The Americans are not so much as the published fellows among all the races of men. If he decides to commit suicide, he invariably leaves a letter. If he wants a woman or if she wants a man, the resource is, often, not the penning of a note to a newspaper or lovecolumn column. Cast into the muddy pool of American thought some such such as a melodramatic Lindbergh flight or wholesale death by lynching, fire or shipwrecking, and there will be a splashing geyser of poetry sending ripples of sweet sting to the farthest border."

"Of all such documents, I am especially interested by the suicide notes because, when compared to the American who goes through life talking a pretense usually blurt out a truth. And sometimes, in addition to writing honestly, he writes well."

The classroom attitude of some students was summed up by Abraham Lincoln when he said, "Better to remain silent and be thought a fool than to speak and remove all doubt."

Playing lacrosse in the colleges seems to be having a remarkable effect on American youth. Mr. Eugene Heng, anthropologist, makes the following remark:

A new race is happening before the eyes of anthropologists in North America. The changes of feature that come over the white intruder as he adopts the racial traits of the native Indian are almost incredible. He has exterminated him with powder and firewater, but he has taken over his face. Here again are the serious, staid, clear, sharp profile, the red, red lips, the hard chin, energetic nose, the deep springing jaw. In a white skin the Indian has been reborn."

"When the angel Gabriel swoops to earth in search of the immortals among men, he is going to have a dreadful time making his selection from the millions of upturned faces, each adorned with a hard pair of outside-rimmed spectacles."—Antia Lous.

"LEONARDO DE MEDICI"

By David Loh

David Loh has given us a life of romance and charm in his biography of the extraordinary phenomenon of the fifteenth century, Leonardo de Medici, merchant prince, warrior and statesman. The setting is in Florence, the ancient, independent Italian City, in the picturesque days of chivalry and petty "city kingdoms." Leonardo, greater of all the Medici was a sort of dual personality. He raised city upon city, plundering the European resources, and replenishing his own coffers. Craft, relentless in war, determined, and void of compromise, he became the scourge of Europe.

Yet, his constructive ability gave rise to his chief accomplishment—the preservation of the arts and sciences. In Italy, at a time when warfare was making only one place, when burning was condemned as contrary to the church's policies. Under Leonardo's generous patronage, universities, laboratories and observatories were gradually founded. Under his guidance sculpture, architecture and painting reached their peaks. Indeed it was Leonardo Medici himself, who was the actual patron of the Renaissance.

Loh's book is enthralling, and ought to be appreciated by all the readers. The book is handsomely bound, and illustrated with delicate wood cuts that will add to the pleasure of reading.

"THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON"
A Comedy in 3 Acts
By J. M. Barrie

"The Admirable Crichton" as portrayed by the American genius Walter Hampden, is not so admirable on the American stage. One fails to understand how Hampden was persuaded to undertake this light, fantastic comedy, written by J. M. Barrie.

The theme is rather weak. Crichton, (Walter Hampden) accompanies his man on a city man on a city man and butler. They become shipwrecked, and the bulk of the play deals with the way in which Crichton and his master adjust themselves to island life for three years. In much the same manner of Robinson Crusoe. Indeed, the spectator wonders if Barrie hasn't transcribed the entire theme of De Foë, to his play. The comedy is furnished by the three daughters, and an effeminate nephew.

Hampden, as in his other portrayals, acts in a majestic, and eloquent manner, a style utterly impossible for this frivolous comedy.

HAVERFORD VICTOR 27-7

Shoremakers Make First Score
Of Season

In a battle that was for more than victory Washington College bowed to Haverford on the latter's gridiron on October 17 by a score of 27 to 7. It was a sad blow to the title to see their big chance of getting in the win column go sailing away on a series of tough breaks. What little consolation the Shoremen could get out of the contest came from the fact that they tallied a touchdown and scored the extra point that followed. Washington got away to a bad start when the opening kickoff went astir and Haverford had the ball in Washington's territory. One play at the line was unsuccessful but the second went for a touchdown. This tally, which put just 48 seconds into the game had started, gave Haverford a decided edge and stirred the happy gridders on to greater efforts.

For the next ten minutes or so the teams battled on fairly even terms. Haverford was getting the better of the punting duel, favored by a stiff breeze, and was gradually forcing Washington back into its own territory. The first half-play of the ball game of the Washington 12-yard line. From here, Battey, who had tallied the initial marker, galloped around the same end for the second score. It was then that Washington really began to play football. They held a decided advantage in the rest of the first period and with the exchange of goals began an offensive that ended only on the five yard line. Haverford held and waited and waited. But Washington came back again and this time a pretty tussle from Robinson to Carozza ended in a touchdown and Plummer boosted the extra point from the line.

There the score stood, 14 to 7, when the half ended and Washington was not so far behind that the brand of football it had been displaying in the second period wouldn't eventually mean victory.

But alas the Washington play in the third and fourth quarters was not up to the standard of the second and two more Haverford touchdowns were pushed across to put the game away in cold storage.

Registering six first downs to Haverford's five the locals held a slight advantage. There, But Haverford, with several long gallops, made up and more for the extra first down.

The Shoremen tried a total of 24 passes and completed six for a fair percentage. Haverford, on the other hand, was completely and only intercepted by Al Geraltis, who galloped a long way down the field only to fumble when tackled.

The lineup and summary:
Hansen right guard Dickerson
Schramm right tackle Bilsard
Wilson right end Carozza
Andrews quarterback Robinson
Moos right halfback
Pleasant fullback Plummer

Score by periods:
Haverford 14 0 7 4—27
Washington 0 7 0 0—7
Touchdowns—Battey 2; Carozza, Moos, Pleasant, Points after touchdowns—Fields 3; Plummer, Substitutions—Haverford: Hunsicker for Hansen, Wright for Batters, Lipits for Schramm, Aikens for Fields, two. On was completed and only intercepted by Al Geraltis, who galloped a long way down the field only to fumble when tackled. Headlinesman—W. O. Weiler, Temple. Time of period—15 minutes.

SPORTS NOTIONS

Injuries cost Washington College's fighting football team a victory that, up to the last two minutes of actual playing, it had clearly earned in the game with Mt. St. Mary's last Saturday. Ward and Carozza, who had been playing the game of their lives, were both injured and forced to leave the game late in the second half. However the crowning misfortune for Washington as far as injuries were concerned came in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter when Fritz Reinhold, great punter and mightiest of all mites, was forced to depart for the locker room. This was a hard penalty was the break which the Mounts had been looking for and needed in order to put across their lone tally.

To even the untrained observer of foot ball, it was evident that Olle Rohde was the outstanding player on Kibler Field Saturday. Robinson's quarterbacking was brilliant, daring and absolutely flawless. He edged back the Mountaineer's secondary defense with an accurate passing attack and then proceeded to slip off tackle for first downs.

The work of Robinson and the entire Washington half-carrying combination proved that, as usual, back field catch Elias knew just exactly what he was talking about when he promised the Maroon and Black an effective offense against teams anywhere. In our class, before the season was over.

The playing of the Mt. St. Mary's line was far superior to the work of 'he backfield. This was only too evident on punts where the Mount forwards repeatedly forced Fritz Reinhold had confidence, which may be as, if "Del" developed confidence to equal his ability this season, he should be one of the most cock-crow cagers in the state.

Various parts of the 1931 Flying Pentagon are talking highly of work in the continuation and from this distance prospects look good for another state championship cup. Some one remarked that Proffitt had more ability as a basket ball player than with several long gallops, made up and more for the extra first down.

About the only thing accomplished by the tug-of-war was the beginning of a miniature "Long Count" controversy. The Freshmen are rejoicing over what they believe to be the first rat victory in the history of the event, while the Sophomores are looking forward the affair to be a no-donction contest. There is this to the claim of the Sophomores: contrary to the opinion of most of the spectators, the Freshmen were the first to run in an extra min.

FRESH WIN TUG-OF-WAR

Mud Slung Freely By All Participants

The traditional tug of war and mud fight between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes was held at Brock's Mill stream on October 19th. A great many spectators from Chesterton turned out to see this annual event, which proved successful.

The sophomore lineup for the tug of war consisted of: Carey, Hall, Wagner, Dabkins, Giranis, Clark, Bauserman, Anthony, Capel, Merrill, Hughes, Paris, Williams, Jones and Cooks. These husky men gave the Freshmen no little trouble, and they put all their physical effort into the thrilling contest. The Freshmen team consisted of: Ward, Bilsard, Lord, De Mattis, Nicholson, MacKinnon, Lewis, Carozza, Sadler, Spear, Stankevich, Huey, Mooney, Wright and Baker. These young Freshmen put up a hard fight, and because of their endurance the contest came to a tie. Both teams put all their effort into the tug and caused much satisfaction and pleasure among the spectators.

Following the tug-of-war, the mud fight ensued. This was a grand free-for-all, in which mud played the main part. Among the first to charge were Fritz Rhinehold and Wes Sadler, who had a good tussle. They both put up a hard fight and showed excellent sportsmanship. Ralph Harries seemed to be the target of Freshmen revenge, as he was constantly endangered by several husky Freshmen. "Red" Merrill and Elmer Ward also had a keen combat. At the end of the exciting ten minutes it was difficult to decide which side was victor, as both teams displayed excellent fighting spirit and sportsmanship.

To Harry Huey goes the distinction of being the only one injured in the fray as he was sprained an ankle. All participants were thankful when Coach Kibler saw the oblique for retreat, for the mud abounded in enormous quantities, and soap seemed like heaven.

Mt. St. Mary's Trips Washington By Lone Tally In Final Quarter

Team Weakened By Injuries To Ward, Carozza And Rhinehold

Washington College played a great game against Mt. St. Mary's last Saturday. The Eastern Shore gridders held a team record three or four touchdowns better to a single score. This was made in the last minute and half of the game after everything had predicted a scoreless deadlock, and more than once, a victory for Washington. The fine performance of our team was a duplicate of the Maryland and Hopkins games. Saturday Washington came back in line fashion after not playing so well against Southmore and Haverford.

Rohde received the kick-off from Mt. St. Mary's and ran the ball back to our thirty yard line by some clever running. On the first play, Robinson drew a long pass to Carozza, left end, which was completed. Carozza seemed to be away for a touchdown but was knocked out of bounds on Mt. St. Mary's twenty-five yard line. Several short gains were made through the line, but the ball was lost on downs.

From then on throughout the first half the battle was virtually evenly fought. Twice the Maroon and Black flowed down to within the twenty-yard line only to lose the ball on downs and frustrate scoring possibilities. The few times that Washington's territory was entered, Rhinehold kept his ever timely and clever punting, kept the locals out of danger.

The second half was practically a repetition of the first, as the Maroon and Black flowed down to within the twenty-yard line only to lose the ball on downs and frustrate scoring possibilities. The few times that Washington's territory was entered, Rhinehold kept his ever timely and clever punting, kept the locals out of danger.

taken, kicking for Rhinehold, who was sick out of the game with an injured ankle and side, attempted to kick out of danger. Unfortunately the ball struck Nicholson and bounded straight up in the air. Only fifteen yards were gained and these were nullified by a fifteen yards penalty. Mt. St. Mary's possessed the ball on our twenty yard line, and on the first play Hopkins ran around left end for a touchdown. The extra point was added by Lynch.

Right after this, the time-keeper's whistle signified the end of the game and also the end of the game for Washington who deserved no less than a scoreless tie.

The weight advantage of Mt. St. Mary's and the fierceness of the game caused a number of injuries to Washington's light team. Ward, replaced by Lord, left the game during the second half with a badly sprained ankle. Carozza received a broken nose and a wrenched knee in the same play when he was replaced by Plummer. Baker substituted for Rhinehold when he was injured.

Old Collegian Shows Change

Prices, Clothes, Meetings And Ads. Seem Strange

In the 1899 "Collegian" recently given to the college the museum stories show that the school has undergone a great change.

The first article is under the heading LITERARY, and is entitled, "Happines," a morbid story of the life of an old man. Next follows COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES, which tells how the ladies of the Pieria Literary Society "on Friday afternoon, June 16th held a garden party, as a part of the June Week program." "The terraces," so the story goes, "were lighted by myriads of Japanese lanterns, while in their mellow glow, beneath the deep shade of the foliage, were scattered tea-tables for the later feast. Each picturesque nook and corner was provided with a seat, and every possible provision made for the pleasure of the young ladies and their guests. At 9:30 o'clock refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the young ladies." Maybe the present Senior Class can take a hint from these "ladies" when the time for their June week comes around?

The final meeting of the Mount Vernon Literary Society is also recalled. On the Monday of June week, there was a Mount Vernon meeting at which the Rev. S. J. Morgan, pastor of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Crisfield delivered the address. The topic chosen by Rev. Morgan was "American Citizenship." The comments on the address proved rather interesting. "Frisks, practical depravity, drink, mammon, were, he said, the many-headed hydra, which is raising its head and threatening the welfare of our land; and it behooves the youth of America to wage eternal warfare against the demon. The speaker at times sounded like a disciple of oratory that brought him liberal applause."

The Alumni Association, it seems, had been just rejoined, and with Dr. J. S. Williams joined at its head was ready to start some honest-to-goodness progressive work.

Advertisements were, of course, to be found in the paper. In thirty years, they too have changed in style so that they seem queer to us now. One up-aisle for the firm of Westcott and Dodd.

The "ad" follows:

WESTCOTT AND DODD proprietors of the Crystal Palace, corner High Street, and Queen, are offering to the public the finest line of WOOLSTED AND WOOLEN DRESS GOODS

Prizes, costumes, tie up. Newest neckties in Fall and Winter gingham for 5c up. Our line of Flannelettes is unsurpassed.

Another reads: I am most respectfully yours, CHARLES S. SMITH, Chestertown's only Cash Merchant. Cor. Cross and High Sts. Call and see the wonderful place.

Evidentially the "kaydets" of the '90's had use for horses and buggies for there appears, a "drive-yar-sell" "ad".

J. E. ARMSTRONG—Livoryman. Good teams hired at moderate prices. Also your horse well fed and cared for when left with me.

It seems as though the College had taken a back cover page for a large advertisement for the school. They seemed to have placed especial emphasis on the fact that Washington was educational, for the word itself sticks out in bold face type. Further, they said that total expenses for the year, including board, tuition, fuel, room rent, were of, room, and washing vary from $120 to $140 for the year. Don't we wish that the $120 rate would return?

Y. W. C. A. Refills Treasury In Recent Campaign

The Young Women's Christian Association under the leadership of its president, Miss Elizabeth Willis, is already successfully carrying out its proposed plans for the school year.

At the beginning of the year the finances of the association were very low. The finance committee, due to the cooperation of the faculty, students and friends during the campaign recently held, have been able to add $21.35 to the treasury.

Misses Ethel Herrera and Anna Belle Story were elected at the last cabinet meeting to represent Washington College at the "Y" conference to be held at Houl College, Frederick, Md., this week end. Miss Elizabeth Willis will also attended the conference.

New Archery Score Set

Elizabeth Walbert's score has been beaten by Mildred Tryano, who now has a total of 48 points, out of 54 arrow rounds. More students are coming out daily for this sport.

SLIPPERY ELM By W. H. Danneberg

The attendance and circulation of books have probably increased somewhat because of the large crowds who go to the library every evening. I am willing to state, however, that the kind and amount of work performed is approximately four times as mediocre as it would be. Since the beginning of this semester conditions have gradually become worse. The only criticism of the administration is its failure to have competent and authoritative supervision for the evening periods. The fault lies with our college students who should have reached sufficient maturity to know when they are well off. The privilege of attending the library after dark was reextended to the girls last year after having been withdrawn for several years. Apparently the same kind of degeneration that caused the privilege to be removed before has acted in again. The motley crew which assembles in the library in the evenings at present is composed mostly of "dates" and "bull sessions." This may sound like exaggeration but I need never vividly an evening of last week when there were fifty-six people present. I took particular care to note that of the entire crowd only three were there for reading or studying to all intents and purposes. To make it a real social club we only need a few ping-pong tables and several packs of cards. Is it going to be necessary to have the girls attend three evenings a week and the boys the other three?

Elwyn C. Parlin Speaks To Y. M.

Served Many Years In Missionary Work

Mr. Elwyn C. Parlin spoke to a joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Thursday night, October 22nd. The first part of Mr. Parlin's address cited the aims of the organization known as The Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, Inc. A firsthand account of the Christian work in China followed this explanation. The richness of personal experience made this an inspiring as well as an extremely interesting address. At the close of the meeting Mr. Parlin brought before the attention of the organizations certain recently published books which deal with vital problems in foreign fields, and which would not only appeal to and eventual experience, which included educational supervision, publication work, and the administration of a missionary district. In the summer of 1931, when financial problems in this country and political upheavals in China combined to prevent his return to the field, Mr. Parlin became the Candidate Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

In Memoriam

We, the members of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, feeling deeply the loss we have sustained through the death of our adviser and fellow-member, Dr. Errol L. Fox, desire to express both our own grief and our sympathy with others who knew him and loved him.

Dr. Fox was a wise counselor, a keen student of college life, and a friend whose intelligent advice and guidance were of invaluable assistance to this Fraternity and to its individual members. He gave us of his time and of his broad wisdom. His knowledge of the complexities of human nature and his judgment of men and situations were deep and thorough.

For all of these qualities we honored Dr. Fox and trusted his counsel. Because of these qualities we feel an insupportable loss at his death. To those who knew him we extend our sympathy, and we direct that these poor expressions of our grief be permanently recorded upon the minutes of this Fraternity.

MAROONS AND BLACKS HOLD FIRST HOCKEY TILT

On Saturday, October 25th, at 1 p. m., an interclass hockey contest was held between the Blacks, the Junior Freshman team, and the Maroons, composed of Seniors and Sophomores. Ann Kreeger was captain of the Blacks, and Elizabeth Brier, captain of the Maroons. Splendid pass work was noticeable on both sides in this game, showing a considerable improvement over that of last year. There were marvelous attacks by the Maroons, the ball being kept in the Black's territory most of the time, although both sides fought desperately until the last whistle. No scoring was done, until four minutes before the end of the first half, when Ann Kreeger made a goal for her team. Lucile Rasin made the Maroon's goal during the first part of the last half.

GOOD! . . . You bet they are! Maybe the girls are even better. Anyhow, cigarettes are a whole lot better. No doubt about that.

They used to be packed in expensive, lightweight cardboard boxes—

LANDSCAPING PROGRAM BEING CARRIED ON THIS YEAR

COLONIAL EFFECT IS AIMED AT BY COLLEGE

MOST RECENT PROGRESS IS ON ATHLETIC FIELD

The program of improvement and expansion, first noticeable several years ago upon the remodeling of Reid Hall, the building of the new grandstand and the changing of the athletic field to its present state of improvement, has continued here at Washington College despite the general economic depression.

During the past summer the college authorities found it possible to have a social or lounge room built in the basement of Middle Hall. This was furnished with reading tables, card tables, locker benches and a radio for the benefit of the non-fraternity men on the campus. It is expected that next summer will see a room of the same nature constructed in the basement of West Hall for the Freshmen.

Recently, experts from the Towns Nursery were busy landscaping the grounds around William Smith Hall. Among the shrubbery planted are Japanese weirs, flowering shrubs, hawthorns and maples. Around the front of the Hall a planting of English ivy was made. This is in time will cover it, producing the Colonial effect which is so much sought after. This planting is a start toward producing there a planting similar to that around Reid Hall.

The most recent note of progress is being done in athletic lines. A new athletic field is being cleared and graded just south of the present one. The new grounds comprise property which has been bought by the college within the last year and a half. The purpose of this project is to give greater opportunities for intra-mural sports.

On the new field there will be a girl's hockey field, a regulation baseball diamond for inter-collegiate games, if we return to baseball and a tennis court around the edges of both fields.

Two new tennis courts and an archery lane will be laid out adjacent to the present tennis courts behind the men's dormitories.

REAL VS. BRANFORD CASE TRIED BEFORE SOCIETY

Brinsfield A. and Coulbourn Attorneys

The regular meeting of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society was held Wednesday, Nov. 11th. After a short business meeting, a mock trial was held.

The court scene opened with the clerks calling for the Beal vs. Branford Case in which Miss Beal entered suit against Mr. Branford for breach of promise. The counsel for the defense, Mr. Brinsfield and the prosecuting attorney, Mr. Coulbourn, examined the following witnesses: Mary Jane Beal (Alice Duke); Frances Beal (Gladys Council); Walter Branford, Joe McGinty (Cary).

Students are paid to attend the universities of Russia, but only those in sympathy with the government are granted the privilege.

Simpers - Chapman Nuptials Held

The wedding of two former Washington College students, Miss Louise D. Simpser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Simpser, and Mr. James W. Chapman, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Walter Chapman, was held last Saturday evening at 5 o'clock, in the Methodist Episcopal Church. It was one of the most interesting events for both Chestertown and the college, that has been held here for the past year or so.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry J. Wright, pastor of that church. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Theodosia Chapman, sister of the groom attended her as maid of honor, and Mr. William Walter Chapman, Jr., was his brother-in-law. The bride's maids were Miss Eleanor Titwirth, Miss Margaret Jefferson, Miss Geraldine Harwood and Miss Dorothy Vickers. The ushers, Mr. Harry M. Wilson, Mr. Edwin S. Vallant, Mr. Vannort Chapman, and Mr. Thomas Bonwill.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms, and carried white roses. The maid of honor was attired in a green velvet dress of Empress Eugenie lines, while the bridesmaids wore dark Spanish tulle velvet dresses with hats of matching color, and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simpser which was attended by nearly two hundred guests.

Former College Student Wins National Prize

Mr. Kenneth Douthy, of the class of '31, has been named the winner of the national prize offered by The W. C. T. U. Organization for the best paper on Ways To Further National Sobriety. The prize was a check to the amount of fifty dollars.

Mr. Douthy was the editor of THE 1931 PECASSUS, is now teaching in Baltimore.

Archery Has Many New Members Out

Archery has not yet been discouraged by cold weather. A good crowd has been practicing regularly, among them have been several members of the faculty. Dr. Carpenter, Prof. Makovsky, Miss Snodgrass, and Mr. Goodman, one of the best and most enthusiastic archers. Mildred Tryzno still leads the scoring, with a total of 68, out of 24 arrow rounds.

FROSH ELN POSTPONED

THE ELM staff sincerely regrets that due to the numerous activities of the past week it was impossible to have the proposed Freshmen issue of THE ELM.

Since the class is now organized it is believed that it will be easier to nominate and elect the necessary officers.

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Howard Plummer

Captain Howard Plummer who will lead his team against Susquehanna today, has but one more game of collegiate football before this. This will be when Washington meets St. Joseph's in Philadelphia next Saturday.

FRESHMAN FORM FIRE DEPT. AND HOLD DRILL

Last Wednesday eve about the hour of eleven-thirty a voluntary and active fire department was organized by the Freshmen boys.

Johnny Standiwitz was elected "chief" and they hitched Sykes up for the horse. There were several other officers among whom were Gardner, the hose man, and Duffy, assistant chief. After the elections were through there came a violent ringing of bells and racing around. During the excitement the panels of three doors on the first floor were kicked out and one or two windows broken. This caused much detective work on the part of the Student Council and faculty. As yet the guilty ones have not been found and it is not definitely known whether the fire drill had any connection with the destruction of the property.

WASHINGTON PRESS CLUB FORMED BY STUDENTS

The Washington College Press Club, an organization for the purpose of publicizing the college and at the same time giving the club members an opportunity to obtain experience along journalistic lines, was formed last Tuesday evening under the direction of Harry S. Russell, associate editor of the Chestertown Enterprise and an alumnus of the college.

It will be the endeavor of the club to put news of each student at the college in his or her home town paper at least once during the school year. Other matters of a publicity nature will also be handled by the club.

The members of the new organization are: William Danneberg, John J. Ludwig, B. B. Ford, Roland C. Ready and Irving S. Ross.

WASHINGTON TO MEET SUSQUEHANNA TODAY

Red Cross Is Assembly Subject

The Thursday Assembly Oct. 12, 1931, was addressed by Mrs. H. Margaret Whitcomb, Maryland field worker of the American National Red Cross, in a delightful and interesting manner on the nature of the Red Cross Work.

Mrs. Whitcomb briefly summarized the organization of the Red Cross in Europe. She then told how Clara Barton conceived the idea in this country during the Civil War and of the valuable work done by her and her assistance to relieve the suffering of the soldiers. After the Civil War Miss Barton appealed to various presidents and secretaries to make the Red Cross a national organization. Her appeals were finally heard by Secretary Blaine.

The first Chapter of the American Red Cross was organized with fifteen members in Danville, N. Y., fifty years ago. At a recent celebration in Danville 50,000 members were in attendance. At the present time there are more than 4,000 club members and 3600 Chapters in the United States.

Mrs. Whitcomb, in concluding, expressed the hope that the students of Washington College would join the Red Cross during its annual membership drive this fall.

MRS. DONALD HOOKER SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

On Thursday, Oct. 5th, 1931, Mrs. Donald Hooker, nationally known as a pioneer women's suffrage worker and editor of "Equal Rights" a monthly magazine published at Washington, D. C., delivered an emphatic and interesting address to the student body on the subject of "Equal Rights for Women."

Mrs. Hooker traced the steps in the emancipation of women during the latter part of the 19th and early part of the 20th century. She pointed out that women had proven themselves to be as intelligent as men and as capable in any field of industry.

The address was concluded by a statement that women should have equal citizenship rights, equal suffrages and should be included in the fourteenth amendment.

FRESHMEN ELECT

A Freshman meeting was held on Friday, November 6th, in room 21, William French Hall. The following officers were elected:

President—Harry Huey.
Vice President—Richardson Sayler.
Secretary and Treasurer—Ludlum.

At a later meeting held on November 12th Michael Wallace was elected Student Council representative.

The Kent County News Show Association held its annual show at the William French Farm, Wednesday, November the eleventh.

FIRST VICTORY OF YEAR IS HOPED FOR

ROBINSON PREVENTED BY ILLNESS FROM PLAYING

Today the Maroon and Black football team engages Susquehanna at Solomville, Pa. The latter's record this year isn't very impressive, so the battle is expected to be very closely fought with the Shoremen standing a good chance of winning, although they will be lacking several players.

Couch Kilmer has experienced some exceptionally tough breaks this year, his regular becoming crippled in almost every game. In spite of such circumstances those who were able to play displayed a willingness to fight, which would have touched the heart of any coach. The Washington College football team deserves a great deal of credit for the manner in which they played the last few games because of the odds which were against them.

"Otha" Robinson, all round athlete and popular student will be unable to play today because of an attack of pleurisy several days ago which necessitated resting in bed. Mackenzie also suffered a torn ligament in the Allright game will also be out of the game.

"Dick" Johnson playing his first game at end last week proved so good that he will probably be Gardner's running mate this week. Bill and Jones will be at the tackle berths. Jones has developed into a very fine tackle this year. The guard positions will be taken care of by Dickerson and Nicholson. Johnnie Lord will play center.

In the backfield Dobkins will call signals, Plummer and Rhinshold will be at the wings and Gralits will be at the fullback position. Dobkins is the sort of football player that fills a coach's heart with pride. This little fellow appears play after play that is tried through the line and in addition he is the "iron man" of the team.

The Maroon and Black eleven has been pointing toward this game today and from the pep shown during the week they should win if they get any kind of break.

Y. W. C. A. CHANGES TIME OF MEETING TO SUNDAY

First Vesper To Be Held November 16th

Due to the conflicting of the meetings of the Young Women's Christian Association with the various activities held on the afternoon of the week days, the organization has been forced to change its time of meeting.

The cabinet and open meetings have previously been held on alternate Thursday afternoons. At the last cabinet meeting it was decided that the association would hold vesper services on alternate Sunday evenings at 6:30 in Reid Hall. It is believed that this will increase the attendance and that the services will be more in the form of worship.

THE IMPORTANCE OF NOT BEING TOO EARNEST

Some become infatuated while sophomores but the majority fall ill either their junior or senior year. A few were deathly sick of it before they ever trod on a college campus. Of course we speak of this feeling of self-importance that is so characteristic of all collegians. Now we are not thinking of the individual that has his nose and his thoughts always in the air. Rather we are speaking of the common man and his activities.

At times we feel as though we would miss the type that frolic as though an aurora settles over all that he does. But if we could regulate this world we imagine that we would struggle long, carrying our burdens with a more joyous heart if he were absent. If for only once we could realize that all these things that we do here such as publishing a college paper, pledging freshmen, playing a sport, holding a meeting of a council, conducting a class, were not so confoundingly important we might do them all more gracefully and certainly bring more joy to those that weren't interested in them. Perhaps we would more humbly seek the fundamental things whatever they may be. We might even learn something.

The fact that this is to be published has perhaps prevented us from writing more lucidly on all this, but what inspired these wanderings was this: That we ought to grasp that we are only mediocre students attending a mediocre college and doing mediocre things. And then, perhaps, with our distorted sense of values righted, we would put away our childish jealousies for all time. At least it would make our fall from grace at graduation a little less severe.

THE COUNCIL SCORES

What support we can give goes whole heartedly to the efforts of the student council in preserve our campus in its pristine glory. Usually the type of signs put up to keep people out of a place more than what they try to prevent does. It is not so with those, for neatness and unobtrusiveness have been achieved in something that is not usually neat and unobtrusive.

So to show that we are whole heartedly in support of all these efforts we will give up our dearly beloved morning custom of running across the campus to make our eight o'clock classes. Furthermore we would like to present our hearty wishes to the Student Council for an interesting year of such worthwhile activity. Doing such things must be infinitely more interesting than holding meetings and passing motions for more spirit.

A NOTE

There is a full, as it were, in the editorial column. Perhaps some will welcome it but unfortunately it is customary to fill out a column. So as people fill in conversational hulls with talk about the weather so will we here. Isn't it time weather were having? (Note to Intypter—repeat last line till this line is thing is filled out.)

Isn't it lovely weather we're having?

BEYOND THE CAMPUS

There seems to exist not much difference between the French and the American student as the following excerpts from an editorial in the New York Times of Sunday, November 8, 1931, will show:

"Public opinion in France has been greatly stirred by the supposed plight of her students. It has been alleged that the whole generation under 26 is menaced by overstudy, with its attendant ill—tuberculosis, meningitis, typhoid, and cerebral anemia. Two years ago an official commission of investigation was appointed. It is still deliberating. Before its conclusions are made known, the Revue Bleue has its word to say. In the opinion of Theodore Jouan the overworked student is hardly a legend."

"The verdict of doctors on modern brain life is dismaying with an impatient gesture. Everybody knows that doctors are always asserting that everybody is sick. Look at the great mass of the population. It is true that some, overworked for academic honors and with a real love of study, endanger their health. But this class has always existed. The great majority are a healthy being, but who always seem to be just coming back from a football game or going out to play tennis. They have reduced close study to a minimum."

"Of remedies, two are proposed. One is to cut down the school term with the same work required. The second plan is an energetic pruning of the Tree of Science, with many branches of study also lopped off. This would reduce the present twenty-eight or thirty-hour schedule of classes to twenty hours. Professors are paid on a basis of fifteen hours, and the more 'supplementary hours' a schedule entails, the larger the income. Such a reduction would evoke insurmountable opposition from the teaching staff. Between Seyth and Charlebird, the Grande Commission is in a vicious circle. The sole consolation offered is that the rest of overwork is less than it appears—a busy whose dimensions decrease as it is approached more closely."

From the same paper, we who enter the cafeteria may learn that good food does exist.

"Paris, Nov. 5.—There are always interesting salons to be seen in Paris and just now there are no less than three—the Autumn Salon of painting and sculpture, the Salon of Salon with folk-styled yachts and motorboats exhibited in the great hall of the Grand Palais, and the most interesting of all, the 'Salon of Gastronomy.'"

"At the latter are to be seen and tasted the most delectable viands of this fruitful land of France. There are assembled the artists of the culinary world and there the wine-makers are exhibiting their most products for the public to taste. It is possible to lunch there on samples, beginning with ravier and continuing with lark pie and sautechut with fifty kinds of manna to choose from, hams from a dozen caves, and eelies with cut number. For those who like legitimate customers, champagne and cognac merchants will open choice bottles. There is even considered some one to be sought for in France is not lugged about wines."

"Each day official and unofficial juries try out new dishes and go home at night delecting the world is almost too full of good things."

Open Forum

Mr. Robinson made a very valiant try at an explanation as to why the cafeteria could not operate without some seventeen men to attend to the wants of the students. Well, we all know the cafeteria is handicapped this year, by the apparent lack of men to do the service. Let's hope that Mr. Robinson will do his utmost to see to it that we students will not be forced to endure the icy blasts of winter, every day at noon hereafter. I suggest that the matter be left entirely up to his discretion, as he, no doubt, is better versed in cafeteria management than is the writer.

There is one atrocious, however, a not been mentioned. That is the matter of doing out milk. Now, milk is one of our cheapest, yet best foods. In some way everyone of us, physicians say, should have at least a quart a day. Most certainly this is not the case with students at Washington. To begin with, we are limited to one glass per day. This is rather fair, as there are a number of students who are not particularly fond of the beverage. Here are where the atrocious enters. We Americans do most certainly enjoy a bowl of some sort of cereal for the major part of our morning meal. Usually, every good restaurant, or dining hall supplies ample milk for use in connection with this cereal. Everyone will agree that a bowl of luscious looking cereal, can be readily made unpalatable, if there is an insufficiency of milk for it. This is the case, this year. Last year, milk was amply provided for our cereal. This year students must be content to pour over their food, about a gill of milk, or the cereal go dry. Now if milk were very expensive, or if there were but few cows about Chestertown, there might be some cause for the cut-down. However, I do not think any of these are apparent, so I will again call upon the clear thinking of Mr. Robinson to furnish us with a solution to this problem. I hope that there may be actually something done this time, rather than an explanation, with no imminent solution.

—Patient Student.

"AS I LIKE IT"

This column is not written for the sake of presenting uplifting literary material. Neither is it written to aid the paper; but it is written to fill space. It is not the best material available but during this period of depression you take what you can get. The subject of the column will be what the author can pick up here and there around the campus which he thinks the other students would like to know. This column has no object nor does it adhere to the rules of coherence and unity. But if you would read this far you have wasted just as much time as the author.

It seems as though the principal idea of going to college is to bring home a diploma. With this thought in mind it is interesting to note that some people's conception of the word diploma is what they bring home after three or four years' away at college.

We are all trying to derive a formula by which we may calculate how many "daze" are in the collegiate week.

Two of the male students of last year had a duck, a rabbit, and a rooster as pets. This year everyone is racing his car or trying to outdo a way in which they may get a "seal."

During one of the noon day meals of the past week we noticed a freshman jump in line ahead of his turn to get his second order of liver for which he was called down by the dietitian. We surely do hope that he didn't want his liver out of order.

Now turning to material of more literary value we would like to recommend a book for the coeds and cadets.

Since we are trying to keep up with the times we suggest a book for unexperienced brides. It contains everything a girl should know before getting married. For all interested we recommend "The White House Cook Book."

The colleges catalogue says this is a liberal arts college, but it seems as though the administration could get a descriptive phrase with a much more classical meaning. Instead of going out for athletics, the boys are attending teas and operas. For pity take's—where are our traditions.

We have heard much criticism against the cafeteria and we wish to present three points in its defense:

1. Times are bad. Salaries are worse this year than they were last year, in fact, everything is worse. Therefore the meals have a right to be worse.

2. "An army," someone said, "travels on its stomach." And we are not doing any traveling therefore we don't need good meals.

3. Consistency is the secret of success. No one can say that the meals have not been consistent.

It seems as though the last week has closed a chapter in many boys' lives.

One of the important figures in this year's edition of the yearbook quoted himself: "We want everybody satisfied." We wonder if he wants us satisfied with his system?

We understand Mrs. Hooker to say "Michigan beat Princeton because Michigan was co-ed." We would like to have her explain why Haverford beat Washington.

"Freshman May Issue Elm." Why not give them a chance? We have everything to gain.

We noticed that someone characterized the library as a "court" room and a reception room. Most of the offenses were committed by freshman. We wonder if the critic, when he was a freshman, considered it wrong to occupy most of the librarian's time?

Washington Bows To Drexel 44 To 0

Injuries Handicap Kibler's Gridders

A badly battered Washington College eleven, still suffering from the grueling contest with Mt. St. Mary's on the previous Saturday, took a no-hitter from Drexel Institute in Philadelphia last Saturday. The score was 44 to 0.

Threatened by the great Lakewood in every period and presented the strongest team. The Shoremen have faced this score in La Bove the victor had a star back who carried his team to great heights.

Washington played its best football in the second and third quarters when they held the Dragons to a lone touchdown in each period. In the first session Drexel won presented a jolt of scores on a succession of lucky breaks and in the final period three touchdowns were rung up against the Washington second string combination, in the game as a complete unit.

Despite the overwhelming defeat the Washington eleven looked good in spite of several times they carried the ball deep into Drexel territory but lacked the punch to carry the ball into the goal line. Defense by the Washington line, shifted because of changes necessitated by injuries in the Mt. St. Mary's tilt, stood up well under the battering of the Drexel forwards, who outwitted the Shoremen 20 pounds to the man. Especially deserving of mention was the work of Lord. This seventeen-year old Freshman from Cumberland, who tackled and went to center when Growth was injured, playing a hump-up game throughout, containing the hand of play he displayed when he relieved the great Ward in the Mt. St. Mary's game.

Robinson, veteran Washington quarterback, executed a couple of effective plays for the first time in season, displaying the knack of ball carrying he had shown last year. One of the Washington gridders came out of the contest in good shape. Rhinebold, the Shoremen's star kicker, suffered a return of an old back injury but should be ready for the game with Albright on Saturday.

The lineup and summary:

|            |    |           |
|------------|----|-----------|
| Washington | LE | Drexel    |
| Grier      | LT | Reuda     |

Sports Notes

By Phillip J. Winge

Although the Maroon and Black eleven was defeated rather decisively by Albright's powerful grid combination, in Reading, Pa., last Saturday, several aspects of the contest were sources of satisfaction to Coach Kibler and Klatits. Greatly handicapped by injuries, the Washingtonians turned in a very creditable performance in holding the hard running Albright backs, reverses during an entire half. The work of several of the linemen who were in the starting lineup for the first time this season was particularly pleasing.

According to the reports of those who know, Dick Johnson did the best work of that has been done all season for the Maroon and Black. Johnson, a real find for the string position at Givens, secured full charge of the kicking department in this game and proved himself to be a proficient punter.

If injuries do not handicap the Kiblerites too much in Saturday's game with Susquehanna they should be rated at least an even bet against the Pennsylvanians. The gridders from Selkirk have to do well to match Dickinson, Washington's fast eleven guard in this contest. Dickinson has put forth probably the most consistent brand of good foot ball that Washington has benefited from the season. Dickinson because of his hard tackling will be another big item in the Washington school this Saturday.

The Freshman foot ball team that faces the Sophomores just before Thanksgiving will not be very experienced due to the fact that many of the first year men who have had foot ball training previous to coming to college will soon vary their letters this year. The Sophs should be two or three touch downs better than the yearlings when they meet on the gridiron.

The soccer game played Monday, when the Sophomores, just before the Sophomores met the Freshmen had enough team work and coordination to produce a scoring punch. The interest shown in this contest by the general student body, seems to indicate that the proposed development of intra-sports at Washington College will be met with considerable enthusiasm.

TO CAPTAIN BASKETBALL SOPHS AND FRESHMEN SET FOR ANNUAL TILT

Very Close Game Expected

All interest in the Sophomore and Freshmen Classes is centered on the forthcoming traditional football game between these two classes. The rivals are holding pep meetings and daily football practice, composed mostly of signal learning at the present time. The game will be played on Tuesday before Thanksgiving, Nov. 23, and the whole college and most of Chestertown will witness this bitter struggle.

We all remember the scoreless tie of last year in which a good Freshman team coached by Plummer and Badart did some nice playing, with all due credit to last year's Sophs. This year with virtually the same coaching staff against the Freshmen will have a job on their hands. On the line Harries will probably be at center, Omar Carey and John Wagner at guards, Mike Williams and Paris at tackles and Jimmy Anthony and Charley Clark at the end posts. Others who will surely see service on the line are Pippin, Boyles, Capel, Nuttle and Koerber. The starting backfield will likely be Pfundt, Beaman, Hodgson and Hall, with Burkhardt, Davis and Coulburn in reserve. Frank Badart is again Head Coach, with Dobkins, Gamber and Reinhold as his assistants.

The Freshmen, on the other hand, are being coached by Jay Dickinson and Freddy Utison and will have a team that has been working together all season on the football field. Aided by a few scrimmages against the varsity coaches in the rudiments, they are sure to make the outcome of the game doubtful until the final whistle has blown. On their line will probably be Sayler, Johns, Cohen, Wright, Burkhardt, Charles, Mike Wallace, and in the backfield Sailer, Mooney, Stankevich and Wallace or Stevens. This lineup is subject to revision and a big corps of reserves will be ready to play.

The game will be a cooker and no one wants to miss it. Whatever the result may be, the spectators are assumed that neither team will quit until the end. The fate of the Freshmen is hinged on this game, and if they suffer part of the contest will be removed. If the Sophomores win, Freshmen will watch their step until late next Spring.

Albright Wins Uneven Contest

Haines Plays Great Game For Albright

For the second straight Saturday, Washington College was completely overpowered, this time by Albright College, of Reading, Pa. A superior combination of power, speed and deception in the first half, accounted for the largest score of the season. During the second half, however, the Maroon and Black warriors held their own and no score was made in this period.

The game started with Washington kicking off and Albright making a nice run back to their thirty-five yard line. On the first play, Charley Haines, Albright sensational half-back sprinted sixty-five yards across his left end for a touchdown. This was only the beginning of a barrage of scores, as Haines scored two more in short order, one from another end run for thirty-five yards, and the other by a dash off tackle. Before the quarter was up, Albright scored two for a 35 to 0 score.

After the second quarter opened, Washington bunched up considerably and touchdowns by Weige and Conway, Albright's scoring for the day. It was at this stage of the game that Dickinson, brilliant guard for Washington, broke through Albright's line at the right moment, literally took the ball out of scoring hands before he reached the line of scrimmage, and ran forty yards for a touchdown before anyone could realize what had happened. This finely executed piece of work saved the Shoremen from a complete shut-out.

The second half was evenly fought, Albright making only five first downs as against eleven during the first period. Second stringers played most of the last quarter for both teams and Washington's victory has been won.

Outside of poor tackling, especially during the first half, Washington played a fairly good game. Playing best for the Maroon and Black were Dobkins and Givrits in the backfield and Lord, Dickinson and Johnson on the line.

The lineup and summary:

Slippery Elm

Since the placing of the signs on the lower part of the campus by the Student Council several results are particularly noticeable. It is quite remarkable to note that students who feel the necessity of saving a few steps walk on the parts of the campus that are not mowed by paths. It is equally remarkable that some members of the faculty invariably walk in the exact paths that have been tried for generations. Is it fitting and proper that these people, whose help and guidance we need in the process of education, should set an example that is a flagrant violation of the rules of the Student Council? The argument must be presented that the Student Government Association has control of students only, but it appears that this means was used after the President of the college had made numerous fruitless requests to attain the same end.

In addition to the markers already placed it may be of some aid to place several more of the same near the William Smith Hall to Washington Avenue. There is a path rapidly being brought into existence in the straight line from the steps at the front of Middle Hall to the steps before William Smith Hall.

Several horribly cast iron aristocracies are evolving among the student body. In the past several years there has been a tendency for the student body to divide itself into groups which are organized in such a fashion that the members are extremely loyal to their own crowd. First we had fraternities, then societies, and now we have the Middle Hall Club. Everyone is part of some organization but freshmen and they will soon be required to affiliate with one or another of these groups. This matter of organization is all very well, as long as it tends toward further improvement of the entire group. However there is a decided lack of cooperation between these small societies. If a genuine sportsmanlike competition were promoted nothing further could be asked, but there is a malicious antagonism that forces the chasm between them to become wider and wider. It is more necessary to achieve social cooperation in a small student body than in a large one and we can never become as "one big, happy family" if we insist on widening the small, but ever-existent, breach between all of us.

The Y. M. C. A. feels quite elated in sending three delegates to the recent Tri-State Conference held at Hood College. The reports of Messrs. Brantford, Bailey and Saffler brought to the local group, impressions of this meeting which no doubt opened avenues of thought toward higher achievement in not only the work of the Y. M. C. A. on the campus, but also the personal lines of the individual members.

This conference had for its purpose the beginning of some spiritual pioneering. It showed that new trails are awaiting a blazer; trails that are different from those in the 60's.

The main speakers of the Conference showed that these new trails were in the realm of one's own personality.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness . . . smoothness . . . and satisfying pleasure when you smoke.

All right then . . . get this straight.

CHESTERFIELD pays top prices . . . yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

The curing and conditioning is done by specialists . . . men carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos. . . .

IN BLENDING, also, Chesterfields are different . . . Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together . . . we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder . . . and a more pleasing aroma.

Cigarette paper? Only the purest that's made is good enough for Chesterfield.

PICK UP a package. Note its clean appearance . . . free from heavy inks. It's moisture-proof, too.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good . . . they're got to be good. Because they're made that way. And most important of all . . . you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield. Let the cigarette do its own talking. You'll get the whole thrilling story, in just two words . . . "They Satisfy!"

"Yes Sir—Mild yet they Satisfy"

SOPH GRIDMEN CONQUER THE FROSH BY SCORE 18-0

The Sophomore gridmen, led by Hall and Hodgson, marched through a plucky Freshman eleven to roll up 18 points against the Frosh 0.

The game was well played and was made spectacular and exciting by long runs by both sides.

It was not until late in the second quarter that the Sophomores, encouraged by the long gains of the brilliant, running back, Hall, and the line-backs of Proudfoot, pushed the first touchdown across the line. Hall's placement kick for extra point failed. The Sophs scored second career points on the third period, when a 60 yard sprint by Hall put the ball on the Frosh ten-yard line. Thence two line-backs and an off tackle play scored the second touchdown. Try for point again failed.

An end run, well executed by the diminutive Hodgson, scored the third and last touchdown of the game.

The Sophomores, due to the hard work of Coach Frank Ballard, presented a fast, hard-playing, well-drilled team.

On the other hand, the Freshmen, although outwheeled and handicapped by lack of experience, put up a line, wellfought game. Much credit is due coaches Dickerson and Usilton for their consistent preparation.

The outstanding players of the game were Joe Hall, whose brilliant play was a credit to any team; Al Hodgson, whose quarter-backing aid of greatly in the Sophs victory; Joe Mooney, whose punting and ball-carrying were very conspicuous; Wes Sadler, who proved himself to be a valuable quarter-back; Mike Williams, who was a pillar of strength in the line-up and Doc Murray, who left little to be desired.

The lineup and summary:

| Sophomores   | Freshmen    |
|--------------|-------------|
| Anthony LE   | Chase       |

ADELPHI SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The meeting of the Adelpi Literary Society was held on Wednesday, November 18th. The program was begun by a Scripture reading by Marion Enert. Dick Cooper followed with a piano solo. A short reading by Marie Poole preceded a career of Mr. Rosenberg. A football review by Bill Chase and "Moon Leans," a yodle Wallace, came before the critic, Kitty Collins, made her report.

The new armory under the process of construction on the Quaker Neck road will soon be completed.

CHAPEL SPEAKER

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough

Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough was the speaker at the assembly at Washington College on Thursday, November 19. Congressman Goldsborough is a representative from the First Maryland Congressional District and is a graduate of Washington College. His home is in Denton, Caroline County.

Dean And Alumni Give Victors Cup

A handsome silver loving cup has been presented as a perpetual trophy for the winner of the Freshman-Sophomore football game, by Dean Jones and the Alumni Association.

The cup is to be in the possession of the president of the winning team for the year following the game in which that class was victor. The name of the winning class is to be engraved, with the date, each year upon the cup.

The price is to be presented, with suitable ceremony, immediately after the annual game.

The Freshman-Sophomore football game has so long been a feature of the autumnal activities that it has become a tradition of the College. Each year after the last varsity game of the season, the first and second year men engage in a struggle for which they consistently train for several weeks. Until this year the game had made its success known throughout the town in a manner practically conspicuous. Poster-flags and other activities have marked a period in which the honorable reputation of the college was not least. By the action of the Dean, and other executive bodies, the unfortunate game aftermath has been eliminated.

Social functions were suggested to relieve the holidays without resorting to force. And most important of all, the cup changed the winning of the game to being an achievement really worthwhile rather than a signal for the destruction of property.

It seems obvious that the whole college owes a vote of thanks to Dean Jones for his thought of the cup, to the Alumni Association for its part to Dr. Titsworth for his contributions, and to the Student Council for its whole-hearted support.

NOTE OF THANKS

The Freshman Class wishes to take this opportunity to thank the ELM staff for their courtesy in sponsoring a Freshman Issue.

HON. T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH TALKS ON ECONOMIC ILLS

Mediocrity Theme Of Dr. Holloway

The weekly assembly at Washington College had as the speaker on Thursday, December 3, Dr. H. B. Holloway, State Superintendent of Schools for the State of Delaware. Dr. Holloway's subject was the "Triumph of Mediocrity."

Dr. Holloway graduated from Washington College with the class of '95.

Approaching the subject of his talk, Dr. Holloway explained the correct interpretation of his title. It was not to be supposed, he noted, that mediocrity was preferable to excellency, but rather that it was necessary for the expression of excellency. He reminded the audience that graduation from college was the beginning of learning and that even college students should not be instructed with genius.

He observed that the poet was at a loss to circulate his verses without aid of the common printer and paper-maker's art. In other words, genius needs a practical helper, which it finds in the common man.

The first contribution, or triumph, of mediocrity is, then, cooperation. "Time is made of time," stated Dr. Holloway. He further noted that time is a commodity of equal amount, which is possessed by everyone, regardless of his station. The average person by untiring and persistent effort can use the time allotted to him just as efficiently as the genius-hour. He can accomplish just as much for the good of mankind as the man intellectually his superior, noted Dr. Holloway.

Specifications for mankind as suggested by Kipling could be richly illustrated by vivid experiences from life.

Freshmen Meet To Discuss Plans

On Thursday, Nov. 19, the Freshman meeting was called to order by President Huey.

The subject of the loving cup, presented to the winning class in the Freshman-Sophomore football game, was proffered and explained by the President.

Plans were discussed for the dance to be held on the evening of the football game. The dance was sponsored by President Titsworth, and was very kindly furnished the orchestra. It was decided that a fee of twenty-five cents per person would be paid by the losing side. The Faculty, Seniors, Juniors and the members of the victorious class were to be admitted free of charge, it was decided.

A dance committee was chosen and found to be composed of: John Lord, chairman; Scott Beck, Wesley Sadler, Wilma Dunn and Ann Peck. Plans for a soccer game (which did not materialize) on Thanksgiving, as well as those for a girls' basketball game were discussed before the meeting was adjourned.

On Thursday, November 19, the Assembly was fortunate in having for its speaker, the Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, representative from the First Congressional District of Maryland, who gave an exceedingly interesting discourse, choosing as his topic "The Present Economic Crisis."

Congressman Goldsborough, who graduated from Washington College, began each talk opened his talk with several choice anecdotes of the days when he was a student here. On continuing his talk, he defined this Economic Crisis as being essentially a problem of distribution rather than overproduction, as has been the popular belief. He declared that powerful influences were to blame for this condition; influences whose activities will have to be controlled. This, he pointed out, is a problem for the coming generation; a matter in which the mass—rather than the individual—mind must be educated.

Mr. Goldsborough also presented an interesting insight on the recent activities of the Committee for the investigation of Communism, and gave his own views on the subject. In closing, he quoted the late Charles Steiendam in a passage emphasizing the value of greater knowledge in the spiritual than in the scientific world.

Thanksgiving Day Is Jolly Occasion

The Thanksgiving holidays were pleasantly spent by those who remained at school. Everything possible was done to help the "Extraterrestrial" residents have a good time.

After the great football game on Wednesday, a number of girls from Reid Hall came over to the "gym" to dance with the Freshmen boys. The boys and girls enjoyed this occasion exceedingly.

The orchestra, which was furnished by Dr. Titsworth, performed in a manner quite in keeping with the Thanksgiving spirit.

The lights in the gymnasium were shaded by green and red paper, which rather gave the room a "backwoods" effect. However, this effect was not complete, as there were no turkeys gobbling around. There were some Sophomores standing on the sidelines talking.

The success of the night was insured when a few Freshmen began to serve refreshments.

On Thursday morning the dance was continued with a change of half, and a new orchestra. The ELM correspondent notes that "It surely was fun to begin Thanksgiving by dancing with a pretty girl."

He continues with, "For Thanksgiving supper we had roast turkey. It was really good to surround a meal like that one. We indeed owe Miss Poole a vote of thanks."

Yes, the Thanksgiving holidays passed pleasantly for those who remained at school.

Christmas Ball Is Great Success

On Friday evening, December 4, the most important social event of this scholastic year took place in the college gymnasium.

A fine orchestra under the able direction of Lou Caruso furnished the music.

The decorations were superb. The color scheme was red, white and green. Large strips of these colors were serving as a background for the orchestra platform. Multitudinous paper strips were fastened on hoops so as to represent a three top circus tent. The lights were covered with red, white and green. Large, red and green Christmas trees at a background. A large cedar tree decorated with small electric lights and packages from Santa himself, occupied the center of the floor. No smaller sentinals of the forest stood at the ends of the orchestra platform.

The patrons were Mr. and Mrs. John I. Colburn, Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Titsworth, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Howell, Dr. Thomas E. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Usilton, Miss Doris Bell, Mrs. Walter W. Chapman and Mrs. Collidge.

Dr. Dole Sails For Egypt Nov. 9

Dr. Esther M. Dole, head of the department of history at Washington College, will sail for Italy and Egypt on December 9th. Embarking from New York on the Conte Biancamano, Dr. Dole will land at Genoa, the Italian port. From there she will go to Marseille, the historic old court city of many French kings. At Johns Alexandria Dr. Dole will join the party with whom she is to tour Egypt. For fourteen days she is to traverse the most ancient of lands, with the Nile as guide. Trip on the Nile as far down as the Assiout Dam will permit an inspection of the pyramids at Gizeh, the Valley of the Kings and numerous other points abounding in historical lore. An expedition will be made into King Tut-Ank-Amen's tomb which will indeed be exciting. Life on the alluvial plain of the Nile will be contrasted with the life of the desert three thousand years ago, and scores of other things will be observed.

Dr. Dole will return in late January.

FOOTBALL MEN ELECT FOR NEXT YEAR

At a meeting of the "letter-men" of the Washington College football team held November 25, Joe Dickerson was selected to captain the 1932 eleven.

The managers went to Phillip Wingate, and further results of the election revealed the choosing of Burkhardt as assistant manager. Various other matters of business were discussed, and the meeting was adjourned.

Extra - Muralities

Jormen gives us an ideal picture of the temperamental and romantic young man, born a Marquis, yet struggled continuously for existence. Success made him lethargic and phlegmatic. He was content to see the world go by. In 1870, this grand old man of France died, the greatest loss the French literary world ever had.

The Mysteries Of A Pack Of Cards

A private soldier by the name of Bourke Chambers was taken before a magistrate for playing cards during the divine service. It appeared that a sergeant commanded the soldiers at the church. When the person had read the prayers he took the text. Those who had a Bible took it out, but this soldier had neither Bible nor common prayer book, but pulling out a pack of cards, he spread them before him. He just looked at one card and then at another. The sergeant of the company saw him and said: "Bourke, put up the cards, this is no place for them."

"Never mind that," replied Bourke. "When the service was over, the constable took Bourke before the Mayor."

"Well," said the mayor, "What have you brought the soldier here for?"

"For playing cards in church."

"Well soldier, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Much sir, I hope."

"Very good. If not I will punish you more than man was ever punished."

"I have been about six weeks on the march. I have neither Bible nor common prayer book. I have nothing but a pack of cards, and I'll satisfy your worship of my intentions," said the soldier. And spreading the cards before the mayor he began with the ace. "When I see the ace, it reminds me there is but one God. When I see the deuce, it reminds me of the Father, and Son. The trey spot reminds me of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. The four spot reminds me of the four Evangelists that preached: Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. When I meet the five, it reminds me of the five wise virgins that trimmed their lamps; there were ten, but five were foolish and were put out. When I see the six, it reminds me that in six days the Lord made Heaven and earth. When I see the seven, it reminds me that on the seventh day he rested from the great work he had created, and he loved it. I look at the eight and it reminds me of the eight righteous persons that were saved when God destroyed the world. Noah and his wife and three sons and their wives. When I see the nine, it reminds me of the lepers that were cleansed by our Saviour; there were nine out of ten who never returned thanks. When I see the ten, it reminds me of the ten commandments which God handed down to Moses on the tablets of stone. When I see the King, it reminds me of the King of Heaven, who is God Almighty. When I see the Queen, it reminds me of the Queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon for she was as wise a woman as he was a man. She brought with her fifty boys and girls, all dressed as boys for King Solomon to tell which were girls. King Solomon sent for water for them to wash, the girls washed to the elbows and the boys to the wrist, so King Solomon told by that token.

"When I count the number of cards in a pack, I find fifty-two, the number of weeks in a year. I find three hundred and sixty-five spots in a pack, as many days as in a year. I find four suits, the number of weeks in a month. I find there are twelve picture cards in a pack, representing the number of months in a year. I count thirteen tricks, same as thirteen weeks in a quarter of a year."

"So you see, a pack of cards serves for a Bible, almanac and common prayer book."

Frosh-Soph Game Provokes Comment

"They're not in hot" was a cry that echoed long and early over the field. It was absolutely no one was suffering from the heat.

The first definite impression of the game was an auditory one. Entering Freshmen had relieved the Pennsylvania Railroad of a number of iron plates and bolts to serve as indicators of their feelings when their lungs had failed. Many did not wait for their lungs to fail, but immediately left the field with noises worthy of a Chinese funeral.

As soon as the crowd had gotten comfortably settled, the arrival of the teams caused it to become uncomfortably unsettled. Like the Greeks at Olympia ready to battle for the honor of their respective cities were the black-and-white soph and those red-and-black frosh, the "soph" being a little more ready.

The cheering was the bright spot of the game, since most of the spectators were too cold to murmur. The cheer leaders probably worked harder than anyone else at the game but received compensation by being able to keep warm. At times it seemed that their colorful uniforms were the point of almost swallowing their opponents.

At opportune times between the plays, outcries ran across the field liberally irritating the games and thereby guarding against another drought.

Urbane watchers questioned the logic of such an active disturbance over an insignificant ball, but on the whole remarkably few such brilliant criticisms were heard.

Between the lines the feminine members engaged in a frenzied orgy of combat like those their Anglo-Sax on farbores engaged a thousand years ago. Attempts were made at domination by the hands, but they failed. A squad of freshmen tried to persuade a gentleman digging on the new athletic field to lend them his horse and wagon, but when they received a negative reply they left instead of leading the equine-drawn vehicle on their shoulders, as the "frosh" of yesterday would have done.

At the beginning of third quarter, rain in the stands was lessened by the increasing number of purple faces and blue noses. Anxiety blanketed the Freshmen's features as they saw their doggedly following go down in historical defeat.

A faintly migrating Whirling Swan pursued the only bird-eye view of the scene. No doubt his regard for the huddling mortals below him was not a high one. And as that foot men toward beside into some quiet pond, this did the Freshmen hope for victory drop.

Football Close Brings Change

A marked change is noticeable, or rather, will be noticeable among the student-at-large of Washington College. The "student-at-large" reference, however, only to football men. The impression one would gain upon reviewing the student body of the college at the end of November would be that a number of likely looking young men had been wasted in physical combat. Since the close of the football season the college has done much toward settling into the position in the "graph of good looks."

Another Big Season For Washington's Active Cagemen

Now that the football season is over, and basketball has been practiced in earnest, it is well to turn our attention to this sport and sport just what our prospects are for the coming season.

Last season was very successful, the Flying Pentagon having triumphed over none of the best teams in the East. Among the chief victories were: Washington 30, Princeton 23; Washington 33, Maryland 32; and Washington 34, Loyola 28.

Although we lost last year one of Washington's most able players, Pat Ginter, we should have even a more successful season this year. First, a string material available this year. Captain Mainly of the following: Fred Johnson, Al Givens, Ed Fitz, Bernick, Gamber, Rainin, Hodgson and Dobkins; all of whom are showing up well in practice. Among the incoming "white hopes" are: Frank Carroll, Ben. Haver, Hays and Elmer Ward. All of whom have played on first class high school teams.

Remembering, apparently, the promising received at the hands of the Flying Pentagon last year, Princeton does not appear on the schedule this year. Perhaps in years to come, such universities will be seeking games with Washington College.

The schedule for the coming season is as follows:
Dec. 5—St. Joseph's
Jan. 9—State Teachers
Jan. 15—Hopkins
Jan. 16—Mt. St. Mary's
Jan. 23—Loyola
Jan. 30—St. Joseph's
Feb. 6—St. Johns
Feb. 13—St. Mary's
Feb. 13—Hopkins
Feb. 16—Swarthmore
Feb. 19—Mt. St. Mary's
Feb. 23—Johns
Feb. 27—Loyola
Mar. 5—W. Maryland

Thanksgiving Day Contests Postponed By Non-appearance of Enough Players

The meager game between the Freshmen and Junior boys, proposed to have been held on Thanksgiving Day, has been postponed because of lack of playing material. The game would have proved to be an interesting one, for many of the Freshmen were players on first class high school teams, and the championship team of the State of Maryland.

The girls' hockey game, which was suggested to parallel the boys' soccer still, was also "given the gate" at the last minute, when insufficient applicants for the teams arrived.

Probably no sport on the campus in recent years has excited more interest than the female contingent than archery. There seems to be a fascination to the hollow-tongued "the 'stout eye' bows, and the third of arrows hitting into red targets.

Susquehanna Wins Cup Presentation Is From Washington Soph Triumph

The brave warriors of Old Washington, still fighting hard, once more have gone down in defeat. This time they were taken across by the mighty Susquehannians.

As usual, the team was outwitted, a condition which frequently decides the fate of a game of football. The score of 20 to 0 readily indicates that the Washingtonians were far from inactive in the loss to last game of the season. Their consistent training grid equipped them to oppose a team more gifted with speed and to give said team a run for its money.

The first half closed with the Roanoke-Riveries 13 points to the good, but this proportion was diminished considerably in the second half.

Scrimmages of good plays were frequently emanated by Joe Dickerson as he turned in his usual good performance.

Bliss and Lord were not lacking in energy and the Cold-Camberland combination certainly offers good material.

A sudden hush fell upon the crowd. The orchestra stopped playing and over the usual melody of laughing and chatting died away. President Hays, the pride of the FRESHMEN, advanced up the floor, greeted by an avalanche of applause. In his hands he carried a silver loving-cup.

He then delivered a few words to the audience, and with true FRESHMAN sportsmanship congratulated the Sophomores on their victory. Gamber stepped forth to receive the cup from the Sophomores, and just another "one of 'the victor goes the spoils'" was observed.

It was a sad, and moment for the Freshmen to see this cup literally taken out of their hands. However great their chagrin, they raised a lusty cheer for the Sophs. (It may be said that there was a conspicuous absence of that species of cheer commonly called the "Break.")

In moments like this the motto distinction of being a Sophomore or a FRESHMAN is almost lost. The hereditary differences are temporarily forgotten. It is something high for the "senior" meeting, except the case deals with not the East and the West, but the West and the "Middle."

Would that that silver cup could have been filled with some choice vintage and that these two classes might have pledged their love for each other.

All too soon are these occasions forgotten, and the Sophomores are again providing occupation for the Vigilance Committee.

Football Eleven Achieves Goal

Having started the season in a winning spirit, the football team decided to win either one way or another. Since they lost the first game it was unanimously decided by all to cast their vote for the negative. This idea originated from the fact that no other team in the country could then compare with our own, which would have two perfect seasons at this one's close. In other words we have lost all but one game, which was a tie, in the last two years.

Quite a few times during the past season many of our beautiful rosters were afraid we might forget ourselves and defeat our rivals. In an emergency of this sort the water boy would be sent in to quiet us down. His motto: voice he would say, "Fumble, fumble to tackle, and drop all passes near you. Don't ever knock a pass down when about to be caught in an opportunity." It was remarkable how our team straightened out after this sage bit of advice. At the times when the stupid opposing ball carrier ran into us with the ball we could always resort to "tackling" tactics and thus win the praise and good will of our coaches.

Now that your funny bone has been tickled sufficiently late as seriously consider the past season in view of the fact that a new coach and system has been installed and many of the stars were injured during the season, Washington College has not fared so badly. It must be admitted that some of the games were loosely played but to counterbalance that we won major victories over some of our strongest rivals, notably, University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University.

The prospect of a good season in the next two years is being predicted by many of the football wise. We will, however, miss the playing of these seniors: Captain Howard Zimm, Oliver Robinson, Albert Baker, and Deacon Carey, who gave many good performances during the past year.

Keeping our faces to the front and our eyes on the future we say "adieu" until next year.

Work On New Field Progressing Rapidly

The operations connected with the construction of the new athletic field are proving very interesting. The first noticeable sign of activity was more than a month ago, when trees were seen to yield career and finally succumb to the force of the tractor pulling them down.

St. Josephs Wins Final Game

Washington suffered defeat at the hands of St. Josephs in their final game of the season last Saturday by the score 20 to 0. As usual, Washington met a team that distinctly outweighed them in this game and although they played a hard, stubborn game, were overpowered. St. Josephs showed his first time and playing his best game of the season, displayed an ability that should prove threatening to next year's focus. Gamber played his usual constant brand of ball, with Dobkins and Dickerson ranking with him. The game was massed by numerous fumbles. Washington's best chance to score was snatched when Johnson, after receiving a pass from Gamber, was roughed up by three opposing players. Given a decent break Washington could undoubtedly have made a very creditable showing, but it has often been found impossible to beat both the opposing team and the referee.

Bard Sings of a Long And Bitter Life

Sing, muses, of that tribe of men who are in the first stages of learning—yes even they who wear the green headgear and are at continual variance and strife with their masters. For though they are greater in numbers and strength than their rulers, even so they are always the conquered and oppressed.

For as long as even Nestor, son of Nereus can remember, the conflict has been exceeding hot between the two sides. The Sophomores hold the Freshmen in continual bondage and servitude, and levy great tribute. They have courts of law in which they try the cases of the wrong-doers. They cause their inferiors to travel great distances—yes, even to the heart of Chestertown in quest of food and drink. And with the tribute money they feast and make merry, and live well at the expense of the Freshman tribe. Even when they win a great battle, they have a dance in honor of the event.

Even so the Freshmen do not submit willingly to the leadership of their superiors. Several times in the course of a year does their bitterness break forth in hot rebellion against the lordly sophomores. Then indeed do they find opportunity to give vent to pent-up dislike. In the matter of weapons they are exceedingly versatile and can fight with anything. History records that they have been known to fight with mud, or a football, or even with signs and posters. The Sophomores retaliate by making raids in the dark of night, armed with wooden or sharpened weapons. First one side wins, then the other, so the fates keep the issue in the balance.

Such are the existing conditions between the two rival factions. Long have they existed, and long will they continue to exist. For only when the subjects overthrow the power of their lords will the oppression and conflict cease.

Darts And Dodges

We wonder if the Utopian celestial will appeal to the apparent geometrical precision of the student's mind by having walks which are the short of distance between two points. If such was the case the burden of the graustetter would be considerably increased.

Perhaps the Lombardy poplars near the heating plant are aware of the proximity of warmth. Compare their defoliation to that of other trees of the same species and you will find it to be considerably less.

When a man forgets, he loses that which was the highest, the most complete, first. It is thus with trees, for their highest leaves, those which required the greatest effort to sprout, fall first when Persephone returns to the realm of Pluto.

We are thinking of writing a treatise on "How Many Miles The Average Freshman Walks Per Day." The "footnote" of the Greeks at Marathon has a modern competitor for activity. Some scientists inform us that in a century or two the physiological appendage called the foot will have become useless, but we believe that these gentlemen attended a college without sophomores.

If we were gifted with a little more courage we would quote the accepted etymology of sophomore. We may note with impunity, however, that the first syllable of the word comes from the Greek term for "wise." The latter part of the word has a much different connotation.

Our position when we criticize things with which we are little in contact is comparable to the words of G. B. S. in reference to Soviet Russia. An American writer replied to his praise of Bolshevism—by saying that "Sovietism is an excellent condition if one is a wealthy playright living in England." We faintly, though not very faintly, recall having various "Shavian" criticisms recorded on our auditory membranes from time to time. Let them expire with the same feeling of willingness that you witness the expiration of this article.

Society Notes

Alpha Kappa

Walt Kargin, '32, spent last week end at his home in Washington, D. C., where he entertained many of his friends with a number of piano selections.

Dick Gamber, '34, chides his popularity with the ladies in due to his perseverance and their sympathies for his numerous black eyes.

The "A. K. K." began showing their gentility toward Oliver Robinson during his recent illness by giving a bon-jourty in his honor. Speeches, songs, and recitations were in the program, which was very entertaining—so they say.

Phi Sigma Phi

Bill Richards recently had the misfortune to suffer a badly lamed elbow while he was enjoying horseback riding, his favorite pastime. We all wish him a timely recovery.

Phi Sigma Tau

Joe Dickinson took a vacation from his labors, and spent a day hunting at his home. He chased the demise of a rabbit and several quail and returned with his old "fighting" smile.

A number of Freshmen were entertained by the Phi Sigma Tau. Ping-pong tournaments were held in connection with many other events.

Gamma Capers

Charles Sykes attended the Washington-St. Joseph game in Philadelphia last Saturday.

Kitty Bishop spent the week end at her home.

Dwight Clarke was called home due to the serious illness of his mother.

"Fritz" Reinhold, recuperating from football injuries, spent the week end with his family in Baltimore.

Miss Ann Brown spent the week end visiting with relatives in Baltimore.

John Lord, Harold Rhoad, and Bill Greenish remained in Philadelphia after the football game and attended the theatre.

Dick Cooper spent the week end in Baltimore as the guest of Miss Jane Miles in Guilford, attending the Poly-C's game and the victory dance at the Belvedere Hotel.

The Y. W. C. A. had, according to all reports, a most delightful time at a social by that organization, in Reid Hall on Sunday evening, Nov. 29th.

A number of students visited at their homes on the week end following Thanksgiving. Elroy Ward was among this number.

Writing Club May

Be Organized Here

A number of enterprising and literary students have considered the formation of a writing club under the direction of Dean Margaret Brewer. A group of students much interested in literary expression has already met in Dean Brewer's suite in Reid Hall to discuss the possibilities of the situation.

The purpose of the organization would be to promote facility in writing and to exchange ideas of a general nature among the members.

Plans for the publication of the best efforts of the members of the writing club have also been discussed. It is possible that this publication may take the form of a quarterly paper.

Much Wild Life Found On Campus

It is indeed surprising to note the abundance of natural life to be observed on an area of approximately fifteen acres. Such an area is contained in the campus of Washington College. An abundance of flora and fauna of interest to a naturalist may be observed at nearly any season of the year on, or immediately adjacent to, the campus of Washington College.

Writing first of the fauna found on the campus, it is noted that bird life is necessarily the most common type of animate object existent there. On a damp, warm night one may, however, detect traces of the odor of a common skunk, or polecat, down on the campus near the heating plant. This well-weaponed animal is probably digging peculiar circular holes in the lower campus on the recent lot across the road. When you see a being so symmetrical as to suggest machine work you will probably be looking at a work of skunk. Out on the athletic field in those reaches where the grass is matted and uncut, tiny shrews, and pine mice, and a host of other species, hold carnival each night. In the sandy edges of the tennis courts, or low posts in the environs of the athletic field. Perhaps the reason that the bluebirds, which must not be mistaken for the Indigo Bunting (which buried their four or five, elliptical eggs therein?)

In the fall and winter one sees huge flocks of stubby, short, black-bellied birds covering the campus by successive pulsing of flight like those described by Homer. These birds are not the scrawled blackbird, but are the European Starling. One who is privileged to examine a male of this species closely will find to his delight that the color is not black, but a multitude of metallic, iridescent hues. The starling frequently destroys the cavity-homes of the bluebirds one may see hunting for holes in a deserted sand pile, who knows but that the bluebirds, emerging from their winter's liberation, have taken for the Indigo Bunting (which buried their four or five, elliptical eggs therein?)

bird, and is blue all over) do not nest in the cavities of the old ivy-covered tree in front of the gymnasium is because a tiny gray owl was once found sitting in the thicker foliage of the vines, by a group of students. This little owl is the screech owl, and undoubtedly has a home in some deep limb-cavern.

The flora of the campus is not as varied as the living objects, but many beautiful trees offer an opportunity for study.

Only a little of the interesting natural life of the campus has been mentioned in this limited space and it is nice to know that one can see around him here many of God's creatures of the outdoors.

"I liked Chesterfield right from the start"

"NO, I don't know a blessed thing about how cigarettes are made. But, of course, I would want the tobacco to be PURE. And then I've heard that the blending is very important. I'd want that to be done just right."

"Then the paper. I don't like paper that you can taste—or smell when it's burning. I'd want that pure too."

"Another thing. I want to smoke whenever I feel like it—without worrying about smoking too many. So I want my cigarettes MILD."

"But the main thing, of course, is TASTE. I don't care for over-sweetened cigarettes. I much prefer those that are just sweet enough."

"Chesterfield seems to satisfy in every one of these ways. That is why I'd rather have a Chesterfield."

SMOKERS tire of too much sweetness in a cigarette, and they don't like rousers. For a steady diet, they want a cigarette like CHESTERFIELD—a mild and mellow smoke, free from any over-sweetness or any harshness or bitterness. That's why more and more smokers every day are changing to CHESTERFIELD.

Good... they've got to be good.

Shakespeare Class Plans To Offer Romeo And Juliet

Elaborate Costumes And Masque Included

"Romeo and Juliet," Shakespeare's immortal drama of love and death, will be presented in William Smith Hall on Friday, January 22nd, by the Shakespeare class of Washington College under the direction of Dr. Gertrude Van Arsdale Ingals. This performance of a Shakespearean play will mark the first within a period of at least five years. Work has been progressing on the play since the first week of December under the direction of Dr. Ingals.

The settings and the furnishings of the stage as well as the elaborate costumes are all in the Elizabethan tradition. They have been secured from A. T. Jones & Sons, of Baltimore, Md.

An attraction of the first act is a square dance, a minuet, in which the dancers have been trained by Miss Doris Bell, Instructor of Physical Education for Women at Washington College. The dance takes place during the party scene at the Capulet household.

This play has been selected by the class because it is one of the easiest and simplest, as well as one of the most popular, of Shakespearean dramas.

The cast is as follows:
Prologue—Miss Mildred Covey, Excalus, Prince of Verona—Mr. William Richards.

Montague, a Nobleman of Verona—Mr. J. B. Williams.

Capulet, a Nobleman of Verona, at variance with Montague—Mr. J. Warren Carey.

Washington Players Stage Adam And Eva

The Washington College Players, under the direction of Professor John D. Makosky, presented "Adam and Eva," a three-act comedy by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, on Friday evening, January 15th, in William Smith Hall.

The play begins when Mr. King played by Robert Furman, discovers that the family is attempting to get rid of him for a few moments. He starts them by going off on his own, accord and by leaving as their temporary father his business manager, Adam Smith, played by Lindley Cook. He becomes disgusted with the family and in an attempt to cure them of their extravagance tells them their money is entirely gone.

The whole family finally determine to succeed by their own work and adventure into farming, and other jobs. Mr. King returns to find them successful and happy.

Memorial Service For Dr. E. L. Fox

On Thursday, Jan. 14, a memorial service was held in William Smith Hall in memory of Dr. Errol L. Fox, late department head of Chemistry, who died in Munich, Germany, on July 17, 1931.

Dr. Titowich made the opening remarks, followed by Prof. Makosky who delivered a short address on "Dr. Fox as a Faculty Member."

Oliver Robinson, Albert Baker and William Dannenberg, of the student body; Tom Kibler, of the American Legion; W. R. Huey, of the Masonic Lodge and Rev. J. H. Wright, of the M. E. Church, paid tributes to the various works of the deceased faculty member.

Washington Five Beaten, 32-22 By Hopkins' Quintet

D. Kelly Leads Way For Victors

Through the courtesy of "The Washington Elm" the score of the Washington-Mt. St. Mary's game will be announced at the usual Saturday evening "Irish."

(Special To The Elm)

BALTIMORE—Hopkins, or rather young Don Kelly, defeated Washington College at basketball in the Loyola gymnasium here last night by a score of 32 to 22 and administered the worst licking that a Washington cage team has taken from a State team since the end of the World War. By tallying 21 of his team's total this name Kelly, the younger half of a brotheract, featured by Hopkins, established himself as one of the Free State's leading court stars.

Washington was never in the running last night. Putting up a sorry exhibition, lacking light and dash, they led for less than one minute at the start of the contest when Huey's foul goal was the opening score of the game. Hopkins soon went into the lead when Calk Kelly sank a two-point shot, and then on Washington's view was always from the hind side.

The Washington five, or thirteen, for Tom Kibler used that many players in an attempt to find a combination that the Board of Health wouldn't rule a public nuisance, put on its poorest exhibition of the year when it needed its best. Hopkins, however, showed nothing worthy of praise. Ward played well and hard.

The Shoremen moved on to Emmitsburg today for a game with Mt. St. Mary's tonight. And unless they show a marked improvement, no change there will be more sweeping, additional waiting and an over-abundance of gnashing teeth in the Washington camp again tonight.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

There is a certain view prevalent, although not widely discussed, among the student body that, unlike so many views held in common by the general group of people, is correct. It is that there are too many extra-curricular activities at Washington for the size of the college.

By using THE 1931 PEGASUS as our authority and by supplying the rest from our own knowledge we have estimated that there are approximately some thirty-six organizations on the list. Now some of these organizations are necessarily limited to either men or women and some, such as fraternities and sororities, imply that one can belong to only one. However, the wholesale enrollment of the literary societies amply counterbalance this.

Whether little attempt to estimate the number of hours spent on these activities in an average week produced the very approximate figure of fifty hours.

Now whether these figures mean anything or not it is apparent to any student with the slightest bit of intelligence that our extra-curricular activities have become burdensome and, in some cases, both futile and senseless. Every student has the reasons at his finger tips. There are too few that want to participate and not many more that are capable. With this comes the element of time. This one activity too touches upon the time and talent of the other and the unpleasant result is that very few are worth the name.

We haven't the tenacity to suggest what organizations should be doomed to oblivion or, at least, consolidation, for the wrath of the disciples of the various groups would be, we are afraid, too much for us. Such a decision should come from some such deliberative body as the Dean's Cabinet (where it has already been discussed) or The Student Council. The action should come from the student body.

We only hope that this will serve as an incentive and that because of this we will release ourselves from the great American craze for organization; to say nothing of the great small college fallacy—imitation of the university.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The present trend toward intramural sports which has been shown about the campus here by the organization of dormitory and fraternity basketball teams, and by additions to the athletic field is one that is headed in the right direction.

Besides the very obvious benefits of a more rational athletic program implying, as it does, a less one-sided student body, it brings a problem peculiar to Washington College to a more logical solution. There is a doubt even in the most faithful of readers' minds that this college could ever compete on an even basis with colleges and universities of a larger size. In basketball, we might, but the refusal of games is an obstacle that we would have to face. If we should ever go so low as to subsidize athletes in any way these larger schools, with their wealthier alumni and their greater resources, would simply trounce us at that game as easily as they have trounced us on the gridiron.

So instead of following complacently in the somewhat contaminated footsteps of those institutions that do take their intercollegiate athletics seriously, we should rather pattern ourselves after the more advanced universities that are now devoting more money and time for the development of athletics for the common herd.

This, as we have intimated, is what we are doing. Our coaches and administrators should certainly be complimented and loyally supported.

"IMPERIAL PALACE"

Arnold Bennett

Arnold Bennett's last book "Imperial Palace" adds very little, if anything to our literature. It is a story of a life—very human life, with all the humor, pathos and idiosyncrasies of the average individual. The plot is very trivial—a charming girl attracts the attention of the hotel director. The entire hotel, with all the humor, pathos and idiosyncrasies of the average individual, is supposed to be under the director in suspense, so to whom the director will marry. In the end, however, our hero marries the housekeeper. The one redeeming quality of the book is Bennett's artistic portrayal of the hotel. He gives it a breath of life, a certain vitality that clearly defines the "Imperial Palace" as a personality. It is a huge machine, catering to the fancies of the public, sucking in the lives of its employees, or it is a separate planet, with its own government, industries, and politics. The book is intensely English and Bennett does not hesitate to offend foreigners. To him America is a land where law is disregarded entirely, and Italy a country of insurance.

The book offers no beautiful passages, no stimulating thoughts, on the whole it is decidedly insignificant. It is well perceived that Bennett once stated, in an autobiographical account, that he never expected his books to be remembered.

Beer Is Innocent, Healthful

Yandell Henderson, professor of physiology at Yale, said, in pleading for the restoration of 4 per cent beer before the Senate Manufacturers Committee, "Beer is a normal, healthy outlet for natural energy. There's nothing more innocent, nothing more healthful for students than to sit down of an evening to sing songs and drink beer."

Classes are dismissed, we learn from "The Farthest North College," Alaska School of Mines, when a fire breaks out near the college. How would that be in New York?

The "Holly Leaf" a sharp little paper from Salisbury, Md., State Normal School (girls) contains two interesting columns: "Cupid Pays a Visit," and "Cupid Calls Again," which list in a formal way recent marriages of graduates of the school.

In his weekly column, WISE-CRACKER, the "cracker" at St. Johns College says: "Talking about hang-overs, Wisecracker took a drink of water this morning and it shopped him in the face like the long end of a rake handle. Did you ever hear of a potent rank handle? Yes indeed, we say, and once more Amnapolis is so far, not the only place where they are found."

George Washington University's Inter-Fraternity Council has laid plans for a Dollar Dance.

Congratulations from the ELM Temple University News, on the 20th anniversary of your paper.

University of Maryland—will have two weeks set aside for the mid-semester examinations, rather than the customary one week period.

Did you know that: Football was originated by the Greeks in Sparta in 500. B. C.—Temple University News.

The Inter-Fraternity Council at the U. of Md., recently completed plans for three annual social events: The Inter-Fraternity Ball, the Banquet, and the Tea Dance. A mighty brilliant idea we should think, since it is bound to promote a better feeling between the several fraternities, not to speak of the diminished cost per person, which is all important.

SLIPPERY ELM

In bathing for old Slippery Elm this week we feel that there is very little to offer in the way of news this year for this bill before the exam storm has seemed to soothe over the campus problems.

With the basketball team touring in wins, the Dramatic club producing and the seniors beginning to get whizzed over the search for jobs this year seem to be taking its course in about the same manner as the rest with the exception that George—with a thoughtfulness of his that we are thankful for—gave those games of his exactly five hundred and fifty years ago. Darned sporting, what?

Just to steal a bit from our next door neighbor, Intercollegiate, we quote:

"Mr. Robert Thomas, instructor in saxophone, clarinet and violin, tells us that the saxophone quartet has begun practice. We expect much from this organization."

That's not news that's a warning!

To use McIntyre's formula—Seen while strolling—The warm weather has brought the couples out of Reid Hall once again. Bill Smith's face always looks washed—as though ready for school—after the rains. We don't mean the picture for—scraps of all scribbles—the old gentleman's nose always did look suspiciously red to us; but the building which with its windows and door ways seems like a complacent face. And did you ever know how and why the basketball marks got on the flag pole? And who put them there? And incidentally we are looking forward to the Mr. St. Mary's game for a couple of reasons. And then we are the last class to have our numerals on the gateway. What one of the white benches on the Reid Hall lawn occupied—this weather again and here we are at the end of our space!

Flying Pentagon Meets Mt. St. Marys

Close Game Expected To Be Played

The Flying Pentagon meets Mt. St. Mary's tonight at Emmitsburg in its second state game of the season and the first game of a home and home series between the Jesuits and the local eagles. This game will be of vital importance to the Flying Pentagon as a single loss to a state team may mean the difference between winning or failing to win the State championship which Coach Kibler's pupils dropped last year by a narrow margin after a five year's loss of the coveted title.

This game should be rated practically a toss up as the Mounts have a powerful quint, lead by Captain Joe Lynch, one of the most feared cagers in the state. The results always have a particularly strong defensive team and the Washington dribblers will need all their skill if they wish to bombard the Mount basket with any degree of success. Last year Mt. St. Mary's held the Flying Pentagon to its lowest score of the season.

However, those who have observed Coach Kibler's pupils during the last week expect the Flying Pentagon to turn in a victory. With Grissitt, Proudfoot and Huey back in shape to play, Washington will have its full strength on hand and this means that their hosts will be set to play some real basketball.

Coach Kibler has been sending members of the Flying Pentagon through rather stiff workouts for the past week and has stressed a passing, cutting style of play, which aims to control the ball until a close in shot at the basket is obtained.

Raymond Wins Match

RIDER COLLEGE BOWS IN CLOSE GAME

Fitzgerald Leads Pentagon Attack

Washington College won its second straight game of the current season when it earned a close verdict over Rider College, of Trenton, N. J., Thursday night, December 16, at the local gymnasium. The game was one of many thrills, and only a late rally in the second half won for the Riders.

The Rider marksmen opened with a rush, dazzled the Washington College dribblers with accurate passing and fine floor work, and stepped away to an 11 to 6 lead. Washington never was ahead in the first half, but Fitzgerald's goal as the half ended brought the count to 11 all.

The second half was a battle of point for point. Neither team gained more than a two point lead until the game was nearly ended. At this time, Proudfoot and Fitzgerald, who was the leading scorer, tallied double deckers and Carozza made good a penalty shot to give the Flying Pentagon a five-point lead. A third quarter shot by Bass of the visitors, however, ended the game with Washington the victors by 23 to 24.

ST. JOSEPH'S QUINTET DEFEATS WASHINGTON

St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia gave the Flying Pentagon its first defeat of the season in a thrilling game which finally ended 27 to 27 in favor of the Philadelphia sharp shooters. Osborne won the big factor in bringing victory to his team. The Washingtonians lost the game through their inability to shoot fouls with even moderate success. Captain Robinson started for the Flying Pentagon, both defensively and offensively.

Sports Notes

By Philip J. Wingate

The 1932 Edition of the Flying Pentagon is better supplied with reserve material than any team in the state with the possible exception of Maryland. Coach Kibler has at least seven men of variety caliber—players who are capable of stepping high in the fastest company. This situation has two advantages; it will cause the local eagles to put forth their best efforts all times if they wish to gain or retain a position, and it will prevent unfortunate occurrences such as last year's game with Hopkins, when the Flying Pentagon was winged and left without high grade reserves.

With Otis Robinson captaining the present smooth passing, and cutting aggregation of cagers, the Flying Pentagon should be every bit as good as it has been in former years. Robinson is the clearest guard in the state besides being a steady and accurate shooter, who can be depended on for his share of the goals.

Despite the fact that he is a little too short to be a great jumping center, Eddie Fitzgerald adds a real star at the center post. Fitz is a fast, clever passer who keeps the ball in motion.

Proudfoot—This fellow opens up the court for cut shots. He is a continual hustler and a fine outside shot.

However, the real ace of the Flying Pentagon, when he is ready to go, is not mentioned by injuries or illness in Del Proudfoot. Proudfoot is one of the most under-the-basket shots in this state or any other state. When Del ducks for the basket, the only way to stop him is to foul him. Besides this, Proudfoot is a very cool player who can see plays before most cagers can, and his passing game is such that he works well with any type of player. By the end of the season, Del should be the most dangerous and feared basketballer in the state.

Just to fill out space the following guesses are made:

WASHINGTON TO BEAT MT. ST. MARYS.

Loyals to beat Western Maryland. Navy to beat Duke.

Maryland to beat V. M. I. St. Johns to beat Gallaudet.

WASHINGTON TO BEAT LOYOLA at Chestertown.

GEORGE EKAITIS STARTS BOXING CLASS AT W. C.

The first boxing class at Washington College began its existence when George Ekaitis, who was intercollegiate light-heavy weight champion during his senior year at Western Maryland, gave the first lesson in the local gymnasium.

The small crowd that appeared for the first lesson in the many art has been increased during the following session. It is hoped that the sport will be permanently added to the sport curriculum of the college.

COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHY BOWS IN OPENING GAME

Huey Scores First Point Of Season

Washington College's latest edition of the famous Flying Pentagon spread its wings for the first time this season and sailed smoothly to a victory over Osteopathy by a count of 31 to 16. The Osteopaths brought down a fair combination of cagers from Philadelphia, but were plainly outclassed. From the opening tip off to the final gun, there was never any doubt as to the outcome of the game.

Harry Huey, smooth working guard, carried the distinction of scoring the first points for the 1931-32 Flying Pentagon when he came out of the bucket fast, early in the game, and cut the odds with a beautiful back lay.

In an effort to give experience to his substitutes, Coach Kibler used every man on his squad during at least a part of the game.

Washington Beats State Teachers

Pennsylvanians Bring Down Clever Quint

By only a three point margin Washington College defeated the State Teachers' College of West Chester, Pa., Saturday, January 9th, in the college gymnasium. When the final point was scored the score stood 35 to 32 in favor of Tom Kibler's court men.

The visitors' opened fast and scored five points before the home's attack got under way. The teachers hung on to a bare lead throughout the half until Fitzgerald, center for the locals, tossed in a double decker that placed the score 18 to 15 in favor of Washington as the half ended.

Opening the second half the Flying Pentagon had a decided advantage, each player making successful shots. The visitors added 12 points to their score. A spirited rally in the final minutes by the teachers failed to overcome the Shore Quint's lead.

In the preliminary game the State Teachers' Junior Varsity trimmed the Freshies by a score of 53 to 14.

Dr. Murphy Not Heard From Lately

Former Professor At Washington In China

Some concern is felt here over the lack of communication with Dr. Helen E. Murphy, formerly head of the Biology Department of Washington College.

In the latter part of last June Dr. Murphy departed for the Pacific Coast where she was to embark for China, to occupy the chair of Embryology in Yung Nan University. At that time her plan was to reach the Orient by means of Hawaii and the Philippines.

Friends of Dr. Murphy in Chesterton received communication from her when she was in Manila. A member of the Faculty of the college who was Dr. Murphy's closest friend during her stay here heard from her the latter part of August from Honolulu. Finally, Dr. Murphy's family in New York received a cablegram of her arrival in China but at least until a short time ago it is definitely known that they have received no further word. Unsettled conditions in China have caused Dr. Murphy's friends to become alarmed.

Dr. Murphy was one of the most popular professors in the record of the college.

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth offered the first of a series of informal talks on Journalism to a small group of students in William Smith Hall on Friday evening, January 8th.

Those talks are given to create an interest in Journalism, to improve the content and make-up of THE ELM and to make this publication a source of more vital interest to the student body.

Dr. Titsworth will speak on each issue of THE ELM. The dates have not as yet been arranged.

AS I LIKE IT

The sudden writer's cramp that has struck both Shippery Elm and the "I" in "As I Like It" has made, once more, the necessity for time out and a substitution.

The pledge season is over and the aurons that hung over almost any freshman in sound mind has suddenly disappeared.

The fact that soap is selling at the reduced price in the book store is either a sign of the depression or a crusade by the administration.

Which reminds us of the old adage of—people that live in glass houses shouldn't take baths in the daytime.

Which crack should be credited to Winchell (we know he'd be sore if we didn't) via Harry Russell.

The College Adjustment course is placed the last day of the examination schedule which is what we would call "check and double check."

But we're not trying to sell toothpaste although we do wish our roommate would buy some.

Outside a bottle just broke. but since there was only laughter we know "God" in his Heaven all's right with the world."

And we think that nobody knows—that Uncle Horace had a good crack at the end of "Adam and Eve" which was lost to the audience by a hasty curtain; that "Maid In Waiting by Galsworthy has gone where all good looks go; the publicity department is working day and night to get you little boys' and girls' names in your local blabber; that it is not compulsory to wear colonial dress to the Jone Ball; that a depressed, and supposedly required school hour, is not necessary; that there is a senior who refuses to give his middle name to anyone; and that one freshman has a relative name of Ambrosio; that it is a hell of a lot of work to fill out this column!

WASHINGTON TO MEET JOHNS HOPKINS HERE

Kibbies Hope To Avenge Defeat

The Flying Pentagon, will meet Johns Hopkins University's basketball quint in the local gymnasium to-night in an effort to win a position of the prestige that it has lost because of defeats suffered at the hands of state opponents this season. The Kibberites will be red-hot and ready to go to work with a will to-night because the sting of the defeat which Hopkins' Blue Jays administered to them earlier in the season still forms a very sore spot. Since then the Flying Pentagon has turned in victories over Loyola and St. John's for state wins. It will be remembered that Loyola dropped a one point decision to the Blue Jays while St. John's downed them later by a single margin.

The locals have shown that they have the ability to sink the Hopkins combination if they play the brand of basketball they are capable of, and with every possible incentive to win urging them on and a partisan crowd behind them, Washington fans expect the Flying Pentagon to play even better basketball than it did in the second half of the St. John's game. The spiking of Don Kelly's guns will be the biggest problem facing the Washingtonians, as the entire Hopkins' attack centers around this scoring end who uses a pistol shot from anywhere around the foul circle with telling effect. It was Kelly who almost single handedly defeated the Flying Pentagon in Baltimore.

The probable lineups are as follows:

Dr. Esther Dole Talks To Mt. Vernon Society

The feature of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society program Wednesday, February 10th, was an account of her recent trip to Egypt by Dr. Dole.

Plans are being made for the annual Mt. Vernon bazaar which will start this Saturday, March 12th, immediately after the Alumni game. President Branford has appointed the following committees to make arrangements for the banquet.

Program Committee: Covey, Titus were chairman.

Menu and Decoration Committee: Coucell, Noble, Atwater, Jewell, Richards, Clark.

Ticket Committee: Pippin, Chapman, Peters, Bailey, Rogers.

Plans Made To Publish Literary Magazine Here

At the bi-weekly meeting of the Writers Club of Washington College, held in Dean Brewer's study in Reid Hall at 8 P. M. on Wednesday, January 20th, further plans were suggested for the publication of a literary magazine, and papers were read by a number of the members.

FROSH DISPUTES REIGN OF VIGILANCE BOARD REFUSES TO CARRY OUT SOPHOMORES' SENTENCE

The authority of the Vigilance Committee was questioned last Tuesday night at the meeting held in Room 20 of William Smith Hall when one freshman brought before the tribunal refused to carry out the penalty of wearing a girl's dress for one week, for the offences of "failure to salute an upper classman, failure to obey a reasonable request, and failure to remain in the freshman section of the cafeteria." Because of the refusal the case was placed in the hands of Student Council.

The other twelve cases brought before this deliberative body were disposed with summarily by prescribing the following penalties: shining shoes, making beds, (in Middle Hall) walking backwards, wearing pants out at the knees, getting names from the tombstones in the local graveyard, and carrying unlighted corn cob pipes in the mouths. All penalties with the exception of the fifth one were to last for the period of one week.

The Vigilance Committee is composed of one Sophomore member from each fraternity, and one from each floor of Middle Hall.

Celebrate Death Of Johann W. Goethe

Dr. P. E. Titworth Gives Illustrated Talk

The centenary of the death of Johann Wolfgang Goethe, Germany's greatest writer, was celebrated at Washington College recently by a speech by Dr. Paul E. Titworth in William Smith Hall.

The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, which were provided through the courtesy of the German Tourist Information office in New York City.

The lecture was attended by the students of the German department and others.

Shakespearean Class Stages "Romeo And Juliet"

Dr. Gertrude Ingalls Directed Production

Offering Washington College its first Shakespearean drama for many years, the Shakespeare class of Washington College under the direction of Dr. Gertrude Van Ardelle Ingalls staged the tragedy of "Romeo and Juliet" in William Smith Hall the evening of January 12nd.

The novelty of a minut in the first act, the elaborate Elizabethan costumes furnished by A. T. Jones and Sons of Baltimore, and the very credible performance of the college players made the presentation interesting. Juliet as portrayed by Emily Jewell, the characterization of the Nurse by Alice Dole, and the parts of the Jolly Mercutio and the hot tempered Capulet as taken by Albert Dowling and Warren Carey were all worthy of especial praise.

The orchestra was under the direction of Dr. Fred G. Livingood, Miss Doris T. Bell trained the cast in the minut.

WILL HALT "BOOING"

J. Thomas Kibler

Coach "Tom" Kibler stated here today that every effort would be made to put an end to the booing of officials and players during the games in the college gymnasium. The affair was brought to a crisis when Paul Menton, referee of the St. John's-Washington game, awarded a second shot to a visiting player because of the conduct of the crowd.

PRESIDENT TITWORTH VISITS AMONG ALUMNI

On his recent itinerary which extended from Cincinnati, Ohio, to Danbury, Connecticut, Dr. Titworth attended a dual meeting of the Liberal Arts College movement and the Association of American Colleges at the former city, made several personal contacts with Washington College alumni in various eastern cities, and with William H. Danneberg visited Stony Brook Preparatory School, Stony Brook, Long Island, in the interest of the new-student campaign.

At Cincinnati Dr. Titworth entertained five Washington College alumni and the husband of one of the alumni at dinner. The guests were: Joseph Alexander, '30, manager of the R. K. O. Family Theatre; William T. Hastings, '29, and William C. Lody, '30, manager and assistant manager respectively of the R. K. O. Lyric Theatre; Mrs. Nellie Saunders Bennett, '29, and husband, who is a chemist and graduate of the University of Maryland; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Harry Shriver, '29. Mr. Shriver is manager of the R. K. O. Capitol Theatre.

Dr. Titworth attended a benefit card party given by the Washington Chapter of the Alumni Association at Washington, D. C., on Saturday, January 23rd. The proceeds of this social function will be used to establish a loan fund for students attending Washington College. Roger J. Boarda, '24, of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce was chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. ## LYDA LEE TALL SPEAKS TO STUDENT ASSEMBLY

DISCUSSES PERSONAL AND EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS

"Too much to do, not enough time to do it" was the creed that Miss Lyda Lee Tall, principal of the Towson Normal School, Towson, Md., advised the students at the Thursday assembly on February 11 to adopt.

Miss Tall gave a brief resume of the testing program at the Towson Normal School showing its results and the problems of education it reveals. She explained how, with the aid of the statistics gathered, some of these problems are settled and some cases of individual misadjustment are solved.

That education might seriously question itself as to its efficiency in selection of students, and the preparation of courses of study, was firmly stressed by the speaker. The results of the Pennsylvania inquiry which showed that the improvement in vocabulary and general knowledge was slight during the four years of college study was quoted as evidence.

"I have only one fault to find with younger generation," said Miss Tall. "They feel that the world owes them a living."

"I firmly believe that they are as morally correct as their grandfathers and grandmothers."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

That The Student Government of Washington College which was once an active force in student life is now not much more than an empty honor for the leaders of our college is a fact that any observer of student life here with honesty deny.

We realize that we are stepping into an extremely hot argument when we venture on this, for the opinions held on the subject are many. The warmth with which they are defended is by no means small. The faculty feels that the Council has not shown itself completely capable of handling many of the cases that come up; some students believe that the Faculty Discipline Committee overreaches upon the domains of the Student Council; others state that that body is just simply inefficient. In the midst of all this stands the poor Council wondering in what incidents it should act and how. It passes its time by deciding the weighty question of activity pins for all organizations.

Now we have no case against the members of that body themselves. We honestly believe that they are the leaders of their respective classes, and that they themselves are capable of more meaningful work. The reasons for the lack of confidence that is now so plainly present on the campus and even in the council itself is found outside the room in which the body meets. They are two: the bounds of their jurisdiction are not clearly enough defined; and the clause of the Member Pledge stating that a student must report a violation of the Honor Code to the Student Council is not upheld by the students. We might add as an after thought that we have our doubts as to whether any part of the Membership or Honor Pledges are upheld by enough of the student body to make them practical.

The fact that was held in 1929 is certainly not the way to remedy these very apparent defects. A meeting of committees from both the Student Council and the Faculty Discipline Committee should be held wherein a few feasible amendments to the constitution could be drawn up. These could then be submitted to the student body for voting as is provided for in the constitution. The faculty would then certainly give them the necessary approval.

If we, as students, want an organization with vitality some such action must be asked for. In no sense would this be in a spirit of antagonism towards the administration. If it is decided that the Student Council shall be a body devoted to passively receiving the "huck" and deciding the date of the Sophomore-Freshman football game and other such vital affairs, we would then know how to rate it. It would no longer be a sham or a pretense. If it was decided to give it more power, we would again know where to rate it; it would become a power in molding student opinion and in carrying out its other duties. With this would appear social sense necessary among the students to carry out the Membership Pledge to its last clause.

STUDENTS REVOLT

At last the students have revolted! A very minor revolt it is true, but still a revolt. This natural and supposedly ever-occurring youthful activity has at last been found on our campus. Unfortunately we have to record it for its eternally the stimulus that first brought about this response was felt upon the bellies and not the brains of our fellow knowledge seekers.

It is very sad that with all the false and unjust things presented by this unheeding world we should choose such a cause to fight for. Not long ago in Spain the university men fought and were wounded for a new republic. In Russia thousands of them are dying to the coal mines for their cause. Throughout the world more thousands of them are armed for the almost lost cause of peace. And it takes the reactions of our stomachs to stir us up! It is very sad.

Seniors at the University of Baltimore, according to "Balto" will have to be contented with ordinary paper diplomas this year rather than the customary sheepskin. Something else to credit to the depression, eh?

Received: a new exchange! "The Purple and Gold" from West Chester State Teachers College. Glad to have this fine paper on the list.

Recently at the American University the Student Council did two highly meritorious acts: first, to change a name of a course and second, to accomplish the real purpose for which a student council is organized; the upholding of student interests. The account is reprinted below. Read it yourself.

"Considering the matter of the proposed compulsory 'Bible' course for new students, the Council was of the opinion that the new course is not objectionable since it is to be studied from a historical and literary point of view rather than from a sectarian attitude. It was thought, however, that another name should be substituted for the present title of the course, 'Freshman Bible.'"

It was voted to have a committee appointed to consider the administration of athletics and make recommendations for changes. Mr. F. is chairman of the committee.

A committee was appointed to investigate prices of food in the Dining Room. The Council felt that board fees should be lessened in keeping with the general lowering of costs of food."

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

WITH the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an incompletely operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

SLIPPERY ELM

The campus had assumed a state of ebullience during the past two weeks, abating, no doubt, the stormy exam period. However, the fury has begun again, due to the sudden outburst of marks which caused no little anxiety among the students.

Our attention is called to the adverse sport exhibited during the recent basketball games at Washington College. Boasting is an indication of poor sportsmanship, and entirely unnecessary among college students. The practice has caused some unfavorable comments that do not add to the reputation of the college.

Eli Culbertson has acquired many followers among our students, for the contract system has become quite a fad, (ask the frats, they know). Up to the wee hours of the morning the addicts may be observed, intently engaged in the pleasant diversion. We are glad to note the mental development accompanying the contract wave, and sincerely hope it leads to no tragic ending.

In starting the inter-mural basketball games, Washington College has done a laudable thing. For such a series of games fosters cooperation that is invaluable to any college. Again, it offers competition among the students, and in this way national ability is developed.

During the recent spell a fearsome weather the campus has been undergoing a rejuvenation. Dandelions have begun to sprout, reminding us that winter is almost over (ever, hasn't it begun?). Lacrosse nets are also in evidence winding around the elm. The incessant chattering of some new arrivals, has been noted, particularly the starlings and English sparrows, who have favored us with their presence, as harbingers of spring. With spring in the air Red Head and "the BHT" have been in constant communication.

Dr. Murphy, Former Biology Head, Writes Of Life In China

Gives Account Of Chinese Luncheon She Attended

By Janet Atwater

News of Dr. Helen Murphy, former head of the biology department at Washington College, now at Ling Nan University in Canton, China, was received by Miss Snodgrass on Jan. 20th, by a letter from the former's sister, Miss E. Murphy. Dr. Murphy's family for a while had been quite worried because they had received no word from her. On Nov. 15, a three months silence was broken by a brief cablegram: "Fine," which, although very unsatisfactory, at least meant she was alive. The day after Thanksgiving the first letter arrived, in which she explained that she had been putting her letters in the Nationalist Government mail box, and only quite accidentally discovered that the Cantonese Government did not collect mail from it. At that date nothing more had been heard from her, except a cable just before Christmas saying: "Season's Greetings! Better Canton tonight." Since several days before, a message

"Vacations For Women" Is Topic For Discussion

The second of the series of discussion groups being sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association was conducted by a committee of Freshmen on Sunday evening, February 7th.

The topic for discussion was "Vacations for Women." The program, being well arranged and prepared, proved to be one of the most interesting and profitable of the programs conducted thus far. There was a marked increase in attendance over the former meetings.

The Freshmen in charge of the group were: Ruth Barnett, Helene Serran and Evelyn Roe.

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth Gives Address On Journalism

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth gave the second of a series of talks on journalism in room 11 of William Smith Hall on the evening of Wednesday, February 10 at 6:30.

ALAN T. GOLDSBOROUGH PRESENTS TWO BILLS

On Feb. 2, Alan T. Goldsborough, member of the class of '39, and a Congressman of Maryland introduced two bills, one "To equalize tariff duties by compensating for depreciation in foreign currencies," and the other "To amend the Anti-dumping Act of 1921."

from the Trustees office, had come saying she was in good health, the "better" was rather puzzling, and also the fact that a trip to Canton should be important enough to cable about at $8 a word.

She finds China even more interesting than she had anticipated. Apparently there is a good deal of social life, judging from the number of teas and dinners, at which she had been entertained. Her account of one particular luncheon was amusing.

A large party—30 Americans and Chinese—were taken to the top story of a building in an old section of Canton, arriving at 12:30 o'clock. They made themselves comfortable on hackles chairs and were served tea, peanuts, and squash seeds for several hours while they talked continuously. Then at 3 o'clock the real feast began, and since it consisted of twenty two courses, Dr. Murphy wished she had "gone easy" on the tea. Among the dishes mentioned were: shark fin soup, bird's nest soup, pickled eggs, preserved eggs, (ancient and dried) snake steak, roast duck, lima beans,—"and other things too numerous to mention." They finished at six o'clock and left immediately since it is polite to leave as soon as one finishes.

So far she had not learned much of the language. Meaning depends on voice inflection and she found the singing chant a little difficult. She did, however, write her name on the envelope in Chinese characters.

Dr. Murphy is living with Miss Gilroy, with whom she went across, and Miss Gil, of the Home Economics staff. They had a house-maid, a laundress, and a cook, and were getting along famously in their establishment, according to that latest bulletin. Dr. Murphy seemed to be having a great time and was thoroughly enjoying the adventure.

Maryland Wins Over Washington

Southern Conference Champs Too Good For Locals

Washington College's Flying Pentagon bowed to University of Maryland's championship team to the tune of a 36 to 16 score Wednesday night, February 10th, in the new Ritchie gymnasium at College Park. The brilliant Terrapin quintet had the edge over Washington's eagles throughout the contest and although a game was never closely contested, the score indicates, after the first few minutes the Kilbrites never seriously threatened.

Washington gained possession of the ball at the opening tip off and Johnson and Capt. Robinson worked themselves free for art shots in the corner and around the foul circle, in quick succession, but each failed to sink his shot, although both shot struck the basket and rattled precariously away the rim. Had the locals succeeded in caging several of these shots early in the game, it would have probably turned the game into a slug and back and forth action condition would have greatly aided the confidence of the Kilbrites.

As usual Capt. Robinson played a brilliant defensive game and held Maryland's eleven forward, Rooks, to two field goals. Frankie Carozza easily played the best game on the attack for the locals and was one of the outstanding players on the floor.

The Terps had one advantage over the Flying Pentagon that was not due to superior basketball ability. This advantage lay in the fact that Maryland's eagles were familiar with the playing floor in the big Ritchie gymnasium, while the Kilbrites have been used to playing on a smaller court and one which does not lay as much in the open, away from the stands, as does the court of the Old Lines.

Sports Notions

By Philip J. Wingate

The Flying Pentagon meets Hopkins tonight and the major problem for the locals will be the stopping of Don Kelly, ace of the Blue Jay quintet. If Coach Kilmer succeeds in finding a man who can do this, the Washingtonians should have little trouble in averaging the one sided defeat which they received at the hands of the Hopkins' quintet in Baltimore earlier in the season. The local eagles will need to play the type of fast, aggressive basketball that they turned loose on St. John's in the second half of last Saturday's game, in order to be most effective against their Baltimore rivals. George Darley's Hopkins cage exponents eat up a slow moving team and when attacking their opponents goot, use a style of play that is hard to guard. Particularly in this true of Kelly who uses the basket shot considerably and shoots from over his head.

The service given for the Hopkins, Mt. St. Mary's, and Maryland games by THE ELM will be continued for every "away" game that the college athletes participate in.

Loyola Falls Before Kiberites

Robinson, Proudfoot, And Huey Star

The Flying Pentagon struck its real pace for the first time this season against a state opponent, and defeated its old rival, Loyola, by a comfortable margin of 10 points, and thereby won its first state game. The game was played January 22nd, and a capacity crowd filed into the local gymnasium to watch Coach Kibler's pupils thoroughly trounce the Greyhounds who had just a few days before won the University of Maryland Southern Conference quilt game to a one point defeat. The game was featured by the brilliant playing of Del Proudfoot, Coach Robinson, and Harry Huey. Oldie Robinson camped over Vince Carlin, one of the jealously, and by a brilliant exhibition of guarding held him to a single field goal, which Carlin rang up on a long shot from the center of the floor.

On the attack the Kiberites played a careful game, passing in and out through the Loyola zone defense until a break came that resulted in a shot for the basket. This attack centered around Huey, in the bucket, and Proudfoot over in one corner of the court. Harry Huey, playing a hanging ball game throughout the contest and was higher scorer for the team. However, it was the brilliant Proudfoot with his uncanny shots under and around the basket that completely wrecked the Loyola zone defense and scattered the fragments about the court. This tall, supple forward stationed himself just inside the first line of the Greyhound defense and worked himself free for a shot by one of the most marvelous exhibitions of weaving and ducking ever seen on a state court or else scored in the defense and made a shot for one of his team-mates. The Baltimoreans were completely at loss as to how they might solve the problem of keeping Proudfoot from caging double-doubles until he went out of the game due to a knee injury, with about ten minutes remaining to be played.

Loyola threatened only once after the early part of the game. This was shortly after the second half ended, when a shot by Tannehill and Carlin's lone field goal cut the lead of the locals to a single point. Tannehill played the best brand of basketball for the Greyhounds.

ST. JOSEPH'S WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT OVER LOCALS

St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia made five straight basketball victories over Washington College, by winning a very close game in the Washington College gymnasium, Saturday night, January 30th, by the low score of 18 to 16.

The game was featured by very close guarding, attested to by the large number of fouls each side committed, and by the fact that only five field goals were made during the entire game, three of these being made by St. Joseph's.

The first half ended with Washington leading 11 to 7, although making good on only two field shots. Fitzgerald was dead on the foul line and before the game ended, he had made eight free throws successful for a perfect record.

The second half was one in which Coach Kibler used five forwards and St. Joe three. But these eight together could score but one field goal during the half, this being made by the visitors.

Olle Robinson continued to wreck the reputation of visitor's aces, by holding the high scoring Zuber scoreless as far as field goals were concerned. Time after time he would ruin perfect shots of this star. The game was no night for forwards, and only because St. Joseph's was able to break the monotony of bad shooting, by sinking just one in the second half, was the local quint beaten.

Book Reviews

"THE BROWNINGNS—A VICTORIAN IDYLL"—Loth

With much understanding Mr. Loth has given us an ideal picture of the Brownings; their romance, their careers, and their retirement in Italy. We must Robert Browning as a dashing, gallant lover, composing poetry to amuse the gentle Elizabeth Barrett, of Wimpole Street. As a young intellectual the poet first tried to write plays, but meeting with failure, he answered the call of the muses, who had endowed him with an extraordinary poetic sense, delicate and flowery.

The love affair between the two poets, Robert and Elizabeth Browning stands out in history as one of the sweetest and most beautiful affairs. At first courting Miss Barrett by means of letters, the poet became an eloquent and ardent Don Juan. Upon actually meeting the promising poet, Browning became so fascinated by her charming personality that for days he was entranced in a state of ecstasy. To the invalid woman, Browning came like a gift of the Gods, for she had never before experienced a friendship. Their lives together seem like a flash—an eclipse in time to France, a few years of bliss in Italy, and then the untimely death of Mrs. Browning. The death of his wife changed the life of the poet entirely, as he soon emerged from his retirement, in an attempt to forget his sorrow. In London he became England's foremost social leader. Says Mr. Loth, "He was an ideal social lion, so gentle a child might approach him, yet preserving all the regal dignity of his untamed, unpredictable, temperamental, and unmanly colleagues."

Browning, for the first time met with much popularity. "Browning Societies" became quite fashionable the world over and the aging poet spent his remaining years in a series of dinner and theatre parties.

Mr. Loth has done an admirable piece of work, that is sure to afford the reader much pleasure. Written in a highly sympathetic tone, the reader can not help but appreciate the true genius of both Robert and Elizabeth Browning.

Museum Removes Abbey Paneling

College Loses Possible Chance For Museum

The Baltimore Museum of Art removed the fine paneling from "The Abbey" on Tuesday, January the second to new quarters where it will be housed as the "Johnson Memorial."

"The Abbey," one of the finest old Colonial houses in Maryland, was built by the Murray family in 1696. It has been held since by many people prominent in the history of Maryland and Washington College. The paneling beloved by none to have been the work of Grinling Gibbons has no peer in these parts save that in the Brice and Hays-Hannan Houses in Annapolis. The woodwork from "the Gracie House," obtained by the Museum brought fifteen thousand dollars.

Its removal aroused a great deal of alarm and was protested by many students and Eastern Shoremen. Quite a substantial fund was being raised to preserve the building for the college as a museum, but the Baltimoreans realizing the value of their art treasure and disregarding the charm of it in its true environment, did not rebuke their purchase.

Much concern was felt when it was rumored that the remaining paneling had been sold to the Yale Metropolitan and Boston Museums, but all three of these officially denied that they had any interest in it.

WASHINGTON FACES LOYOLA TO-NIGHT

HEPBRON TALKS TO STUDENTS

TELLS OF WORK WITH ORGANIZED CHARITY

The Thursday Assembly of Feb. 25, was addressed by Dr. James M. Hepbron, head of the Maryland Crime Commission, on the subject of "Organized Charity." This popular speaker, the recipient of an honorary degree from Washington College, pleaded indirectly for a better understanding of the work of organized charity.

"In urban communities," said Dr. Hepbron, "it is impossible, without the aid of organized charity, to know who is in need." In praising the Community Fund method the speaker said that money is raised for charitable work at a cost of two cents to the dollar. In the older method, with numerous charity organizations in the field, the cost was from ten to forty cents on the dollar.

"Without proper investigation," he continued, "Professional paupers will be given money." In Baltimore sixty charity agencies clear their cases through the Social Service Exchange. This bureau investigates cases and keeps a record of all cases, and prevents people from receiving aid from a number of agencies.

To prove that the work was being done by trained people, the speaker stated that an A. B. and an M. A. degree besides a year's experience in the field were required by him.

Dr. Leon C. Prince Begins Celebrations By Speech

Addresses Group On Subject of "Washington Up-To-Date"

"George Washington Up-To-Date" was the subject of the speech chosen by Dr. Leon C. Prince, Professor of History at Dickinson College, to officially begin the Washington College Sesqui-Centennial and the Washington Bi-Centennial Celebrations on Thursday, Feb. 16 at Washington Smith Hall.

In his talk, Dr. Prince discussed George Washington as a man, directing the legends and stories that have long since attempted to obscure his real personality. "He was graduated from the school of experience, whose colors are black and blue, and whose degrees are the only ones who hundred percent worthwhile," said the speaker. "He thus touched on Washington's powers as an athlete, and related some of his feats."

Dr. Prince scathingly denounced the many writers that have attempted to lower the popular opinion of Washington by pointing out that he had played cards and had engaged in other similar activities. It was the speaker's belief that Washington only added himself to the customs of his age in these matters.

Above all, Dr. Prince praised Washington's life of usefulness service, and the qualities of the man which allowed him to risk everything for his country.

NEXT COTILLION WILL FEATURE AL HOLLANDER

PAUL PIPPIN TO BE IN CHARGE OF DECORATIONS

Al Hollander of York, Pa., whose music was heard at the Mid-Winter Formal at the University of Virginia has been engaged to play for the Home-Coming Cotillion to be held at the Washington College Gymnasium, Friday, March 11th under the auspices of the Washington College Colliion Club.

The decoration committee headed by Paul Pippin, chairman, consists of: William Richards, Burdette Nuttle, Edwin Coulbourn and James Parsons. If arrangements permit the committee hopes to disguise the gym as a pent house with blue and gold streamers for a ceiling and with a New York city line drawn with charcoal on the paper covered sides. It is believed that the eleven pieces in the orchestra could be enclosed in a smaller pent house.

The issuing of the invitations is in the hands of O. C. Coulbourn, Jr. This is the fourth cotillion staged by the Colliion Club this school year.

Washington Players Plan Three One Act Plays

To Be Directed By Students

Three one-act plays will be produced before the Easter Holidays by The Washington Players whose performance of "Adam and Eva" was given on January 13th under the direction of Prof. John D. Makosky. As rehearsals have not yet begun no definite date for the performances has been set.

The three plays will be under the direction of three student players, Dorothy Johnson, Lindley Cook, and William Danneberg.

The play chosen by William Danneberg is "Rip Van Winkle" as adapted by Joseph Jefferson. This four act play has been revised by the student director to be produced within the limits of one act with two scenes. The cast is:

Rip Van Winkle—William Danneberg

Derrick Van Beekman—George Cordery

Meenie Van Winkle—Helen Norris

Henrik Vedder (as a boy)—Willard Souder

Henrik Vedder (as a man)—Howard Plummer

The parts of Nick Vedder and Gretchen Van Winkle are yet to be cast.

The players under the direction of Dorothy Johnson are considering several plays among them being "The Donovan Affair."

Lindley Cook who is heading the third group hopes to produce Bernard Shaw's one act play "Why He Lied To Her Husband."

TO DONATE CUPS

SCHOLARSHIP CUPS TO BE GIVEN BY MRS. FOX

TO BE COMPETED FOR BY GREEK LETTER SOCIETIES

Ethel S. Fox

The decoration committee headed by Paul Pippin, chairman, consists of: William Richards, Burdette Nuttle, Edwin Coulbourn and James Parsons. If arrangements permit the committee hopes to disguise the gym as a pent house with blue and gold streamers for a ceiling and with a New York city line drawn with charcoal on the paper covered sides. It is believed that the eleven pieces in the orchestra could be enclosed in a smaller pent house.

That two silver cups for the fraternity and sorority that attains the highest total scholarship will be donated in the memory of Dr. Errol Lionel Fox, late Professor of Chemistry at Washington College, by his wife Ethel S. Fox. The first cup will be engraved with "Errol L. Fox Memorial, Inter-Fraternity Scholarship Cup" and the second with "Errol L. Fox Memorial, Inter-Sorority Scholarship Cup."

The first cup will be awarded to that fraternity that has an average index higher than the other two groups. The sorority cup will be awarded on the same basis. The name of the winning fraternity or sorority will be engraved on the cup and it will become the possession of that organization until its average index is bettered by some other Greek letter society.

The cups will go into the permanent possession of the fraternity or sorority that wins them any three years.

This year these memorials to Dr. Fox will be awarded on the basis of the grades received during the spring term. In the following years the marks for the entire school year will be the basis of the award.

Three Faculty Members Attend N. E. A. Convention

The meeting of school superintendents and allied organizations, held in Washington, D. C., from Feb. 21 to Feb. 25 under the auspices of the National Education Association, was attended by Dr. Paul E. Titworth, Dr. Fred G. Livingston, and Miss Florence Snodgrass, all of Washington College. Miss Snodgrass was also present at the meetings of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

The program for the main meetings consisted of a number of discussions conducted by the various educational leaders. Papers were read by authorities in the numerous fields of Education.

The main meetings were held in Constitutional Hall and the speakers included United States Senators, superintendents, and high school teachers. Approximately 15,000 educators, superintendents, and teachers were present.

FACULTY UPHOLDS VOTE OF STUDENT COUNCIL

FRESHMAN ORDERED TO CARRY OUT PENALTY

By supporting the decision of the Vigilance committee in the recent Freshman case the administration, today, greatly strengthened the authority of that body as well as that of the Student Council which had also upheld the decision of the Committee.

The penalty in question was the order to wear a dress about the college for the period of one week. The freshman on whom it had been indicted refused to carry it out and had appealed to the Student Council. When this body upheld the previous decision the case was taken to Dean Jones, a member of the Faculty Discipline Committee.

The letter giving this committee's stand on the matter was received today by Oliver Robinson, President of the Student Council, Richard Gamber, President of the Sophomore Class, and Frederick Rhinebold, Head of the Vigilance Committee.

Dean J. S. W. Jones Holds Bi-Weekly Cabinet Meeting

Asks Cabinet To Assist In Celebration

By asking the Cabinet to aid in every way possible the Washington Sesqui-Centennial Celebration, Dean J. S. William Jones opened the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Dean's Cabinet held in his office Thursday, Feb. 16th.

A discussion on the questions arising out of Student Government and the College Commencement was asked for by Mr. Robinson. All the members of the Cabinet expressed their personal satisfaction with recent marks in the Commencement. Some suggestions were made concerning the breakfasts and Mr. Robinson said that he would refer them to the stewards. No definite conclusion was reached in the discussion on Student Government.

Those students present were: Oliver Robinson, Albert Baker, Harold Shriver, Walter Bradford, Irving Ross, DeWitt Clarke and Richard Gamber.

Baltimore Alumni Hold Annual Dinner Dance

The Annual Dinner Dance of the Baltimore Alumni Association, which was held Friday evening at the Hotel Emerson in Baltimore was attended by the following from Washington College: Dr. Paul E. Titworth, Dean J. S. W. Jones, Prof. and Mrs. Dunschott, and Mr. James W. Johns.

Dr. Titworth To Speak To State Normal School

"Oberammergau and the Puritan Play" will be the subject of Dr. Paul E. Titworth's speech which will be delivered before the students of the Towson State Normal School on Tuesday morning, March 1.

GAME STAGED AT LOYOLA

ROBINSON LEADS MEN IN LAST GAME FROM HOME

The Flying Pentagons moves over to Baltimore tonight to play Loyola's Greyhounds quietest, and for the first time in several years, the state championship will not hinge on the outcome of this game. During the past several years, the second of the home and home series between the Kibblers and the Jesuits has been played down here, but this year the order of the games was reversed.

However, the intense rivalry that has grown up between Washington and Loyola still makes the game of vast importance to Washington and Loyola backers and to the players themselves. A victory by either of these teams over the other would yield both enough to relieve the sting from several defeats suffered elsewhere. The reputation that these two teams have of always playing great hard-fought games, their meet should pack the big gymnasium at Evergreen. The Flying Pentagons has yet to turn in a single victory on a foreign court, and the desire to at least once away from home will be added to the great enthusiasm that is always attendant to the fray with the Greyhounds.

Couch Kibler will use the name style of attack over in Baltimore that he employed down here, earlier in the season to defeat Loyola by a ten point margin. Robinson and Carroll will play outside, passing the ball into either Hury, Johnson or Proudfoot. Proudfoot and Johnson will station themselves in the corners of the court and Hury will play the bucket. The locals will get shots, using this system and with Proudfoot back in form, they should chalk up sufficient two pointers to take the decision.

The Greyhounds will bank heavily on Carlin, their long shooting forward and Tannehill, his clever running mate. Probable lineups:

|              |              |
|--------------|--------------|
| Washington   | Loyola       |
| Carroll, f   | Carlin, f    |
| Johnson, f   | Tannehill, f |
| Proudfoot, c | Curtis, c    |
| Robinson, g  | Nauwak, g    |
| Hury, g      | Bender, g    |

Senior Class To Vote On Commencement Gift

The Senior Class is considering for the Annual Gift of the Graduating Class to the college a plaque engraved with a facsimile of the Boston flag of Washington and bearing the legend "Washington Bicentennial 1722-1932, presented by the class of 1932." It is a product of the Heff Jones Co. of Holliston, Mass.

A meeting of the class has been called for Monday in William Smith Hall by President Shriver for the purpose of voting to accept or reject the gift.

FRESHMAN

Now that the commotion brought on by a Freshman's refusal to carry out an edict of the Vigilance Committee and wear a dress about the college for a week, has subsided, we find that the Student Council's position has been strengthened by the support of the administration and that also, the authority of the Vigilance Committee remains unquestioned in such matters. The Freshman will carry out the original order of the Sophomore.

Now that is all very fine and as it should be, but we are beginning to question all that is luck of this. Many semester hours have been worked away since these Freshmen sang "How Dry I Am" on the gymnasium steps, and during that time we have gotten to know many of them very well. And, if our memory has not deserted us the ten or twelve "rat" rules were beginning to get very tiresome to us about this time of our Freshman year. With this in mind we wonder if it is not rather foolish to still plague these men with our rather childish rules? Perhaps not all should go, for their work on the mail route, the cottages, and on other such functions is often necessary. Certainly sullying, and the wearing of caps—to mention but two—should have been dropped long before mid-year. Such is the custom in the majority of colleges where "ratting" is still preserved. Let us, too, be lenient.

STUDENT OPINION

Except for this issue THE OPEN FORUM has been noticeably lacking. This is just a reminder to those students and others who feel the urgings of the Muse that it is still open.

The restrictions are few and should not hamper anyone. The writer must be known to the editor, and his work must not contain any profane language. All contributions can be left in THE ELM office or can be handed to the editor.

A FITTING MEMORIAL

We feel sure that the entire student body as well as the Greek letter men and women are especially grateful for the establishment of two such fine prizes as the Errol L. Fox Memorial Cups for inter-sorority and inter-fraternity scholarship.

It is particularly fitting that awards for scholarship be given as a memorial to Dr. Fox who was himself an excellent scholar and a fine judge of scholastic ability in others. We have no doubt but that the awards will accomplish the aims of their giver, Mrs. Errol Fox, who hopes in this way to stimulate the scholarship of those groups whose interest Dr. Fox had ever at heart.

One nice thing about going to the electoral college is that one doesn't have to have any credits.

If it's true that every man is the architect of his own destiny, one has poor ideas of upper stories.

The greatest trouble about trying to kill two birds with one stone, is that we are very apt to miss both of them.

SLIPPERY ELM

If ever there was a dull week for news, this last one has been it. Even the full session has been subdued.

Many of the basketball fans are looking forward to the alumni game when all the old stars lumber up their stiffened joints. That, with the Town-Country Cottillion featuring Al Bellender's band, will make the old college wake up for awhile.

We predict that this will probably be the last year for the above orchestra for here it is fast becoming nationally popular. And the members of the Cottillion Club have very decided limits.

If the chairman of the decoration committee is not hampered by the same things that hamper all decoration chairmen we also predict that his post house scheme will make the best decoration seen for many a moon.

What has happened to all the plans to make the Loyola game the excuse for ha cha ching in Baltimore? Is it the depression or the fact that there is no longer a group here congenial enough to ha cha cha together, to say nothing of being money money?

And did you know that: this has been the quietest year, so the administration reports, from the standpoint of discipline; last Saturday was St. Christopher's Feast Day observed by all good church men; that there is a Gamma Sigma sorority at Connecticut College as well as at our own institution; the paper being put out by the Writer's Club is the first one in the known history of the college that could be called a literary magazine; THE ELM, then THE COLLEGIAN, was printed eight times in 1928-29; Harry Russell, now connected with THE ENTERPRISE, was the first to publish the college paper in newspaper form; it was then an eight page paper; there were sororities in 1905-06; Dean Jones was to live in Reid Hall!

To The Editor of THE ELM:
 Sir:

Social refinement, good taste, and proper etiquette, everyone will agree, should mark the college educated man or woman. He or she has been refined, and carefully nurtured rhetorically, and when the day of graduation arrives, he is announced by the institution as being "well rounded," mentally. However, I and the others who have talked with you, believe that there is still remaining another breach, before the college can call its graduates "well rounded" men and women. That breach remains along social lines. I am sure that most of the students will agree with the writer that the greater number of those in attendance at Washington are relatively ignorant, socially speaking. Backwardness is more or less natural along these lines, and only now and then is some fortunate student made to realize the fact of his shortcomings along social lines, in time for him to get down to work in making the "values" for himself.

Why shouldn't the college give a course in "Social Education," say, for want of a better name? Offhand, we might suggest this course, of one Semester, to consist of the elements of table etiquette, proper dress; proper manners when in formal and informal company; proper forms of social correspondence, elementary dancing, and other minor points. While this course might mean, the admission by some of the so called "social lights" that they still have some things to learn, it would tend to place the social status of the entire student body on a plane by far exceeding the present level.

Colonial Dress Is Style For June 11

When the bicentennial celebration of the birth of George Washington is brought to its climax here on June 11th at the joint festivities of Washington College and Kent county it will be the aim of the Committee on History, of which E. Clarke Fontaine, is chairman, to have everybody appear in colonial costumes.

This committee, which is to be a court of final authority on the authenticity of costumes, has organized into sub-committees and will be very active between now and the time of the celebration. A committee on costumes has been formed and will be composed of Miss Jennie Wilkins, Mrs. W. T. Brown, Miss Lelia N.

Ware and Mrs. Amy McMenamin. A committee on the historical association of Washington with Kent county is composed of Dr. W. R. Howell, M. deK. Smith, Miss Bessie Stuart, F. H. Ruth and Morris Keene Barard.

A committee, which will aim to arrange a museum exhibit of colonial pieces is composed of Mrs. H. G. Stine, Mrs. Edward V. Clark, Mrs. W. G. Smyth and Page Gale.

The costume committee has issued the following bulletin on colonial dress:

"The period of Washington's life is marked by great richness and extravagance in dress. Boston, New York and Philadelphia were centers of fashion.

"Materials of which costumes were made were imported breeches, lufetas, poplins, silks and satins. Ladies adorned themselves with necklaces, flowers, aigrettes, handkerchiefs, silk gloves, mitts, satin shoes and silk hose and in winter with lavish furs.

"Colonial gentlemen of the period wore the fashionable dress adapted from the French of 1700. The coat was straight and full skirted and the tails stiffened with buckram or wadding. Waistcoats were long, often elaborately trimmed with lace and embroidery. Shoes with square toes were giving way to the more pointed, with red heels still in vogue.

"Colonial dames wore low cut bodices. In the National Museum in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, is a costume of the period. It is of yellow damask silk looped back with narrow brand and ribbons. The bodice and edges of the skirt are edged with ruchings (double ruffles) of quinked material. The dainty slippers are of white satin.

"Powdered hair became fashionable about 1700.

"About 1755 the wattle came in high favor. These were long aquines falling to the floor and often looped in polonaise fashion to show the costly petticoat. These were made of silks and brocade, and also of muslin, dimity and other dainty fabrics. Between 1750 and 1775 padded petticoats were in high favor.

"The little cap so fashionable in Washington's administration dates back to colonial times. It was made of lace and fine gauze and remained in vogue for nearly half a century.

"Distinguishing characteristics of colonial dress:

"WOMEN. The looped petticoat, the pointed bodice, the fichu, and the little cap.

"MEN. Straight long coat, elaborate long waistcoat, knee breeches, low shoes with buckles."

Lacrosse Starts At Washington

George Ekaitis Is New Head Coach Here

By Charles B. Clark

The official Lacrosse season at Washington College opened during the past week, marking the beginning of the fourth year of the old Indian game at the Shore Institution.

The Spring Sport will be under the supervision of Coach George Ekaitis, who has been in the position for three years as player, coach of the Washington College, and who, during his Senior year, 1931, acted as player-coach. It might be remarked that his team last year secured a 4 to 1 victory over Washington, then coached by "Gus" Grothers, former University of Maryland star.

Games have been scheduled with the three strongest teams in the country, St. John's, Maryland, and Hopkins. Other contests with the University of Virginia, Lafayette, Swarthmore, and Western Maryland will result to meet teams more in our class of competition.

The squad has suffered greatly from graduation and withdrawals from college. Captain Kargfin was left with his only Robinson, Gamble, J. Williams, Gerstle, and Reichel and Plummer as letter men of last season.

Coach Ekaitis should find some good material from among the following of last year's squad: Winslow, Curry, Hall, Phipps, M. Williams, Morris, Trapp, Dokkin, Harris, Charles Clark, Burkhardt, and Kowak. What the Freshmen class will be is as yet unknown.

Lacrosse is the true American game and ideal for colleges.

French explores found Indians playing a game which they named "lacrosse" because the stick or "crosse" they used to hurl the ball resembled a cross. It was a sport which tested endurance and required great stamina. Goals then consisted of a single hole, which when struck by the Lacrosse ball, signified the scoring of a goal. These posts were anywhere from three to five miles apart, and games lasted for several days, in many cases.

The sport progressed rather slowly and not until about 1900 was there some intercollegiate competition. From then on, and especially during the last ten years, progress has been made. An Intercollegiate Association consisting of about twenty teams has been formed, and changes in rule, eliminating some of the danger is former had, have been put in effect. In 1928 the United States was represented at the Olympic games, played in Amsterdam, by Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore.

The State of Maryland leads as the center of Lacrosse and for the past three years, St. John's College of Annapolis, has won National Championships. The latter last June defeated Canada in an international series.

Washington Wins In Overtime Contest Here

Playing one of the best brands of basketball here, it has displayed all year, the Flying Pentagon defeated a powerful Swarthmore quintet by a 40 to 36 count in an overtime contest played in the Washington gymnasium, Feb. 15. At the end of the regular game time the score was deadlocked at 32 all, but the Kiblerites proved better men down the stretch than did the Pennsylvanians.

The game opened fast and the Flying Pentagon, led by Hodgson, playing at forward, soon had a pretty big lead over the Little Quakers. However, Swarthmore's big center then began to work his favorite bucket shot with telling effect and at the end of the half, the count stood at 16 to 15 in favor of the Kiblerites. The lead shifted back and forth in the second half, with long shots playing a big part. Huey dropped one from outside, with about two minutes to play to give the locals a lead which they lost just a few seconds later, as the Pennsylvanian's center again counted to tie the score. The game ended the regular game as Carazza's long shot bounded off the basket.

After the two minutes rest, the local crowd fast as Carazza's shot, two long ones and dribbled through the Swarthmore defense to make a nice under-the-basket shot for Proudfoot. The game ended with the ball in Washington's possession.

BASKETBALL CAPT. OF '31 St. Johns Wins Over Flying Pentagon, 34-14

Ed Stevens, '31, captain of last year's basketball team, was a victim of four armed hands who made off with the work and records of the EKO Palace Theatre, Columbus, Ohio, last Sunday night, where he is employed as assistant manager. The loss was estimated at $4000.

The receipts were being taken to the safe in Stevens's office, with a police guard, when the hold-up was staged. Stevens was forced to open the vault after the bandits got the cash from the cashier. The officer's gun was part of the loot.

The thieves took the phone from the wall and left in quiet order at the conclusion of their theft.

Sports Notions

By Phillip J. Wingate

Washington College's present playing Pentagon once more demonstrating that it is headed for surprises. After playing great basketball against Swarthmore and St. John's, the locals travelled over to Annapolis and allowed St. John's to romp away with an easy victory. Against St. John's and Swarthmore, the Kiblerites were a bunch of fast moving, hard fighting basketballers. They played of the fast cutting style of game that is Coach Kibler's favorite and in general looked like worthy successors to the captains that have made Washington College famous for its great basketball teams. Games like these and the second half of the St. John's game over here make it hard for Washington backers to believe that the Jehonians could out-class the Flying Pentagon so badly as they apparently did over in Croftown.

The game with Loyola to be played tonight should be a victory for the Flying Pentagon. When these two teams meet, no matter where, or what the conditions, cage fans realize that they will see a hard fought game with plenty of good basketball scattered about in generous portions. Both Loyola and Washington have played some great games of basketball this season and likewise both have enjoyed some nights that were decidedly spotty.

The Flying Pentagon defeated the Greyhounds down here earlier in the season by a margin of ten points and, with the Kibler system against a zone defense in use, should be a repeat. However, it is well known that the locals play more consistently before a friendly crowd, although Washington backers declare the locals will need nothing to urge them to play their best against their arch rivals, the Jesuits.

ANNAPOLIS.—St. John's brought its long range guns into play here Tuesday night and used them effectively in soundly trouncing the Washington College quintet by a 34 to 14 score and thereby averaging a 25 to 21 score administered by the Shoremen earlier in the season.

Washington was never dangerous last night and after Johnson had taken the first double-decker of the game to snare the lead for the Shoremen St. John's opened up with its bucket attack, went ahead by a score of 9 to 2 and never relinquished the lead.

The Johnny scoring arm, McCarter and Carpenter, were completely smothered by the Washington guards, Robinson and Huey. The Chesterton defensive players allowed the St. John's linemen to divide one lone foul goal for their total score of the evening. But while the Johnny guards were being held in check by the tight defensive play of the Washington guards the St. John's centers and guards were indulging in a first class scoring spree.

St. John's took no chances of Washington staging a second half rally like the one which snatched an apparent victory from the arms of the Orange and Black Five at Chesterton and put on full pressure in the second half.

Mounts Fall Before Kiblerites

Captain Robinson Sinks Winning Goal

The Flying Pentagon avenged its defeat at the hands of Mt. St. Mary's, earlier in the season, by forcing the Mounts to take the short end of a 28 to 20 score in a thrilling basket ball game played in the local gymnasium, Friday, Feb. 19th. Capt. Robinson was the big cog in Washington's wheel and clinched his brilliant work throughout the game by sinking the winning field goal with less than a minute to play.

The game was fiercely fought and the lead shifted several times during the contest. At the end of the half Washington had a comfortable lead, but the Mounts opened up a fierce attack at the start of the second half and in a short time were in the front by a margin of 8 points. The Lynch ball victors won with a brilliant assortment of tricky passing and fine outside shooting.

With the score 23 to 15 against them, the Kiblerites came to life with a rush and started bombarding the Mount's goal in earnest. On two plays from out of bounds under the victor's basket, Capt. Robinson blocked off his man and rang up two quick double-deckers. Huey sunk a foul and Johnson scored the Flying Pentagon back into the thick of the fight again with a two-pointner from the edge of the foul circle. Shortly after, Hodgson seized the ball near his own goal and started a furious dribble down the court, with two Mounts pursuing him. He was fouled as he shot and made good one of his two free tosses to tie the score. Mt. St. Mary's missed a foul shot and a moment later Capt. Robinson ended the scoring with a field goal. The spectators were still standing and cheering frantically as the game ended.

Alpha Kappas Hold Formal

"Reds" Moffett's Washingtonians Furnish Music

Saturday evening, February 26th, more than 100 members of the Third Annual Dance given by the Active Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, at Reid Hall. The event had as its Patroness and Patronesses, Miss Margaret Beaver, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Simper, Dr. and Mrs. Harry G. Simper, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Usilton, and Mrs. Mae C. Wood.

Both lounges of Reid Hall were attractively decorated, each presenting a different effect. Entrance to the dance floor was gained between two gaily bedecked pillars of color, beneath a suspended Alpha Kappa banner. Each window was graced by a solid triangle of black and gold, having, in one lounge, a rainbow background of graduated colors in pastel shades, and in the second lounge, a background of brilliant colors, forming a conception of futuristic design. The "Washingtonians," under the direction of "Reds" Moffett, played from a rectangular shaped pavilion of many shades and hues, and were barely visible through a hanging veil of royal purple and silver.

Over the mantel of the fire-place, the A. K. Triangle, surmounted by its Shell and Cross-Banner, was thrown into relief against the red brick of the chimney wall by effective indirect lighting.

The returning Alpha Kappa Alumni named among their number, Emerson Russell, '25; Vernon Kirby, '27; Fred W. Dumschott, '27; Charles Smith, '28; Patrick J. Schnauffer, '28; Harry Poole, '28; James Marvel, '29; George Carrington, '29; William B. ## BOOK REVIEWS

"Voltaire" by Thaddeus is a colorful study of the great Frenchman. Subtitled "genius of Mockery" it reveals quite intimately the cynic at the height of his career, when "tyrants and bigots turned pale at his name."

Another fascinating book is "Quiet Street" by Ossorgin. It is a Russian study of a mystery, told in a delightful manner.

"Easter Island" by Casey is a travel book dealing with adventures in the islands in the South Pacific. It reveals for the first time the secrets of one of the world's most mysterious cultures, half occidental, half oriental.

Rilaine Bellois' biography of "Wolfe" the phenomenon of the 16th Century, attempts to establish the character and motives of the churchman, who figured so prominently during the reign of Henry VIII.

Van Loon's "R. V. R." is a detailed account of the last years and death of the celebrated painter and etcher Rembrandt. It discusses quite freely the great tragedy of the Dutch genius, who met with failure during his own life time, but who is today considered one of the world's greatest artists.

Another interesting book is "Ancient Civilizations of the Andes" by Houts. This book gives accurate accounts of the South American civilizations, that have been hidden from us for several centuries. By far the most remarkable, is the glamorous Incan Civilization, which is treated at length. "Napoleon and His Family" by Geer, is a detailed account of the laws of the French Emperor, and shows quite simply the marked influence of his brothers and sisters over him. The book attempts to account for the downfall of the man "best endowed by picture, and the best served by destiny, that History has ever known."

"Plume of the Avonnet" by Ackerson is a story of the life and customs of the New Zealand natives, particularly of the Maori tribe, a mysterious people, about whom little is known.

"Highway Into Spain" by Arosean is an account of travels on foot through Modern Spain. The book transports to the reader the feeling of all the magnificence and grandeur of romantic Spain, and at the same time the simplicity of the life of the peasant class.

BOULCOURNE CAMPAIGN MGR. DENIES SHOE RUMOURS

As counter propaganda against the "Boulcourn for President Campaign" it was circulated that as a child he had patronized English shoe companies.

MacStood, Boulcourn Campaign Manager, said in protest of the reports:

"It was I, myself, that first put shoes on Boulcourn, the People's man, the Beer Bottle's Friend. Well, do I remember that exciting day. For two weeks he had been lying and roaring about the coral in which we had caged him from his capture from a tree in the heart of dismal swamp. He was only a kid—but seventeen. My heart led for him as the men approached to first tie shoes on him. He was going to college. In a trice he was hog tied and in much less than twice (excuse my impetuosity) the shoes were on. And gentlemen, they were American shoes! Boulcourn was off to college in a cloud of dust only stopping to show the less unfortunate his new possessions. My, my, how that boy took to shoes. Even his old Mummy could see it! "Mama Boulcourn" she said, "You ought to wear them more. You'd look good in shoes."

"And, gentlemen, let me add that a vote for Boulcourn is a vote for Boulcourn."

PEOPLE'S CHOICE

O. U. Boulcourn
(At a Tender Age)

The above picture shows O. U. Boulcourn as he appeared when first caught.

PAGEANT HEAD VOTED ON; 1 CANDIDATE DROWNS

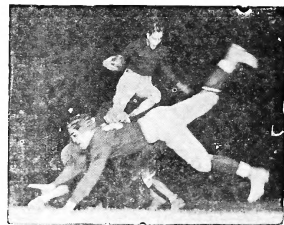

Voting was held today after a heavy week of campaigning for the student to take the part of George Washington in the coming celebration.

Col. Lee Well, was expected to win by a nose, the other candidate's victory having been spoilt by an opposition tumbler in the Braddock's Defeat pageant.

The third candidate was eliminated early in the race when he was drowned when a Freshman, who was the crew in his self staged pageant of Crossing the Delaware, stopped to wave to a crowd and he was pitched into the Chetcar.

Crowd excitement ran high as the place of Martha in the Washington at Home pageant had not as yet been chosen.

Picture shows Washington Candidate being thrown into river at the end of Delaware Crossing Pageant. Rescuers can be seen in the foreground with co-ed in background. It is difficult to see the Freshman, tanned as he was from the summer suns and being at the time the picture was taken on the bottom of the river.

NEWS FLASHES

(EDITOR'S NOTE)—Below is found the only news item in the paper this week. For the most part we have been asked to put these items in our columns.

Mr. Vernon Plans Banquet

The annual banquet of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, which marks the eighty-fifth birthday of the oldest literary society in the State of Maryland, will be held in the college commons tonight. The banquet will be served by the By-Kota Club of the Chesterman M. E.

Y. M. C. A. Brings Speaker

Mr. T. H. Owen Knight, class of '25, a prominent alumnus and a former President of the Mt. Vernon, will act as guestmaster. Dr. William R. Howell will be the principal speaker. Mr. Virgil Lowder, head of the Y. M. C. A. at the University of Maryland, will address the local Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. groups on Thursday, March 17 in Reid Hall. The public is invited.

Tennis Courts Planned

Work will begin on two new tennis courts as soon as the weather permits, it was announced here today by the administration.

The courts will be located directly in back of the Phi Sigma Phi house in line with the present playing surfaces.

Frolic Held To-night

There will be a Frolic in Reid Hall tonight immediately following the Alumni game.

A blue coat, with brown gloves, a scarf and a top in the pocket, was left by mistake in the cloak room in the Gym last night. The initials on the pen are E. R. It is now held in the Phi Sigma Phi house.

To All Seniors—

Interest in any of the numerous activities on the campus is a minus quantity. There are a few persons who would like to see members of our campus community take a progressive and aggressive policy instead of a lifeless, spineless policy such as has been manifest in collective activities so far. This is nowhere more noticeable than in the present Senior Class. The few who take any interest get no support from the class as a whole and are usually condemned as trying to put something shady over on the rest of the class. If you want to just graduate this is all right, but if you want to amount to something as a class, please give some support and a little of your valuable time to those who are using up quite a lot of their time, which, by the way, is just as valuable as yours, in trying to make the class a real class and not just a group of lifeless individuals. Can't we make our graduation mean more than getting a sheepskin handed to us on June 11th?

Harold D. Shriver.

Reporters Sent To Study Queer Natives In The College Vicinity

The National Committee for the Relief of the Unemployed today assailed Washington College, located on the good of untold shore for harboring a band of unemployed.

Reporters were immediately sent to the college to check on the statement. Little of fact was obtained. Several young men loitering about the building: were found and when their names were overcome by gifts of bread they were questioned.

FACULTY COMMENT ON UNEMPLOYMENT REPORT

When interviewed, Dean Dunes said: "It is false, quite false. Why it was only a few days ago that a boy came to me and said, 'Dean Dunes, I have worked, I have worked'."

Aides and Mercken were accused of sending forth the false news by Dr. Wovell and by the local press in an extra which was the cause of the collapse of two employments and a college of readers.

Bishop Dickard said, when found at his ecclesiastical home, "Hor. Horrors. It can't be true!" On being questioned on the matter, Prof. E. R. Wingle said "Now the Greeks, they had a word for it."

BEAN'S CABINET MEETS

The meeting was called to order and it was resolved that there be no more meetings. It was moved, seconded, and passed that there be no more meetings.

The members of the cabinet were carried off on the shoulders of the cheering crowds that had been waiting outside the meeting. After marching them around the town square the crowd adjourned to the river.

Y. W. C. A. AND Y. M. C. A. HOLD DISCUSSION GROUP

Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. hold joint meeting to discuss "Repression," a continuance of their talk some weeks ago entitled "Depression." The above picture shows the happy group deep in controversy (argument to you).

"What building is this?" they were asked. After a futile consultation one of their number replied: "We all call it Middle High, but you all call it what you all want to if you all give us all another big red apple."

"I'll tune that you all don't work here," said the reporter quickly falling into the dialect from which he was saved by his fellow newsmen.

(He will be buried at the old repository home.)

"Say," said one of the natives, "we just go over yonder to them that choose and sit. Or else we just sit here."

"Do you know that the National Government is after you?"

"What's them?"

"Don't show your ignorance Pete, here," the guys with live up then to Washington. "Now we didn't know."

No other results were obtained by the U. I. men.

SPECIAL

No word heard from reporters sent on Washington unemployment story.

SPECIAL

Reporters believed missing.

SPECIAL

Reporters sent on Washington news story heard from. Telegram reads: "Resign. This is the softest rack: drunk yet." You all ought to come down here."

INTER-COAL-LEG-LATE

Word has just reached us from the famous Zikerville College, that there has been invented an automatic Bull shooting machine for use at Bull Sessions. Several of these were placed together in the same room, and witnesses stated that the combined voices seemed to be as realistic as the bull sessions they had heard here back at Bushington.

The "Fatesther Up Colleague" reports that hot air from the earth (especially over certain local places such as Ch—n) keeps the school warm on coldest days. In fact it is so full of hot air, that we have received a fresh shipment of palm leaves.

Latest inventions from Ousekville College: Double sharp knives for cutting college cooked roast beef; Automatic cigarette passing-around machines for use in fraternity houses; Necking machines (several models); Folding rental seats for use in college where auto— just ain't allowed! Double refracting prismatic glasses to enable student to look at crib, and professor at the same time; Automatic Freshman paddler, making it necessary only to set the dial on the paddler to the desired punishment, set the tension, and then allow the machine to do its work. College friends, we believe that you have benefited by these inventions and if you have, please write in care of the Elm, in care of your hall slinger, Joe Ousek at the College at Ousekville. He will send you the latest line of everything for the Kollegegate Kollage Kowboy for he and his Kid. More news to be given later. Until tomorrow, March 32, Thank you! until tomorrow night, Thank you!!

GOSSIP ABOUT THE CAMPUS

By WALTER MINCHELL

Reid Hall is under going some very extensive repairs. When it is finished it is said that every girl will have a shower of her own. This must be true because we have seen the "plumber" over there every day this year.

Little while.

There is a certain friendship on this campus budding into romance and to this promising romance we dedicate the following poem:

Now Cattle has gone from pillow to post.
But of this romance, Naviel will make the most.

Everyone seems interested and tries to give a hand,
But I sincerely hope they let him run his own band.

We read stories in the weeklies of substitutes being sent in for prize fighters but right on our own campus we have substitutes of a stranger nature. We notice Ronson sending in Du Wit to fill the fair one's glass with the weaker liquid (water).

It took us four years to find out that figures don't lie but liars figure.

College's Friend Studies Theory

Dr. Schauder Investigates
Relativity

The Einstein theory of relativity is still a very profound subject, and up to the present, only one person on the Eastern Shore has shown any proficiency in interpreting it. Dr. Adam E. Schauder, who for five years has been directly or indirectly connected with Washington College, is the latest man representing the Eastern Shore in the field of relativity. Dr. Schauder has been conducting his independent studies on the fourth dimension for some time and at an advanced has said light refraction is in relativity. After several years of painstaking studies, pertaining on the subject of the relative beauty of college students, with respect to the rest of the world's population, Dr. Schauder recently stated that he is now preparing to publish his new book, entitled, "Why College Girls Only Live in Heaven." Dr. Schauder is understood to have received considerable money for the rights in his new work on this subject.

WOMEN SEEK EQUAL RIGHTS

Mrs. H. W. Wylie Speaks At Assembly

"It is suitable in a college that bears the name of Washington to have a discussion of equal rights," said Mrs. H. W. Wylie, Chairman of the Council of Women's Party of Washington, D. C., in her address before the student body on the "History of the Equal Rights Movement" at the March 31 assembly.

That the new economic order throughout the country has brought about changes that necessitate doing away with the old common law based in man's superiority, was the text of Mrs. Wylie's speech. She also emphasized the slogan of the Women's Party: "To secure equal opportunities for men and women, and to do a service to the country."

On the subject of protective labor legislation Mrs. Wylie said: "We are trying to reconcile the old idea to the new needs when such legislation is passed. Protection should be extended to individuals in industry. There should be no distinction shown between the sexes."

"The profound changes in one life span prove to us that these laws, based on the old ideas, and discriminating against women, can be done away with."

Mrs. M. F. Lores, of Washington, followed Mrs. Wylie in the platform. She stressed the appeal the Equal Rights Movement had for the youth of the country.

Her speech was concluded with the announcement that, for an essay on "Equal Rights Amendment," two prizes of $500 and $200 would be given.

PEGASUS TO BE ISSUED TO STUDENTS ON MAY 30

May 30 has been set as the date of publication for the 1932 PEGASUS, edited this year by Irving S. Ross and W. O. Coulbourn, Jr.

The theme of the annual fittingly commemorates the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the college.

Each of these senior will be stamped in gold letters in the center of the book. Any other student wishing to have his name on his annual may do so at cost price by arranging it with Mr. Coulbourn.

College Arranges For Intramural Sports

In accordance with the programs of intramural athletics started at Washington last fall, local athletic authorities are arranging to have college students participate in some form of sports this spring.

A wide variety of games will be offered, making certain that all take part in some sport. Besides the variety lacrosse and track team, there will be a series of interclass basketball games, tennis, golf and volleyball. Every student of the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior class will be arranged to spend at least three hours a week on one of the above sports.

REHEARSALS BEGUN FOR "SAVING DAD"

Glady Council Directing
Mt. Vernon Group

Rehearsals are in progress for "Saving Dad," a one-act play, which will be given at the regular weekly meeting of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, Wednesday, April 27th, at 7:00 P. M. The play is being directed by Gladys Council. The characters are as follows: Tom Walker, young at fifty, Ralph Harrison; John Walker, his son, Jack Smith; Aunt Jersula, his sister-in-law, Alice Deola; Mary Rogers, his stenographer; Miss Furr, Mrs. Jane Rogers, Mary's mother; Katherine Eastman.

The meeting of April 27th, will be open to all members of the student body. In all probability a small additional charge of fifteen cents will be made.

Last year the Society gave a successful performance of Booth Tarkington's "The Trestling Place."

Student Council Plans To Advance Old Election Date

At the investigation of the editorial entitled "ELECTIONS," and in this edition of THE ELM, the Student Council in its meeting on Monday evening, April 4th, passed a resolution to move the election date for the Editor and Business Managers of both THE ELM and THE PEGASUS from the fourth Friday in May to the first Friday of that month. Their election at this date, the Council believed, would aid the leaders of these two student organizations to have more complete plans for the coming college year. It was planned to have the incoming Editor and Business Managers of THE ELM issue the final number.

It is feared, however, that there will be difficulty in securing an open assembly period for the elections.

Local Pastor Speaks On "Religious Prejudices"

"Religious Prejudices" was the title chosen by the Rev. Mr. Charles Atwater, of the Episcopal Church of Chesterton, for his speech before a joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., held in William Smith Hall on Thursday evening, April 7.

After the address by Mr. Atwater the group met in an informal discussion and decided to charter a bus to attend the Student Mass Meeting held at the American University in Washington, D. C., on April 23. The topic under discussion at this meeting will be "A Christian Viewpoint on the Sino-Japanese Situation." The principal speaker will be Mr. Kirby Page, world traveler, author, speaker and editor.

The rules governing the contests for the high school students have been published in the local papers. College students may find the rules posted on the bulletin board in William Smith Hall.

The program written by the students of the college must concern the visit of George Washington to Washington College in May, 1784. During this visit Washington attended a meeting of the Board of Visitors and Governors, and saw the play "Gustavus Vasa," which was given in his honor by the students.

Pagaments must be turned in by April 17.

J. J. COOP GIVES TALK ON PHYSICS IN ASSEMBLY

Demonstrates Theory
Of Broadcasting

J. J. Coop, Professor of Physics at Washington College, spoke to the students at the Thursday, April 7 assembly in William Smith Hall on the natural phenomena that could be explained through the science of Physics.

In his talk Mr. Coop demonstrated the principle of the gyroscope by using a model of the machine as it is found in the modern transatlantic steamers. In explaining how the lights of the World Fair to be held in Chicago will be turned on in the light of a star that is forty light years away from the earth, the speaker discussed the theory of the photo-electric cell and demonstrated its use by a model installed on the stage.

Mr. Coop announced the conclusion of his speech through a minute broadcasting station after explaining briefly the general principles of sound transmission.

Study Of College Activities Plan Of Dean's Cabinet

At the regular meeting of the Dean's Cabinet held in the office of the Dean on April 7, a committee was appointed to investigate the number of activities now present on the campus. The members of the committee were: Harold Shriver, Albert Rogers, Oliver Robinson and Irving Ross.

The committee was instructed to report to the Cabinet the organizations they found to have little cause for existence. The Cabinet, in turn, planned to recommend to the Student Council the proposals of the committee it found acceptable.

A discussion was held on the subject of student attitude towards the coming Sesqui-Centennial Celebration. Dean Jones asked for the cooperation of the Cabinet in the planning of the affair.

LACROSSE MEN FACE MARYLAND

Powerful Terrapin Twelve Is Favorite

Coach George Elkhart's team of athletes stuck up against the powerful University of Maryland twelve at College Park this afternoon in a game, where the fastest hands of the locals, in making the affair a real toss-up, for Maryland. The Washington team can hardly expect to do much better than the Terrapin score.

This is the third game of the current season for the locals and the opening contest for Maryland's eleven. Washington's game to St. John's national champs but came back to completely outplay and defeat Lafayette college in its second contest. The game that was played by Maryland will be the second of three encounters scheduled for the locals with the trio of outstanding American lacrosse teams, Johns, Maryland, and Hopkins. The Maryland and Black will meet Hopkins later in the season.

Against Maryland Coach Elkhart will have his pupils play a different style from that which they used against Lafayette. Against the latter until, the Washingtonians played a very aggressive game, riding the Pennsylvanians far up the field. However, Coach Elkhart does not believe that such a type of game would be most effective against Maryland's clever stickmen. The Washington attack should function better than it did against St. John's due to the experience of the players. Against St. John's Robinson, one of the Washington attack and great all around athlete has now completely recovered from an ankle injury and will be ready to go in earnest next week. In victory over his team on its way to victory over Lafayette by a clever piece of work in scoring the first goal of the game.

REID HALL DANCE TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

The second dance given by the women students of the college will be held in the gymnasium tonight with Paul Whitford and his Committee furnishing the music.

The committees for the dance are: finance, Mary Parks, Chairman, Theodosia Chapman; decorations, Dorothy Kimble, Chairman, Marie Poole, Rosemary Scott; programs, Harriet Ragan, Chairman, Hilda Ryan, Helen Norrin; chaperons, Elizabeth Brice, Chairman, Florence Ross.

Local Orators Lose To Western Maryland

The Washington College debaters fell before the eloquence of the Western Maryland orators by the score of two to one in a debate held in William Smith Hall last night on the question, Resolved: That the best interests of the United States demand that definite steps be taken looking toward a decentralization of Federal authority.

Lindey Cook, Wesley Sadler, and Lucien Powell, of Washington College, supported the affirmative side of the question. William Spomer, Richard Kiefer, and Robert L. Burrell, of Western Maryland, supported the negative side for W. Md.

ELECTIONS

If we understand the Constitution of the Student Government Association correctly, the elections for the various offices of student activities are completed the last Friday in May.

We believe that this is not only poorly placed, but also contrary to the usual custom in the majority of colleges and universities. Whether or not the date is in accordance with the dates used by other institutions is of little importance to us, who have a purely local problem to worry about. However, in the case of at least two organizations—THE ELM and THE PEGASUS—we are certain that the moving up of the elections to the first Friday in May, so they will be completed by the second Friday, would be beneficial. In the instance of THE ELM there should be tacked on to the election ruling the statement that the newly elected Editor and Business Manager should take full charge of the last edition. That edition would be, in a sense, a trial horse on which both the Editor and his cohort could try out their own ideas; discover the difficulties peculiar to the publication of a college newspaper; and realize their own errors. They would also get a taste of responsibility and without going into tiresome details—the result would be a better grade of journalism for the college in the following year. At the present time all this is impossible because the elections are held after the last page of THE ELM is "put to bed."

As things stand now with THE PEGASUS under the present ruling, the newly elected men find that they must sign all their contracts immediately without any understanding of the mysterious ways of photographers, printers, and engravers; and that they must retire to their respective homes before they have had a chance to work out their hazy plans with the engraver and the printer, and with themselves. If the elections were to take place on the date we have offered, these fledglings at the game could see how copy, cuts, and photographs were handled in the editing of the book. The retiring Editor could explain what he had learned during his year of servitude, and could point out to them his errors. These men would have the time to sign good contracts; they might easily begin their edition of THE PEGASUS. And once again the result of this plan would be a better grade of work in what is an important part in representing the college to outsiders.

For the other organizations we can speak with no authority, but would it not be the training and a fitting tribute to have the incoming officers preside over meetings before the commencement rush has made them mere farces?

There is also another side to our argument. It is a purely selfish one. Should not all seniors engaged in the various activities be released from their burdens during and before the hectic, last days of their college life? Should they not be allowed to move over these carefree years and to meditate upon the catastrophe of graduation? And then, there are other interesting things to do about that time of the year.

"THAN LONGEN FOLK TO GOON ON PILGRIMAGES"

We are not one to scoff at the beauty or the attraction of Chestertown; it is a fine place, and so is Washington College (founded 1782). But these days April is laughing at her ways across the fields and classes are futile and work is to be avoided.

We are not quite sure where we must go but it must be somewhere. Now the Island of Capri often caught our fancy. One could go there and, like the Italian peasant in Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises," sit on his back in a hot sun and hold the goat skin full of red wine at an arm's length, and develop an unerring aim for one's mouth after a few minutes practice. Then Paris in the Spring is often spoken of. Or perhaps the hot sands of Palm Beach would suit you better.

If we went on like this we would soon be completely demoralized. We are here until June and we must in some fashion struggle along. All we can do is beg the professors for mercy or put our fate in the hands of the gods and not do a damn thing.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

"The ELM" wishes to respectfully acknowledge the following new Exchanges:

"The Springfield Student," Springfield College.

"The Pasquin," Potomac State College.

"The Log," United States Naval Academy.

"Poly Press," Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

"B. T." is the "Holy Leo!" admits that George Washington, one of the famous sons of Washington College, once told a lie. It is reported that he said "good morning" to a young lady on a rainy day.

American University Debating Team travels by airplane, so we are informed.

We reprint, the following "ind" appearing in the "American Eagle." We hope that some Washingtonians might see fit to report some of the extra scandal here.

SCANDAL WANTED: First class only. MUST CONCERN GRADUATES OF THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY. LIBERAL APPRECIATION FOR SAME. ADDRESS E. B. ESLEY, 3748 WOODLEY RD., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Do we have any American U. graduates here? Ed. Note: Perhaps it should be wise for B. E. U. to change one of those B's to a "W" denoting Winchell.

Trinity College's Glee Club has evidently done something worth while since they have received a creditable boost in the editorial column of "The Tripod."

The Junior Class at Swarthmore has ordered class Blazer; as a means of identifying themselves in Juniors, and as Swarthmore students.

Ann: "Do you like Chopin?"
 Ray: "No, I get tired of walking from store to store."

—B. R. C. Reflector.

The "Roundabout Mugwump," as is called the Engineers' Banquet at the Albanian Agricultural College, is to be a howling affair, so the "Farthest West" Collegian reports.

Frost: "What happens to a girl in cotton stockings."
 Katz: "Nothing!"

—Springfield Student.

In the "Pasquin" there appears a small about blank "ad" with the inscription: WATH THIS SPACE NEST ISSUE. We wonder if this really amounts to something or whether it is a new form of a space filler. If it is a space filler, it is apparently a good one, and the news should be passed along to other editors.

"AS I LIKE IT"

As my colleague in the next column says, the advancing of the election dates is a fine thing for at least the two organizations mentioned. However, he didn't mention that this year will show whether, like at the University of Maryland, Fraternity politics will dominate the annual set or not. Perhaps THE ELM should campaign against the intrusion of the Greek letters, but in a college of this size it would be difficult for any Editor to poke his editorial finger in the pie without being accused of what he was trying to prevent.

There is a lot of chatter about the price of the orchestra for the girls' now-boys-choice-to-drag-her-in affair. Many of the fairer sisters think that the fifty equipments to one hundred pennies is bounceback bucks for four pieces.

Although baseball is officially not existing at the place George heard "Gastavus Yasa" at, we wouldn't be a bit startled to hear that the ball coaches remaining matched hats with Maryland and perhaps other higher schools. Lower institutions, nothing official, you know, but they are starting to get interested in the schedules of the other colleges.

The big question that is bothering those who are intending to study the world with their appearance this June is: who is going to take the part of "Gastavus Yasa" and Washington in the pageant to be held? That is to say nothing of those who are working as they to their looks in silk stockings.

For your reading when your not loafing or playing Solitaire may we recommend: "Sparks Fly Upwards" by Oliver La Farge, the story of an Indian who makes good in the United States Army; and "Love Is A Grown Up" a prize novel appearing in the March Scribners.

The winners of this meet will go to New York to battle for the opportunity to represent the U. S. in the coming olympics.

Several other state college's have sent their best boxers to similar tournaments to the one in which Holland is entered. Western Maryland, Navy and Loyola have entered men in the meet to be held at Penn State in the near future.

LAFAYETTE FALLS UNDER WASHINGTON'S ATTACK

Ekait's Men Gain First Win Of Season

Washington College defeated Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., in Lacrosse Wednesday, April 6, by a score of 3 to 0. It marked the first triumph of the locals in this old Indian game during the current season, they having previously lost to St. John's.

Appearing to have profited in defeat at the hands of St. John's, Coach Ekait's team completely outclassed the Maroons of Lafayette. Using the St. John's system of a hard-fighting game, the Washington left little hope for their defense to do, but the latter successfully frustrated the few scoring efforts of the opposing team. More team work was evidenced, especially in clearing the ball out.

Washington Faces Western Maryland

Ekaitis Has Coached Both
Twelves

Coach Ekaitis' Lacrosse players will play his former team mates this afternoon at Westminster when Washington College engages in its third state game of the season against Western Maryland College. The Maroon and Black will be presented an opportunity to make up for losses to two of the "Big Three" in Maryland Lacrosse, St. John's, and the University of Maryland.

The defeat that Western Maryland gave to the Chestertown boys last year at Westminster is still fresh in their minds, and an entire revival of theirs is their aim.

Coach Ekaitis' plans to have his team play a type of game which has produced such good results in the last three contests, that aggressive game with the attack riding the opposing defense all over the field. On the attack, a fast cutting game will be used. The local players are small but fast and it is thought that such cutting will produce better results against larger but slower players, the type the Green Terriers will present on the defense.

The Washington team will be backed at the post position by the absence of J. Lawton Jones, who has been declared ineligible for intercollegiate competition for the rest of the present term. Jones has performed quite well and just acquired the necessary experience to make him a fine and dependable defense player. Mike Williams is scheduled to fill the vacated position and this Chestertown product should make a very creditable showing. Other than this change in the line up, no other changes in the line up. The attack consisting of Chambers, Williams, Givahis, Kirgfin, Robinson, and Clark remain intact and judging from practice scrimmages this week will be ready to roll up a score. The defense composed of Pippin, Wingate, Gember, Flannery, Williams and Robinson will be expected to frustrate the scoring efforts of the Terriers.

College Plans Washington Bi-Centennial And College Sesqui-Centennial Celebrations

Colonial Dances Will Be Feature Of June Ball

To bring back to the Washington College campus the color, the life, and some of the personalities of the college's brilliant colonial period is the ultimate aim of the various committees under the direction of President Paul E. Titusworth, who is guiding the plans for the Sesqui-Centennial and Bicentennial Celebrations. The boom of the sunrise gun on the morning of June 11 will officially begin the exercises—although the June Ball to be held on the previous evening is an integral part of the celebration—and the last echo of the sunset gun on the same day will mark the close.

A special committee with Stephen R. Collins, chairman, and with Mrs. H. H. Rogers, Miss Doris T. Bell, Dean J. S. W. Jones, Harold D. Shriver, and Paul T. Pippin assisting are planning to open the June Ball with a series of colonial dances

Smith, the Men's Glee Club, Mr. Raymond Moffett, and the orchestra, Dr. Frederick G. Livingston.

The Double Mixed Quartet and the Girls' Glee Club will broadcast over WCAO, on Sunday, May 22, at 4 P. M., under Mrs. Smith's direction.

The Men's Glee Club of Washington College, will broadcast over WFER on May 3. Mr. Raymond Moffett, under whose direction it will be presented, will sing a solo number and the single quartet and the Men's Double Quartet will each have a number, also.

Albert W. Dowling Wins College Pageant Prize

Albert W. Dowling, of Rock Hall, was announced today as the winner of the Sesqui-Centennial pageant contest by the Judges Dr. Esther M. Davis, Margaret G. Brewer, dean of women, and Doris T. Bell, head of the pageant committee.

The details of the winning paper will not be announced until a description of it appears in "The Pegasus," but it will probably concern the visit of George Washington to the college in May, 1783. It was at that time that the first President heard the play of "Gustavus Vasa." It was also at that time that Dr. William Smith referred to Washington as a man similar in character to Gustavus Vasa, the deliver of the Swedish people. It is believed that Mr. Dowling has worked these events into his pageant.

NAMED CLASS ORATOR

Walter A. Branford

Walter A. Branford, of Nantuxee, Md., has been elected Class Orator by a committee of members from the present graduating class. His speech, which will have for its theme the effect the one hundred and fifty years of tradition should have on Washington College graduates, will be delivered during the commencement day exercises to be held on June 11.

CLASS ORATOR A L S O WINS W. C. T. U. CONTEST

W. M. Richards Gets Honorable Mention

Walter A. Branford, senior, was announced winner of the twenty-five dollar prize offered by the Chestertown branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to students of Washington College for the best essay on "Modern Science's Contribution to the Understanding of the Alcohol Question." William McAlpine (senior) was given honorable mention. The paper will be entered in the national W. C. T. U. contest.

The Judges for the contest were the Rev. E. A. Sexsmith, the Rev. Charles L. Atwater, and the Rev. Harry Wright. Mrs. F. G. Uillon, of Chestertown, conducted the contest. Mr. Branford will read his prize paper before the county convention of the W. C. T. U. to be held in the Chestertown M. E. Church on Thursday evening, April 28.

The prize was won last year by Kenneth Bouty, '31, whose paper later took first honors in the national contest.

A. D. MACKAY TALKS TO STUDENT ASSEMBLY

Discusses Law As Possible Profession

"Law as a Profession," was the subject of a vocational address given in Chapel Thursday by Mr. Albert D. Mackay, member of the class of 1909 of Washington College, and now a prominent lawyer of Elkins, Md.

In his talk, Mr. Mackay discussed the advantages and disadvantages of following the legal profession, and the various qualities required for an individual to be a success in this particular field of human endeavor.

Mr. Mackay is the second of a series of vocational speakers to be brought to the college by Dr. Fredrick Livingston, head of the faculty committee on assembly speakers.

STUDENTS VOTE DOWN PROPOSED CHAPEL RULE

Protest Against Donning
Coats

The sentiment against a rule compelling all male students to wear coats for the evening meal in the college commons was so strongly expressed in a meeting of the male members of the four classes held in William Smith Hall on Thursday, April 21, that President Oliver E. Robinson discontinued all plans to adopt such a ruling.

A rule requiring all Freshmen to wear coats during the assembly hour—to be enforced next year—was practically unanimously endorsed with cheers and song extolls. The reaction to a ruling that all male members be required to wear coats during the assembly period—to be enforced this year—was indefinite, with half of the group opposed and half in favor of the ruling.

President Robinson concluded the meeting with a warning against the use of "slugs" in the Middle Hall telephone.

Washington Players Will Present 3 One-Act Plays

Three one-act plays are to be given in William Smith Hall on the night of Thursday, May 5th, at 8:00. The plays are "The Love Passage" by W. W. Jacobs, directed by Miss Dorothy Johnson; "How I Lied To My Husband" by George Bernard Shaw, coached by Mr. Lindley E. Cook; and "Big Van Winkle" coached by Mr. E. A. Sexsmith and directed by Mr. William H. Danneberg.

The actors in "The Love Passage" are: Mildred Spivars, DeWitt F. Clark, Wilma Davis, and Edna J. Bailey.

The cast of "How I Lied To My Husband" is: Robert Furness, Rosine Scott, Robert Rabin.

In "Big Van Winkle" the players are: William Danneberg, Hazellett Newman. Other trouper are: Hoss and Plummer, Helen Norris and Willard Souder.

May 7th Is Tentative Date Set For College Spring Elections

"The Pegasus" Office May Be Used For Balloting

Selection of a suitable date for the spring elections is the problem that faces the Student Council at their next meeting. The assembly period of May 7 is the tentative date set for the nominations, but selection of this time depends on the acceptance of this date by Dr. George Prentiss, member of the Mental Hygiene Society, who is scheduled to address the students at that assembly.

Even if this date is secured for the nominating and electing of the student officers, it will be necessary to hold another balloting day, it is believed by President Oliver E. Robinson, to fill completely the list of offices under the new system of balloting by the Student Council. It is planning to have the incoming officers take their positions before the middle of May, it is expected that "The Pegasus" office may have to be opened into a voting booth to allow the students to express their opinions on the entire ticket of candidates.

Last Cotillion Held Last Night

Decorations Score Big Success

As though tired of old age, Washington College held its Sesqui-Centennial Class Fun in the college gymnasium, Friday evening, April 22, with a lack of spirit that even the St. Louis Blues could not revive. It was the fifth and last dance held under the auspices of the 1932 Washington College Cotillion Club.

The orchestra, from the LaVale Inn near Cumberland, Md., and playing under the name of Robinson's Orchestra, was received with silence by the crowd of approximately seventy couples.

The decorations which covered the roof of the dance floor with a tent of brilliant red crepe paper, and draped the windows in red and white gave a brilliant background for the assembly period, which belied the darkness of the season. They were in charge of James M. Parsons. He was assisted by John J. Ludly, George H. Cordery, Jr., John L. Sauer, Albert E. Baker, and Oliver E. Robinson.

The patrons for the cotillion were: Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Baston, Dr. and Mrs. William R. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ford, Miss Margaret Brown, Dr. Thomas H. Fowler, Miss Doris T. Bell, and Mr. Frank Goodwin.

The cotillion committee for this year was: Harold D. Shriver, president; Uriah O. Goodhew, Jr., vice-president; DeWitt F. Clark, treasurer; and William McAlpine, Richard, Walter E. Kurling, Barette Nuttle, and Edwin T. Goughman.

The motto of the dance was from Shakespeare:

"When you do dance, I wish you
A wave's the sea, that I wish you Ever its Nothing but that."

ones on the entire ticket of candidates.

If this takes place, the results of the balloting during the Thursday assembly period will be posted on the bulletin board in William Smith Hall as soon as the tallying is over. Those offices and candidates yet to be voted for will be indicated and, on the next day, Friday, the students will go to "The Pegasus" office to file their ballots. Here Student Council members will check the voters and tally the votes. The final count on each office will be printed in THE WASHINGTON ELM, which is scheduled to appear the Saturday morning following.

The new policy of the Student Council—to install the incoming officers early in the year—has been adopted by that body with the aim of acquainting the new men with their duties for the coming college year.

THE WASHINGTON ELM AGAIN

Continuing our campaign for an improved college newspaper, which was begun in the last edition by the suggestion that the incoming men edit the final number of this year's paper, we pass on to the editor of next year a style book for the editing of copy. In this, with the help of members of the staff, we have attempted to set a standard for the copy going into the paper and to set up a few arbitrary rules concerning capitalization, punctuation, and style. In the creation of this book we are following the custom of all reputable publications. In fact, we have used the style book of "The Baltimore Sun" to guide us in our efforts.

It is our firm conviction that THE ELM cannot be a force in moulding student opinion, nor can it carry conviction to its readers, until it improves technically and mechanically. In the representation of this college to outsiders the newspaper can be one of the most potent influences, and this step towards what we think is an improvement in the paper will unquestionably aid in advancing the better side of our college life. We pass it on to our small contribution to newspaper work in Washington College.

The other great fault with the mode of conducting the paper in this college is still to be explained in these columns. Our opinion on it will appear in the next issue.

I HEAR YOU CALLING ME

With the advent of this warm spring weather we can imagine, although we cannot state it as a fact, that the telephone in Middle Hall is having its share of use. The mystical numbers—265—have probably been whispered, panted, or sighed into the ear of the operator times beyond count.

That is as it should be. We are a firm believer, if not a devotee, of the pleasures of co-education. We stand firmly for bigger and better telephones and we endorse any plan that tends towards comfort during long winded calls. We imagine that our fellow students, the denizens of Middle Hall, support us in our beliefs.

If you men do believe in telephones, then may we whisper gently in your eager ears that for some time now Uncle Sam has curiously refused to take "slugs" in exchange for the currency of the land? Equally as strange, the telephone company has upheld him in this practice. The conclusion to this interesting little problem is that very soon the boys will be able to keep all their "slugs" without having to lose them down the telephone box. We recommend the solving of this little problem of how the boys can keep their "slugs" and the Hall can keep its phone to the Middle Hall Club. It would be a fine way to justify its existence—as all organizations should do—on the campus.

INTRODUCTION

We notice that one college editor in an eastern university has been expelled for his violent editorial policies. Now we have not once been even threatened with dismissal. We are wondering if this is not a sign of decadence. If we had not been conducting the paper on staid, stodgy, and conventional lines, we feel sure that someone would have objected to our residence in this vicinity—that is, violently objected.

Any person can suggest something that is utterly absurd, and there will be hundreds of people ready to believe it, especially if it is at the expense of some other person.

Because a man has a reputation (or telling the truth is no indication that his truthfulness in all cases is commendable.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

NO CAVE MEN!

The "cave men" probably was a mild, meek husband. All the evidence indicates that his domestic status has been grossly misrepresented. Dr. John M. Cooper, of Catholic University told the Catholic Anthropological Conference at its annual meeting here during the Easter recess.

There are no actual "cave men" left in the world, Dr. Cooper said, but among the most primitive peoples extant, who may represent the nearest approach to the primeval condition of man, the status of women is nearly that of absolute equality with the males. Dr. Cooper, however, gave little credence to the theory of a primeval matriarchy in which women was supreme.—From "The Tower."

AN ATHLETIC IDEAL BECOMES FACT

The traditional Swarthmore ideal of athletics differs widely from the ordinary college standard. Instead of the usual "a winning team at all costs—except that of undesirable publicity" slogan, there has been incited from the beginning the motto, "athletics for all."—From "The Swarthmore Phoenix."

YOUR SUGGESTIONS

We have asked for and received suggestions for "improving the Collegian." A great number of the answers received were not to be taken at all seriously, but here are some of the suggestions more worthy of acceptance:

1. Make the Student World column a regular feature.
2. Insert some "good, clean, witty jokes." (Ed. Note: Is there such an animal?)
3. Insert a "Freshman's Letter Home."
4. Have a regular worthwhile alumni column.
5. Have advance write-ups of theatrical concerts.
6. Run a weekly museum from the President.
7. Run a six-page paper.
8. Some anonymous person asked that we advocate changing the name of the college to King William's College.
9. Do away with all politics and counter-factualism.
10. Less intellectual bunk and more articles of entertainment. (He matters us.)
11. More sports, current news, and less sporting.
12. Insert each week a caricature of members of the graduating class.
13. Editorials on Communism, Prison Reform, and so forth.
14. Re-establish a Forum.—From "The St. John's Collegian."

Can it be that somewhere students do take an interest in their paper?

AS I LIKE IT

"As I Like It," huh? Well at this moment I don't like it a bit. If you care about things at this four year hanger you would feel that way, too. The Senior Class—just to begin—is the one hundred and fifty class, as you might have heard. In the past, classes have always given he college something to remember them by. But are we doing it this year? The answer rings out NO. Perhaps the gift was too much; perhaps it wasn't what the majority would like; but there was there any suggestion for another type of gift? There were a few cries by the more or less articulate about being jipped and then they all went back to their argument as to who won the last rubber of bridge. Someone ought to cut a niche in the side of Bill Smith Hall and place therein nothing. Beneath it it would be fitting to write, "Above find the contribution of the Class of 1932 to the life, the equipment, and the heritage of Washington College."

Enough of all that. The weather of late has made us feel as though we could excuse that, not to say anything of a few murders or lynchings.

We wonder if the Seniors are rejoicing over the newly announced fact that they do not have to don the regalia of the eighteenth century. And what about the seniors? And the Board of Visitors and Governors?

And did you know that we are going to be in the movies, and over the air? One of the most famous or infamous men, according to your view, might be here on June 11? The problem that faces this special committee of the Dean's Cabinet is not cutting down the number of activities, as is the intention, but the suggestion to the leaders of those organizations that they give up? There are so many "Presidents" around this place that you can't move without stumbling over one? There used to be an association in the college that was called the "Student Protective League"? It later developed into what is now jokingly called the "Student Council"?

DR. ESTHER DOLE TELLS College Retains Scholarship; ABOUT TRIP TO EGYPT Received By Dr. Dole

Illustrates Talk With Pictures Collected

Dr. Esther M. Dole delivered a lecture on "Egypt," in the Parish House of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, the evening of April 19, which was based on her recent trip through that country, and illustrated with pictures collected there.

After first picking out the exact route of her trip, on the map shown on the screen, Dr. Dole proceeded to tell of the various points of interest on the way. She described her personal impressions of Cairo, the Pyramids, and the Sphinx, the beauty of the Tia Capitale, the little temple of Denderah, the grandeur of the temple of Luxor, and also that of Karnak, with the twin row of Sphinxes leading to it. She went on to portray the impressiveness of the Egyptian Dam, the biggest in the world, and the beauty of the Temple of Philae, now inundated by the Nile as the result of the building of the dam.

The scholarship for the study of art given by the American Institute of Architects has once again been received by Dr. Esther M. Dole, professor of History at Washington College. The scholarship includes complete expenses for travel and research work. It also carries with it an additional sum of one hundred and fifty dollars to be used in the purchase of pictures for the college halls.

Dr. Dole will begin her work this summer at the University of Harvard.

Double Mixed Quartette To CO-EDS BEGIN SPRING Give Concert In Easton, Md. SPORTS UNDER MISS BELL

The Washington College Double Mixed Quartette will take part in the concert given by the Eastern Choral Society, of Easton, under the direction of Mrs. Cleveland S. Smith, on Sunday, May 8, at 3 P. M., at the New Theatre, in Easton. The members of the quartette, the Misses Johnson, Neale, Curvel, and Jewell, and Messrs. Harris, Furman, Hodgson and Bradford, will sing in the "Easter Chorus" from Massenet's opera "Cavalier Rusticain."

Volley Ball May Become Major Sport

The ending season of co-ed's athletics has opened with volley ball, tennis, and archery. Close tennis in volley ball are to be favored this year for the first time. If this sport proves a success, tennis will be dropped to the rank of a minor sport and volley ball made a major one. The spring tennis tournament will begin as soon as the courts are put in order. Everyday the archery teams come out to practice to raise their scores in preparation of the archery tournament to be held next month. The co-eds are trying hard to break the new record of 90, set by Miss Doris Bell. With the close of cold weather, the indoor sports of basketball and fencing come to an end.

Md. Basket Ball League Is Planned

Coach Kibler Is Chairman Of Organization Committee

That Washington College will be come a member of a Maryland intercollegiate basketball league might be the outcome of the meeting here in Baltimore, April 19, which was attended by representatives from Hopkins, Loyola, Mt. St. Mary's, Western Maryland, St. John's and Washington Colleges. Coach J. Thomas Kibler and Graduate Manager Elmer Schutt were the representatives for Washington College. While the St. John's and Western Maryland men were not able to speak with complete authority for their institutions, the remaining four college groups showed a willingness to form the league.

With Western Maryland almost certain to enter it was decided to organize the league in the event that few teams could be secured up. Coach Kibler was named chairman in charge of the organization of the circuit.

Some doubt as to St. John's entering the league was expressed although "Dutch" Lantz, its St. John's coach, was in accord with the idea.

The University of Maryland and Navy were not asked to join the league since neither could comply with the schedule requirements. Officials at the State university and the Naval Academy, however, expressed approval of the plan.

The decision of the Western Maryland authorities is expected by next week and if it is favorable, Coach Kibler will take steps toward permanently organizing the conference.

HORSE SHOES BECOME POPULAR AT COLLEGE

GOLDSTEIN INTRODUCES SPORT AT COLLEGE

Overnight horse shoes has become a popular diversion at Washington College and the clank of metal from the direction of the old gymnasium is no novelty. The horse shoe fist started about a month ago when Louis Goldstein, a freshman, drove a couple of stakes out beside the tennis courts and proceeded to take over all who challenged him. Incidentally, Goldstein claims his county championship, which he won in the P. A. L. tournament in 1920.

The sport has grown so popular that the college athletic authorities have set up a number of horse shoe courts in the vacant lot back of mid-field hall.

Sports Notes

By Phillip J. Wingate

Coach George Ekblat's stickmen met the ferocious Green Terrors of Western Maryland today and the locals expect once again to demonstrate the old adage of "the bigger they come the harder they fall." The Maroon and Black has been far outdistanced in every game played up to date, but size has been a matter of least importance to the hand-sliding Washingtonians. Western Maryland will present a big defense, but Coach Ekblat expects his charges to have a sufficient advantage over his former college mates in speed and stick work to take the decision.

Joe Deckman, Maryland coach of defense and unanimous selection for All-American point last year, after waiting the Maryland-Washington to come game, declared the present Washington twelve to be by far the best coached stick combination that Washington has ever put on the field. Deckman was not the only Marylander impressed with the fight and ability of the Maroon and Black, for Willie Pugh, All-American center for the Terrapins, pronounced Charlie Clark one of the toughest men he had ever tangled with.

Fritz Reinhold probably will not be the general choice for all-American goalie this year, because goal tenders on more successful teams will receive some publicity. However, discerning critics, who have seen the Washington net-wizard in action realize that Fritz is a goal keeper per excellence. Reinhold gave an exhibition in front of the set during the Maryland game that was equalled only by his punting in the foot ball game with the Terrapins last fall.

The announcement that Washington will enter two relay teams in the Penn Relays has given an added incentive to the local track stars who are taking daily workouts under Coach Kibler. Among the quarter milers that have shown much promise are: Fleetwood, Buesman, Chase, Dickerson and Bradley.

TRACK STARS WORK OUT DAILY ON CINDER PATH

COLLEGE IS REPRESENTED IN PENN RELAYS

Representatives of Washington College on the cinder-path have been working out for the past three or four weeks on the local trails. It marks the renewal of this sport at Washington after a lapse of four years. Coach Kibler is coaching the locals and expects to develop a creditable team.

Although a full schedule will not be attempted this year, one will be presented next season which will give the Maroon and Black runners a chance to show their wares after this year's organization and experience. Washington College will be represented at the Penn Relays on the twenty-ninth and thirtieth of this month and other meets with Susquehanna and Gahndet have been arranged. Among the candidates for track laurels are Chase, Buesman, Fleetwood, Dickerson, Bonwill, Hopkins, Stark, Anthony, Elmer, Ward, Prouffitt, Bradley, Cooper, Lord, Squires, and Brougham.

N. Y. U. Victor In Peculiar Contest

Visitors Rally To Defeat Local Second Stringers

"New York University's lacrosse team got a wind fall that came like manna from heaven here yesterday afternoon and a smart little Washington College twelve suffered a most peculiar and undeserved defeat."

"The final score of 6 to 5 tells such a completely misleading story of what actually happened that it should be stricken from the records on the grounds that it is not pertinent."

"New York University did not defeat the Maroon and Black varsity twelve, didn't, cause within forty miles of doing so."

The above paragraphs taken from Bill Wingate's wispish "The Baltimore News" tell the true account of the Washington-N. Y. U. lacrosse game played on Kibler field April 13.

A misunderstanding as to the time remaining to be played after the Washington varsity had piled up a 5 to 1 lead in the second half caused the locals to suffer defeat at the hands of a stick which they had closed in every department of play. After being told by the time keeper that there remained but 5 minutes to play, Coach Ekblat, thinking to give his substitutes some experience, sent in a complete second string, mid-field. However, it then developed that the timekeeper had misinformed the Washington coach and there was really 21 minutes to play.

It was then that the N. Y. U. team rallied and overwhelmed the Maroon and Black second stringers to turn certain defeat into a 6 to 5 victory. The New Yorkers took the winning goal thirty seconds before the final gun, as Captain Knagis and other Washington regulars, forbidden by the rules to return to the contest, sat slyly on the bench.

Washington Bi-Centennial Celebration To Take Place Afternoon Of June 11

Local High Schools To Play Big Part In Celebration

without unduly prolonging the program. There will be brief contributions of the eighteenth century Latin and French orations and the opening phrases of the commencement will probably be spoken in the scholarly tongue. The members of the graduation class will not wear colonial costumes. The ushers, made up of members of the Silver Pentagon chapter of the Blue Key fraternity, will wear, however, the bright blue and buff of the Continental Army.

The main speaker of the day has not been determined, but he will, in all probability, be a prominent member of the diplomatic circle in Washington.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie will also be among the notables that will that day address the graduating class and visitors.

George Sceptoe Washington, a collateral descendant of the first President, will be one of the guests of honor as was his forbear in May 1784.

In the afternoon the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be held on the campus with the college students and the residents of the surrounding towns participating. Arrangements have already been made for the broadcasting and filming of these events.

A procession of floats portraying historic events will begin in Chestertown and proceed towards the college unrolling as it goes the Washington markers and the tablets commemorating historic spots. Prizes have been offered of ten dollars each for the most artistic float from among each of the following groups: one room schools, graded elementary schools, high schools, and the adult organizations of the county. The prizes will be offered separately to each group. There will be no competition between the groups.

On the arrival of the procession at Washington College the dedication of the markers, that are to be placed at the historic spots throughout the state, will take place. The organization of the procession and the general arrangement for the procedure of the afternoon program will be under the direction of J. Thomas Killee, director of athletics at Washington College, and head of the local branch of the American Legion.

The pageants, under the leadership of Miss Doris T. Bell, assistant director of Physical Education at Washington College, will take place in approximately the following manner:

Prologus.
Baker Hall High School Pageant.
Galena High School Pageant.
Millington High School Pageant.
Chestertown High School Pageant.
Washington College Pageant.

Epi-logue.
The pageants by the local high schools will take approximately fifteen minutes each and will concern some event in their town's history in which Washington figures. The pageant offered by the students of the college will probably concern the visit of George Washington to the campus in 1784. Included in this will be a shortened version of the play, "George Washington," which was presented in its entirety by the students during Washington's visit in May, 1784. Because of the inclusion of the play in the college pageant, this showing will take approximately forty-five minutes.

The members of the local branch of the American Legion will serve as ushers for the occasion.

All visitors, students, and local residents are invited to attend all the functions of the college during these days of gala celebration dressed in the colorful costumes of the period that is being commemorated.

Middle Hall Me Object To Outsiders In Lounge

President Instructed To Write Fraternities

That a disagreement between the fraternity and non-fraternity factions of the college loomed clear was shown today by the demand of the Middle Hall Club members on Walter A. Bradford, the president, to ask the presidents of the three fraternities in a formal letter to have fraternity members show "a feeling of reserve" in their use of the Middle Hall lounge rooms.

The letter, in part, follows: "It seems as though some fraternities have been using the 'Middle Hall Club room and its facilities indiscriminately. This has caused friction within our club between the members and those who do not feel obligated to pay the nominal dues. We are glad to have fraternities men mingle with us, but we feel that at least a feeling of reserve should prevail."

"We need your cooperation in this matter. We hope you will comply with our wishes and our connections may be of the highest and friendliest type."

No answer has as yet been made by the three fraternities.

Olympia "Doings"

(Special To THE ELM)
By Leonard Horwin
INTRODUCING
Good morning, folks.

We introduce ourselves as your special news announcers on the Olympic Games, bringing to you for the next few months interesting sidelights on the "doings" as America prepares its athletic party for the world.

UNCLE SAM THE HOST

During the last days of July and the first fourteen days of August, the United States plays host to the world and the games of the Xth Olympiad. To date, the record number of 60 nations have announced their intention to participate. Southern California, the "Playground of America," and the scene of the events, is preparing a tip-ringing welcome.

IT'S NOT SO

"People think of the Olympic Games as a type of glorified track meet."

Bill Henry, famed sports writer and expert, for twenty years a leading correspondent on assignments to the part of the globe, now sports technical director of the Olympic Games, was telling us of his work.

"They are more than that. Besides including an international contest of the finest field of sport with several score nations represented, they are in themselves a great gesture of international fellowship and a tradition rooted in antiquity."

"This" and the abjectly bull sports mentor in the tan sports suit emphasized his words, "will probably be the only time in the lives of persons now living that the games will be held in America."

OLYMPIA

These games had a deep symbolism in man's universal antiquity.

It is a matter of historical fact that in ancient Greece great battles were called off when the moon reached a certain position in the heavens during the summer solstice. The homicide squads on both sides of the battlefield would then adjourn, and truce off to Olympia on the west coast of Greece to hold the games.

In truth, they were not games, but athletic rites of purification dedicated to Zeus, invisible ruler of heaven and earth.

The serious business over, and the victors crowned with the proper herbs, the athletes would return to the home-place on the battlefield.

It seems fitting that the Olympic Games, in which the physical perfection of the youth of that ancient day inspired eternal works of art, should have been revived by a youth in this modern day when the Games, with their intense competition, are an invaluable physical expression to men being devoured by the machine age.

DEATH AND REVIVAL

Although the Greeks had a word for him and more, the Roman Emperor Theodosius finished both Greeks and games in the year 394 A. D.

And that was for nearly fifteen centuries until the year 1892.

In that year the athletically-minded Frenchman, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, then a youth of seventeen, proposed the revival of the games before the French Sports Union. His dream was realized at Athens four years later—the city which once beheld the glory that was Greece in the days of the Olympiads, now witnessing the first modern edition of the ancient games.

President of the Student Council—Hubert Ryan.

Vice-President of the Student Council—Joseph Dickerson.

Joseph Dickerson, his closest contestant for the presidency was elected to the office of Vice-President on the first ballot. Richard Gamber, who was elected to the office of Secretary, followed his future colleagues to office on the first ballot with a total of 57 votes. Eugene Nuttle, the next highest candidate, received 29 votes.

Phillip Wingate was elected Editor of THE WASHINGTON ELM on the initial ballot with 89 votes. William Richards, the only other candidate with more than a handful of votes, tallied 18 in the counting. John McLain outscored Joseph Dickerson by 22 votes to become Business Manager of THE ELM by the count of 91 to 69. Charles Clark, this year's sports reporter, was elected Assistant Editor with a total of 105 out of the 165 cast, while Edward Coulbourn was chosen as assistant McLain in the control of the paper's purse strings.

The presidency of the Athletic Association went to Edward Fitzgerald on the second ballot where he scored 77 votes over the 44 and 43 of his two opponents.

CHOSEN PAGEANT LEAD

Elizabeth M. Brice, of Betterton, Md., will play the part of Nellie Curtis in the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Washington College. It was announced here today. Florence C. Rosin, of Galt, Md., will impersonate the character of Betty Fairfax in the same celebration. Both of these historical characters played by Miss Brice and Miss Rosin, were the famous ladies of the Colonial period.

MISS LAVINA ENGL'S SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Says Students Can Effect Local Thinking

"The geographical and social structure of the Eastern Shore gives the students of Washington College an excellent opportunity to effect the political and economical thinking of this locality," declared Miss Lavina Engles, of the Maryland House of Delegates, in addressing the student body at the assembly held in William Smith Hall on Thursday, April 28.

"The colleges and universities, in comparison to those of other countries, are too detached from the political and economical life of the community about them. The students must make their contact with the problems that are raised," said the speaker.

"Often times," she continued, "the university or college, in a busy city, is too close to the events to see the economical and political factors involved. But you at Washington College, in the seclusion of the Eastern Shore, can view them calmly and in perspective."

Council Acts On Cabinet Resolutions

No Action Taken This Year

The resolutions of the Dean's Cabinet, which implied the discontinuance of the Middle Hall and Golf Clubs, and the merging of the two literary societies into one with the name of Mt. Vernon, was received by the Student Council at its meeting on May 2 and upheld in part and otherwise referred to the groups concerned. No official reaction to their decisions has been received.

It was stated by the Council that the golf course, now located on the college campus, will be situated on the new athletic field next year and golf will then come more naturally under control of the Athletic Association. In this way, the activities of the Club will be taken over by the Association and the need for the Club will disappear. No action will be taken this year. The Club will continue to exist with the same officers and the same functions.

The Middle Hall Club will exist next year only if the members of Middle Hall care to organize informally for their present activities, the maintenance of the lounge and the purchasing of minor equipment, will be assumed by the college authorities. It was recommended by the Council that J. J. Johns, business manager of the college, assess the residents of Middle Hall one dollar for the purchasing of equipment and he assist in the management of the lounge. (Continued On Page 5)

STUDENTS HEAR DR. PRESTON AT ASSEMBLY

Dr. George Preston, commissioner of Mental Hygiene for the State of Maryland, told the students at the assembly on June 4 that education should protect them from mental ill health, but added that he was not sure that it would.

To enable the students to determine when they were in good mental health, Dr. Preston defined it as "producing the appropriate behavior for a given situation." He admitted that the word "appropriate" was as indefinite as the words "mental ill health," which he said were almost impossible to define.

"Education should teach us," the speaker continued, "to evaluate our own behavior and thinking with the behavior and thinking of others. We must always realize that people present a 'front' that hides their real self from the world. The 'slips of the tongue' are always the real things that people are thinking."

"It is not the situation we are in that determines our behavior in it, it is our attitude towards the factors of that situation that determine whether we produce 'the appropriate behavior.'"

"Education," concluded Dr. Preston, "should enable us to define the intangible and thus to estimate our position in the scale of other people's thinking."

Junior Girls To Hold Tea This Afternoon

The Junior women will entertain the Senior men and women at a tea to be held in Reid Hall today at 3 P. M.

Spring flowers, gathered from local gardens, will be used as decorations for the function.

This affair is an annual event held in honor of each graduating class of the college.

German Ambassador Will Speak Here June 11

Friedrich von Prittwitz, German Ambassador to the United States, has accepted the invitation to be the Commencement speaker for the one hundred and fiftieth Commencement of this college. It was announced here today by President Paul E. Titterton.

Herr von Prittwitz began service in the German Foreign office in 1908 and, since that time has served in St. Petersburg, Rome, Trieste, and Washington. His war record was terminated by a wound that retired him to service in Berlin. He was also co-editor of "Die Deutsche Nation" from 1919-1925.

COLLEGE PLAYERS GIVE THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS

Were Directed By Students

The Washington Players presented three one-act plays in William Smith Hall, Thursday evening, May 6th. They were: "How He Lied To Her Husband," directed by Lindley E. Cook; "Rip Van Winkle," directed by William H. Danenberg; and "The Love Passage," directed by Dorothy Johnson.

The cast in "How He Lied To Her Husband," the brilliant Shavian comedy of carnal passion, was: Henry Apjohn, A. Parks Rasin; Mrs. Bompas, Redine Scott; and Mr. Bompas, Robert Furman.

In the amusing tale of that famous old reproach, Rip Van Winkle, the players were: Nicholas Vender, Roland Ready; Derrick Van Beckemman, George Gendry; Rip Van Winkle, William H. Danenberg; Henrik Veld, Willard Souder and Howard Plummer; Gretchen Van Winkle, Henrietta Newman; Seth Slough, Roland Ready; and Meenie Van Winkle, Helen Norris.

"The Love Passage," which explained how sneezing mustard on pictures brings true love, had for its cast: DeWitt Clarke as Jack Hall, Roland Ready as Sam Cross, Mildred Sequires as Capt. Allen and Wilma Dahn as Hetty Allen.

This is the last presentation of the Washington Players.

Ask President To Speak Here

No Delinquent Promise Given

President Hoover received at the White House Thursday, May 5, a delegation from Washington College asking him to make an address here on Commencement day, June 11.

Mr. Hoover told the delegation, led by Dr. Paul E. Titterton, president of Washington College, and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, of Maryland, there was a strong possibility of a message from him in person at the date set.

The delegation, who were courteously given an audience of about ten minutes, were told that present conditions made it almost impossible for the President to leave the White House at any time. They were assured, however, by Mr. Hoover that if it was all possible, he would be present to address the Commencement day gathering. A member of the delegation stated that the group was pleased with the results of their audience.

If the President arrives, a national broadcasting hook-up is practically assured for the exercises.

Minuet Planned For June Ball Opening

A minuet, with the participants dressed as Colonial soldiers and Colonial belles, will be a feature of the opening of the June Ball to be held here on the evening of June 10.

All the Senior women will participate as well as Theodosia Chapman and Arlene Cole of the Junior class. The men that will take the parts of the Colonial soldiers are: James Williams, Robert Furman, Henry Davis, D. E. Ford, Walter Benford, John Ladd, Oliver Robinson, Robert Curry, Albert Baker, Charles Holland, Edwin Coulbourn, John Mandrel, Richard Gamber, Ralph Hurries, and Lindley Cook.

Student Comment On Resolutions Of Cabinet

Robert L. Cary—"I approve of their decision concerning the Golf and literary societies, but why should the Middle Hall Club be chosen from among the social societies?" Albert W. Dowling—"I think that we can get along without all those things—so long as we have our Shakespeare."

David C. Fisher—"The Golf Club should be kept. But I don't think that the Middle Hall Club is being used in the way it was intended to be."

Helen W. Norris—"It isn't fair. The Middle Hall Club has as much right to exist as the three fraternities. But I don't think that anyone would object to the combining of the two literary societies. What is the Golf Club?"

New Lamp Posts

Now Being Erected

Two lamp posts, done in the same style as those on the gateway, are being erected at the beginning of the walk to Middle Hall.

THE WASHINGTON ELM

This is our Swan Song. For one collegiate year what we had to say was determined only by ourselves. That is as much as anything is determined by ourselves, for here, as everywhere, the great American game of "playing ball" has had a year-round inning. Now we have the world for a subject and the six pages of THE ELM as our only limit. It would be foolish for any one to sue us for libel, for we have not a red cent and we are entirely square with the college. The possibilities are stunning.

We ignore all this and, with a purely altruistic motive, go to labor on THE ELM again. Here is the picture. A college activity—one of the few that could actually have life value—has been made an office for fraternities to bid for. Never has there been more than three men concerned with the work of editing, and each year the little sun which they have learned has gone with them off the college campus. The same low grade of journalism is the only thing that, like the poor, has stayed with us. A fine medium for the English department, it has been ignored by them and left to the bad management of the students.

Yes, we advocate faculty control of this paper. But that will mean repression of student opinion, you say. The answer for that is, the students have no opinion worth the type to print it. It is an axiom of the Editors that, if there was no cafeteria "there would be no "Open Forum." If the English department had control, there would be, at least, an opportunity to train the students who were interested in the technique of writing.

The college is ignoring a fine opportunity to make THE ELM what the college catalogue says it is and what it should be. A brief lecture course could be tacked on to the editing of the paper, the office could be fitted out with a few old typewriters, and, with the authority he would have as a faculty member, the professor could bring about the production of a paper that would, aside from its other uses, give the students one dollar and fifty cents worth of newspaper. A student, subject to the petty animosities and the cliques of collegiate life, cannot do this. If he is a noble young fellow when his term of office begins, he soon develops a "capitalistic" cynicism and the result is not a better paper.

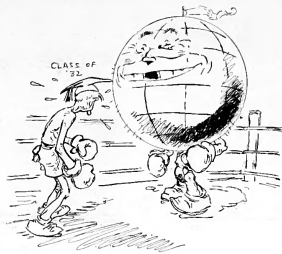

All this means work for some person who is probably struggling right now with a heavy teaching load. But there is enjoyment in this business of getting out a college newspaper. Making news stories, laying out pages, seeing people actually read and talk about them: all of that has its thrills for the group that is together behind it all.

We leave these suggestions to the incoming Editors and to the administration and we hope that, when we send in our one fifty for a subscription", we will get back a better ELM than we produced. Good luck to you!

"What about a complimentary copy?"

L'ENVOI

We march off this campus with one definite feeling about ourselves, the college, and education in general. As perhaps you might have heard, we are the one hundred and fiftieth class to walk beyond these walls armed with a Washington diploma. We are sure that at the graduation exercises someone will say something about "one hundred and fifty years of progress." For all these reasons our feeling is one of bewilderment. We have roomed with, eaten with, and studied with this one hundred and fiftieth class for four years and we have a fair understanding of most of them. Now, in our lifetime we have seen improved automobiles, airplanes, refrigerators, and garbage cans, but Lord help us, can we be "the latest, modern improvement" in college graduates? If so, what was that first class like, and what will the three hundredth class resemble?

HE'S TOWN OUT DON'T LET HIM OFFER YOU!

NOTICE

The Editor of THE WASHINGTON ELM wishes to thank President F. E. Titworth, Dr. J. S. W. Jones, Miss Mattie Whitaker, Harry S. Russell, of THE ENTERPRISE, and all the more persistent members of the business and editorial staffs for their cooperation and assistance to him in a hundred ways during the editing of this year's ELM.

Clubs At Other Colleges

The decision of twenty undergraduate members of the League for Industrial Democracy, to form an active student chapter at Swarthmore marks the inauguration of another undergraduate activity in what has frequently been called "Swarthmore's overgrown student life." From "The Scarsville Phoenix" to Swarthmore College.

NEW BOOKS

Among the new books received by the library are: S. S. San Pedro, Corazens, Only Yesterday—Allen, The Works and Novels of Winston Churchill (ten volumes), The Art of Being a Woman—Knopf, Mr. and Mrs. Pennington—Young, Barretts of Wimpole Street—Beiler, Mozart—Davenport, Past Years, An Autobiography—Lodge, Manchuria, The Cradle of Conflicts—Lattimore, As I See It—Norman Thomas, Goethe: Man and Poet—Newdine.

NOTICE

THE WASHINGTON ELM staff is deeply indebted to Charles H. Styles, of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger, for the creation of the drawing found on this page; and to Paul W. Pippin for the inkling of Mr. Styles' work.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

The demure young bride, a trifle pale, her lips set in a tremulous smile, slowly stepped down the long church aisle, clinging to the arm of her father. As she reached the low platform before the altar her slipped foot brushed a potted flower, upsetting it. She looked at the spilled dirt gravely, and then raising her child-like eyes to the sedate face of the old minister, she said: "That's a h— of a place to put a fly."—From "The Log," U. S. Naval Academy.

Just An Udder Stunt

Amateur milkmaids at the University of Minnesota have challenged coeds of the University of Wisconsin to a milking contest. An artificially engorged milk can will be awarded to the winning team.

Left handed ping-pong has been introduced at the University of Minnesota, in an attempt to cure stammering students.

A young coed, requesting a book entitled "Horse's Guts" at the University of Utah library, was informed that the book she really wanted was "Horse's Odds."

Bartering at Bolot

Meat, potatoes, eggs, fruit, chickens and vegetables are acceptable at Bolot College in lieu of registration fees. The faculty announcement of the return to barter explained that it was one measure to combat the dele.

Love, intoxication, and faculty intelligence are causes for freshmen flunking out of college, according to the Dean of the University of Nebraska.

A senior at Georgia Tech took and passed a course, and then discovered that he had taken and passed the same course, in the same room, with the same professor, before.

"ELECTRIC BULLETS"

THE result of exhaustive wind-tunnel tests of conventional trolley car models revealed that at speeds of 70 and 80 miles per hour, 70 per cent of the total power was consumed in overcoming air resistance. Streamlining saves approximately 90 per cent of the power.

When the Philadelphia and Western Railway Company decided to replace its cars with faster and more efficient equipment, it chose "electric bullets"—new streamlined cars—each powered by 4 G-E 100-hp. motors. The cars, constructed of aluminum alloy, with tapered noses and tails, are much lighter in weight and capable of greater operating efficiency.

In developing transportation apparatus, college-trained General Electric engineers have conducted extensive tests to improve operating conditions. On land, on sea, and in the air, to-day's equipment is safer, swifter, more dependable, and more comfortable.

Washington Meets Lehigh In Lacrosse

Locals Are Favored To Take Decision

Washington College will be presented its best opportunity to score its second Lacrosse win today at Bethlehem, Pa., when it meets the Lehigh University twelve. It will be the third game for the locals against Northern foes.

So far this season Lehigh has proven very weak in the Old Indian game and have lost three games by over twenty points. However, playing against rather good teams, they have gained experience. At this stage of the season and will be ready to offer stiff opposition of some sort. On the other hand, Washington players are still stinging from bitter defeats at the hands of Western Maryland and New York University. Six practices have been held for the last two weeks and the Maroon and Black will be on the warpath when they take their positions.

Coach Klatis plans to have his team play the same type of Lacrosse as in other games. On the attack, black plays will be used with no alterations except in their identification. The usual hard-driving game will be played by the attack, who once in possession of the ball shall keep it moving on the outside till opening plays are made. The same lineup of Reinhold, Plummer, Williams, Pippin, Gamber, Wingate, Clark, Robinson, Kargis, Geriatis, Chambers and Williams will probably start the game. All are in good shape after one or two minor injuries in the Western Maryland game and are ready to win.

TRACK TEAM MEETS SUSQUEHANNA TODAY

Washington's representatives of the cinder path met Susquehanna in a dual meet at Selingsgrove today. Coach Kibler and a squad of eighteen men left Chestertown last night with hopes of bagging the first track and field meet that the college has participated in for several years.

The locals will be stronger in running events than in field events. Coach Kibler has a very creditable set of dash men in Chase, Baker, Fleetwood and others. While definite information as to which men would be entered in the various events was not given out the following lineups are probable: 100 yard dash—Chase, Baker, Fleetwood; 220 yard dash—Fleetwood, Paris, Chase; 440 yard dash—Beaman, Bradley, Stark; one half mile—Bower, McCullough; one mile—Harris, McCullough; two mile run—Holland, Harris; 110 yard hurdles—Bradley, Fleetwood; 220 yard low hurdles—Bilard, Fleetwood.

In the field events, the following lineups are probable: Running broad jump—Baker, McCullough; High jump—Proudfoot, Burkhardt; Pole vault—Grosz, Burkhardt; Javelin throw—Ward, Bradley; Discus—Squires, Grosz; Shot put—Grosz, Ward, Nicholson.

LACROSSE CAPTAIN

Walter Korfing

Captain Walter Korfing will lead Washington's stick men in the Lacrosse game played with Lehigh today. Korfing plays a wing attack position and has shown himself to be a clever mid-fielder, being adept at both attack and defense. Korfing has earned four letters in Lacrosse, having gained experience in high school before entering college.

MARYLAND BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION FORMED

After several years, during most of which time the prospects of ever attaining the end desired were dark, the Maryland Intercollegiate Basketball Association has at last been formed and basketball in the Free State thereby advanced several paces. The cuge league with Washington, Mt. St. Mary's, Loyola, Hopkins and Western Maryland as members will fill a long wanted place in the sports circles of the State. St. John's, at the present time a little shunned because of a disagreement over eligibility rules, will in all probability be in the association before many seasons pass.

There is some discussion about the trophy to be awarded the winner and some talk of letting the trophy go permanently to the first club to win it three times in succession. We feel that it would be far better to let the team which wins the cup three times, not necessarily in succession, retain it permanently. It will be almost an impossibility for one team to win the trophy three years running and so each year's winner would get its name engraved upon the cup. It would soon be necessary to replace it for lack of engraving space.

We extend congratulations and best wishes to the broad-viewed athletic authorities of the various colleges for their willingness to start the league. It should mean a big thing for Maryland basketball.

Western Maryland Wins Close Game

Washingtonians Lack Usual Fight

Coach Klatis' former team-mates and Lacrosse mucks struggled through an extremely hard fought game at Westminster on Saturday, April 25, to win by the count of 3 to 0. All goals were registered in the first half. The game witnessed the first victory for the Western Maryland Terros this season and for Washington, the fourth defeat out of five since.

Playing in a temperature which would have better suited be what in mid-season, the Eastern Shore-men were unable to muster an sufficient aggressiveness and pen to stop the onslaught of an inveterate Western Maryland team, which was in a mood to stop some of the best of them. Neither team was able to score in the first ten minutes. At this time one of Western Maryland's scrappy defense men, Callahan obtained an opening and scored the first goal. Before the half was up, Doughty and Boyd registered once each on the scoring for the day.

The second half saw the Maroon and Black playing much better Lacrosse. The team played more aggressively but were unsuccessful on what amounted to be two or three certain goals.

DOES "WATER SEEK IT'S OWN

LEVEL?" IS INVESTIGATOR'S QUERY

Investigation Proves That In Love It Does

In the course of a short period of years a faculty of the Washington College students, noting scholastic aptitude, scholastic attainments, out of class activities, and in all probability makes some observations on the companions a student selects, whether they be of the same or of the opposite sex.

One of nature's laws, expressed in proverb form is, "Water tends to seek its own level," and it is on the suggestion of the above proverb that the little study of intelligence, or whether there is an absolute disregard of intelligence, in common parlance "gray matter," in the college male's appeal to the coeds, the coeds' appeal to the college male. Any campus observer can cite cases of any one of the three instances mentioned, but the case cited may be an exception to the general rule, hence opinions are likely only to be surmises. The reader should be warned in advance that a study of the intelligences of campus couples may be as meager of results as the thesis of the aspiring dactyl candidate who wrote on the question, "Has the squid a nose?" only to come to the decision that the squid had no nose, which was information to some people in spite of a negative conclusion.

First of all it is necessary to set up some criteria as to what constitutes a campus couple or a "case." That a young man and co-ed, apparently married a year period or longer, was determined upon as a measure, hence any such couples on the Washington College campus during the past six years, including the present year, may regard themselves as included in this little investigation. It is interesting to note that during the six year period several campus romances have blossomed into married bliss, while some of the campus cases are married but not to each other.

Examination of student records for the period of 1926 to 1932 furnished forty-five campus couples who met the above criteria, either by reason of length of time that they "kept company" or because of the order of their attention and interest in each other, or both. Forty-five couples are too small a number to give results any great reliability, yet the results do indicate tendencies that might be revealed if a larger number of "cases" were available. Having carefully picked up eligible campus couples and employed mathematical computations, the degree of relationship between matters of mind and heart were determined. Using the scientific method for determining correlation, it was found that the degree of relationship was a positive .25, a correlation that would be labeled as low. The highest degree of direct relationship that could be attained is 1.00 and the lowest degree of relationship is .01. Had the results been .60 or better the relationship would have been labeled high, .40 to .60 it would have been labeled substantial, while the range of .20 to .40 labels the degree of relationship low. Had the results been less than .20 the relationship would have been labeled very low.

A search of the records between the years of 1926 and 1928 yielded an additional twenty-six couples, making a total of seventy-one couples. On figuring the degree of relationship for the total seventy-one couples the result dropped to a positive .21. While the low degree of relationship was somewhat disappointing, it must be admitted that the results do show a positive relationship, and do indicate that levels of intelligence are a factor in determining the make-up of campus couples. Accumulation of additional student records and computations will probably not produce any substantial change in results. It might be an interesting study to follow campus couples, if they marry—another, to determine what effect happy married life is dependent upon the possession of the same or closely related levels of intelligence. If there is a relationship, it might be of value in knowing something about your intended's I. Q. as well as know something about his family history, social status, and chances for success. If on the other hand, we were to discover that couples differing widely in I. Q.'s live happier than those whose I. Q.'s are closely related, then we might be forced to concede that "Love is blind" and disregard the level of intelligence as being a guide in matters of love, proving that maybe the intellect and emotions are but slightly related.

The writer conceals that similarity or interests, social status, religious, degree of education, and related factors are vital influences in the choice of a "campus friend" and a life mate, but raises the question—what is the result of this study whether after all water does not tend to seek its own level.

Sophomores Take General Culture Examination

Are Dazed By Questions

Dazed and overwhelmed by their first glimpse of the range of human knowledge, the Sophomores were "taken on a flat party" when Dr. Fred C. Livingston passed out the three-hour general culture test issued by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching on May 3. It was followed the next day by another three-hour mental inventory on the subjects of English and General Science.

The test is being used in a national survey of the colleges and universities by this Foundation. It will be used as an aid in determining admittance to the Junior class.

COUNCIL ACTS ON RESOLUTIONS

PASSED BY DEAN'S CABINET

No Action To Be Taken This Year

The Council referred the consolidation of the Literary Societies to the members of the organizations to be thrashed out at their respective meetings. It is believed that the selection of the name for the society that will come into existence will be the barrier to a speedy uniting of the two groups. In its resolution, the Cabinet suggested that the name of Mt. Vernon be kept in the annals of the college for the sake of tradition. These recommendations were included in letters sent to the heads of the organizations concerned.

The resolutions of the Cabinet, in full, follow:

TO THE SECRETARY OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL:

I have been instructed by the Dean's Cabinet to present to you the following resolutions passed by the body at its regular meeting on Thursday evening, April 28.

(1). That the GOLF CLUB be

(2). continued and that its activities be assumed by the Washington College Athletic Association. We recommend that the money contributed by the members and spent in the purchasing of equipment be refunded to the members by the Athletic Association.

(3). That the two Literary societies now present at Washington College be merged into one organization, We also recommend that the name of the MT. VERNON LITERARY SOCIETY be kept as the name of the resulting organization for the sake of the tradition of the college.

(4). That the organization known as the MIDDLE HALL CLUB be abandoned through the room and the equipment be kept as a part of Middle Hall. We suggest that the building of the present function of the Club should be done by the administration of the college.

Respectfully submitted,

IRVING S. ROSS,

Secretary.

"Fencing to my mind, is an artistry almost more than a sport."

Some of its masters, such as the 70-year old Hungarian, István Szelei, the grand old man of fencing who is said to possess even yet the world's fastest dueling hand, have spent lifetimes in perfecting it.

And H. G. Fernand—lanky, ruddy faced fencing master of the U. S. A. C. and one of the three members of the Director Technical managing the bouts of the Xth Olympiad—pursued to win his hand toward the pictures of those who had made good, looking down from the walls of his office.

The elderly master of the cold steel sport added laughingly: "Perhaps also because of the great technicality of the game, a high type of intelligence is required. At any rate, technicians have made possible some very unsportsmanlike acts and even unfair play, especially in the heated Olympic struggle."

There are times when the ultimate end of sportsmanship will be lost sight of in the ultimate goal of victory—a contestant denying the blow received when more than the human eye of a judge is needed to follow it as the lightning attack is met by the clinch effort and the fighters go in to a corps-corpse.

GREEKS HAD AWORD FOR IT.
Those ancient sports-lovers who thronged the Olympic Stadium on the final day, the foot of the hill of Cronos and offered up physical perfection as a tribute to Zeus, knew well the value of strict rules and the temptation to unsportsmanlike acts.

Before the huge altar to Zeus rising in the center of the sacred Altis—the athlete, his father, brothers, and even gym teacher had to swear to commit no unethical acts. And with all that, a whole row of bronze images were set up along the Altis out of fine encaustic for violation of rules.

NEW FOR OLD.

The ancient Altis at the foot of the hill of Cronos is exchanged in 1932 for a modern city with its never-ending line of habitations, parks, and pleasure resorts spreading at the foot of high-climbing ranges and upon the mountains themselves—spreading from mountains to sea, from sea to desert, and from desert to orchard-cultivated plain.

The rude Stadia is, in the case of fencing, exchanged for the $300,000 Olympic Fencing Pavilion, capable of housing several thousand onlookers, and flooded with light through a glass roof installed at a cost of $150,000. The Stadium stands next door to the Olympic Stadium.

A heavy wooden floor is being constructed over a part of the drill room and four tamped earth strips, 170 feet 7 1/4 inches long and 16 feet wide, inserted in the floor at the dueling area.

The events themselves, taking place every day of the 16-day Olympiad, are divided into three classes—fencing, dueling events or epee, and snare or the cut-and-thrust weapon. Each of the thirteen nations expected to participate in August will be represented by a 4-man team and three entrants for the women's events, with no team events among the women—about 125 fencers in all.

Homer tells us in his Iliad of Polyphemos, one-eyed giant and cannibalistic son of Neptune, whom Ulysses outwitted. Polyphemos thought there wasn't a heavier of logs or heaves or weights in all the ancient world who could equal him as he lifted boulders of the coast of Sicily and threw them into the ocean far below in a mad effort to crush Ulysses and his tiny fleet.

Ulysses Homer was much less of an exaggerator than Ulysses he was. Polyphemos would have a load of conceit could be seen Charles Rigoulet, the professional French weight lifter. In the modern days—or Rudolph Janagay, the chubby German university lift, lifted their 400 and 248 pound bar-bells respectively.

And would Polyphemos' single eye pop could be see the 214-pound Egyptian heavyweight, Nestor, lift poundages which are expected to make the Olympic Auditorium, scene of the weightlifting events in 1932, rock. POLYTHEMUS' STEP-CHILDREN.

In the massive Olympic Auditorium, built by the Los Angeles Athletic Club at a cost of $500,000 on a site only a mile away from the quaint Mexican plaza where 151 years ago the Felipe de New Effect the Big of the Imperial Spain and declared La Ciudad de Los Angeles founded, brawny men from a score of lands will do another kind of lifting in 1932.

Polyphemos' step-children will perform in an 18-foot ring lighted by six 1600 candle-power lamps and surrounded by 10,400 spectators and a wall of fresh air provided by eight large exhaust fans and two intake fans. Preparations have been made to cover the floor of the ring, later to be used for the boxing and wrestling events, with a 3-inch extra layer of hardwood to withstand the pressure of the weightlifting events on the evening of July 30 and 31 in the Xth Olympiad.

AN EYE OPENER.

"Weightlifting, as it will be demonstrated to the Olympic spectator," says handsome Jere Kinsburg, assistant coach of the American weightlifting team, "will be a revelation to the sporting fraternity."

"They will find that modern weight lifting, far from being the sport of piano-movers and human oases, is a sport in which the finest type of speed, co-ordination, and balance combined with strength are demanded."

Weight lifters are classified into 8 groups—featherweight, lightweight, middleweight, light-heavyweight, and heavyweight; and they compete only with men in the same weight class. Each nation has two men in each weight category, making a ten-man team. Each of the husky gentlemen gets three arms at the following lifts—Two Hand Military Press, Two Hands Snatch, and Two Hands Clean, and Jerk. His best efforts are added, and he total obtained is his score.

A CARBON COPY OF NATURE.

In Sparta, according to history, lifting was confined to pockets where the young aspirants could get away with it.

In Southern California, the Xth Olympiad of 1932 will find men of it the world initiating on a miniature scale the forces of nature which lifted the mountainous grandeur of the region out of the bowels of the earth.

COMMITTEE NOMINATES ALUMNI TRUSTEES

Elections To Take Place In May

Nominations for the four Alumni Trustees of the Board of Visitors and Governors were made by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association in the offices of the Dean on April 30th.

The men nominated were: Hiram S. Brown, of the New York district; P. Watson Webb, of Dorchester County; Albert D. Macley, of Cecil County; W. Lester Baldwin, and J. Purcell Johnson, both of Baltimore county. The elections will take place in May.

"Saving Dad" Is Presented By Mt. Vernon Society

"Saving Dad," a one-act comedy, under the direction of Gladys Coucill, was presented at the April 27 meeting of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society.

The players were: Ralph E. Harries, John R. Smithson, Alice E. Dole, Mary E. Farr, and Katherine C. Eastman.

The play, which concerned the attempts of a family to rescue their father from a supposedly dangerous type, is the second annual play of the Society.

BASEBALL AND LACROSSE CARRIED NEXT YEAR

Will Provide Athletics For All

At a meeting of the Athletic Association of Washington College it was decided to carry both Lacrosse and Baseball as spring sports, during the coming year.

Baseball was dropped two years ago in order to make room for Lacrosse. However, after the diamond game was discontinued, considerable agitation arose for its return and it was rumored that Baseball would replace the old Indian game at the college. If track is continued at Washington, there will be plenty of opportunity for all those who desire a taste of athletics.

The new athletic field is expected to be completed and in good shape by next spring and this field will probably be the practice grounds for the Lacrosse men, with home games being held in Kibler field as usual.

Stick Men Meet Swarthmore Today

Game Will Follow High School Meet

The Washington College Lacrosse team will engage Swarthmore's representatives of this old Indian game on Washington Field this afternoon. It will be the last game for the Shoremen this year and the second Home game of the season. There is every indication that Swarthmore will fall into defeat as Lafayette and Lehigh have done at the hands of Washington.

The Maroon and Black were the victors in a bad trouncing at Hopkins last week, but a defeat at the hands of a team of Holli's caliber is no disgrace. Coach Elatiss has been training his team all week for this battle and hopes that the injured players in the last two games is turning a strained ankle, received in the Hopkins game. Lawton Jones is expected to have played in the game, but a badly hurt eye in time to give his best team.

The Shoremen will play the same type of game as in previous contests. The attack will work the ball around a lot on the wings, looking for good openings before attempting to score. The attack also will ride the Swarthmore defense hard when they are clearing out. Center: Karfigin, third attack: Gird, Reinhold, goal: Plummer, point: Jones, cover point: Pippin or Baker, first defense: Wingate, second defense: Gamber, third defense: Clark, center: Karfigin, third attack: Gird, second attack: Robinson, first attack: Chambers, outcome: J. Williams, in home.

Swarthmore has had a fairly successful season, but have lost to Hopkins and St. John's by large scores. Washington, if they defeat this team, can call their season a success, and by far the most successful in the history of the game at the Eastern Shore institution.

COUNTIES ON SHORE GET TWO MEMBERS

Governor Appoints One; One Elected

The College Charter as amended by the Maryland Legislature in 1922 provides for the appointment of 12 Trustees by the Governor and the election of an equal number by the Alumni. Each of the nine counties on the Eastern Shore is entitled to two representatives on the Board, one appointed by the Governor and one elected by the Alumni; the remaining six, known as trustees at large, are apportioned among three districts, designated as follows: District No. 10, Baltimore City and vicinity, the Western Shore Counties, Washington and the South; District No. 11, Philadelphia and vicinity, embracing Pennsylvania, Delaware and a part of New Jersey; District No. 12, New York and vicinity, and all sections not included in the preceding districts. The apportionment of the trustees at large among these three districts, two in each, one appointed by the Governor and one elected by the Alumni, will insure a wide distribution of representation. Any departure from this allocation is an entering wedge to the bringing about eventually of a most unsatisfactory condition, viz., the centralization of Board membership in one city, or in one of the above districts.

During the month of May the regular biennial election of four Alumni Trustees for a six-year period will be held. Vacancies, owing to the expiration of the six-year term, will occur early in June in the following districts: No. 1, Carroll; No. 6, Dorchester; No. 10, Baltimore, etc.; No. 12, New York and all territory not included in another district.

The ballots with the names of the candidates, nominated by the Executive Committee, will be mailed to every Alumnus, entitled to a vote under the Charter, on or about May 12th. The marked ballot must be returned not later than noon, June 4, 1932, when it will be canvassed by three election judges named by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association.

ADDRESS GRADUATES

Washington College Sesqui-Centennial

The two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington and the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Washington College will be celebrated by a program given under the auspices of Washington College, June 11, at Chestertown and extending throughout the entire day. The celebration will officially start with the firing of a "sunrise gun" from the campus by means of a 75 millimeter gun obtained from Fort Hays, along with a detachment of soldiers and will close with the firing of a "sunset gun."

His Excellency, Friedrich Von Pritzwitz, German Ambassador to America, will deliver an address to the graduating class of Washington College, June 11. Herr Von Pritzwitz was formerly co-editor of "Die Deutsche Nation."

BETTERTON OPENS SATURDAY, MAY 28

Betterton will open for the summer season next Saturday, May 28th, and the opening day will be featured by a dance in the Betterton Casino with the best of music that evening. Other amusements such as boating, bathing, boogieing, etc., will be open and the hotels and cottages are in readiness to accommodate guests from Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore with good food and first-class accommodations.

The shed season is at its height and it is an interesting sight to see the fishermen pull out their nets for drying and repairs. The hotels and cottages are serving special fish meals. The merchants are preparing for a large holiday season and the entire upper bay resort is making ready for a busy season.

It is understood that the Edison Steam Boat Company will operate the palatial steamer, John Calverley, from Baltimore to Betterton on Sundays this season. The Tolchester line is expected to run the same summer schedule this season.

COMMENCEMENT BALL IS BIG ATTRACTION

The Commencement Ball, Friday, June 10, at 9 P. M., in the Gymnasium, is likely to attract the largest number of visitors since the first attendance at a social function at the college. The Alumni, Faculty and Students are cooperating through a joint committee to make it the most colorful event of the sesqui-centennial celebration.

Since hotel and boarding-house accommodations are very limited in Chestertown, it will be necessary to make preparations for out-of-town guests over Friday night at least a week or ten days in advance. If the request for accommodations is received by the Secretary early enough, he will do his best to have the visitors comfortably placed at a hotel, boarding-house, or in a private home.

BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

The celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington by the only college to bear his name with his express consent, coincident with the celebration of its own 150th anniversary by the same college promises to be one of the most outstanding events in the state during this year. This celebration should ideally illustrate the motto of the Eastern: "No other institution of higher learning, which is, modern efficiency backed by years of honorable tradition. Every effort will be made to give a colonial air to historic old Chestertown and several of the foremost men of the present day will be in attendance to speak in honor of George Washington and the college that bears his name.

This celebration cannot fail to have great significance for the entire state and particularly the Eastern Shore. With Governor Albert C. Ritchie, and General Ambassador Baron von Fritzsche already secured as speakers for the day, and President Hoover as a probable feature speaker, a national broadcasting hookup is practically assured. Thus Washington College, the Eastern Shore and the State of Maryland, will be brought in contact with the entire nation on June 11.

Washington College is ideally situated and conditioned to do honor to the father of our nation. Its location in Chestertown, so intimately connected with General Washington's activities in Maryland gives it another advantage to be added to the one relating to Washington's activities in the founding of the college. Tradition and culture have been blended with modernism at Washington College in such a manner as to make it very worthy of the honor and aid bestowed upon it by the greatest of Americans.

LACROSSE TO CONTINUE AS MAJOR SPORT

The decision of the board of athletics of Washington College to continue Lacrosse as a major sport at the College reflects the real sentiment of the student body. Furthermore, this action on the part of the athletic board met with the approval and desires of many outsiders who are interested in the future of lacrosse at the only college on the Eastern Shore.

Indeed this action by the college authorities would seem to be a very wise and far-sighted one. Lacrosse is certainly the coming college sport, if indeed it can not be said to have already arrived at its place in the sun. This old Indian game is the big spring sport for many Eastern Colleges at present. The publicity that it will receive from the coming Olympic games should cause the spread of the game among schools and colleges to be even more rapid and sensational than it has been in the last few years. It is hard to see how lacrosse can fail to do other than that which is predicted for it by its backers for it is justly called "the fastest game on two feet, with the dash of basketball and the crush of football."

Washington College is ideally situated to benefit from the spread in the popularity of lacrosse. The State of Maryland is the acknowledged center of lacrosse of both intercollegiate and scholastic variety. There are more than five hundred school boys playing the game in this state alone and consequently the finding of good material for the stick game should be a simple problem for Washington. This available material, coupled with the brand of coaching Washington is now in line to receive, should soon advance the Maroon and Black to a leading position in lacrosse.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

During the past few years the administration of Washington College has greatly improved the living facilities of the students; dormitories have been rejuvenated, lounge rooms equipped and a more efficient janitorial system maintained.

Despite all of this one small important detail has been overlooked. Washington College dormitories are without drinking fountains. Perhaps his statement means nothing to most of us as we are all aware of the fact.

Why should we discuss this apparently trivial matter. Simply this—students are forced to drink from faucets and whether or not a glass is used this is not a sanitary condition. The lavatories are used by dozens of students every day, soap suds and other paste suds cist from tooth brushes are dripped upon the faucets and often trickle down over the nose.

One has only to get a drink to detect the various brands of tooth paste being used by students. Do you like milk flavored with tooth paste, soap suds and what not? I don't.

Perhaps all this sounds a bit "old maidish" but each year we are forced to attend one or two health talks in chapel. Freshmen must take the course in Hygiene and yet, due to the lack of proper facilities, dormitory students must continue an unsanitary practice.

Here's a hope that we find each hall equipped with a drinking fountain when we return next fall.

The High School Teacher And

A number of Washington grads go out into the world as high school teachers. Sucker or later many of these are called upon to coach high school athletics. Some have been college athletes, many have only had a passive interest in athletics and find coaching a terrible burden instead of a pleasure.

Why can't a course in coaching be included on our curriculum. Let us say a one hour course with credit given in education. The result would be that Washington College could graduate students better trained to meet the needs of Maryland High Schools.

Bill Agee Favored To Win

Saturday, May 28, will be a real letter day in the history of athletics on the Eastern Shore. On that day the much heralded trout to pick a marathon runner to represent the United States in the coming Olympic games will be held at Salisbury and more than 200 runners will be on hand to show their wares. This try-out is one of the three held by the American Olympic Committee to pick three men to carry the red, white and blue this summer at Los Angeles. One of these has already been held at Boston and the third will be held June 17, in Los Angeles.

The course over which the marathoners from this section will run, stretches over a distance that starts a few miles outside of Cambridge and ends in the center of Salisbury. Due to the kindness of the guards, this course will be ideal for the men competing. William Agee, of Baltimore, internationally known marathon runner is, considered by the experts as the man most likely to take first place. Agee has been quoted as, expecting to set a new all time record for this famous run and declare this course to be ideal for a record breaking attempt.

The Olympic Committee will award badges to all those who finish the distance. Independent of the awards of the Olympic Association the following prizes will be given. A silver loving cup for the first Eastern Shore runner to finish, given by

Capt. Kargis Receives Injury

The Washington College Lacrosse team secured its second victory of the season by defeating Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Pa., on Saturday, May 7, by a 3 to 1 count. All goals were registered in the first half.

Captain Kargis started his team off to victory by scoring on a beautiful shot within the first two minutes of the game. Unfortunately, he was forced to leave the contest soon afterwards with a broken nose. Al Dobbins replaced Kargis and played a creditable game. Dick Gamber scored the second goal for the Maroon and Black about midway of the first period and Paul Fargin soon afterwards ended the scoring of his team.

The game was a hard fought affair and played in an extremely hot temperature. Though both teams were played down, their efforts never relaxed.

WESLEY MAY TALKS ON SINO-JAP AFFAIR

Says Japan Is Seeking New Territory

Mr. Wesley May, Chinese student at Johns Hopkins University, addressed a combined audience of the "Y" Club Thursday evening on the world-interesting Sino-Japanese affair. After showing the historical relationship of the two countries Mr. May pointed out that possession of Manchuria, cause of the trouble, is aimed at by overpopulated Japan for colonization purposes and for the richness of its national resources. He further explained that as pretences Japan involved the question of ownership and rights of the Eastern China R. R. and of dual Korean citizenship, an added menace is the desire of a military clique, which has built up Japanese nationalism to prove its strength and power. Mr. May concluded that as depression in America concerns all nations, as England's suspension of the gold standard affects international conference, so the difficulty of two states far off and almost unknown to us, is the problem of the entire world.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. May offered a most unique musical presentation, the playing of several Chinese folk songs and popular songs with a violin bow and a saw.

Mr. Harries, President of the Y. M. C. A. introduced the speaker and conducted the meeting.

Washington Meets Gallaudet In Track

Kiblerites Journey To National Capital

The track and field men of Washington College will compete against Gallaudet College, of Washington, D. C., today at the Capital City. Though weak in field events, it is expected that the cinder path stars of Washington will have a fine chance of winning the dual meet.

Since the meet with Susquehanna University, Coach Kibler has had his men working out and strengthening weak points which were apparent two weeks ago. All the men that did so well at that time are available today. Bob Fleetwood was his high point reaper by virtue of great all-around performance, is expected to continue his pace. Charley Harris expects to run the mile and two mile even faster than before and will do so. Pat Parviz, the high jumper, has been taking his track more seriously and will again run the 100 and 200 yard dashes. Pat possesses great speed and looks only a real good star. In the high jump, Del Proudfoot will stop at nothing longer than first place, and he can get over that bar when he wants to.

Others who are expected to score points are Pat Remann, Fred Ains, Ed. Jackman, and Chas. Stork and Bradley in the same event. Bonelli will again run the half-mile and mile and will compete in the hurdles. Grimsby will high jump and pole-vault. The weights will be taken care of by Ward, who also is a fine javelin thrower, Lord and Squiers. Al Baker will be Washington's entrant in the running broad jump.

Hopkins Defeats Washington 12 - 0

Blue Jay Attack Too Powerful For Locals

Johns Hopkins, of Baltimore, continued to show superiority over college foes in Lacrosse last Saturday, May 14, when they handed Washington College a 12 to 0 setback. The game, played on Homewood field was a hard-contested affair in which injuries on both teams were numerous. Lewton Jones, point for the Eastern Shoremen received a nasty cut over his eye and nose which necessitated his being removed from the game. Al Dokkins also was not able to continue play when his ankle was badly twisted.

The Blue Jays of Hopkins started off fast, scoring twice within the first five minutes. Hopkins' second stringers then took the field and proved to be equal to the regulars in playing ability. Led by Boots Ivies who was afterwards removed after having received a face injury, they scored at more or less regular intervals until the game was ended. The score at the half was 6 to 0.

Coach Kibler's men were unable to check a fast and tricky Hopkins' attack, but exhibited fine spirit and fight. Goal keeper Fritz Reinhold made many fine stops for Washington during both periods of the game.

During the second half Washington players played better lacrosse but had six goals scored against them, making the final score 12 to 0.

"AMERICAN FLOATING" UNIVERSITY IS PLANNED BY EASTERN EDUCATORS

Plans For a 35,000 Mile Trip Are Being Made

Plans for a 35,000 mile trip around the world by more than 600 American college students, to sail from New York in October and return in May, and to be joined enroute by students from England, Germany, Norway and Italy, are being made by a group of nationally known leaders and by men and women prominent in the social, educational and business life of this and other States, it was learned today.

Senators Arthur Capper of Kansas and Royal S. Copeland of New York, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Henry J. Allen, former Governor and Senator from Kansas, and Mrs. Allen, together with others well known here are included among the patrons of the movement, which is designed to broaden the outlook of American university men and women and give them a first-hand knowledge of foreign peoples, places and conditions, without loss of time in their regular college work.

A trans-Atlantic ocean liner, equipped with study halls, lecture rooms, science laboratories, auditorium, library, gymnasium and swimming pool, and chartered for the exclusive use of the "American Floating University," will serve as home and campus for the students during the eight months, or two college semesters spent on the world tour. Forty-three countries, sixty-one ports and 100 additional places of international significance will be visited and studied.

The University World Tour will be under the direction of a board of trustees of which Dr. Stanley P. Woodard of New York City is chairman, and which includes Charles K. Cooper, treasurer of the tour; F. B. Railway, Dr. Charles F. Thwing, president-emeritus of Western Reserve University, Dr. John L. Merrill, president of All America Cables, and Dr. James E. Loew, former director and director of extra-mural activities at

New York University. Headquarters have been established at 65 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

A faculty of fifty-five professors and instructors, most of whom will be on sabbatical leave from American colleges, is now being assembled by Dr. Loew, under the direction of the board. Classes corresponding to those in the usual college curriculum will be held regularly at sea, supplemented by field trips in the various countries visited.

The students will be selected for the tour on the basis of character and scholastic standing, with a quota assigned to each State in proportion to the number of college students resident in the State. Because of the international aspect of the movement and the interest shown by foreign Governments and university groups, a special effort will be made to have the student body represent the best in American college life, it is said. Patrons and patronesses are now being chosen here and in other States to aid in making these selections.

The quota allotment allows for 85 students from the Pacific Coast States; 95 from the Western States; 115 from the Middle West; 100 from the South; 125 from New York and the Middle Atlantic States; and 100 from New England.

Some men from this section interested in the movement are listed below:

Maryland

Joseph H. Apple, Ph. D., LL. D., President of Howard College, is a member of the Faculty Advisory Board.

Virginia

Charles G. Maphis, Ph. D., LL. D., Dean of the University of Virginia is a member of the Faculty Advisory Board.

North Carolina

Floyd T. Reynolds, M. A., formerly of the Department of English at the University of North Carolina is interested in the movement.

Many Girls In Freshman Class

With the opening of the 1932-1933 scholastic year, Washington College finds its halls filled with a greater number of students than have ever before presented themselves at the institution. Records in the Registrar's office show that, of the two hundred and eighty students have registered and enrolled in class. There are one hundred and ninety upperclassmen and ninety members of the freshman class. The latter group have a somewhat larger percentage of women than has usually been the case, and a correspondingly smaller percentage of men. Washington College suffered one of its major losses in a century when on July 15, 1932, a great teacher, a wise counselor, a talented professor, a brilliant scholar and a friendly man, Dr. Thomas Howard Fowler, died in Baltimore, Maryland, of a cerebral hemorrhage, and at the age of 57 years. Dr. Fowler was born on January 21, 1875, and has been a life-long resident of Chestertown, Md. He entered Washington College in September, 1892, and was graduated with the A. B. degree in June, 1897. During the following year he did graduate work in Modern Languages at his Alma Mater, in conjunction with an instructorship there. From 1898-1900 he taught at Homer Military College, Oxford, S. C. Following his sejour there, he was an instructor at William College, Mass., for one year. Severing his connections with Williams, Dr. Fowler enrolled in the Graduate School of Johns Hopkins in 1902, and was awarded the D. O. degree two years later. For the next twenty-two years he was Professor of German at Wells College, in New York State, where in 1924, poor health necessitated his resignation.

Upon recovery from his illness, Dr. Fowler accepted the Professorship of German at Washington College, and at the time of his death was head of the Department of Modern Languages.

Many of Dr. Fowler's summers were spent in study and travel from the University of Berlin and the University of Munich.

His works and his friends render his memory immortal.

Due to the fact that the college is so busy the management has requested that all students refrain from walking across the grass any more than is absolutely necessary.

TOURS COUNTRY

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth traveled considerably this summer, visiting a great many colleges and universities. A notice appears elsewhere on this page.

Dr. F. W. Truscott New Professor

Dr. Frederick Wilson Truscott, of Shippensburg, Pa., and formerly of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., recently assumed the position as Chief of the Modern Language Department and Professor of German at Washington College to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. T. H. Fowler.

Dr. Truscott received his A. B. degree from the University of Indiana, and later was awarded the M. A. degree from the same institution. From Harvard, he won his doctorate as well as another A. M. signification. He was a scholar in Germanic philology and German literature at the University of Berlin, thus much of his study of German has been with the source material.

Professor Truscott began his career as an educator as an instructor in German at his Alma Mater, Thence he was Professor of Germanic language at the University of West Virginia, which title he held for twenty-six years. In the eight years preceding his coming to Washington, he was Professor of German at Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Dr. Truscott's abilities are not few as evidenced by the veracity of his achievements. He is joint translator of Laphoe's Philosophical Essays on Penobscia (1902); the editor of Wildenbruch's Kindertheater, with notes and vocabulary, and joint author of Elementary German Compositions (1914). He is also author of German in the High Schools of Washington in 1911-1912. In 1912, Dr. Truscott became a member of the Military Intelligence Division, General Staff, U. S. ## DR. TITSWORTH VISITS WEST

College Presidents Travels During Summer

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, president of Washington College, spent the majority of the past summer touring various parts of the United States. The president's trips, which totaled slightly over thirteen thousand miles in distance, took him through the heart of the Middle West, the North-west, the South, and the Northern part of the country. Dr. Titsworth visited Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, Glacier Park, The Grand Canyon, The Thousand Islands and other places of varying importance and interest.

On June 12, shortly after the joint celebration of Washington's Bicentennial and the 150th Anniversary of the founding of Washington College held on the college campus, Dr. Titsworth, accompanied by Mr. Titsworth, left Chestertown on a trip through the west. The president and his wife went by way of Chicago, stopping there a day to visit friends. Their next main stop was at Glacier Park, where Dr. Titsworth had been invited to attend the dedication ceremony of Glacier House at Park. The president declined the invitation to be one of the most beautiful in the entire country. Dr. and Mrs. Titsworth next continued on to Seattle, Washington, where Dr. Titsworth, who is governor of the 34th division of the rotary international, attended a rotary conference. In Seattle, Dr. Titsworth met Mr. Edwin Feenley, who graduated from Washington College in 1931.

Dr. Titsworth returned to Chestertown around the middle of July, and later in the summer visited The Thousand Islands. The head of Washington College also visited the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, where his daughter Eleanor of the class of '32, has entered the library department.

The president stated that the remainder of his busy summer was spent interviewing prospective students of the college; he expressed satisfaction with the enrollment this year, which is the largest in the history of Washington College.

Dr. Titsworth visited a large number of colleges and universities during the summer. The complete list of the schools inspected by the president of Washington College is as follows: U. of Chicago, U. of Minnesota, U. of Washington, U. of California, U. of Southern California, U. of Colorado, U. of Denver, Colorado State College, U. of Kansas, Wake Forest College, Whitell College, and Scripps College for Women.

Herrera, Wingo, Given Senior Scholarships

At the regular meeting of the Washington College faculty held Friday, Sept. 16, Dr. Herrera, and Philip J. Wingo were awarded the Visitors and Governors scholarships for one senior woman and one senior man, respectively. Each of these scholarships is worth $125 to the recipient.

Reinhold To Do Team's Punting

Locals Conceded Little Chance To Win

Captain Jay Diehlman will lead a band of eleven football stalwarts and about a like number of reserves against the University of Maryland this afternoon at College Park. The Shoremen, light but fast and deceptive, will be offered their first opportunity to exhibit the results of a fine tutoring of Coach Kibler and the Bluffs. However, these same students are conceded little chance to defeat a good and heavy team which has inspired Maryland fans.

Reinhold

No one has forgotten the miraculous showing of the Maroon and Black last year on the gridiron against the College Parkers. Destined to defeat by a large score, the team showed the sports world by holding a heavy, experienced team and about the best from the University of Maryland ever had in two touchdowns, one of which was doubtfully scored.

However, this fall, the protégés of Curly Ward are largely newcomers in the variety from six eight regulars were last last June by consensus. This new team, though inexperienced will be no set-up in any of its games this fall.

Fritz Reinhold will be the minority of Washington defense with its very timely and excellent punting. It was this small but mighty athlete of the Shore institute who punted nearly a measure to Maryland and nearly brought about a very great upset last year. Reinhold knows best under pressure with his kicking and who is quite adept as a ball carrier, though no light for continuous totting of the pigskin.

Washington's line-up will consist of players who performed last year except at the center post. MacLennan and Skisnicki, two fine trench prospects are battling along with Harries, better man for the pivot position.

Reinhold's letter, as stated before will consist largely of new comers to variety football at the Old Line University. However, the combination of Poppleman and Woods, Maryland's marvelous ball voters, and a few stragglers, will be back shining in all its glory.

The probable line-ups today:

DR. HOWELL ON SCHOOL SPIRIT

Dr. Howell said the other night that, even more than a course in unified science or unified mathematics, Washington College needs a course in unified school spirit. The head of the economics department stated that the present school spirit is not even a decent skeleton of the Washington College spirit of eight or nine years ago. Dr. Howell said he believed that Old Washington was losing something vital in this decline in school spirit. He said that this decline has been gradual but nevertheless constant and definite. We have noticed it even in the last three years.

Something must be done to alter this disastrous condition of affairs that is settling about Washington College. We know that this may sound like harping on a worn out subject but conditions leave no other way open. We know that organized cheering and other demonstrations of school pep and unity have been decreed even in print recently at this college, but such things are lamentable errors on the part of their authors.

It seems that the majority of Washington College students are either too lazy or think themselves too sophisticated to give outward demonstrations of enthusiasm. Some of them seem to think it looks foolish to yell for their teams. It does look foolish for one or two persons to try to give a college cheer. But it is far from foolish for the entire student body to cheer its teams from whistle to whistle and then some more.

Organized cheering unconsciously leads to better school spirit and better school spirit makes life at the college more interesting. On these grounds we advocate cheer practices for freshmen and upper classmen alike—plenty of them. The students may kick at first but in the end they will like it.

Let's show Dr. Howell and others who have been regretfully watching spirit and pep go from bad to worse, that Washington College isn't developing into a seminary.

THE EASTERN SHORE

A prominent Baltimorean who lived the early part of his life on the Eastern Shore of Maryland recently stated that this same Eastern Shore was in at least one respect the most remarkable section in the country. He stated that depression affected the ordinary working people of the Eastern Shore less disastrously than they affect similar people of other sections. He continued to say that no matter how bad conditions got it was very hard to actually starve people on the Eastern Shore of Maryland as it has been done elsewhere. His reasons for this fact seemed to be ironclad.

While the Eastern Shore has no single predominant industry it has grouped a remarkably large number of them together in comparatively small areas. Hence if conditions put one industry on the rocks, the Eastern Shoremen can turn to another. The Shore is not predominantly a manufacturing section, and most of its factory work is concerned with the production of food stuffs, canned goods, etc. Consequently this manufacturing is not likely to lose its market. Furthermore, the Chesapeake Bay offers all sorts of sea food and supplies work for thousands. The agricultural sections of the Shore can grow all of the stable farm products of this country and many that are restricted to particular sections of the country.

We mention this fact to console and relieve those who have financial worries, with the thought that though the wolf may be at the door, he is not likely to go through it so long as they remain on the Maryland Eastern Shore.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

With the opening of each school year the subject of freshmen discipline arises and is constantly under discussion. No matter how well a freshman is treated he continues to believe he is being mistreated; no matter how well he behaves and how upper classmen are sure to think he is still too fresh.

The old fashioned brutal board roomism is being gradually eliminated and today freshmen are quickly and usually effectively and efficiently disciplined by the Vigilance Committee. The new plan is much more satisfactory than the old. Yet certain elements of unfairness exists in individual contact between upper classmen and freshmen.

Have you ever noticed that the Rats who receive the worst treatment are often those who need a beating? That upper classmen when trying to make a clown of a freshman usually choose one whose wits are already well scattered by his having been thrown into a severe punishment; has the cool self-possession big Rat in front; upper classmen and break rules without ever been called to account; while some humble, frightened kid is punished for the slightest misdeed.

At the initial Rat Party my attention was called to the fact that the freshmen group grew smaller and smaller. Occasionally I noticed some fresh quietly accuse some freshman as the door of the gymnasium and dining hall. When the time arrived for the "Blue Day I Am" dance only a small group of Rats were present.

I can remember when Rats were punished for handshaking upperclassmen but now it seems that upperclassmen handshakes are more promising Rats. It would be a good idea to treat Rats according to their actions and not according to their action in life as in the campus.

When trying to take the eye out of a Rat choose one who has gone up. Despite the foregoing criticism, conditions at present seem to have during any of the previous four years and both Rats and upper-classmen have less reason for complaint.

Jas. S. Kreeger, Jr., Wins Golfing Cup

Fights Way Through Kent Tourney

James Kreeger, town student and member of the Freshman Class, is the newly crowned golf champion of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club of Chestertown. In the annual tournament, held during the week-end of Sept. 23 and sponsored by Mr. W. J. Stenger under the auspices of the Country Club, young Kreeger fought his way among a large field of older and more experienced golfers to reach the finals and then win the championship.

Kreeger was paired with Col. Hiram S. Brown for the first round of 18 holes and conquered the old Washington grid 9 up and 5 to play. Next in order Jim paced and beat Harry Russell and Coach Kibler, 4 up and 3 to play. In the finals held on Labor Day Kreeger won from Mr. Stenger in 36 holes of grueling golf, with 9 up and 6 to play.

Harry Russell was awarded the qualification medal while Jim walked off with the club championship medal. As he was a Bobby Jones. Should Kreeger continue to improve as he has, all things remaining the same, it will be only a matter of experience and time before he breaks into national prominence in golfdom.

A. PARKS RASIN, JR., IS KENT TENNIS CHAMPION

A. Parks Rasin, Jr., a member of the class of '32, won the Kent County Tennis Championship during the summer by overpowering the Rev. J. L. Murter in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Rasin defeated D. B. Ford, Jr., another member of the class of '32, in an earlier round and advanced to the finals by virtue of a 6-6, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Joe Lewis, former Chestertown High School basketball star. In the doubles championship Rasin teamed up with D. B. Ford and made it two in a row by defeating John Bibe and Robert Wright, two High School boys, in the finals.

The matches were all played at Elison's court.

Foot Ball

By George L. Elatis

With a ten game schedule, headed by the University of Maryland, before them, the Washington College football squad has been hard at work for the past two weeks. Fortunate in having almost perfect football weather the first week, the squad attacked its routine work with vigor. Fundamentals, punting and passing were stressed. Last Saturday the first scrimmage was held. Coaches Kibler and Elatis were pleased with the work done by the first offensive team.

The squad was hard hit by the graduation of Plummer, Robinson, and Baker and Kibler, and Carey a lineman. The failure of Groszow, Carozzo and Jones to return will leave gaping holes in the line. This group were all letter men and their absence will be felt.

Out of the squad of thirty-five, two teams have been formed with a tentative third team. One team is composed of letter men of last year, this team will probably start the game against Maryland, and the other team is interspersed by freshmen.

The coaches have been pleased with the work of the first group, but have been working, almost frantically, to discover replacements for them. With the long schedule, the replacements football have a great deal to do with whether Washington College football season will be a success or not.

Lord—L. G.
Harries—C.
Dickerson—R. G.
Ward—R. C.
Gamber—R. E.
Dobkins—Q. R.
Gratino—H. B.
Reinhold—H. B.
Gilton—F. B.

This is the first of a series of articles dealing with football written by George Elatis for the "Elm." Mr. Elatis is well qualified to write on this subject, having been star quarterback on Western Maryland's undefeated team of two years ago, and having enjoyed a successful season of coaching at Washington College, last year. The "Elm" is fortunate in securing Mr. Elatis as a columnist. Coach Elatis' return to Washington College as assistant to Coach Kibler in foot ball and head coach of lacrosse is a bright spot on the college sports program.

FOOT BALL TEAM FACES TOUGH SCHEDULE IN '32

The football schedule which Washington College faces this year is the toughest arranged in recent years. It consists of ten games three of which are with Maryland, Hopkins and Delaware rated as first class football teams in the East. While the rest of the schedule is with teams of lesser caliber, Washington will find hard tasks before it all season. However there is a good chance of beating such teams as Gallahed, Washington, St. Joseph's and Harvard.

The schedule:

|                       |      |
|-----------------------|------|
| Sept. 24—Maryland     | Away |
| Oct. 1—Hopkins        | Away |
| Oct. 6—Delaware       | Away |
| Oct. 15—Loyola        | Away |
| Oct. 22—Susquehanna   | Home |
| Oct. 29—Drexel        | Home |
| Nov. 5—Mt. St. Mary's | Away |
| Nov. 12—Harvard       | Away |
| Nov. 19—St. Joseph's  | Home |
| Nov. 26—Delaware      | Home |

Washington - Delaware Contest To Be Feature

When the Washington College eleven faces the University of Delaware gridiron on the local field on Saturday, November 26, it will mark the resumption of old relations between three old rivals after a lapse of nearly ten years and will begin what is hoped to be a new era of athletics on the Peninsula.

Washington and Delaware are natural rivals. Situated on the Delaware Peninsula and that section only institutions of higher learning it is only to be expected that they should be sports rivals of the highest degree of intensity. Such need be the case but as frequently happens there came a disagreement. The schools parted company along athletic lines for a number of years.

Now they are back together again. It is expected that with a few days an announcement will be made of the donation of a trophy for which the teams will battle annually.

If plans now being discussed are carried out the November 26 contest here with Delaware will be a notable occasion. Tentative plans call for a dance at which the Washington student body will be the hosts to their neighbors from Delaware and a dinner, following the game, at which the two squads will be the guests of honor.

Reinhold, Gamber Honored, Lacrosse

Local Stickmen Picked On All Star Teams

For the first time since Lacrosse was made a major sport at Washington College, several maroon and black stickmen were honored with mention or positions on the all star teams picked by Baltimore newspaper experts last spring. Both "Pips" Reinhold and "Red" Gamber were picked as outstanding players in college circles during the past stick season, by W. Wilson Wingate of the Baltimore "News" and "American." Reinhold was given honorable mention for the position of "All American" goalie and was second "All Maryland" goalie on the team picked by Wingate for the "American." Gamber was given honorable mention for the position of third defense and Howard Plummer who played point for the locals was similarly honored. Reinhold was also chosen as "All Maryland" goalie by Paul Broderick of the "Baltimore Evening Sun."

Both Reinhold and Gamber who played brilliant lacrosse for Coach Elatis last year are members of the present junior class which fairly glitters with stick brilliancy. The juniors, who are instrumental in giving the locals, last year, their best lacrosse season since Lacrosse was introduced here, also list among their teachers such stick notables as Al Gratino, Charley Clark, and Paul Pippin. These stalwarts, aided by their experience gained in the last two years, should push their way right up to all star caliber during the coming year.

PROGRAM FOR FRESHMAN WEEK IS GOOD

Dr. Livingston in Charge Of Newcomers

On Sept. 13 Washington College opened for the 1932 year with its seventh annual Freshman Week in charge of Dr. Frederick G. Livingston.

Seven standard tests were given in all, which were used to set the background of the Freshman and for sectioning the class. Bu Freshman Week was not all made up of tests. There were many delightful programs given for the benefit of the new students.

On Tuesday night, Sept. 13, the Faculty reception was given at Field Hall, this reception took the place of the old Student Government Reception. Wednesday evening the entire Freshman class made up a movie party to the New Lyceum, the whole class being the guests of Manager Emerson Russell, '25. That is probably the only time the students will sit downtown this year, as the "past gallery" seems to be the favorite spot for some peculiar reason. Thursday afternoon Dr. Oscar Blackwelder, of Baltimore, delighted the Freshman with a well received speech.

Thursday evening a weiner roast was held jointly by the Y, M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. on the banks of the Chester River. Friday morning all the Freshmen boys got together in Room 25, "Bill" Smith, and met the captains of all the sports at Washington College, each captain giving a short talk. Coach Eklund gave an interesting talk on the game of Lacrosse. The feature speech was presented by Coach J. Thomas Kibler, who spoke on "Athletic Opportunities for Men at Washington College." A similar meeting was held by the women members of the Freshman class with Ann Kreeger presiding.

Friday afternoon at an assembly with Hubert F. Ryan, president of the Student Council, presiding, all the Freshmen were made acquainted with the various clubs, fraternities and societies and other campus activities. This was done by short speeches given by upper classmen representing the various campus activities. That night the entire Freshman class was entertained at an assembly in charge of the Mount Vernon Literary Society, Emily J. Jewell, presiding. This assembly was one of the features of the entire week and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Then came Saturday, the final day of the week. The last assembly was held at William Smith Hall. At this meeting, James W. Johns, business manager, gave a talk on the "Financial Relations of the Students," also short talks were given by the pastors of the churches of Chestertown.

Saturday evening the Blue Key Society played host to the whole student body. After much hand shaking the dancing began. This lasted until eleven o'clock. And to the strains of a haunting good-night waltz the curtains were rung down on the most successful "Freshman Week" in the history of this annual occurrence.

Breakfast Given To Episcopal Students

A breakfast for the Episcopal students of the Freshman Class of Washington College, was held last Sunday morning, Sept. 18, at 8:45 A. M., in the Parish House adjoining the Protestant Episcopal Church. It was served by Mrs. C. S. Atwater, Mrs. Thomas Kibler, and Mrs. James G. Beck, of Chestertown.

Besides the Freshmen, there were several upperclassmen present among them, William McCa. Richards, Miss Theodora Chapman, and Miss Sarah Ellen Byrne. The Rev. C. L. Atwater acted as host.

Dr. J. S. W. Jones Visits West Coast

During the past summer Dr. J. S. William Jones, dean and professor of mathematics in Washington College spent sometime in the West. While there he stayed in weeks at the University of Southern California taking auditing courses in mathematics and also courses in College Administration. The primary purpose of the trip however was to attend a meeting of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of men on August 22, 23, 24 and 25, at the University of California in Los Angeles as a representative of Washington College.

His itinerary included Chicago, Denver, Yellowstone National Park, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Catalina Island, Seattle, Portland and the Grand Canyon.

The high-spot of the tour was a viewing of motion picture production arranged by "Ed" Lacey, a former Washington College student who is now working in Hollywood.

Dr. Jones who is especially interested in Astronomy was exceedingly fortunate in having been able to spend a little time at the Astronomical Observatory at Mt. Wilson, which incidentally has the largest telescope in the world.

In his travels Dean Jones visited the U. of Calif., Leland Stanford, U. of Wash., U. of Utah, and Wash. U. of St. Louis. He was at the opening of the Olympic games Aug. 27. The contacts made by Dr. Jones while out West proved to be both valuable and interesting.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN MIDDLE DORMITORY

During the past vacation, Middle Hall has been made a better place in which to live. Most of the rooms have been attractively repapered, and the wood work painted. Roland Ready's "Slippery Elm" article in the final issue of this paper last year, seems to have helped, for a water fountain presents itself on the first floor. The shower room has been painted also, insuring on all sides greater sanitation.

The Fraternity houses, and East and West Hall have similarly been altered in a small but necessary manner. The foundation of East Hall has just been strengthened, to reject decaying.

The new athletic field has not been improved in much this summer, and consequently is yet far from being ready for use, but it is hoped that by next spring, it will be completed.

DR. PAUL E. TITSWORTH TO SPEAK TO ELM STAFF

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth will give a lecture to the "Elm" staff in the classroom adjoining the president's office, Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 6:30 P. M. Dr. Titsworth will give valuable suggestions concerning the best methods to be used in editing a college newspaper. President Titsworth was editor of the college newspaper when he was a student at Alfred University. He also has had a great deal of experience in newspaper work since graduating from Alfred.

Dr. Titsworth, last year, gave a series of similar talks that were exceedingly valuable and interesting.

The editor of the "Elm" most definitely requests that all members of the "Elm" staff be present at this lecture.

RAT PARTY IS BIG AFFAIR AT COLLEGE

By Phil Skippinski '36

At exactly 12:00 o'clock Sunday night a furiously hoard of upper classmen lead by Harry Huxey poured in to Rat Hall. The "Rats" were dragged and driven out of their holes, and taken outside, where they were blindfolded. Then started a loud and noisy procession. In single file, the "Rats" were lead around Rat Jail, by Middle and East Halls, to Reid Hall, where the fair occupants there were serenaded by (or to) strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Then falling into single file again, the Rats were lead down the Sacred L passing many "low bridges," and through barbed-wire fences. During all this time, above the din, could be heard the whack of paddles and still above all this—Mike Wallace, leading on his vandals. Finally the "Ratmen" were lead into the gym where the fun began. The floor was soon covered by a mass of humanity that seemed to have gone insane. In one corner Gaze was tackling chairs; the Nowak brothers were pushing each other all over the floor. While in the center Charlie Berry and Skipp were putting on a passionate love affair, Mike Higginson was dribbling up and down the floor blindfolded. He was making basket after basket until he hit a redistator and had to leave.

The Freshies deserved the name of "Rats" judging from their appearances after the festivities. They were a sorry sight.

Third Celebration Held On Shore

Big Armistice Day Affair At Cambridge

The third mammoth Eastern Shore celebration of this year will be held in Cambridge on Armistice day, November 11th.

This celebration follows the George Washington Bi-Centennial and Washington College 150th anniversary celebrations held on the college campus, also the city of Salisbury's celebration of its 200th anniversary.

1932 being Bi-Centennial year, floats showing important events in the life of George Washington will predominate in this number of the annual Cambridge Armistice celebration.

Indications point to a celebration fifty per cent greater than last year's, when 67,000 people witnessed the affair, according to accounts of the authorities. The military display will be the greatest ever shown on the Del-Mar-Wa peninsula. The parade will include Infantry, Artillery, Tanks, etc. More than twenty bands and ten drum corps will be present to provide music for the affair, and at night a Mardi Gras will be staged. The celebration will last all day and the city is preparing to entertain 100,000 people.

Whether or not, the celebration will provide the international flavor given to the Washington College 150th anniversary by the German Ambassador, Baron Von Pittvisitz, and the presence of the Mayor of Salisbury, England, at the Eastern Shore's metropolitan celebration has not been known.

The executive committee for the affair is: George Kohler, chairman; H. L. Harper, G. B. Wall, J. P. Swing, I. J. Barth, J. W. Hastings, G. D. Todd, R. Weyand, F. Albaugh, D. H. Smith, E. C. Harrington, Jr., A. G. Hage, N. Claggett, and J. E. Parks.

Dr. Kenneth S. Buxton On Activities Committee

Dr. Kenneth S. Buxton, head of the department of chemistry at Washington College, was recently elected secretary of the Student Activities Committee. The new secretary came to Washington College last year as a graduate of McGill University where he received his doctor's degree after finishing a very brilliant record there.

The Activities Committee, which meets on Wednesday of each week, will be the final authority on all student functions.

The Secretary gave out the following statement for publication:

The Student Activities Committee will meet on Wednesday of each week. All petitions to the committee must be presented to the secretary, Professor Buxton, not later than noon of the preceding Tuesday.

The Student Activities Committee, K. S. Buxton, Secretary.

ON COMMITTEE

Dean Margaret M. Brewer has been chosen head of the Auxiliary Committee, which will have charge of the Calaret held in Reid Hall during dances sponsored by the Washington College Cotillion Club.

PAUL HARRIS, JR. TALKS ON PEACE

According to a brilliant entertaining speech given by Paul P. Harris, noted pacifist from Washington, D. C., on October 6th in the Washington College Assembly, war within ten years is inevitable, from an economic standpoint, if there is not an immediate international disarmament. It was also added that the present generation would be the ones to fight the war, so if they wished to avoid it, they should do everything in their power to reduce the present increasing armament.

In the opinion of Mr. Harris the policy, "the well armed country is safe," has been continually proven incorrect in past history. The main issue in the world today is not whether we should have peace or war but whether preparedness by armament, or general disarmament leads to a continued peace.

To have a better understanding of European people and affairs Mr. Harris made a tour through France, Switzerland, Russia and other countries. His accounts of his experiences there were both entertaining and educational.

The student body as a whole enjoyed the speech as it was characterized by subtle humor on one side and intense sincerity on the other. Such a spirited forceful speech was a welcome change from the usual uninteresting talks which often are given in chapel, in the opinion of many students.

HENRY W. CATLIN, EX-'94, DIES IN NEW YORK

Henry Whaland Catlin, ex-'94, died suddenly on September 27, at his home in New York City. After witnessing the fight between Schmeling and Walker he returned to his home for a late supper. Shortly after the meal he received the shock and was pronounced dead from a heart attack.

Assembly Speakers Announced For Oct.

Dr. Livingood Arranges Good Schedule

Announcement of the list of October speakers for the regular weekly assembly programs, held each Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at Washington College, was made this morning by Dr. F. C. Livingood, chairman of the assembly program committee.

Memorial services for the late Dr. Thomas Howard Fowler, former head of the Department of Romance Languages, will be held on October 20. The program will include talks by faculty members, students and a musical program suitable for such an occasion.

The Reverend Father Eugene J. Kraemer, rector of Mother of Sorrows Church, Centerville, will be the assembly speaker on Thursday, October 27.

Dr. Livingood, in announcing the assembly programs, stressed the fact that the public is cordially invited to attend the weekly programs along with the students and faculty.

John E. Davis Talks To College Students

At last Monday's Assembly, Mr. John E. Davis, who is a graduate of Washington College and Senior Athletic Director of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital at Perry Point, gave a most interesting talk on insanity and the way it affects the human mind.

He described the common aspects of this dread disease saying an insane person lives for the most part in and by himself, that he usually made no effort to come down to reality.

He told how it was often possible to see these poor people started on the road back to normalcy by coaxing them into playing some physical game where they get in touch with "things as they are," and so often displayed a degree of the degree of their delusions and elements.

He showed the really tremendous improvement that has taken place in dealing with these folk in the last few years. Mr. Davis closed with the hope that society would deal with the insane in the future even more humanely than it does today.

Dancing Lessons Being Held By Miss Bell

Dancing lessons were begun for the benefit of the Freshmen boys in the Gym at 12:30 P. M. Tuesday, Oct. 4, under the direction of Miss Bell, Physical Educational Instructor for women.

Every year the Cotillion Club sponsors these lessons and Miss Bell is put in charge with many of the girl students as willing assistants. Lessons will be given every Tuesday and Friday from 12:30 to 1:15 P. M. until the first Cotillion, there is no charge any of the men students desiring to learn to dance report at the Gym at time stated above. Those who do not desire to take dancing lessons are barred from the Gym during instruction period.

RECEIVES MAYOR

Prof. Lawrence Ford, a member of the Washington College faculty, was a member of the reception committee that greeted and entertained Mayor Howard Jackson, of Baltimore last Sunday.

MEETING HELD BY MT. VERNON

On Wednesday, October 5, 1932, the Mount Vernon Literary Society met for their last year meeting. A program was presented under the title of "Mount Vernon Literary Society in 1847." The program presented was as follows: Reading, Ann Kreger; Piano Solo, Vincent Brando; Encore: Recitation, Mary Parr; Quartet, C. Harris, C. Kerwin, A. Hodgson, M. Parr; Contrast of the music of 1847 with that of 1932, Paul Fugate.

After the program a brief business meeting was held. New members were sworn in by the president and a list of applicants were voted upon. The new members are Vincent Brando, Emerson Slacum, Walter Dorman, Carroll Cantell, Alfred Hodgson, Roland Leobach, Marian Clough, Elizabeth Heburn, Mary Jane Nield, Carolyn Jewell and Marie Gibson.

Wednesday, Sept. 28, the opening meeting was held and a brief program presented. The program portrayed a day in an old fashioned school. The part of the teacher was well acted by Miss Alice Dale. The male singing pupils were the Messrs. Bell, Nohk, Gardiner, Shull and Messrs. Sewell, Elizabeth Walbert, Arwin and Barclay. The program presented was as follows: Recitation, Alice Barclay; Current News Items, arranged in "Believe it or not" fashion by J. Milton Nohk; Piano Duet by L. G. Bell and C. Kerwin; Song by Elizabeth Walbert; and Recitation by Alice Barclay.

Vigilance Committee Elected By Sophs

The Sophomore Vigilance Committee has begun to function again this year as is evidenced by the queer mode of dress seen on several members of the Freshman class, as well as other somewhat humiliating forms of punishment.

Capt. Dickerson To Lead Locals

Al Dobkins Will Quarterback Today

The Maroon and Black of Washington College stack up against the Whites of Gallaudet College, this afternoon at Washington, D. C. This team will offer about the weakest opposition that the Shoremen will encounter this season, and nothing less than a victory is looked for.

Coach Elsie and Kibler were greatly disappointed at the showing of their pupils in the early part of the Hopkins game last week. This week witnesses the efforts of the Shoremen to impress upon the football team the importance of the jump on the other team, rather than to realize that such is necessary only after too much damage has been done.

The locals came out of their battle last week practically unscathed and are improving on deficiencies apparent since then. Bill Nicholson is being groomed for the fullback position. Playing his first game last week in the backfield, Bill was a continual bitter pill to the Blue Jays. Defensively, he backed up the line in grand style and consequently Hopkins gained little ground after his entrance into the game in the second quarter. This big fellow also shows great promise of becoming a real plugging back, filling in a vacancy which has been unfilled at Washington College for quite a while.

Charles Herby who played such a fine game against Maryland as safety man, has overcome a foot injury and is ready to perform once again.

It is expected that Washington will resort to an aerial attack. This branch of the game was particularly successful against Hopkins, a large number of passes being completed for nice gains.

The lineup for this week will be unchanged as now foreseen, except that Nicholson is likely to start at fullback instead of Upton. Lord will play at center, Captain Dickerson and Carey at the guards, Ward and Blinnard at the tackle posts, and Johnson and Gamber will perform at the wings. In the backfield Al Dobkins will quarterback, Giraffe and Kibler will play at the half-back positions, and Bill Nicholson will hold down the fullback job. Fritz Reinhold will again kick.

The purpose of the team is to give the new students an opportunity to become acquainted with the faculty.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL TO HOLD TEA SUNDAY

The Women's Student Council will hold a tea in Reid Hall, Sunday afternoon at 4 P. M. The purpose of the tea is to give the new students an opportunity to become acquainted with the faculty.

AN IMPROVEMENT

Since we have been at Washington College a very marked improvement in the general attitude of the student body has taken place. We refer to the attitude existing toward the system of "ratting."

Three years ago "ratting" was a very vigorous and definite custom, carried on as such until near the end of the year. Now a great many of the most undesirable features of this custom have been gradually but none the less definitely, eliminated. To the satisfaction of all concerned, this elimination has been initiated and carried out by the student body. As a concern of any moment, "ratting" is now over by Christmas.

It is significant that the leading "ratters" are not the students holding the respect and confidences of the general student body, but rather the ex-freshman who last year maintained a weak and wary attitude but, who over the summer underwent a metamorphosis and came back to college with a hard shell.

Perhaps the hard boiled "rat catcher" is more to be pitied than to blame for we know that he is really trying to work off an inferiority complex given him by one of his species during his freshman year in college. It is, however, a real pity that he must harm some other inoffensive boy in the process and thus keep up the vicious circle, which once broken would certainly stay broken.

We must admit that we have indulged in "ratting" and argued ourselves into believing that it was a blessing to all concerned but always upon cool and fair consideration we have realized that such was not the case.

It is not unreasonable to expect the freshman to abide by certain regulations applying only to himself and this will probably go far a long, long time, but it is certain that many off-fenceless and objectionable practices now observed in ratting will disappear just as many others have before them. It always seems just a little strange to break away from a precedent no matter how silly and such will be the case with those who have been used to "ratting." However, example and precedent in other and more famous colleges with advanced classes on the handling of freshmen are even now exerting an influence on Washington College students in this respect.

THE ELM wishes to congratulate Coach George Eklitis upon his promotion to the position of head coach of football at Washington College.

Coach J. Thomas Kibler, director of athletics and head coach of football, basketball and base ball here for almost two decades told the editor that he believed Coach Eklitis to be now experienced enough to take over the football reins in full charge. The first of these was that the Washington director of athletics has been performing here the work of two men and the second was that the present style of football taught at Washington was instituted by Coach Eklitis. Coach Eklis will report to Coach Kibler in the latter's capacity as director of athletics.

This placing of Mr. Eklitis in the position of head coach football here appears to be a very wise act. As a player and student of football the former Western Maryland quarterback star established himself as one of the greatest backs ever to play in the State of Maryland and as a coach he has shown that he possesses the ability to impart to others the wizardry he knows himself. The new head coach is a past master in the psychology of handling of college athletes. He knows how and when to urge on a band of football players.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

I wonder whether I should say anything upon a subject about which much has been said and little done. At last Washington College is having "pep meetings" and its, at least, a start toward developing school spirit. But what "pep meetings?" They rather remind one of a group of children learning a new song who, everyone an error is made hide their embarrassment by glancing at one another and smiling a shame-faced smile.

What's wrong with us? Why, after having been one or more years here do we have to read our cheers from a book? Why, when a cheer is partly finished do part of the group decide to give the ending of some other cheer. Why is there a lack of wholeheartedness when we yell?

The answer is to be found in the individual. We go to cheer practice. Why? Because we feel that it is a duty. One student says to another: "Are you going to 'Pep meeting' tonight?" The other student sighs or groans out: "Well, I really should" and they move along to the gym to give a few un-enthusiastic yells.

Not a pleasant picture of our college life, is it? Or is it our college? Are we true Washingtonians or just a disunited group of individuals who are letting burdensome duties of our college custom?

Let's burn our cheers and leave the books at home. Let's forget our private animosities, our little jealousies and petty dislikes, and appear as a strong loyal united college group full of whole hearted enthusiasm for a hard fighting team.

An old idea comes to me. Maybe you'll think it's not so "hot" but I'll still mention it. The evening before our first home game lets have a good old fashioned "Pep Parade." Like the days when the class of '33 were Rats. We'll get a few musical instruments, have the Rats make some banners and storm down town. If this doesn't stir our dormant senses into some spirit nothing else even will. What you say? Let's go!

PURLOINED PHRASES

For Political Science Students:

Why go to college? Is college made for political science or is political science made for college? Who made it? How did he die?
—Temple University News.

We read the "Farthest North Collier" in the text that mastodon, mammoth teeth and tusks, and prehistoric world are being unearthed in the vicinity of the college. We wonder what amazing discoveries might be made if extensive excavations were carried on in the plot of land adjacent to our football field.

Why should an absent-minded professor play miniature golf?

—Temple University News.

Dean Archibald B. Bouton of the College of Arts and Science at N. Y. suggests that college advise graduates on earning a living.

"It's not many cases," he said, "but lack of professional and practical studies comes as an unwelcome discovery to the liberal arts graduate and for a time he finds himself not pleased by the difficulty of getting a start in the business of a livelihood. At this point the college should provide wise, kindly, and efficient counsel. There can be no doubt that we need a fuller recognition of the difficult problems that confront students on graduation."

Hopkins Defeats Washington 21 To 0

Nicholson Plays Best Game For Locals

Washington College received its second setback of the season when defeated by Johns Hopkins, of Baltimore, at Homewood field, last Saturday, Oct. 1, by the count of 21 to 0. The locals play poor football in the first and second quarters, allowing Hopkins to amass three touchdowns and the extra point after each of these. No score was made in the second half.

Blizard kicked off poorly for Washington, but Hopkins had possession of the ball for their 45 yard line. After gaining some ground, Hopkins kicked deep into Washington territory. Reinhold returned the kick, Hopkins having gained about fifteen yards on the exchange. Soon afterwards Reinhold circled right end for the first touch-down. Washington chose to receive and soon after the kick-off, Hopkins scored again when Weeks crossed the goal line, following a fumble by Washington on their 20-yard line. Shortly after the second quarter began, Beeler completed a long pass to Kelley, and then Weeks scored on the goal line, following a fumble by Washington on the extra point was made.

Washington presented a more spirited team in the second half and held the Jays scoreless. During the third period several nice passes were completed and a dropped pass over the goal line ruled chances for a touch-down. However, Giralits who played a nice game defensively, intercepted a pass and ran forty yards to Hopkins 30-yard line before being stopped. A certain score it seemed would result, but Hopkins' displayed an air-tight defense and withstood the Maroon and Black threats.

VARSITY CLUB HOLDS FIRST REGULAR MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Varsity Club was held, Sept. 28th, in William Smith Hall. The holding of the annual dance was discussed and it was decided that if possible should be given October 22nd after the home game with Susquehanna.

A means of rewarding men who had never made their varsity letter but had been diligent in reporting to practice in the various sports, was discussed. It was decided to bring his up at the next meeting when it could be given more careful attention.

Del Proudfoot was appointed to provide entertainment for the visiting football teams. It was decided that an initiation should be held before the close of the football season to enroll men having made their letter last spring in lacrosse or track. Before adjourning the regular meeting, nights were decided on as the first and third Wednesday in the month.

University of Maryland Wins First Game Of Season

In the opening game of the State football season at College Park, Md., Saturday, Sept. 24, Washington was overwhelmed by a score of 68 to 0. The hard-fighting, Maroon-clad warriors led by Joe Dickerson were no match for the heavy, powerful Maryland team. Led by Ray Poppleman and Earl Widemeyer, two of the best backs in the East, the Old Line scored two or more touchdowns in each period. The Byrd-coached team made nineteen first downs to four first downs by Washington College.

But the "pride" of the Eastern Shore went down fighting. Time after time the backfield men had to make difficult tackles. Joe Dickerson proved himself to be able to stand. He was given very good support in the line by Johnny Lord, Wardy and by "Mike" Higginson. The latter is a freshman who was playing his first football game.

Foot Ball

By George L. Ekaitis

With the Maryland and Hopkins games behind them, the coaching staff is looking forward to the game this Saturday with Gallaudet. Miscellaneous games were found in the games thus far and many and drastic are the changes being made.

The work of Billy Nicholson in the backfield against Hopkins was very pleasing. Despite the fact it was his first game in the backfield, he disposed himself well. Along with Billy, the work of the ends was satisfactory. Outside of this group a clever play was poor.

There has been a great deal of shuffling around among the players on the squad in an attempt to bolster the weaknesses shown in the two games. John Lord is playing center, Baker has been moved to guard, Skip and Nownk have been moved to tackles, and Tigner is being tried in the backfield. Three new men joined the squad and may be some use before the season is over. They are: Evans, a back; O'Farrell, an end; and Miller, a tackle.

The probable starting lineup against Gallaudet—Johnson or Clark and Gamber at the ends; Blizard and Ward, tackle; Dickerson and Baker or Carey, guards; Lord, center; Dolbins and Nicholson, bucking backs; Giralits and Reinhold wing backs.

EKAITIS IS NEW HEAD COACH OF FOOT BALL

George Ekaitis was recently made head coach of foot ball at Washington College.

This is Mr. Ekaitis' second year of coaching at Washington. Last year he was assistant to Coach Kilmer in foot ball and head coach of lacrosse. Mr. Ekaitis' coaching was very pleasing and he was asked to return to Washington for the 1932-33 year.

Coach Ekaitis learned his foot ball under "Dick" Harlow, of Western Maryland, and the famous Green Terror coach declared Ekaitis to be one of the smartest students of foot ball he has ever known. While in college Ekaitis was twice picked on the All-Maryland foot ball team, chosen by Baltimore newspaper men. The new head coach of foot ball gained fame, while at Western Maryland, as one of the greatest defensive backs ever to play in the East.

Coach Ekaitis will again coach the Washington lacrosse team when Spring rolls around. Last year, Ekaitis turned in a season record in the old Indian game that was truly remarkable. The former Green Terror yielded lacrosse from a tettering place on the college sports program to the position of one of the most popular sports at Washington College.

With better material for this budding young coach to work with this year, local lacrosse enthusiasts are confident that the stick wielding pastime will continue its advance on the Maryland Eastern Shore.

Fall Practice In Lacrosse Is Held

Reinhold, Gamber, Out For Foot Ball

A somewhat informal fall lacrosse practice is now being held daily on Kibler field before foot ball practice starts.

Due to the fact that most of the varsity men from last year are out for foot ball, the men working out are for the most part freshmen. Dick Chambers and Paul Pippen are varsity members of the 1932 team who are instructing the new-comers in the fundamentals of the old Indian game. Charley Morris, John McLain and Jack Knobloch are veterans from last year's squad who are also working out and helping with the recruits.

Dick Gamber, Fritz Reinhold, Charley Clark, and Al Giralits, all big cubs in the 1932 lacrosse wheel, are now out for foot ball and so unable to attend the stick swinging sessions.

Capt. Phil Wingeat has his afternoons occupied with foot ball managerial duties and consequently he is seldom able to chase the famous bounding rubber ball.

Lacrosse seems to be very popular with the first year men if the number reporting each day for practice can be taken as an indication. Few of these men have played any lacrosse before, but with the practice in stick work they will get this Fall some of them may be of benefit to Coach Ekaitis next spring. Some more promising material will probably be seen in the class of '36, when the freshmen now engaged in foot ball practice unlimber their sticks. Some of the Fresh out for Fall lacrosse are Eberman, Kemper, Carmel, Taylor, Pratt.

Washington Faces Susquehanna Here

Memorial Service For Dr. Fowler

Students, Faculty Members Speak

Memorial services for Dr. Thomas Howard Fowler, the late Professor of German and head of the Modern Language Department at Washington College, were held on Thursday, October 20, at the Assembly of the College. Short speeches by members of the Faculty and by students were given on various phrases of Dr. Fowler's life and character. The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. F. G. Livingston, and Mr. Raymond Moffett, as well as the Washington College choir, produced the musical part of the service.

President Paul E. Titsworth delivered the opening address concerning Dr. Fowler in relation to the Administration, and as a personal friend. Dr. Titsworth gave a brief history of Dr. Fowler's educational career, and mentioned the occasion of their first meeting. Continuing, he cited those qualities of courtesy and firmness which characterized Dr. Fowler as a faculty member. Dr. Titsworth praised Dr. Fowler's college and his true loyalty and devotion to his Alma Mater.

Following the address of the President, Mr. Raymond Moffett rendered an appropriate vocal solo. Mr. Moffett is the Director of vocal music at the Washington College Assemblies. Representing the students, Mr. Theodore Chapman discussed Dr. Fowler as a teacher. Especially did he laud his methods, his procedure and his manner in class. She told of the desire to study and work under him produced by his sincere interest in each student. She suggested the good fortune of the freshman who might have begun his college career with a class under Dr. Fowler.

William Baker, another student, spoke of Dr. Fowler as an advisor and friend.

Mr. Paul Solandt instructor in Latin and in French recalled some of the joys and griefs of having Dr. Fowler as a fellow faculty member, and as head of his department. Mr. Solandt spoke of Dr. Fowler's friendship for people, and of his philosophy and the serenity which he had attained by it. In conclusion, he quoted Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" as indicative of Dr. Fowler's own faith as a Christian and a good man.

Dr. G. Van A. Ingalls, Professor of English at Washington College, concluded the program by a mention of Dr. Fowler's contributions to the College. These, as Dr. Ingalls noted, were very many, but chief among them, was his gift of a cosmopolitan point of view. She stressed the gift this "citizen of the world" had made to a section somewhat inclined to be provincial, in the form of a broad experience gained in many lands, from contact with many peoples. Dr. Ingalls cited the credit due Dr. Fowler for his formation of the small German library at the College.

Pro Meeting And Parade Held At College, Bonfire

Excitement at Washington College last night reached the fever heat stage.

Practically the entire student body came over to the assembly hall at 6:45 P. M. and cheered the coaches and various players to the echo.

However, this did not relieve the pent up feelings of the students so they shortly afterward massed together and took the town by storm, blocking traffic and parading everywhere.

New Rules Given Blue Key Here

Registration Fee Will Be Charged

New rules and regulations governing every local Blue Key Chapter of the National Honor Fraternity have been recently drawn up. President Upsilon has been notified of these mandates in communications received from Mr. B. C. Riley, National President at headquarters in Gainesville, Florida.

New members who will be taken in this Fall must pay a charge of $5.00, which will be known as a registration fee and will be forwarded to National Headquarters before they be "blue members of Blue Key. Exemption is the penalty for violation of many of these mandates, rules or regulations.

They do not pertain to any present member of Blue Key at Washington College as the most recent regulations were made in the Spring of 1932 and these new regulations were not effective at that date.

In its recent meeting Blue Key decided to hold its annual banquet on Wednesday evening, October 26, at the Bell Haven. Choice of a speaker has not been decided on as yet.

TO LEAD TEAM

Joe Dickerson

Capt. Joe Dickerson will lead the Maroon and Black of Washington College against Susquehanna today in the first home appearance of George Ekaltis' foot ball machine.

W. Wilson Wingate Picks Washington To Win Here

W. Wilson Wingate, feature sports writer for the BALTIMORE NEWS and BALTIMORE SUNDAY AMERICAN, last night, picked Washington College to defeat Susquehanna today by a touchdown.

Wingate, it will be remembered, picked Washington to beat Gallaudet by a touchdown two weeks ago. Last week he picked the locals to receive a neat lacing at the hands of Loyola.

Reinhold Back In Form Today

Close Game Is Looked For

In what is expected to be their toughest game of the season Washington's gridlers battle a well-balanced and powerful team from Susquehanna in their first home game at 2:30 this afternoon on Kirby Field.

The Maroon and Black eleven came out of the Loyola tussle with no major injuries and with the exception of Blomquist, promising Fresh back who suffered a cracked rib in Maryland's drill, will have its entire strength available for today's struggle. The locals worked out for an hour in a pouring rain Monday stressing tackling. In scrimmages held Tuesday and Wednesday the backfield showed better timing and running form than they have to date.

MacDonald, with his foot injury received in the first scrimmage of the season now completely healed, may get the nod to start at the center post. Higginson is very likely to start at left end. Johnson, still bothered by a sprained ankle, and Chan. Clark, and O'Farrell will see duty on the wing positions. Gamber will be at the right end berth. Capt. Dickerson, Warren Carey and Lord, recently changed from center, will fill in the guard places as needed. Ward and Blomquist will play the tackle positions with Skip and Bringhurst ready to substitute. Harries, Kaplan, Omar Carey, and Saylor may be called to action in the center of the line during the game. Coach Eick has a large number of backs from which to select—ten in all. Berry who has not been ready to go since the Maryland game is sure to be seen under fire and Reinhold, Washington's best punter, has recovered from an attack of grip and will see more service than he did in the Loyola encounter. More than thirty two sets of backs will be used.

Susquehanna has a strong line both offensively and defensively supporting a backfield of two heavy backs and two lighter but speedier ball-carriers. Susquehanna's men of the gridiron have an attack equal in deception to U. of Maryland's tricky offense and in addition have a scoring punch as evidenced by the large scores rolled up against opponents. Washington will look for everything. The Pennsylvanians have been pointing to this game and are primed to a keen fighting edge for their battle with the Sho'nens.

The student body and a large crowd of fans will have its first glimpse of the Maroon and Black at home in what should prove a gridiron classic. The teams are evenly matched and both are ready and eager for the opening game that will start the battle. Anything may happen.

OUR POLICY

The criticisms that have been leveled, aimed and fired at the ELM by students this year have been numerous and varied indeed. In fact, each and every department of the product of our humble efforts has found at least one critic and the sad part of the story is that we realize that the great majority of these withering remarks were deserved.

However, there is one factor to this barrage that we can't yet understand. The most outstanding and most commonly presented criticisms of the ELM by the college students have been relating to the fact that the paper did not "turn up" someone. If the editor has understood correctly, the foremost desire of many of the students, is to see some one catch a hale and hearty Bronx cheer. It doesn't matter who is on the receiving end.

We have been requested quite often to attack violently some college policy. When we inquired what policy to attack we were forthcoming. This in our humble opinion, seems to bear out our belief that after all conditions on the whole are fairly satisfactory.

Almost as numerous as the demands for a violent criticism of something have been the demands for a scandal column in the ELM. The volunteers for the position of author of this column have been about as many as the demands for it. It has been argued that such a column would add interest and pep to an otherwise dry sheet. This may be so.

However we regret to say that we do not agree with the type of criticisms mentioned above—particularly the more radical ones. Such material, as printed in the paper representing Washington College might appeal to a few people with a morbid turn of mind but we do not think it would appeal to the great majority of square thinking Washington College students. Certainly it would appear to outsiders as so much undiluted "junk."

So if the policy of the ELM appears to be too staid and dry we can only say that we are sorry. We are following out our convictions and trying to present a representative cross section of conditions on the campus. If we make a miserable failure our only consolation will be that we have done our best.

TO THE FRESHMEN

The ELM wishes to congratulate the Freshman class upon the remarkable spirit that it has demonstrated since becoming a part of Washington College. The members of the class of '36 have shown a real initiative and force in college activities that is far different from the usual Freshman attitude. Both the men and women of the yearling class have evidenced in their demonstrations of school spirit that is truly refreshing.

The tin-band organized by the frosh before the Loyola game produced, to quote Dr. Howell, some of the best "music" heard in a long time around the campus.

This same first year "band" was a valuable part of the finest and most genuine "pep" meeting we have ever seen at Washington College.

The explanation of such a fine spirit among the first year students is probably tied up in several conditions. In the first place it is probably due in part to a general revival of school spirit. It is also due in part to a naturally good frosh class and an enlightened sophomore class which has allowed the first year a measure of liberty and given them credit for a certain amount of natural worthiness that could be best brought out by leading rather than driving.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Since the introduction of Saturday classes at Washington College, which necessitated the discontinuance of the gay old Saturday morning frolic, the Blue Key has had a problem on their hands regarding the frolic situation.

The Saturday evening frolic has proved unsatisfactory and frolic-loving souls are after raising a howl. Due to the uncertainty of attendance the Blue Key find it almost impossible to secure musicians.

Now the administration has been drawn into the affair. The Blue Key petitioned for the right to issue season tickets at one dollar and a half to any male student who wished to attend the frolics.

This, they felt, would make it possible for them to render a more satisfactory dance, since they would have something with which to work.

The permission to issue tickets was refused. On the surface the ticket idea seems like a good one, but is it? It might give a commercialized drive to a college custom, or again in night living about better frolics. However, the suggestion was an attempt to ward a solution which shows some students are interested.

Quite a bit of criticism resulted from the rejection of the proposal. The administration could save itself from many criticisms by adopting the policy of publishing or announcing its reason for rejection of student proposals and a stronger feeling of co-operation between student and faculty would result.

If the frolic is a time worn custom no longer popular it can be discontinued by non-support. It can be maintained, as it now exists, by attendance.

The frolic perhaps perpetrates a friendly feeling and helps keep the college from becoming, what it is now called by many students, the Washington Seminary.

Let's help beat Susquehanna today by yelling our heads off for the boys.

PURLOINED PHRASES

Mr. Paul Harris's speech in Assembly a few weeks ago was quite the talk of the campus for several days. Enthusiastic comments were heard everywhere.

By their respective school papers, we see that the students at the University of Maryland, and those at George Washington University have had a big treat also.

Hans Kandler, the director of the National Symphony Orchestra, has given concert at these Universities within the last two weeks.

Mabel: "What was that young college boy saying to you last night?"
Mery: "Just handing me a lot of soap."

—"The Log."

When the eighteenth amendment was added to our constitution, the youngsters now in college did not know anything about liquor. Now they know more about it than the immenities growing up since then have in their vocabulary one hundred and three words descriptive of a state of intoxication.

—"The Pasquin."

And the Germans named their ships after jokes so the English wouldn't see them.

—"The Log."

The Temple University News tells us that Dr. Tassilo Scheutheiss, of Berlin, Germany, has mastered 140 languages.

"Stop. Please, don't do that, dear! Stop. Do you hear me? Stop."

"What do you think you are doing, writing a telegram?"

—"The Log."

Ex-st: "Dad, do you remember the story you told me about how you were kicked out of college?"

Dad: "Sure, why?"

Ex-st: "Well, isn't it funny how many concepts deal?"

—"The U. S. Naval Academy 'Log.'"

I ONLY HEARD

By DEWITT CLARKE

At last it has happened! Just one of these things—Washington College is "Blessed Eveninging"! True to the new born "Column!" Hall to the ilk of her sister metropolis in the State of New York, the pride and joy of "Heavenly-grandy." True to the new born "Column!" Hall to the ilk of her sister metropolis in the State of New York, the pride and joy of "Heavenly-grandy." True to the new born "Column!" Hall to the ilk of her sister metropolis in the State of New York, the pride and joy of "Heavenly-grandy."

By securing the unfavorable, unforgettable services of I. Fussy Heard, columnist ex-lux. This famous "fly-on-the-wall" has, much to the surprise and discomfort of "Ye Eds," and at the unwilling expense of the public, granted to "The Washington Elm" exclusively his valuable time and inappreciable efforts. He has promised unfaithfully to express his observations, hand-made and man-made, brilliant and scandals, and his own brilliant, illuminating gas in his world-famous, unknown style, heard-of "Heavenly-grandy." True to the sportsmanlike ethics, he issues his famous motto as a warning to all his unsuspecting and unsuspected readers:

"If even your best friend never tell you when he is sure to tell you."

Again "The Washington Elm" expresses its dissatisfaction with peace and comfort, welcomes the infamous columnist and his "Toled To Me" column into the realm of space-fillers and limbers up the old shotgun.

Speaking of affairs and we admit that we were not, the Reid Hall Kaydets are marshalling their forces under the capable, experienced leadership of "The Washington Elm" John, Ryan, Fisher and Mrs. Gamber. The ranks of the Kaydets suffered a serious loss when one of its leaders lost his "Punkin" at graduation. In true tradition of the Kaydets, the Kaydets heard "Lost Inaction" but instead it read "The Singular" title, "Caught In The Coal Bin." Another veteran of the sofa-battles in the mystic groves of the home of the fair co-ed has been pensioned and put on the retired list. Yet when a certain gay colored "Lizzie" comes to town he is sure to be found sitting calmly in the driver's seat.

Who are these here now little Freshman girls who pause in their labors in the library about 8:30 P. M. for a cool, refreshing bit of moonlit air? And who are the gentlemen who sit at the tables of the dining hall, looking so earnestly at the air is not too close to see that the air is not too close.

Lord Johnny seems to be having an awful time. He seems to be in a constant quantity trying to decide between Reid Hall and the U. of M. Stick it out, Jawn—blondes is hard to keep track of.

The Dehn has already come over the Maryland hills, and now Sir Harry is anxiously awaiting the Dehn to come over the Chesapeake Bay. Patience is a virtue seldom found in the best of us, Sir Harry.

Turning to material of more literary value, we would like to recommend a book for the use of the coeds and Kaydets. Since we are trying to keep step with a frank and unadorned sex, we suggest a book for inexperienced brides. It contains everything a girl should know before stepping off at the deep end. The vital information it contains has undoubtedly been over many a rough, unpleasant place in newly-wed life. For all those who are interested, we heartily recommend "The White House Cook Book."

Depression College Is Being Formed

Dr. Arthur C. Kill Is The Originator

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22, 1932.—Announcement of the faculty of the "depression college" at Port Royal, Virginia, was made by Dr. Arthur C. Kill, Jr., Organized Secretary of the institution and originator of the idea from which it is developing.

As so far appointed, the faculty comprises fourteen professors, of whom two have studied abroad in universities ranging from Edinburgh to Shanghai. Analysis of the faculty list shows that three of its members are graduates of Dartmouth, two of Columbia, and one each of Princeton, Harvard, Trinity, Illinois, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Tufts, Rice Institute, and Oxford University, England. The English representative on the faculty is William Meador Newton, Esquire, who is a recipient of first-class honors in the School of Philosophy, Politics, and Economics at Balliol College, noted for the number of prime ministers it has produced in English statesmanship. Mr. Newton will hold the Chair of Government at Port Royal.

The "depression college" is designed to bring together experienced teachers who are without positions because of the depression, and students who, because of financial stringency, are unable to continue their courses in existing institutions. The faculty will serve without pay, while undergraduate fees are being held at $250, covering all living expenses as well as tuition. A library of five thousand and carefully selected volumes, contributed by other existing institutions and interested individuals will shortly be established in the bank building at Port Royal.

Dr. Hill said that great interest is being shown by legislative authorities there in the development of the college, which is to be known as Port Royal College. Arrangements have been completed whereby the old tower hall will be placed at the disposal of the college for public lectures and the more important social gatherings. It is planned to open this unique institution on November 1, while the newly appointed faculty are expected to be in residence at Port Royal a week earlier.

"I am greatly encouraged at the response which the depression college project is receiving," said Dr. Hill today. "Inquiries have been pouring in from every section of the country, and the co-operation of many leading educational institutions is assured. One concrete problem on which we are now engaged is obtaining credit for work done at other institutions. We believe that the quality of the instruction at Port Royal will merit and assure such recognition."

Remembering that he had just returned from a visit to the village of Port Royal, Dr. Hill stated "Of course a great deal still remains to be done, but most of the uncompleted details will be handled under our plan of student-aidship and should be no more than otherwise." The students will be housed in two old colonial homes, whose wooded estates run down to the banks of the historic Chesapeake bay. Seventy years ago, rival armies were contending across that stream. In the same environment we are hopeful of playing our part in a national crisis perhaps as serious as that of the Civil War."

A detailed list of the faculty members so far appointed at Port Royal College is as follows:
Edward B. Arants, Art; A. B. Rice, 1925; B. S., (Architecture)

Welcome home! We are glad to hear that you are back in town.

In keeping with the times, we have tempered our prices, but we still luxuriously indulge in as many crisp, fresh linen towels as we believe essential to the facial.

We still continue extravagantly (perhaps?) using the best waving lotions and we haven't the heart to cut our permanent waving preparations, either.

So, you see, we are offering you our best at the best prices. What can be more fair.

College Addressed By Y. M. C. A. Man

Mr. Little, Of Baltimore, Here

On Thursday, October 13, the Washington College Assembly was the scene of an interesting and thoughtful address to the student body by Mr. Little, of Baltimore, Md., on the subject of putting "first things first" in college and in life. Mr. Little is a native of Minnesota, and is a graduate of Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn. Previous to his residence in Baltimore, Mr. Little has been actively identified with Y. M. C. A. and welfare work in the State of Missouri, where he has conducted a number of enlightening researches among college students. His participation in and subsequent conviction with the life of the latter enabled him to speak with conviction concerning the problems confronting the student of today.

According to Mr. Little, many of us are unable to view our tasks and joys in life with a proper sense of their relative importance. He continues that the student must seek a balanced diet of activities on the campus if he is to maintain that balance in life. The utmost care must be exercised in the choosing of one's friends on the campus. Particularly did he emphasize to the Freshmen the importance of a discriminating selection of one's associates during the first three months of his campus life.

Mr. Little's speech was unusually rich in personal anecdotes and human interest stories. Chief among these latter was his mention of "Tex" Jackson, a famous mid-western football star. Jackson, a personal friend of Mr. Little, recently committed suicide in Baltimore as the result of continued depression, said the speaker. Mr. Little had some time before taken an interest in the strange manner.

A meeting of entire student body was to be called on Tuesday to determine extent to which this scheme would be supported. Fred Lullton to call Tolchester Company to get rate for boat. Council to present petition to the Faculty for permission in this matter and for the terminating of classes at 9:45 on Saturday.

The building of various dances, such as those given each year by the Blue Key, the Variety Club, etc., was discussed. Pres. There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Loyola Defeats Washington 51 To 0

Carlin Stars For The Greyhounds

Resorting to a tricky forward passing game, mixed with a deceptive running attack, Loyola's Greyhounds dashed to victory over Washington at the Baltimore Stadium last Saturday.

The Maroon and Black started aggressively with their opening kick-off, recovering two Loyola fumbles deep in the enemy territory, but the local backs were stopped cold and Washington yielded the ball on downs. After this opening thrust the Loyola goal was never in danger and the demits had very much their own way the rest of the afternoon after passing game and punt to roll up a 58 point lead in the first half.

The third quarter opened with Washington offering stubborn resistance and the opponents were unable to score a single point. Late in the first period after Coach Elksite made several replacements, a Carlin to Egan pass and a one yard plunge by Hiley after four successful punts, brought the Loyola score up to a total of 51.

The Greyhounds have a heavy alert, vicious, charging line which turns to an unyielding stone wall on defense. The backfield is fast and deceptive, with Al Carlin, power and punishment-absorbing fullback, supplying the scoring punch, and Vince Carlin, quarterback, throwing ball-like passes in a manner that will make fans forget the former's lack of passing expert. The Greyhounds have the best balanced team in the State and will give opponents plenty of trouble.

Warren Carey played an exceptional game at right guard, reminiscent of a strong and slowing up Loyola plays directed at his side of the line. Hight at end, Smith, tackle, and Bismont at half back, displayed flashes of football ability that can be readily seen in the remaining games. Washington came out of its uneven encounter with practically no injuries, and will have its full strength available for its locally interesting game with Susquehanna this Saturday.

Football

By George L. Elksite

With the warm glow of victory, they thoroughly squelched by an overwhelming defeat by Loyola; the coaching staff is looking forward to the Susquehanna game with anxious eyes. Susquehanna is reported to have one of the finest "small college" football teams in the East and a total of 82 points against their opponents none, in the last two games, is ample proof of their power. In Wednesday's scrimmage, a team using Susquehanna plays romped through various, scoring four touchdowns on power plays alone; thus causing greater anguish in the coaching ranks.

The defense against forward passes was very weak in the Loyola game, and a lot of work has been spent in an effort to strengthen this department of play. Tackling, too, has been stressed, along with timing, and coordination in running of offensive plays. In offensive scrimmage the early part of the week, the backfield finally began to run hard and as a result the offensive plays were run more of each another than any time this season; bringing a ray of hope that the offense may start going some where.

One of the finest Washington College football squads in recent years faced the climax this Saturday. Perhaps that something that makes for winning football teams will be found before the "home folks." That something will have to be evident if Susquehanna is to be defeated.

Bill Nicholson Scores Winning Touchdown

The Maroon and Black of Washington College defeated Gallaudet College in football by the score of 6 to 0. The game played on Kendall Green in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, October 8th, was outstanding because it marked the first victory for the Shoremen since the 1929 season when American University left before them.

From the outset, Coach Elksite's charges showed marked superiority over the home team in every department of the game. However, frequent fumbles marred several scoring opportunities and not until the latter part of the fourth quarter was the winning tally achieved over.

The first half witnessed the Shoremen penetrating continuously into Gallaudet territory. Time after time Gallaudet would either recover a fumble or kick out of danger. Bill Nicholson proved himself an able backing buck by mauling yardage at will through the line. Al Geratini and Fritz Reinhold skirted the end for long gains.

In the last quarter, Washington blocked a Gallaudet kick deep in the latter's territory, and then recovered Gumbert's fumble. This paved the way for the winning touchdown. Geratini carried the ball around end for a score but offensive penalties on both teams nullified this count. Bill Nicholson then ploughed through the center of the line for the tally which counted. The kick for extra point was blocked. Later Geratini returned a punt sixty yards for his second touchdown, but he stepped out of bounds on the thirty yard gain, and was unsuccessful again.

In general all-around performance, Dick Gumber at right end played the outstanding game for Washington. Evans, in his first college game, showed his makings of a nice backfield man.

Tug-o-War To Be Held October 24

Rats Outweigh Sophs 54 Pounds

At 3:45 P. M. on Monday, October 24th, the anxiously awaited Freshman-Sophomore tug-o-war will take place at Brook's Mill. The battle was originally planned for October 17th, but a heavy rain and timely consideration for the spectators caused it to be postponed a full week. However the rainfall has caused the soil stream to greatly increase in size, which should make rowing more easy to and for the contestants and the whole scene more interesting to the spectators.

The tug-o-war is an annual conflict between the two lower classes and the tradition of rowing at Brook's Mill. The latter place, located a half-mile out of Chesertown on the Holtscher road, is the scene of many an exciting contest. Although the "middle-pushers" have won the event for the past few years the "Rats" have been able to put up a creditable showing. It is hoped that this year will see as good a tug-o-war as was witnessed on the last few years ago.

Wall Street has been very quiet regarding its bets on the outcome of Monday's fracas, but rumor has it that the wise boys are putting their money on the "Sophisticated" Maroon. Regardless of this fact, odds appear almost even. Seldom have two teams apparently been so evenly matched as those who meet to do battle for the honor of their school on Monday. The odds figures the "Rat" team as a whole outweighs its rival team by only fifty-four pounds. To offset this slight disadvantage, the "Sophisticated Maroon" have a year's experience, more than a year's experience, and the psychological advantages of Sophomores over Freshmen. Perhaps Wall Street is right in its five-to-three betting on the "Yeastings," but it almost appears that "wise money" stays in pockets. The outcome is a gamble either way; each class is getting keyed up for the fray; and it looks as though the clash ought to be interesting from anybody's point of view.

The probable line-up arranged alphabetically, with approximate weight is as follows:

| SOPHRS                              | RATS                  |

DR. CARPENTER SPEAKS AT MT. VERNON MEETING

The Mount Vernon Literary Society was very fortunate this week in having to address them, Dr. Carpenter on the topic of England. Her topic dealt with the country life of England and the beauty that nature has bestowed upon that beautiful island. This topic was of great interest to all members of the society and gives them all a much clearer view of our neighbor land across the Atlantic Ocean.

The next feature on the program was a solo by Miss Mary Jane Neill. Next week the society will hear an address on the topic of Germany. After the program a brief business meeting was held and a number of new members were sworn in.

Wednesday, October 12, 1932, the program of the society was put on by the five known members of the society. The program consisted of: Recitation, Doris Metcalfe; Recitation, Carroll Casteel; Talk, Michael Higginson; Musical Solo, Caroline Jewell; Piano selection, Caroline Jewell, and Tape by Doris Metcalfe.

The business meeting followed the program and an unusually large number of new members were sworn in. The society now has a very large membership.

SKIP BOYNTON'S BICYCLE AROUSES MUCH INTEREST

On Wednesday of last week we observed a somewhat dignified, well-dressed gentleman wearing a derby, riding furiously across the campus on a rather underized bicycle.

"What is that?" one asked the other.

"I don't know!"

It was "Skip" Boynton, the illustrious new arrival on our campus.

People laughed when they first saw the vehicle and wondered why Boynton had introduced it as a means of betaking one's self down town, but now, judging by the number of students seen cycling on the affair, it seems to have met with popular approval.

these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

DR. TITSWORTH

It is with great regret that we learn of Dr. Titsworth's leaving of Washington College after the present collegiate year. We regret his departure because we are losing a man of such high caliber. However, at the same time we wish to congratulate Dr. Titsworth on his having been chosen as the new President of Alfred University, Alfred, New York, to take effect next July. As a graduate of this University, and also because he has been connected with it as a member of the Faculty and its Dean, Dr. Titsworth is returning to his Alma Mater. We wish also to congratulate Alfred University on acquiring for their Head a man who has proven so well qualified in every respect to hold such a position.

Dr. Titsworth has done more for Washington College in his domicile here than anyone in the more latter years. In the first place the college enrollment has been doubled, and that in itself serves as proof of his untiring efforts and abilities. Again, the college has been raised from a tottering one, to the place that it now occupies among the small colleges of the United States. During his Presidency, Washington College has risen from the C grade to the highest ranks of A classification.

Dr. Titsworth has proven himself a real Napoleon in the outcome of our college. His enormous amount of activities outside the college proper, have not in the least taken away from his effectiveness in the institution, but rather have inspired him to do more for those and for the college under his influence.

Therefore, in losing such a man we are unfortunate, but in having had contacts with him, we are greatly benefited. Our wishes for continued success in the future are extended to Dr. Titsworth, in his new position.

IMPROVEMENT

The spirit shown by the general student body during the Drexel foot ball game was gratifying. It was as it should be. Washington College showed the most real and spontaneous enthusiasm that it has exhibited for a pig skin game in several years. When Russ Baker crossed the laid Drexel white line standing up, neither Hoover nor Roosevelt would have paled more than a vote apiece, if a presidential poll had been taken among the college students at that time. It was as it should be.

However, there is still something lacking. Washington College should not take the attitude that "until we are shown otherwise we expect to get licked." Such an attitude, taken by the students at large, naturally seeps into the ranks of the players. That is fatal. Such an attitude is not justified in relation to the present college team. The Maroon and Black CAN win every remaining game on its schedule—but only if it is backed up fully by the entire college. That would be as it should be.

Washington College right now has an aggressive, improving team. One big reason for that is because it has been backed up fairly well during its last two games. Things should not be allowed to show up now. Those who want their alma mater to come ahead should not lay back and wait for a break to come. Assume the attitude at the start of the next two home games that we expect to click. Such an attitude will bring about the break that everyone seems to need.

With this attitude Washington College will go places, athletically. And that would be as it should be.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Do we want to make the Delaware football game at Washington College a big event? They let get together and help perfect the plans by giving the various committees in charge our whole-hearted support.

Another "faux pas" like the last one committed by this column, and the Editor of the "Elm" will surely drag the little "Slippery Elm" in crepe. In fact the article which appeared here in the last issue was wrong, all right. The Student Activities Committee did grant the Blue Key the right to issue $1.50 tickets for frolics and we twisted the facts around backwards. Apologies are offered to the Student Activities Committee and to anyone who may have read that article.

There is a bit of life in us after all. At least the enthusiasm the night before the Squeeghanna game and during that game and the Drexel game certainly made us all feel more like putting up a fight. Oh boy! What a game last Saturday! What a surprise the Dragons get and did the Maroon and Blacks play football! Great wasn't it? But we did miss our new hand and hope they won't disappoint us again.

Perhaps the person who wrote the letter signed "Spectator" is using better judgment than most of us wish to admit. Some of the incidents surrounding the "Bat Pajama Parade" were really humorous and I enjoyed many a hearty laugh. After all is said, however, we probably allowed our emotions to get the upper hand over our common sense. I understand that some of our officials for pranks have antagonized a few of our best friends among the town's citizens.

What's this we've been hearing about scandal. Well the other day I heard a fellow say it would be an excellent idea if some one would publish a scandal sheet in which would be printed out the "low down" on these individuals who always deluged in seeing other people scandalized. Maybe the fellow wasn't far wrong. I suppose he had in mind the passage of scripture which reads, "judge not lest ye shall be judged," or words to that effect.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

There seems to be a lot of chatter about the upcoming Scotchmen's Ball which is to be given at November 18th at the home of our fair co-ed-ette. Many of the "S. Y. T." think that forty smokers in beaucoup bucks to plant down for an orchestra. Maybe the ones who are objecting were a little too slow in getting their particular choices in the "call-em-up-and-drag-em-affair."

Now that our fraternity rush season is only a month or so away, the frat undercover men are working hard to smooth things over for the "big push." It is even reported that some of them have moved their trunks into "Rat Hall" wait for the bottle, mother. How sad is the disillusionment of praised, pampered and petted freshmen a few days after Pledge Day!

Although the entire personnel of the world of medical science will disagree with us, we have a theory that appendicitis may be contagious. We present only the facts; draw your own conclusions. Betty went to the first formal wrestling match with Billy and he went down with appendicitis shortly after the pause that refreshes. Jack, substituting for Billy at better half, fell a victim of the same bad luck after the last seven bouts, and joined the order of "minors appendices." But, we're just as much in the dark as you are when we hear that, after nursing the telephone with Jack for one hour and a quarter, Jane ups and downs with an also wayward appendix. By and by there will be enough ambulances to go around.

According to all reports, Monday night's Holloween Dance might better have been named the "Bunny Hop" from the number of ripe eggs that were laid in the street.

Speaking of Holloween, we hear that Red Hall contained a number of dark secrets on Monday night. Where was Moses when the lights went out? In the dark, lightning candler, of course.

Did you know that: the truck ran out of gas when Dottie and Dorman tried to make 10:30 in the hop-rider route the boys had a surprise party for Bill Nick the other night; the successor Adm. was going to sell hot-dogs and hamburgers; "Doc" Sterling struck a swell idea when he decided to furnish us line-ups at our home games the night of the successor Adm. for Fred Mack's "Nonsensical Poetry" class use: "Isn't Romantic?" as a theme song. Henry Gill proposes to hold a strictly collegiate dance at his armory every two weeks if Red Hall girls will be allowed to go, and that it seems to be an excellent substitute for the fast-fading frolics and that there is a movement on foot to nominate him for president???

Susquehanna Wins Close Game 6 To 0

Gamber, Ward, Play Best For Locals

Scoring the only touchdown of the game in the opening minutes, Susquehanna University defeated Washington College in the latter's first home game of the season on Saturday, Oct. 22, by a score of 6 to 0.

The game was a closely contested affair throughout, with Susquehanna continually keeping the Shoremen dry in their own territory. The defense playing of Coach Elatis's players was outstanding and their ability in preventing Susquehanna from scoring any more touchdowns was the result of having been inspired with the determination to win if at all possible.

Blizard kicked off well for Washington and it was necessary for Susquehanna to kick out of danger. In possession of the ball the Maroon and Black of Washington fumbled and lost the ball on their first play as a result of a bad pass from center. By a series of short line plunges, Susquehanna brought the ball to Washington's 5 yard line from which Sassaman, visiting left halfback went for a touchdown. His try for extra point failed.

In the second quarter a series of runs for good gains threatened Washington's goal again, but Susquehanna could not advance beyond the 11 yard line.

Three or four times in the second half the Shoremen were driven within in their own 5 yard line but continued to play excellent football at these crucial moments. Fritz Reinhold punted from behind his own goal line on one or two occasions, and this great punter thus prevented a big score. Neither team made ground by the use of forward passes, and Washington gained by a succession of kick exchanges as the game neared its end.

Higglston at left end, Gamber at right end, and Reinhold in the backfield played exceptionally well for Washington, represented by eleven fighting men throughout the contest. The lineup:

DREXEL WINS HARD GAME BY 28 TO 13 SCORE

By holding them on even terms for almost the entire game last Saturday, Washington College upset the predictions of Drexel, which came to Chestertown with the idea of using the Maroon and Black as a breather in their schedule before their major game with Ursinus. The final score 28 to 13 in favor of Drexel does not tell the story of the hard fought contest which took place. It was only in the final quarter, when the heavier weight of the Dragons actually forced the ball over the goal line twice, that they appeared to have an edge on the Shoremen.

The first touchdown was scored by Drexel when Potter broke loose for a short run. Immediately following this Baker, a Washington end, intercepted a lateral pass to gallop thirty yards for a touchdown. Reinhold proceeded to kick the extra point. The half ended 13 to 6 with the Philadelphiaans on the long end of the score. In the third quarter the boys from the Shore carried the ball to Drexel's eight yard line from which place Nicholson backed his way through to a touchdown.

Football

By George L. Elatis

The final state rival is to be met this Saturday. With an average of nothing at all to boast about, the entire team and staff are pointing to this game and an opportunity to credit one winning effort in the state. Mt. Mary's started the current season boasting one of the finest squads to represent that institution. The squad failed to live up to its early promise, but has been getting stronger as the season rolled on. Each succeeding game finding them giving a better account of themselves. The coaching staff has been bothered no little by this accumulation of power and the knowledge that the Mountaineers are difficult to defeat on their home field.

Work this week has been devoted to the ironing out of mistakes apparent in the two home games. The general play in these games was good, but there are a lot of fundamental faults that have to be taken care of before the team can hope to win football games.

Pass defense and offense has been given a great deal of time too. The Mount having two very good passers and receivers in Lynch and Hopkins.

The loss of Ralph Harries will be a serious handicap. His general play at center has been very good all year and his steadiness will be missed. MacDonald will probably start in his place. The rest of the squad has suffered no major hurts and shall be in good shape to start the game Saturday.

The starting team will probably be the same as the one that started against Drexel with MacDonald replacing Harries and with Gamber and Baker at the ends.

NORTH-SOUTH G A M E TO BE HELD IN BALTO.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 4.—The city of Baltimore, through Mayor Howard W. Jackson, will toss its hat in the football ring on December 10th, when it will stage a North-South All-Star football game at its huge municipal stadium seating more than 60,000 persons.

The North team will be recruited and coached by Jack Sutherland, of the University of Pittsburgh, whose Panthers recently electrified the football world by a brilliant victory over Notre Dame, while the Southerners will have Dick Harmon, great coach of the Western Maryland eleven, as mentor.

From the North it is expected that such colleges and universities as Pittsburgh, Colgate, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Fordham and a host of others will be recruited for outstanding players, and the pick of gridirers from the smaller institutions will also be on the eligible list. The South has colleges like Alabama, V. P. I., Georgia, Tennessee, Western Maryland, Tulane and many others on which to draw.

Lacrosse Schedule Partly Filled Out

Locals Meet Lehigh On Kibler Field

The 1933 Washington College lacrosse schedule has not been completed yet but graduate manager of athletics, Frederick W. Dumschatt, has already listed six stick engagements for George Elatis' lacrosse. All of these six teams have appeared on the local schedule last year.

The Maroon and Black twelve will meet four State teams in 1933. Three of these contests, the ones with Hopkin, U. of Md. and St. Johns, will be games in which the Shoremen will be conceded small chance of a victory. However, the game with Western Maryland will be a tussle toward which Coach Elatis will probably point his players. Last year the Terror stickmen "laid for" their former team mate and defeated his favored band of lacrosseurs from the Eastern Shore by a 3 to 6 score. The former Western Maryland star will not be satisfied until that count is evened.

The other two games listed so far are with Lehigh and Virginia. In the only contests ever played with these institutions Washington each time emerged the victor, defeating Lehigh 3 to 1, last year, and Virginia 9 to 1 in 1931.

If a couple of other engagements with out of state twelve are booked, the locals will have a satisfactory schedule despite the fact that they face very tough opposition in at least three of their games.

The games scheduled up to date are as follows:

April 2—St. Johns at Annapolis.
April 6—Hopkins at Baltimore.
April 22—Western Maryland at Westminster.

May 6—U. of Virginia at Charlottesville.

May 13—U. of Maryland at College Park.

May 20—Lehigh at home.

May 29—Game may be played May 27th.

BEWARE students of Washington College that you do not hurt yourself and your college by being "College into" as it were.

REMEMBER that Washington College is only an organization IN Chestertown and it IS not Chestertown.

For the betterment of Washington College in the future you as present day students must act so as not to provoke the wrath of "Public Opinion," not of the nation, POSITIVELY NO, not even the State but of the town in which Washington College must live, long after you are gone. You surely would rather have a co-operation town rather than a town which looks down with disfavor upon the action of HER GREATEST INTELLECTUAL body.

Use "DISCRETION" that is the word for the topic.

Yours for bigger and better "Discretion."

THE FALL OF TICONDEROGA

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by F. C. Yohn—inspired by that horror-filled dawn when the bloodthirsty savages fell on Ethan Allen's gallant "Green Mountain Boys" of Fort Ticonderoga fame. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

The Friendly College

An Editorial

Some years ago "The Friendly College" was a slogan frequently used in connection with our own school. Let that slogan be understood by the Washington student body and turned loose with all its vigor for the week end of November 26th, when University of Delaware students and alumni visit our campus in connection with the renewal of gridiron relationships between the two institutions.

We have extended an invitation to the Delaware groups to be our guests on the coming occasion and by so doing have done much to heal the breach that occurred long before the present student bodies, at either institution, maturated. Failure to back up this invitation with the spirit in which it was extended, and accepted, would result in a wasted effort.

It is not our intention to call upon the Washington students to be gentlemen and good sports. These they already are. We are urging, however, that all connected with Washington College display a spirit of friendliness on November 26. In the intensified rivalry that is bound to exist we do not want to forget that our friends from Delaware are our guests.

The following lines should characterize our attitude:

"Hail Guest. We ask not what thou art, thou friend—We greet thee
Hand and Heart
If Stranger—such no longer be
If Foe—Our Love shall conquer and ease."

And should greet our own alumni with the same spirit. They are, in a manner, visitors and guests. Although they knew these halls long before we did we are the present tenants and therefore the hosts. Let's give them a rousing welcome.

We know, too, that we are expressing the feelings of our coaches, Ekastis and Kibler, when we say that the Washington eleven is expected to play hard and aggressive football but at the same time play fairly and with a spirit of sportsmanship, without which the playing goes for naught.

Let's Washington truly be "The Friendly College."

Heavy Rain Makes Poor Playing Conditions Today

A heavy rain that began last night at about 8 o'clock and continued all night will make strained playing conditions for the Washington-St. Joseph's football game.

When the ELM went to press this morning, Kibler field was a muddy patch of ground with water standing three inches deep in places on it and signs of a let-up from the heavens was visible. This condition of the field will probably work advantages for the visitors, who outwaded the locals. The wet condition of the ball and field will also greatly hamper the forward passing, where Washington was conceded to have an edge.

However, while it is generally conceded that the weather will be favorable to St. Josephs, Washington backers can not help recalling the Maryland game of two years ago when the little men of Ekastis dropping about in the mud of Byrd Stadium played one of the finest team ever to represent the Old Liners to a standstill.

Home Coming To Be Held Nov. 26

Delaware Grid Team Here

Washington College is planning to make Nov. 26 a big day in the athletic history of the college. That day will mark the renewal of gridiron relationships between the Maroon and Black and the University of Delaware.

The awarding of the Daniel D. Hastings trophy to the winning team and the fact that this day will be "home-coming" for Washington alumni is expected to make the affair even more colorful.

The athletic authorities are making preparations to accommodate one of the largest crowds ever to attend a pigskin game played on Kibler field. Temporary stands are now being erected on the west side of the field, opposite the main body of stands, to help provide seats for the expected crowds.

For several weeks the students and alumni have been planning for the "On Tuesday, Nov. 15th, Hubert Ryan, president of the Student Council, and Joe Dickerson, football Captain and President of the Senior Class, travelled up to Newark, Del., to extend an invitation to the Delaware Undergraduates to be present. Similar invitations have been extended to Delaware alumni and faculty members. Fred McDermott, graduate manager of athletics at Washington College has made a special admission rate to the Delaware students who are expected to attend the game, accompanied by their hand and cheer leaders.

Under the direction of Harry S. Russell of THE ENTERPRISE, plans have been formed to organize an alumni "W" club. This club will consist of all men who earned a winning athletic letter while attending Washington College. A luncheon given at 12:30 P. M. for the alumni will be another feature of the day.

The days festivities will be climaxed in the evening by a dance at which the Delaware groups will be the guests of the Washington students and alumni.

The football game will start promptly at 2:00 P. M. and will be preceded by a girls' hockey game held on the lower part of the campus. Between the halves of the game, the freshmen will put on a mock grid game and other humorous stunts.

APPENDICITIS CASES RECOVER AND RETURN

Two of the three Washington College students who were stricken with appendicitis have returned to the college and are resuming their studies. John C. Knollhoff and William McAlpine Richards are the two convalescents who have returned to their old stamping grounds. Miss Jane Youse who was also stricken is understood to have undergone a successful operation and is expected back at school in a short time.

Both Knollhoff and Richards are members of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity. Richards being president of the fraternity.

St. Joseph's "Buried" At Pep Meeting

Last night at the regular weekly pep meeting the accounts of "Big Al" were carried forward with a time honored procedure for urging on the grid team. They enacted, solemnly, the burial of a dummy representing the football team of St. Joseph's College. A suitable ritual was read by "Father" Wes Sandler as parts of the coffin were added. Nails were added to represent the touchdowns made by Washington and an extra nap was given for each of the fine place kicks made by Reinhold. This was the first time that such an act has been put on this year, and it was received well by the assembled students who seemed to take a rather unholly delight in the unholy end of their "fallen foe."

Rushing Regulations Made By Fraternities

The regulations for the 1932 freshmen rushing period were not set recently at a meeting of the fraternity committee called by Dr. J. S. W. Jones.

Each Fraternity will be limited to one official rush function to be held during the last three weeks before the Christmas vacation begins. In the casting for lots, the Phi Sigma Phi, drew the first date. The Alpha Kappa will hold its function second, while the Phi Sigma Tau drew the last week before the holidays for the time of its rush function.

The "Silence Period" will begin at 12:00 P. M. on the Sunday before Christmas holidays and extend until 5:00 P. M. on Monday. During this period no assembly mass will be permitted to speak to any freshmen. The same rules will apply to upper class students spending their first year at Washington, as applies to freshmen.

Reinhold Will Punt Today

Close Game Is Looked For

Disappointed by the one-point defeat last week at the hands of Haverford, Washington College today faces St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia, on Washington Field. All indications point to a victory, and the squad has been working out hard all week, polishing up on weaknesses.

St. Joseph's defeated Washington last year by a score of 20 to 0, at Philadelphia to score their only victory of the 1931 season. This year they have been unsuccessful as far as winning games, but have boasted a winning game, and can be expected to give the Maroon and Black a real battle. However, having the two games on their minds, Washington seems to have the edge. Last year the absence of four or five injured regulars accounted for their defeat. This year, with the entire team intact, with a letter sized attack and a better all-around team though unfortunate in several games, the locals have proven themselves plenty tough.

At Hokin's will be calling signals. This season, and last, St. Joseph's will be Charley Berry, Fritz Reinhold and Fred Ullston or Bill Nicholson. This combination played good football last week and is expected to go places again. St. Joseph's On the line Harries or McDonald will be player center, Captain Dickerson and Carey or Lord will fill in at guard. Blizard and Ward at tackle, and Dick Ganger and Mike Higginson will cavort at the wings. These latter two played long-gone games last week and little gain will be made around their parts this afternoon.

Fritz Reinhold will handle the kicking assignments, and so the Shermans can expect an advantage along that line. Plying before a home crowd, from the defeat last week and hoping to avert a disastrous season, the Maroon and Black will be on their toes today for their second victory of the current season. Watch for a game.

The probable line-ups for the game are:

| Washington          | St. Joseph's   |
|---------------------|----------------|
| (5) Gamber . I.E.   | Kane (3)       |
| (17) Ward . L.T.    | Oreska (23)    |

ATHOUGHT

Washington College, it seems to me, is located very favorably as far as a chance for expansion is concerned. It is the only college on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and if the college were to draw the per cent of students that it should naturally be expected to draw from this section, the enrollment would easily be tripled.

This institution has shown its worthiness by over one hundred and fifty years of existence. The only college named after George Washington by his expressed consent has seen its star sink very low on occasions but right now it is resting at about the highest spot it has ever known. The progress made by this college under the leadership of Dr. Paul E. Titwisch has been tremendous and this advancement according to our way of thinking, has placed Washington in a unique position for far greater development. It has made the people of the Eastern Shore cognizant of the fact that the Shore's only college is offering an education to their sons and daughters that compares favorably with the training they could receive at other colleges.

It also seems to us that the Eastern Shore of Maryland should be an ardent supporter of Washington College. It is this same Eastern Shore that has often been accused of being plebeian and uncultured by other sections of Maryland. Yet the Eastern Shore boasts the oldest seat of culture in the entire State of Maryland. Washington College was an exponent of higher learning when the other universities and colleges in the state were as yet unthought of. Surely this college with its long record of service and benefit to the section where it is located deserves the energetic support of every Eastern Shoreman.

All of which brings us to the following point. In order to realize this development which the college has earned the right to expect, it is necessary that the material effects of the institution be increased. If Washington College is to minister to the needs of and represent this section of Maryland as it should, it must be given more than it has been receiving. Washington must be given means for the building of dormitories and halls that would enable it to accommodate many more students than it can at present. It must not be forced to continue to restrict its enrollment.

It is not unreasonable to expect a great deal of this aid to come from the state—in view of the sums now being appropriated for education and in view of the service that the expending of the necessary money would enable Washington College to render to an important section of Maryland.

Eastern Shoremen, however, are not the majority (often given public expression) that they are culturally and intellectually behind the rest of the state should be firm supporters of Washington College. It is one of the best arguments they can offer in refutation of the above statement.

THANKSGIVING

It seems a pity that the college authorities have decided to give only one day vacation for all future Thanksgiving holidays. We maintain that this is not enough time off from college work to enable the average student to express his gratitude to the powers that make things as they are.

The faculty undoubtedly has a preverted idea of the amount of thanksgiving that students here would like to indulge in. They think that the expression to all of it in twenty-four hours. It takes the average college student that much time to write a two page history paper. Well maybe not quite that long.

SLEEPY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Some few students do visit the library during the evening hours for the purpose of working. The great majority, however, seem to consider the library a club room or a general get-together meeting place.

During the past few weeks I have observed many frowning countenances and heard quite a few mutinies of discontent on the part of the more diligent students who were trying to study. A few have expressed the desire to see the system of eye gone days put into effect which would, of course, bar the few set from evening library privilege. Although both sexes converse in loud voices, the giggling girl seem to be the greater source of disturbance.

A little thoughtful on our part certainly existing trouble and remove the current causes of complaint.

We all have a philosophy of life. The following sketch was given to me by a traveling salesman in whose philosophy I think we can find some humor and an element of truth.

THE LONG, LONG TRAIL

Man is of few days and full of trouble. He labors all the days of his life to pay for gasoline, chairs, and when at last the task is finished, lo, the thing is junk and he needeth another.

He plenteth cotton in the earth and glean it diligently, he and his servants, and his asses, and when the haul is gathered into the barn, he sweeth the landlord $8.40 more than the crop is worth.

He borrows money of the lenders to buy pork and molasses, gasoline to haul the interest catch up all but his bare bones.

He begets sons and daughters and educateth them to smoke cigarettes, and wear white collars, silk underwear and hose, and lo, they have soft hands and neither labor in the fields nor anywhere under the sun. The children of his loins are enemies and one of them becometh a lawyer and another stetheth up a filling station and another becometh with the automobile thereof. The wife of his loins stetheth with a stranger and when he rebuketh her, lo, she stetheth him in the finale.

He goeth forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city and a jockey smutch him so that his nose projecteth through his epidermis. He drinketh a drink of whoopee juice to orange his sorrows and it burneth out his lungs from his throat.

All the days of his life he dulleth so parking place, and is tormented by traffic cops from his going forth until it comes back.

An enemy stetheth his car, physicians removeeth his inner parts and a dentist his teeth, also his bank wall. His daughters showeth their legs to strangers, his arteries harden in the evening of his life, and his honest astryeth trying to keep the famous goose.

Sorrow and bill collectors followeth him all the days of his life, and when he is gathered unto his Father, the neighbors astryeth: "How much did he leave?" Lo, he hath left it all.

And his widow rejoiceth in a new coat and earrings, and the young jock that stetheth his hair and playeth a nifty game of poker.

Woe is upon. And from the time of his birth to the time when the earth showeth him no more, he laboreth for food and credit, and the debt doth grow in the beginning, and now his name is mud.

Discovering that there were only $250 in the class treasury at DePaul University, the treasurer wrote to Ted Weems, asking him how many pieces he could send down to the freshman dance for that price. He replied that he would send three sheets of music and a piccolo playing for that price.

Freshman: "Only two seats away."

The Fraternity is working on plans for a memorial tablet in memory of Dr. Errol L. Fox.

A new radio and some furniture are recently been purchased by the Tau.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

The Sigma Tau Delta Sorority room has been recently made quite attractive and comfortable by the addition of a Queen Anne davenport and chair.

This year the sorority is celebrating its twenty-sixth anniversary. On Saturday, November 19th, an Alumni meeting will be held at which many of the old members are expected.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

Now that the elections are all over, and voting students have collected payments due their friends for late tuition, it is returning time to vote, we find that campus comment have turned from the presidential candidates to the prospect of the legal sale of light wines and beer. It is generally assuming to imagine wine bottles and beer kegs taking the places now occupied by the coffee, tea and cocoa barrels in the cafeteria. Students might then enjoy even eight o'clock classes and Thursday morning assemblies.

Speaking of the cafeteria, and a column of this sort is compelled to do so, we surprise ourselves by admitting that in our humble opinions and smoldered stomachs the meals to which we are exposed seem to have improved slightly over those of former years. However, we've heard much criticism against our beloved cafeteria, so we wish to present three points in its defense:

1. Times are bad. In fact they are awful. Salaries are worse this year than they were last year. Everything is worse. There is no money. Every body has a right to be worse.

2. "An army," someone said, "travels on its stomach." We don't see enough time or means to do any travelling, so therefore we don't need good meals.

3. Consistency is one of the secrets of success. No one can say the meals are not consistent.

Rumor has it that a certain senior has been secretly married. Wonder who it is.

According to downtown newsstands, the sale of "Brevities" has noticeably increased as a result of the interest it has aroused among the literary lights of Reid Hall. And possibly the high school boys and girls students are still trying to figure out who turned off the lights in their dormitory on Hollows' eve. You never call anything about Reid Hall—and if you can, you'd better not.

During one of the noon-day meals, we noticed a freshman enter the dining hall to get a second order of liver abed if his turn, for which he was promptly called down by an apprehension. We surely hope that he didn't want to get his liver out of order.

We've heard the library characterized by the titles of "court room" and "recalling room" to which we don't know what to call it when we hear that Mary Jane uses it to attend to her "Pots and Pans."

Did you know that: When "Wardie" took over the helm, the "Helm" took over the steering. "Dick" has joined the "Fourteen-Mikes-A-Night Club." "Charles" has found a new attraction at Gil's. The Dramatic Club has a swell play to put on before the Xmas holidays. Delaware may enjoy their visit here but they will enjoy particularly for the football game. After getting stuck twice in two weeks, "Bud" has finally realized that concrete roads are less embarrassing to drive on than a new "Wee" is looking for a ride to Florida over the Xmas holidays. The Dean's slips may be gotten from his secretary at any time. Our last assembly was a text of our intelligence. There is little or no spirit over the coming Freshman-Sophomore football game. The "Scotchmen's Ball" affords the give an excellent opportunity to revenge a poor program at a coltillion. Selecting a "Pair Orchard" at the home of "Elms" and "Cherry Trees" might prove interesting. It's still baloney!!!

Chapel Speakers Are Announced

Dec. 8—John Schilling, Supervisor of Delaware High Schools.

Dec. 15—Bishop Davenport, Diocese of Easton, Md.

Jan. 12—Dr. E. Cordell Powers.

Jan. 19—Dr. Oscar F. Blackwell.

Fire Sweeps Girls' Dormitory At Alfred University

Fire swept a five-story dormitory for women at Alfred University Sunday afternoon, driving many of the 110 girls who lived in the building out on the snow-covered campus.

Alfred University, at Alfred, N. Y., is the college of which Dr. Paul E. Titworth will become president next summer, he having formally accepted the call last week.

The fire broke out in the top floor at noon, while some of the women students were at church and others in their rooms. Burning fiercely, the fire spread through the entire building, but the girls were all accounted for.

Many ran out with personal belongings, which were strewn about the campus, but the advance of the flames kept them from returning for more. Sunday night they were being housed in private homes and sorority houses, while university officials took up the problem of finding permanent homes for them. The dormitory was valued at $150,000, and its contents at $12,000.

Dr. Titworth said yesterday that a movement to replace the burned dormitory had already been started.

ALUMNI NOTES

JASPER YEATES BRINTON, a descendant of William Smith, the first president of Washington College, has for some years been Justice of the Court Appeals, Mixed Courts of Egypt. It is said that the Mixed Court, to the maintenance of which fifteen nations have contributed during the past fifty years, is the most successful international experiment, outside of the Roman Church, in all history. Judge Brinton has taken advantage of his connection with the Courts to make a study of the origin, the development, and the working of the entire system, and has embodied the results of his comprehensive survey in a volume of several hundred pages. Washington College conferred an honorary degree on Dr. Brinton in 1915.

FRANKLIN K. COOPER, '30, has resumed his law studies at the University of Maryland. He is a member of the Senior Class and expects to meet the requirements for the LL. B. degree this year.

MISS GRACE LILLIAN STRICKLAND, '27, is Librarian of the High School, Belleville, N. J.

WENDELL D. ALLEN, '13, a member of the law firm of Armstrong, Muehlen & Allen, is chairman of the Republican Committee, of Baltimore City. When Alexander Armstrong was Attorney-General of Maryland, Allen was an assistant in the office. The Baltimore Sun says: "The new chairman practices law, plays politics, smokes cigars, leans to know, suits and cultivates an extensive flower garden. The garden and politics run neck and neck in furnishing him the most amusement."

MISS MARIE G. HALES, '30, has accepted a position with the National Drug Co., in their Bio-Chemical and Research Laboratory in Philadelphia.

JULIO DEL TORO, '13, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages of the University of Michigan, was elected last year Corresponding Member of the History of Cuba. Only four other American professors have been so honored by the Academy. Professor del Toro is also Vice-President of the National Federation of Modern Language Teachers, Middle West and South.

HARRY PRINGLE FORD, '76, whose love for his college increases with the years, was a most welcome visitor on the Hill a few Sundays ago. The Alumni Association acknowledged with thanks Ford's donation of a pamphlet, published by the Government in 1908, which contains in full the last will and testament of George Washington.

J. PURNELL JOHNSON, '10, accompanied by his wife and daughter, returned last Saturday from his home at Glen Burnie, Md., to Chestertown to see the football game between Washington and Drexel.

MRS. MARY CLOUGH CAIN, '10, while in Paris during the early days of September happened to be in a section of the city at the time a communist convention was being held. Traffic was congested to such an extent by thousands unable to gain admission to the Convention Hall, already packed and jammed with a crowd of 7500, that hundreds of policemen were necessary to check the mob spirit. Mrs. Cain learned later through the Paris edition of the New York Herald that an American by the name of Dana, a grandson of Longfellow and of the Dims, who wrote "Two Years Before the Mast," was the principal speaker at the convention.

MISS ELIZABETH BAKER COVEY, '27, after teaching Mathematics in a New England Preparatory School for three years, returned to Columbia University at the opening of the present session to continue graduate work. She received her Master's degree three years ago.

Chesterfields Taste Better

You know how it is. If a cigarette is mild—that is, not harsh or bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you like it and don't worry about how many or how often you smoke.

And if you taste right—that is, not oversweet, not flat—then you enjoy it all the more.

The right kind of ripe, sweet Domestic and Turkish tobacco... the right aging and blending... make Chesterfields milder, better-tasting... They Satisfy!

Haverford Noses Out Shoremen 7-6

Successful Kick For Extra Point Gives Slim Victory

In a game played at Haverford Saturday afternoon, November 12th, the Maroon end warriors led by Dick Wray were humbled by a weak Haverford team. The score 7 to 6 did not give the least hint as to the manner in which the "Friebe of the Eastern Shore" outplayed its opponent throughout the game.

Haverford scored first with only a minute remaining to play in the second quarter, when Pleavants, the outstanding tack of the day, went over for a touchdown from Washington's two yard line. Patten, Haverford's best drop kicker then came into the game and kicked the extra point. The half ended soon after the kick off.

In the second half a silent but determined Washington eleven gained enough ground to score three or four touchdowns. But still only six points were obtained. Wray threw a long pass to Higginson who after making a fine catch nudged thirty yards to a touchdown. The try for extra point was lost.

It now seemed that Washington could not be stopped. Time after time the ball was carried deep into Haverford territory. But then the breaks went against the Maroon warriors. Each march for a touchdown was ended by a fumble or a penalty.

In the closing minutes of Washington backs threw pass after pass, but very few were completed. The game ended with the ball on Washington's 30 yard line.

Haverford was the easiest team played by Washington this year. In Saturday's game Haverford scored its first touchdown of the year as well as its last victory.

For Washington Macdonald, Higginson and "Zebrino" Lind starred on the line while Ullston and Berry were outstanding in the backfield.

MT. ST. MARY'S FINISHES STRONG TO WIN 19 To 6

Washington College's foot ball team took another one in the clinch when Mt. St. Mary's up at Kittsburg November 5 and bowed its head to the tune of a 19 to 6 score. Throughout the first three quarters of the game, the men of Eklitis played good football, outstriking and outplaying the Mounts in general. However in the last quarter the Mounts wilted, and the Jesuits came ahead strong to push across two touchdowns. The score at the half read 7 to 6 in favor of Mt. St. Mary's.

Washington scored its touchdown in the second quarter when Charlie Berry heaved a thirty-yard pass to Dick Johnson who then reappeared unscathed across the goal line.

The outstanding man on the field was little "Fritz" Reinhold whose brilliantly accurate punting time after time made the operators' grips. This night's unit of Washington, reportedly dodged about among the charging Mountaineers forwards to get off kicks that seemed certain to be blocked. This exhibition of punting was equaled only by Reinhold's masterpieces against Maryland a year ago and against Susquehanna this year.

Marxham Wingate Wins Place In Cambridge Race

Henry Stevens, of Cambridge copied first place in a five mile race held at Cambridge, Md. in connection with the Armistice day celebration at that city. Stevens hit the tape 30 minutes and 25 seconds after the starter's gun set him in motion.

Wendrow Simmons and Marxham Wingate, both of Wingate, Maryland finished second and third respectively. Their time was but a few seconds slower than that of Stevens.

The winner of this "dash" marathon received a silver cup, while the second and third place runners each received gold medals. The prizes were donated by the Cambridge Armistice Day Committee.

St. Joseph's and Delaware. What a glorious thing a double victory would be. A victory over St. Joseph's would be ample revenge for last season's defeat in football and basketball. And a victory over Delaware, before a large, thronging crowd would cap a homecoming day that Washington College and Chestertown would long remember.

Give the football squad a hand; students, let victory and thank victory until boys talk and think the same way.

This is the last of a regular series of articles written by Coach George L. Eklitis for the "Elm." This column was instituted by the editor because of his desire to secure for the student body a man who could give some reliable information and write with considerable authority on the subject of football at Washington College.

JUNIOR - FROSH HOCKEY TEAM WINS FIRST GAME

Although not much public mention has been made of the girls' athletic life for this year. They have been progressing in the playing off of the inter-class hockey games. On Monday, November 14th the first of the three sister games for championship was played. The second will be played on Saturday, November 19, and the third on Monday, November 21st.

Helms, with her lightning drives and general good playing, was the star of the first contest which resulted in a 2 to 6 victory for the Junior Freshmen team. Helms ran her close race for honors with her tackles and scrimmage; this is Husky's first year on the field and she shows wonderful promise. Kroeger played behind steady game, stealing the ball from the opponents and dribbling down the field at a fast pace.

The Junior-Freshmen team showed a tougher back field and better formation when in action. The Senior Sophomore team proved over-anxious when in a tight place. Thus, they lost chances for rushing the ball into the circle.

Freshmen Prepare For Sophomores

Annual Game To Be Played Week After Thanksgiving

For the past several weeks the Freshmen and Sophomores have been practicing football in preparation for the game which is to be played soon after the Delaware game. Both classes have been afforded with coaches, Fred Ullston and John "Sting" Lord are directing the activities of the Sophomore outfit while "Dinky" Dinkins and "Dick" Gamber are taking charge of the first year men.

Because of the extreme scarcity on the part of both teams it has been difficult to obtain very much information regarding the tentative lineup. However it has been inferred that "Pikey" De Mooney will be the backfield mainstay of the Sophomore team with triple threat man, Duffy, (tumble, fumble and fall) as his assistant. It has been rumored that the tactics which the Freshmen intend to pursue in, to have "Bruiser" Kemper and "Pepper" Campbell hammer down the opposition with their powerful smashing line backs.

The men who will form the nucleus of the Sophomore team are: Mooney, Chambers, De Socio, Cooper, Messell, Goldstein, Comella, Snyder, and Rhodes. The most promising looking players on the Freshman squad are: Nuyk, Evans, Tignor, Skipp, Miller and Fink. Should some of the Freshmen who are on the football squad fail to make their letter the first year team's chances would be greatly enhanced.

During the next week the training of both teams will be tapered off in order to assure perfect physical condition for this annual spectacle. As yet not many bets have been placed due to the fact that Sophomore money seems to be unduly scarce.

Chance For Foreign Study Is Offered

Scholarships Given To French Schools

Announcement has recently been made by the Overseas Educational Institute of Hanover, N. H., of twenty-five full scholarships that it is offering to deserving students for study in France, Germany, and Italy.

A new development in modern educational organization is revealed in the program of the Institute, a school which, in addition to preparing college and college and college requirements, presents the opportunity of travel and association with European universities and the cultural advantages to be derived therefrom.

The Institute provides its entire year's program of travel and study abroad at a cost approximating an average year at a proprietary school or college, and through the medium of an experienced faculty, offers a high standard of scholarship. The majority of the time abroad is spent between the study centers of Grenoble, France, and Bonn, Germany, and the remainder of the time in excursion and residence in other important centers.

A complete school program is sponsored by the Institute, as well as a recreational requirement. In addition, excursions in the French Alps, is near some of the great winter sports resorts of Europe.

Further information pertaining to the Institute may be procured at the principal bureau of this school. Requests for information pertaining to the scholarships should be addressed to the Scholarship Department, Overseas Educational Institute, Hanover, N. H.

College Sing Is Held At Assembly

Raymond Moffet Directs Program

The students enjoyed a pleasant program of singing sponsored by Mr. E. Moffet, director of the Men's Glee Club, on November 10th at the weekly assembly.

Also at this time Mr. Ryan, President of the Student Council, presented Coach Ekahlis who spoke briefly on Home-Coming, which is to be celebrated on November 26th in connection with the Washington-Delaware game, and the part the undergraduates must play to make Home-Coming a success for the Washington Old Grads. Next Capt. Dickerson spoke of the need of true spirit and the backing of the entire student body and the necessity and desire of a victory over Delaware to crown the outstanding college event of 1932-33.

Mr. Moffet led the students in singing an arrangement of three medleys, composed of Negro spirituals, hymns, and marches. Messrs. Mooney, Clarke Harris and Furman, who composed the quartet of the Glee Club offered three numbers which are very enthusiastically received by the student body. Mr. Charles Harris and Mr. Moffet rendered several solos commented at the piano by Miss Russell, teacher of music at Washington.

As the college orchestra conducted by Dr. Livingston, began to sing in the strains of "Marion and Elsie Forever" the students rose to close the program with singing of the Alma Mater.

It is hoped that in the course of the remainder of the Thursday assemblies the students may again have the opportunity to participate in a similar student program, which is highly beneficial for student and collegiate life.

Literary Society Holds Meeting

Prof. Solandt, Skipp Boynton Speak

The Mr. Vernon Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, 1932, in the auditorium of William Smith Hall. A business meeting was held and new members were sworn in. Those being sworn in included Richard Chambers, W. Kight, P. Beaumont and Allen Broughman. The society also voted favorable on the admission of Millard Kemper to the society.

The society was indeed fortunate to have as its guest Prof. Paul A. Solandt of the modern language department of the college. The subject of his talk was France. He told us some things about the history of France and classes of people. He pointed out many spots of interest in France, which was very interesting. As a conclusion to the address several numbers in French were sung by Skipp Boynton. He also gave us a description of a French University and ended the program by singing another number in French.

The society held a meeting last Wednesday, Nov. 9, and presented an interesting program. It was a presentation of the "Shooting of Dan McGrew" put on in pantomime. The part of Dangerous Dan was portrayed by Bill Wright. Other characters included, the niner, N. C. Duffy; the girl known as Lou, Betty Child; the bar tender, Robert Beachley; other minors, Joan Young, Robt. Spaul, Alfred Gardner, Harry Rhodes, Vincent Brandolini and Calvary Rogers.

Second Cotillion To Be Held Dec. 6

"Stags" To Be Permitted To Attend

The second formal of the Cotillion Club will be held Friday, the sixth of December, in the gymnasium.

The decorating committee will be headed by Richard W. Cooper, who plans to use a scheme suggestive of Christmas.

For the first time in the history of the club "stags" will be permitted to attend the Cotillion. It is not to be a program dance. Because of this innovation it has been deemed necessary by the committee to remind the "stags" of certain rules they have been lax in observing. They are:

(1) There will be no "breasting" until after the figure which comes after the second dance. The "stags" will of course not participate in the figure, but, after it, may be received by the patron and patroness.

(2) If one "breaks" he must return the young lady to her escort at the end of the dance.

(3) One must never break the same person twice. In case he is dancing with another than his guest it is permissible to "break" once again after a time has passed. Never under any circumstance break a person more than twice. Countess "breaking" in on the same person is very annoying and is a stamp of poor breeding on the part of the offender.

(4) If one is broken and is not engaged with another, he should claim his guest at the end of the dance. Never, under any circumstance, allow another to be burdened with the one you escorted.

This new system is to be given a trial here. If it is successful, it will be continued, if not, the former program system shall be used again.

The charges for the dance will be three dollars a couple or two dollars "stag."

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE PILGRIM'S FIRST WINTER
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Herbert House, celebrated painter...inspired by the bitter hardships endured by America's first settlers in their conflict with raw, wild nature (1620). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Alumni Chapter Holds Banquet

Meridan Club Scene Of Dinner

On Friday evening, November 18, the twelfth anniversary banquet of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Washington College Alumni Association was celebrated in the Meridan Club, Philadelphia, in the presence of a goodly number of "old grads," ex-students, and under graduate students of the college.

Under the efficient direction of W. Coulbourn Brown, Class of '95, most enjoyable dinner was served, after which President Paul Titworth gave a very encouraging statement as to the present condition of the college, but saddened the hearts of all by the announcement of his intention to accept the presidency of Alfred University, his alma mater, at the close of the college year next June. This announcement was received with many expressions of sincere regret as it was convincing that the change would mean a serious loss to Washington College which institution Dr. Titworth has served for a number of years with conspicuous zeal and ability.

The singing of the college glee club was greatly enjoyed, as was also the address by Mr. Charles H. Sykes, cartoonist of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. After an interesting talk by Dr. Howell, of the college, Dr. Titworth showed a number of unusually valuable and worth moving pictures of the college and surrounding, including a number of views taken at the time of the recent sacro-centennial celebration of the college.

H. P. Ford, Class of '76, thought that the color scheme of the evening (orange and black) should have been all black, for three reasons: 1st, because of the resignations of Dr. Titworth, 2nd, because of the recent death of Dr. Sewall Hodge, the oldest Washington College graduate, and 3rd, in order to be in accord with the feelings of any Hoovers who might be present.

The Association has never enjoyed a more successful evening. Memories of the college and Chestertown are still dear to the hearts of many of the old students.

HOWARD T. ENNIS ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY

Howard T. Ennis, Stuyt, Delaware, presented a talk to the student body Thursday in Assembly on the subnormal individual at Stokely College. Mr. Ennis mentioned the way the college is organized telling of the colony made clothes, colony garden and almost normal home-life of the inmates. The patients are grouped according to mental age with due regard to chronological age, cripples and physically deficient.

The speaker gave several interesting examples of patients at the colony stressing the fact that they all have some peculiarities. Mr. Ennis implied that care of subnormal individuals lies in work of succeeding generations.

FROSH VICTORY DANCE HELD LAST NIGHT

Washingtonians Give Music

Jubilant Freshmen, disappointed but good natured Sophomores, upperclassmen, and Faculty Members, all combined last night in an informal dance in the gymnasium. The dance sponsored by the Frosh and Soph classes was one of the nicest held at Washington College in quite a while.

Celebrating a decisive victory over the Sophomore football warriors, the Freshmen team and classmates enjoyed themselves to the greatest extent, while the not too large group of upper classmen intermingled in friendly feeling. The Sophomores, though badly beaten, were willing to offer an abject, all helping to make the work of the calling of Washington College a friendly one.

Though it was planned that the silver Daring Cup be presented to the Freshmen at this dance, the presentation was put off until a later time. It is remembered that last year, the cup was first given to the winner of this annual Frosh-Soph Classic which in that case was the present Junior Class.

The Washingtonians furnished excellent music, the gym was simply but effectively decorated, and in general everything went off smoothly.

Among the chaperones were Dr. J. S. William Jones, Dr. Howell, Prof. and Mrs. Dunning, Miss Brewer, Prof. Goodwin, Prof. and Mrs. Ford, Coach George E. Ekaltis.

Mt. Vernon Literary Society Holds Meeting

The regular weekly meeting of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society was held Wednesday, November 30, 1932, in the auditorium of William Smith Hall. The meeting was turned over to Emerson Thelen who had charge of the program for the evening. The society was taken by songs and talks to Spain, the fifth step in its trip around the world. The opening feature of the program was a song in Spanish by Roland Lekebusch, accompanied by Lee G. Bell on the piano. The main speaker of the evening was President Paul Titworth who told us of his trip to Spain. He first took the society to the famous Rock of Gibraltar and gave a very interesting description of this world known fortress. He then spoke of his passage into Spain giving descriptions of various cities and spots of interest. The history and natural features of the country were also discussed.

After the program a short business meeting was held. Edwin Lowe and Ray Wilson were sworn in as members of the society.

There was no meeting held last week because of a number of the members went home for the holidays.

Alpha Kappa Gives Frosh Movie Party

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity held its rush-function last Wednesday night. The program consisted of a trip to the movies, singing of spirituals by the colored Junior League, refreshments and a talk by President Usilton. Coach Kibler and Prof. Dumschott were the faculty members present.

1933 GRID CAPTAIN

Dick Gamber

Dick Gamber will captain the 1933 Washington College football team. Dick has been Varsity end for the last two years.

Gamber Elected Football Captain

At a meeting of the football letter men, held yesterday, Richard M. "Dick" Gamber was elected Captain of the 1933 Washington College grid team.

Gamber is a junior and succeeded Joseph B. Dickerson to the Captaincy. The new captain has earned three varsity letters in football, having earned his excellent letter training as an end at Swarthmore Prep School. Gamber has earned an enviable reputation as an athlete during his two and a half years at Washington College, having made one or more letters in three sports: football, basketball and Lacrosse. This fighting Maroon and Black athlete was last year voted as one of the outstanding young defencesmen in college lacrosse circles.

Popular with his teammates and the student body, the new captain should make an excellent letter carrier. Coach George Ekaltis expressed satisfaction that his gridders had chosen such a "fighter" to lead them.

Gamber is also outstanding in many things outside of athletics. He is president of the junior class, secretary of the student council, secretary of the Blue Key Fraternity, and holder of a Washington College Merit Scholarship. He was recipient of the 1932 Character Medal awarded last June.

Dick was elected to his grid honors by a large vote over Al Boskins, regular quarterback during the past season, and Fritz Reinhold, sensational punter for the Maroon and Black.

PHI SIGMA TAU TO HOLD FUNCTION

The Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity will hold its rush function Tuesday, Dec. 6.

The Alpha Kappa and Phi Sigma Phi Fraternities have already held their functions, having drawn earlier dates at the meeting of the interfraternity committee.

The fraternity initiations to freshmen and men spending their first year on the "Hill" will be given out Monday afternoon. President Carey announced that the fraternity had completed arrangements for the night's program but he did not choose to give out the particulars concerning the affair. However, it is understood that Dr. Frederick C. Livingston, Prof. Makosky, and Prof. Coep will make some contribution to events of the evening.

PHI SIGMA PHI HOLDS BANQUET FOR FROSH

Dr. William R. Howell Speaks

The Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity held its annual "rush function" in the form of a dinner in the banquet room of the Kitty Knight House, at Georgetown, Md., on the evening of Monday, November 28. More than forty of those affiliated with the Fraternity and their first-year men guests were present at the occasion. A number of speeches appropriate to the time were given, notably by the honorary members, namely, the fraternal leaders, Mr. Harry S. Russell, and the President of the Fraternity, Wm. M. A. Richards.

Early in the evening the company gathered in the reception room of the stately and historic old mansion which, surrounded by its ancient, formal, boxwood garden looked out upon the Potomac River below it. Interested spectators were given the opportunity of examining closely the hundreds of priceless antiques which make the spot one of the most unusual and delightful in all of Maryland.

After the dinner Wm. M. A. Richards, President of the Phi Sigma Phi, gave an introductory talk which was followed by speeches by Dr. Howell, Professor of Economics and the Registrar, Mr. Frank Goodwin, Assistant Professor of Economics, Dr. K. S. Russell, Professor of Chemistry and Mr. H. S. Russell, Assistant Director of the Chestertown Enterprise.

An informal entertainment was held at the Fraternity House following the banquet.

Dr. Kenneth S. Buxton, Professor of Chemistry at Washington College, has changed his place of residence to occupy the Frazier Russell house on Washington Avenue. Dr. Buxton, since his coming to Washington 20 years ago from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., has occupied one of the Baldwin Apartments on Water Street.

Christmas Holidays Begin December 16

The Christmas holidays for Washington College will officially begin, Dec. 16, 1932, and end January 3, 1933.

The college year of 1932 will be terminated as far as local events are concerned, at 5:15 P. M. on Friday, Dec. 16, when the last regular class of the day will have been completed. The total vacation will last seventeen days.

About the only event of importance scheduled by the college before the holidays is the basket ball game played with West Chester State Teachers' College up at West Chester, Pa.

Dr. Paul E. Titworth Honored At U. of Md.

Dr. Paul E. Titworth, president of Washington College, was one of eight men pledged to Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, at an assembly in the University of Maryland Auditorium last Wednesday. Dr. Titworth will become president of Alfred College next year. Dr. Titworth and H. C. Byrd, vice-president of the University of Maryland, both spoke on leadership and stressed its value in campus life and its necessity in the business world after graduation.

Frosh Gridmen Crush Sophs 27-0

Evans, Pratt, Brice Score

In the annual Soph-Frosh game held on Kibler Field yesterday afternoon, the first year men showed a powerful football machine that registered four touchdowns to rout a beaten but desperately fighting Sophomore eleven.

The Freshmen, averaging 173 pounds in the line and 170 in the backfield, resorted usually to straight running plays, mixing in off-tackle plays and a power line back with occasional effective forward passing to overpower the lighter upper classmen. The Sophs forced continually on the defense little opportunity to stop an offense of any kind. The Frosh goal was never in danger.

After a scoreless first period the Frosh opened the second quarter with an exchange of punts. Sadler and placed the ball in position for Evans to take over for the first score of the game. Rhinshart kicked the extra point. In the same period after an exchange of punts, Sadler of the Sophs was viciously tackled by Tignor and fumbled into the waiting arms of Brice who sprinted 40 yards unopposed over the goal line. The try for extra point failed. This half ended shortly after. Score 13 to 0.

The second half started with the Freshmen kicking off to the blue jersey Sophomores who were forced to punt after two unmerciful thrusts at the line. During this period the Frosh added four more first downs and completed a pass, Evans to Rhinshart, capped for 70 yards but just failed in a score when the quarter closed.

After three minutes of the final period had been played, Evans again set off tackle for his second touchdown. Rhinshart scored the extra point on an off tackle play from close formation. The Frosh then kicked to the Sophs, Sadler returning the ball on a yard run. An attempted Soph pass was knocked down by Kaplan. On a beautifully executed lateral pass, Mooney fumbled but recovered to make a run of 36 yards and a first down, the only one netted by the Sophs during the entire game. A Frosh replacement was made in the Frosh ranks at this time. The Sophs yielded on last touchdowns and the Frosh began their last drive. Tignor hammered at the broken blue line for substantial gain. A Rhinshart to Tignor pass gave a first down. Pratt, substitute for Kibler, found a wide gap in the Soph line, and then cut to the left racing 20 yards over the final white stripe for a touchdown. Rhinshart made the extra point standing up, on a run around the end from close formation. The score read 27 to 0 as the game ended.

The lineup:

Basket Ball Practice Starts

Captain Johnson To Lead Locals

With football over for the year, Coach Kibler is now able to devote his entire time to basketball. The prospects for the 1932-33 season are exceptionally bright, and it is hoped that at the end of the season the State Championship, which hasn't been returned to Washington College since the 1930-31 team lost it, will again rest in the hands of the Flying Pentagons.

An nucleus, Coach Kibler has the following letter men to build a team from, Captain Johnson, Del Proudfoot, Harry Huey, Dick Gamber, Ward and Al Geratis. In addition to these letter men are Al Hodgson, Al Dehkins, and McLean who played good basketball last season and should see plenty of service this year. Some likely prospects from last year's Freshman team include Bill Nicholson, and Dale Rees. This year's Freshman class presents some fine material in MacDonald, Higginson, Berry, Evans, Skipp, Caplan, Reinhardt, Falls and Bilancioni. Although these men haven't been given a chance to show what they can do, they will show to good advantage on either the Varsity or Freshman squad.

The team will miss the valuable services of last year's captain and guard, Otis Robinson; and also the dependable shots of Frank Casazza who failed to return to college. Otherwise missing this year are Fitzgerald and Ralph Raisin, both lettermen of last year's edition of the Flying Pentagons.

If early season predictions count for anything it is safe to say that Washington College will be among the leaders if not the leader of the newly-formed Maryland State College Basketball league.

Gridmen Bow To Delaware

Visitors Take Game By 8 - 0 Score

In a hard-fought football game last Saturday, before an enormous crowd, the stubborn Washington College eleven was finally beaten by the University of Delaware grid warriors. The final score 8 to 0 was the result of two blocked kicks which enabled the boys from Newark to put across a safety and a touchdown.

This game, which was intended to be the initial battle of a continuous series of annual classics, was attended by a swarm of representatives from all over the Delaware Peninsula. Because of the unusually long line of cars waiting to enter Kibler Field for the game the time for the opening whistle had to be postponed for half an hour. A line of autos, half entirely surrounded the playing area, and the grandstand was filled to capacity. It was the largest crowd ever assembled to witness a football game at Washington.

All of the scoring was done during the first half. In the first quarter when the Shoremen had the ball on their own ten yard line Delaware blocked a kick and one of their men fell upon the ball over the end zone line for a safety. Just before the opening whistle another kick was blocked near the Washington goal line. The ball was pushed across as the second quarter started. The try for the point after touchdown was futile. For the remainder of the game both teams battled an even terms without any additional scoring.

The contest was characterized by unusual defensive strength shown by both teams. Several nice runs were made by Kemke and Green of Delaware. The outstanding luminary of the day, however, was "Billy" Nicholson who time after time made long gains through the Delaware line practically unaided.

DANCE IN GYM HUGE SUCCESS

"Vic" Vickers And His Orchestra Furnish Music

Following the Washington College Delaware football game last Saturday, the gymnasium was the scene of a dance given to help make better feelings between the two colleges. In this respect it was a huge success. Everyone had a good time. The floor was crowded with many Delaware students as well as other outsiders and the house crowd.

"Vic" Vickers and his orchestra furnished the music.

Assembly Schedule For February Given

Dr. Frederick Livingston Arranges Schedule

Through the splendid efforts of Dr. Livingston the following assembly program has been secured:

Jan. 19.—Dr. F. Blackwater, "Life Problems."
Feb. 2.—Dr. Paul E. Titworth, Feb. 9.—Archie Palmer. Mr. Palmer is the Secretary of American Association of Colleges.

Feb. 16.—Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, President of University of Md. Feb. 23.—Dr. Raymond Walbert, former Dean of Swarthmore College. On this date the L. E. D. will be confirmed upon Dr. Walbert.

Michael Wallace Injured In Intermarial Basketball Game

Michael Wallace, a sophomore at Washington College, suffered a painful injury to his neck and right shoulder last night when he was thrown against a post during an intermarial basketball game.

The college physician, Dr. Harry G. Simpers, examined Wallace and then sent him to the Easton, Md., hospital for an X-ray examination of his shoulder. The injury, though painful, is not expected to leave any permanent trace.

Wallace played a forward position for the Phi Sigma Tau fraternity against Hall and at the time of his injury was dribbling down the south side of the court when he was stopped by Henry Newark, of the West Hall team. Wallace lost balance and fell full force against the post in the corner of playing space.

Several Opinions On New Council Rule Expressed

The following are opinions held by various people about the campus concerning the new Student Council rule allowing smoking in class rooms:

Ralph Harries—"I see no harm in the rule, provided the content of all concerned can be obtained."

William MacDonald—"I think it all right to smoke during examinations but not during regular classes." Prof. John D. Makosky—"I have no personal objections concerning the rule."

Roland C. Ready—"It is an excellent rule."

Melvin Clark—"I do not choose to state my opinion concerning the question."

John M. Raymond—"Huh?"

Student Council Requests Students Not To Cut Classes

On numerous occasions, Dr. Titworth has spoken to the Student Body in regards to their care of the campus. His suggestions all for our own benefit, have not been followed. If the beauty of Washington College's campus is reduced in any way, it is absolutely necessary that each member of the college avoid taking "short cuts" to classes and refrain from running up and down the terraced steps in a very simple matter. However, the Student Council asks the fullest cooperation from each student in order that the campus will be properly cared for and retain its beauty.

The Student Council.

TO GIVE LECTURES

Dr. Ester M. Dale

Dr. Ester M. Dale will give a series of six lectures on art for the benefit of the Chestertown Public Library during the coming month.

The lectures will be held in the Kent County Court House. The charges will be 15 cents per lecture for students or 75 cents for a season ticket; outsiders may attend for 30 cents per lecture or $1.50 for a season ticket.

Dr. Powers Addresses Students At Jan. 12 Assembly

The college was entertained on Thursday, January 12th, in Assembly by Dr. Edward Cardell Powers, of Baltimore, Md. Dr. Powers is Chaplain at the Maryland State Penitentiary and has several other important positions.

In his speech he stressed mainly the point, "Let us not be weary in well doing." He quoted many poems and ditties that had a distinct bearing on his subject, being effectively used. Dr. Powers urged the student body to realize that "small things are important and must influence their earthly and eternal destiny." Two books, "Mother Goose" and "The Bible," especially the latter are believed by Dr. Powers to offer specific examples as well as solutions, of life problems.

Delaware Quintet Here Wed. Jan. 18

Close Cage Game Expected To Be Played

The University of Delaware's fast moving basketball quint will appear here Wednesday, Jan. 18, to engage the Flying Pentagon in what should be one of the best attractions scheduled for the local cage center.

The keen sense of rivalry between the Penninnola's only colleges, renewed last fall after a lapse of several years, should add color to what is certain to be a great exhibition football basketball. This will be the first game of a home and home series between the Flying Pentagon and the Newark eagles.

On the basis of performances up to date there is little to choose between these two quintets. Both Washington and Delaware have engaged the cagers of West Chester State Teachers' College and St. Josephs, of Philadelphia. The Delawareans defeated St. Josephs by a comfortable margin while the Flying Pentagon was given a stiffer contest by the Jesuits. However, Washington defeated West Chester by five points and the teachers later put the skids to Delaware.

It is certain that Coach Kibler will have his men at peak form for this important game. Several of the Marston and Black cagers who sported grid uniforms last fall will be particularly anxious to see the Delaware boys "take care of" the team. More or less the 5 to 9 lineup Rogers gridders pinned on the locals last fall.

Delaware expects to have a large contingent of backers follow the team and the friendly but nevertheless intense rivalry between the two student bodies should lend tenness to a basket ball atmosphere already packed with T. N. T.

OFFERS NEW COURSE

Dr. Kenneth S. Buxton

Dr. Kenneth S. Buxton, head of the chemistry department at Washington College, will offer a course in physical chemistry for the coming semester.

Up to date six people have signed up to take the course, which has never been given at the college before. Physical Chemistry was offered by Dr. Buxton last year but due to the fact that only one or two signed up for the course it was not given.

Friedrich Von Prittwitz Figures In Government Force

Friedrich Wilhelm Von Prittwitz, German Ambassador to America who spoke at the Washington College Commencement exercises last June, and the rest of the German Embassy staff figured in a farce put on by Sen. Huey P. Long for a reporter for the "Enterprise" according to an article in the Baltimore "Sun" of Friday morning.

The story relates how the Louisiana Senator, wishing to "beat a new" event for a Princeton club reporter, called up the German Embassy and declared that the German Government had insulted the American Government. It developed that the insult was merely the failure of Herr Von Prittwitz to serve beer to the Southern Senator, when the latter visited the embassy.

Hopkins Defeats Flying Pentagon

Blue Jays Lead Throughout Game

BALTIMORE.—John Hopkins University defeated the Washington College basketball quintet last night by a 23 to 20 score in one of the wildest games seen at Evergreen for a long time.

The Flying Pentagon was held scoreless for half of the first period despite the fact that Hodgson and Johnson worked themselves loose for several under the basket shots. The Marston and Black boys from Chestertown still seemed to be suffering from the lins that caused them to give such a miserable exhibition against the Blue Jays last year.

The game was featured by very close guarding, the score at the end of the half being 12 to 4, in favor of the Jays. Washington's 4 points had been scored by means of a field goal and two foul shots.

In the second half, the game was speeded up considerably by both teams and consequently there was more scoring. Don Kelly, captain and star guard for the Hopkins quint was high scorer for the night with a total of 7 points. However, the game was held down to a tie after this year last but when he scored 21 points against the Flying Pentagon.

The Washington quint had superior floor work and passing and consequently scored more close-in shots. However, Hopkins was far more effective in capitalizing on whatever shots they obtained.

Del Proudfoot, tall and supple forward for the Flying Pentagon, entered the game in the waning minutes of play and though still suffering from a back injury that has kept him out of practice for two weeks, improved appearance of his team almost one hundred per cent.

This defeat for the Flying Pentagon puts Tom Kibler's boys with their backs to the wall as far as the race for the Maryland Intercollegiate Basketball championship is concerned. The Marston and Black plays Mr. St. Mary's up at Emmittsburg tonight and a defeat there will virtually eliminate them from this contest. Hopkins and Loyola are the only undefeated quintos now left in the race.

THE LIBRARY SITUATION

A personal experience brought home to us, not long ago, a condition existing in the library that we must decidedly think needs correction. We are speaking of the matter of library fines.

We borrowed an old arithmetic book from the stacks, looked up what we wanted and left the book on our desk for about a month. At the end of which time we remembered the book, took it back to the library, and found that it was two weeks overdue and that we owed a 28 cent fine. This in itself was not so bad, but when out of curiosity we asked the girl at the desk how large a fine we would have been allowed to run up before being notified and found that the fine might run up to a dollar on a book not worth half that much the significance of the matter struck us.

We see no reason why such a condition should be allowed to continue to exist. We realize that the students must be helped to obey library rules and that fines are the most effective method of accomplishing this. But let us make our point clear: we do not object to fines but the manner in which they are allowed to accumulate.

WE DO NOT THINK IT UNREASONABLE FOR THE STUDENTS OF WASHINGTON COLLEGE TO DEMAND THAT THE LIBRARY POST EACH DAY ON THE BULLETIN BOARD A LIST OF ALL OVER-DUE BOOKS. Thus if a student's over-due book was not posted he would not be liable to any fine whatever.

Incidentally it is not our 28 cents that is worrying us. That is long gone and we certainly will not brood over the trifling in the future. We have learned to expect no quarter if we do.

We would personally appreciate an adjustment of the matter spoken of above and we know that many other students feel similarly. It would be taken as a sign that the library is really trying to cooperate with the student body.

FRONT ROW ADDICTS

There was one very striking thing that we noticed when looking over the group pictures for the "Pegasus." It was that certain people always occupied the front row of every picture they were in. We are not trying to criticize these people for we will frankly admit that we are not capable of judging whether or not their faces are as beneficial to the appearance of each group as they evidently thought them to be. The question seems to have been already decided by more competent judges who had no doubt at all concerning the question. We do not doubt that the editor of the "Pegasus" has already mentally thanked these individuals for the concern they displayed for the welfare and appearance of his production. Such an example of unselfish and altruistic action is certainly refreshing, when one considers how eager people usually are in trying to help themselves alone!

It has been remarked that the perfect combination for success is to be good and to know it. Likewise, failure is guaranteed to the person who hasn't the goods but does not know it. If these two facts are so, we can predict for our front row friends a perfect example of—but again we had better leave the judging to more competent people. Ask these people personally. We know that they have an answer ready.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

It is somewhat amusing to hear people talk about the "Good Old Days." During our Rat days we all unlearned about what a tough time we were having. Now we say "Ah, home were the good old days." All we hear about is the good old days, for some reason or other it seems and far us to remember the day that his in the good old day—that every day is the good old day and a few years from now we will be grumbling about complaining just as we do now day in and day out and say, "Oh, 'College—the good old days." That is the moral of all this—we're stuck—maybe there isn't any.

Dame seems to have it that the Washington Debaters will meet John Hopkins and Western Maryland this year on the question of War Debts. Let's hope the local debaters will show some improvement over last year.

Before the election last fall everyone wondered who the new President was going to be. Washington students are still wondering the same thing.

And speaking of politics reminds me of some of our college elections when your worst enemies are likely to greet you in their best friend.

The Washington College basketball team has been speaking for itself by exhibiting a fine brand of playing but old these class and fraternity games. Most of the participants can't speak for hours afterwards. A curious observer, not accustomed to such activity, asked me to object was to see who could look the most awkward and how bad one team could cripple the other. Just about that time someone let out a loud "yes, man" which sufficed for an answer.

We were surprised and disappointed that the "Some alley or other" which often acts as a barrier from the top of Middle Hall, doesn't come forth with a team. Those boys should make good tacklers and ball carriers.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

Now that all the embarrassment brought about by not sending Christmas cards to the ones who sent them has been ended, Christmas presents have been exchanged for cash, and he holidays are all over, we return to the art of intelligent loafing only a find mid-year examinations staring in the face. Nails the stable "Prosperity," examinations are actually "just around the corner." And as a result, we think of countless term papers, how much we wish we had studied a million years ago, and how it could be to find a real student to sit beside during exams.

Vanity suffered a serious blow when he Senior photograph proofs were returned from the studio. Yet, in all fairness to all concerned, it must be admitted that if some of the pictures we have been given were published in the Pegasus, the studio responsible for these masterpieces would stand an excellent chance of losing future contracts. The individual photographs are certainly—individual! However it must be never that he man who wielded the camera was a photographer—not a magician.

From the gratifying way in which he varsity basketball team handled its first two games, it looks as though he 1933 Fighting Pentagon is headed for a new state title. But, a successful season calls for more than a fighting basketball team. Even a fighting team can go down if it does not have real support from the stands. Anyone can yell for a team that is winning, but it takes real blood spirit to yell harder when the team is losing—when yells are needed most. We have the yell—we have the cheer-leaders—we have a real basketball team. And yet there was not one organized cheer throughout the entire home game with St. Joseph's. Why?

Although the past week end brought most of us only a good Saturday night. Frolic. It seems as though it brought to one of our Seniors a wife. But, of course, we only heard.

The coming inter-class basketball tournament promises some unusual basketball. However, the season is still too young to pick winners—unless you are considering the Senior Class team. Their team basket is outstanding, to say the least.

Did you know that Blue Key is sponsoring a minstrel show composed entirely of college students. Doubt has taken seriously to rabbit hunting the Frolics will be continued as long as they are crowded. Pledge Day might be renamed "Flag Day" roller skating is again becoming popular. The new Washington College automobile plates ought to be on every student's car. Middle Hall has a new head man the third edition is not far off. Miami Is far off. exams are eleven days off. it's high time to sign off!

PROFESSOR MARRIES

Frank Goodwin

On December 27, 1932, when the spirit of the Yuletide was still strong, Prof. Frank Goodwin, Instructor in Social Sciences at Washington College, and the former Miss Eunice Wimberly, of Thomasville, Ga., were united in holy matrimony. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Babbard Simmons, Baltimore, Md.

Dr. and Mrs. William Howell were present there to witness the ceremony.

Alumni Notes

James W. Dykes, '17, employed in a manufacturing plant, Charleston, W. Va., barely escaped serious injury when a portion of his clothing was accidentally caught in a machine near which he was standing. Mrs. Dykes, formerly Carmeta Russell, ex-'17, was visiting relatives in Chestertown when notified of the accident. She at once returned to Charleston. Recent reports are to the effect that he is recovering slowly, but surely, from the injury.

Dr. Ralph P. Truitt, ex-'06, director of the Psychiatric Clinic, University of Maryland, was elected president of the Eastern Shore Society of Baltimore at its annual meeting in November. L. Wethered Broad, '08, was named as head of the Ken County Chapter.

Through the efforts of J. Parnell Johnson, president of the Alumni Association, the presentation of fifteen side-line sweaters to the football team was made possible. The following contributed: Dr. May C. Burchinal, John I. Coulbourn, Charles F. Barclay, John R. Hessey, W. Robert Hony, J. Parnell Johnson, L. R. Langdale, F. E. Maddox, F. Stanley Porter, Dr. Irwin O. Ridgely, Dr. Ralph P. Truitt, Judge Lewin W. Wickes, and Page G. Young.

The Baltimore Alumni Chapter held its annual benefit card party in the Club Room of the Emerson Hotel on the evening of December 16th. The receipts will be donated to the Edward Cain Memorial Student Loan Fund, which was established last year. Page G. Young, '19, is president of the Chapter.

Charles E. Smith, '28, an ex-president of the Student Council, under date of November 29, from New Castle, Del., where he is a teacher in William Penn School, writes as follows: "I think it fitting at this time to congratulate the students of Washington College on their fine spirit of friendliness and hospitality shown to the Delaware guests the last week end. It has been my privilege to know some of the Delaware football men and other students personally and I must admit I felt rather proud upon hearing them comment so favorably on their visit at "The Friendly College." Might I also commend the student body on their gentlemanly characteristics at the dance on Saturday night.

It is unnecessary for me to mention the success of the contest itself, or to laud the football team for their splendid work in the game. All present were aware of the brilliant exhibition they gave to full victory to our breaks of the game.

"In closing, I would say that the weekend was a great success, and I would offer my congratulations to all those who were in any way responsible for it."

Austin P. Wheeler, '22, who has been teaching at Sparks High School Baltimore County, is now principal of Rossmore Point High School, Louis Knox, '31, is teaching Mathematics in the same school.

Judges Joseph L. Bailey, '83, and Robert F. Dyer, '91, of the First Judicial Circuit of Maryland, whose fifteen-year terms expired in November, were reappointed by Governor Ritchie to serve until their successors are elected in November, 1934.

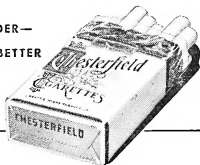

Announcement was made on December 22 of the marriage of Miss Sarah Russell, of Cambridge, Md., to Theodore Boston. The marriage took place November 13 at Princess Anne, Boston, who is a graduate of Washington College, a member of the class of 1930, is teaching at Cambridge.

Edwin T. Luckey, '34, was married on December 9 to Miss Jean Cameron Whitman. Since graduation he has been at Hollywood, California, in the employ of the R. R. O.

Cagers Triumph Over St. Joseph's

First Victory Over Philadelphians Since 1930

In a thrilling basketball contest last Tuesday night, January 10, the Washington College team defeated the strong St. Joseph's quintet of Philadelphia by the count of 23 to 20. The game played on the floor of the Maroon and Black marked the first victory for Washington College over St. Joseph's since the 1929-1930 season.

Starting off fast, St. Joseph's lead 3 to 6 in a few seconds. Ward tied the count with a foul shot and then a field goal. Zuber, huffy forward of St. Joseph's, sunk several field goals from near mid court to raise his team's score to 10. Led by Hodgson and Ward the score was soon knotted by Washington College. Playing first a brilliant and then a rough game, the two teams were again tied at the half 15 to 15. It appeared that breaks alone would determine the final result.

Hodgson and Skip scored quickly in the second half to push the Flying Pentagon ahead. The contest was a tip and tuck affair. Players scrambled madly for loose balls. Toward the close, Washington College increased their lead at one time to seven points, and when the game tied, were leading by four points at Blencorn, who substituted for Hodgson when ejected as a result of fouls scored a double dribble.

Hodgson was high seerer for the Flying Pentagon with nine points and Ward and Huey ran a close second and third. Skip played a fine game at center.

For St. Joseph's, Zuber was high seerer with fourteen points, which lead all players. His play was the best seen here in quite a while, and hushed Washington's star guard, Harry Huey, no little.

VARSITY AND JAVEES BEAT WEST CHESTER

The 1933 edition of the Flying Pentagon, showing new faces, opened a new basketball season with an impressive 23 to 19 victory over the highly lauded West Chester State Teachers College, of Pennsylvania, on December 16.

Due to over cautiousness, the Kibler men got off to a slow start that found them trailing the Teachers, 9 to 6, at half time. The Maroon and Black quintet came back in the second period, with a new vigor to tie the score and then pass the opponents whom Hodgson sank two beautiful shots at the psychological time, never again to be overtaken.

Washington looked especially good on defense. All of West Chester points were scored on outside shots and foul tries. The local combine needs polishing offensively but should begin to click before many more games. Proofread led the scoring with 8 points. Skip and Hodgson, first year men held up well and lack only the experience of seasoned courtsters.

Coch Kibler expressed himself as being well pleased with the strong knick that his loggers made. The lead maner was also impressed with the work of the Jr. Varsity that had things much its own way in trouncing the West Chester Jr. Varsity, 20 to 28, in the preliminary game.

Coach Ekaitis Giving Series Of Boxing Lessons

Coach George Ekaitis gave the first of a series of boxing lessons to Saturday, January 7. That the excitement of last year continues to grow in popularity was evidenced by the large number of turnouts, including many Freshmen, for the initial workout.

Ekaitis plans to give the instructions in a series of 16 lessons, three each week. A new policy is being tried in that those members who attend these sessions will be credited with gym class attendance, and will not have to be present at the regular physical education period but the customary penalty will be imposed for "cuts" from the boxing classes.

TWO NEW OPPONENTS FOR LACROSSE TEN

A revised Lacrosse schedule for the 1933 Washington College team, presents the Mt. Washington Club of Baltimore, and Swarthmore College, of Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, as two teams of opposition. These two stick teams are taking the place of the formerly scheduled University of Virginia and Western Maryland College teams, which have temporarily at least, dropped the game from their spring sports program. These two, along with St. John's, the University of Maryland, and the World Champions Johns Hopkins Team will round out the toughest schedule in the country. Lehigh also will be engaged.

The innovation of several new Lacrosse rules this spring will make the game better all around. The shorter playing field of eighty instead of one hundred yards will give the spectators the opportunity to witness all the play. This decrease in length will also probably throw more weight on the shoulders of the mid-field men. In addition to this, the "Lacrosse Twelve" no longer exists. Ten men will take the field this year for battle.

In these respects, Washington College should profit. In the first place, there are ten letter men back on the squad and secondly, the Maroon and Black exhibited last year a tireless midfield that could hold its own fairly well with any opposition.

Washington Grid Stars ALUMNI TO HOLD CARD Given All-Maryland Menton PARTY AT SALISBURY

Dickerson, Gamber, Reinhold, Ward and Nicholson Named

Several of Washington College's grid stars were given honorable mention by W. Wilson Wingate in picking the Baltimore AMERICA'S All-Maryland football team for 1932.

The head players who were mentioned by Wingate included: 1932 Captain of the Maroon and Black and also the Captain-elect of the 1933 eleven. The complete list of those mentioned was as follows: Dickerson, Gamber, Ward, Reinhold and Nicholson. Wingate commented upon the fine defensive work of Dickerson in the line and Reinhold's accurate punting for the back.

At the Committee Meeting of Washington alumni in the Southern Delaware area, called last fall in Salisbury by J. Farnell Johnson of Glen Burnie, president of the general Alumni Association, preliminary preparations were made for the holding of a Salisbury on Friday evening, February 10, an informal alumni get-together and card party.

The committee of preparations is: Gilbert V. Byron, Lewis, Del., Chairman; Nevell M. Cordley, Snow Hill, Md.; A. Roy Woodhead, Marion Station, Md.; Albert K. Baker, Salisbury, Md.; Elizabeth A. Marc, Cambridge, Md.; Nelson P. Hurley, Greensboro, Md.; Elmer W. Nettle, Denton, Md.

George H. Carrington, Crisfield; and J. Farnell Johnson, Glen Burnie, Md. There is abundant material in this area for a strong unit of the Washington College Alumni Association. With the growing prestige of the College its former students should become acquainted with each other and create a Washington College sentiment which would make real to the people of the lower Shore and lower Delaware the reality and value of the College.

You smoke a Pipe

and we'd like to talk with you about it

All users of people since the beginning of time, so far as we have been able to read, have had some kind of a pipe and have smoked something—whether they called it tobacco or what not.

AND since smoking a pipe is so different from smoking a cigar or cigarette, we made a most painstaking, scientific study in an effort to make, if we could, a tobacco which was suited to pipes.

We found out, first, that there was a kind of tobacco that grew in the Blue Grass section of Kentucky called White Burley, and that there was a certain kind of this tobacco which was between the tobacco used for cigarettes and the tobacco used for chewing tobacco. It is this tobacco which is best for pipes.

We found out that Mr. J. N. Wellman, many years ago, made a pipe tobacco which was very popular. But it was never advertised and after he passed away nothing more was heard about it. We acquired this Wellman Method and that is what we use in making Granger.

Next was the cut. We knew that fine tobacco burnt hot because it burnt so fast. You could hardly hold your pipe in your hand, it got so hot at times. So remembering how folks used to "whittle" their tobacco we cut GRANGER just like "whittle" tobacco—"Rough Cut." It smokes cooler, lasts longer and never gums the pipe.

So far, so good. Now we wanted to sell this tobacco for 10c. Good tobacco —right process—cut right. So we put Granger in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has become a popular smoke. And we have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

Student Assembly Held Friday

Discuss Improvement Of Honor Code

A special assembly of the entire Washington College student body was held yesterday in William Smith Hall to discuss ways and means of improving the functioning of the honor system at the college.

The assembly was called to order by Hubert Ryan, president of the Student Council. Mr. Ryan led up to the business of the assembling by pointing out the fact that violations of the honor code have been increasing in numbers of late and that a general laxness on the part of the student body has been developing in regard to the honor code.

Richard Gamber, secretary of the Student Council, next addressed the assembly, stating that he acknowledged the fact that the Council had not been functioning properly but he continued on to say that the Council would maintain strict observance of the rules of the student government association in all future cases. Miss Genevieve Carvel next spoke, as representative of the Women's Student Council. Miss Carvel's speech was followed by short talks by Mr. Ready and Mr. Sadler. Both of these men expressed confidence in the Student government association as a workable organization.

Following these talks the assembly was turned over to a discussion of any plans or suggestions that the student body as a whole might have to make. The discussion was directed by Joseph Dickerson, Vice-President of the Student Council. During the discussion the question of whether or not the Council intended to support the entire body of rules of the student government arose. The consideration of whether the Council should or should not handle drinking cases consumed a great deal of the discussion.

Near the close of the assembly it was requested by Miss Emily Jevett and Mr. Boyd Hopkins that a vote be taken to decide whether the student government association should be retained or not. However, it was decided to postpone the actual vote until some later date to be fixed by the Student Council.

The assembly was then dismissed without further business being brought up.

Assembly Schedule For Next Month Given

Dr. Frederick Livingood announced the following programs for the next four regularly scheduled assemblies.

Feb. 16—Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, President of the University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Feb. 23—Dr. Raymond Walters, President of the University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio.

March 2—Irvin F. Thomas, Coach with the Philadelphia Athletics, Philadelphia, Pa.

March 9—W. Wilson Wingate, feature sports writer of Baltimore News, Baltimore, Md.

BLUE KEY FRATERNITY TO GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

The Blue Key Fraternity, of Washington, presents its minstrel show on Wednesday evening, February 15, after a postponement of two weeks, the period of examinations.

The minstrels have put this extra allotted time in rehearsal, adding new bits and brushing up on their songs and dances. Practices will continue to be held up until the eve of presentation when the company will go through a full-dress rehearsal.

Washington's foremost male theatrical talent has been successfully solicited to frolic in a gay jamboree of music, song, dance and comedy. Be prepared to catch the jests of nimble-wit Huey in his exchange of quips with end-man Lord. Grow sentimental in song with Al Griati's rendering of heart-breaking numbers "A Little White Lies," "Dear "Scenes" Harris singing his be-man love songs. Swing into jig time with the Washington quartet. Let your self be carried off with Roland Leichub's "Martha."

Besides the "circle" the cast will include such stars of minstrelsy as Shipp and Brinsfield, "Mullins" Meney, "Muckers" Gamber and "Bland-Venus" Ward, together with many lesser lights.

Blue Key is reviving the old time black face minstrel show after a lapse of some ten years. Critics are noting about the sensation of a new decade. Curtain time is 8 P. M. Tickets are available from all Blue Key members. Enjoy two hours of rocking fun.

Freshmen Fatalities Great This Year

Within the past few weeks one freshman after another has dropped out from the first year class at Washington College. The causes are numerous. But the main reason is the lack of funds caused by the depression.

"Mike" Higginson the most popular freshman here was the first to leave. He is now working in Waterbury, Conn. He was followed by Edward Nawak, of Wilmington, "Bill" MacDonald the class athlete and crooner left a few weeks ago. Others who left are: S. S. Baker, Wyoming, Del.; Herbert Matts, Baltimore; D. C. Haley, Haledorf, Md.; Clara Brown, Chestertown; E. E. Richards, Frankfort, Del.; Ralph Hopkins, Sudlersville; Loretta Lightner, Bedford Hills, N. Y.; Reg D. Wathine, Chesapeake City; J. E. Lerry, Rock Hall, Md.; J. B. Massey, Chestertown; A. B. Robson, Chesapeake City; E. E. Bries, Betterton; J. F. Smith, Denton, Md.; Anna Macdonald, Price, Md.; Paul E. Mark Centreville; Don T. Falls, Chestertown; B. I. Gais, St. Michaels, Md.; H. J. Jones, Cambridge, Md.; Thos. North, Still Pond, Md.; A. J. Kaptan, Patterson, N. J.

COTILLION CLUB GIVES DANCE

On the evening of Friday, February 3rd, the Washington College Cotillion Club held the third of its series of five formal dances which are given throughout the scholastic year.

Due to the proximity of Feb. 14, the occasion was known as the "Valentine Cotillion." In harmony with the spirit of the affair, the gymnasium was artistically decorated in red and white. The windows were hidden by single, full red hearts placed upon a white background. All lights were encased in white, upon which numerous smaller hearts were silhouetted, and from which a series of miniature hearts dangled. The orchestra played from a low platform at one end of the gymnasium, and as by its background a gigantic red heart, the strings of which led out to numerous smaller hearts bearing the names of the more prominent campus couples. That this distinctly original touch met with the approval of the students is evidenced by the fact that the last notes of the orchestra had scarcely died away before the platform and its decorations were rushed "en masse" by souvenir tanners seeking the particular heart which bore his or her (or their) names.

The patrons of the Valentine Cotillion were: Mr. and Mrs. James G. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Uillon, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kibler, Dr. Gertrude Van A. Ingalls, Dean Mark Brewer, Mrs. John Speicher and Miss Anna Smith.

The Cotillion Club Committee, which controls the destinies of the entire series of dances is composed of: William McA. Richards, John Gray McLain, DeWitt Forman Clarke, James D. Davis III, Joseph Moore, Richard W. Cooper and Paul W. T. Pippin.

Music was furnished by Herman Rickards and his orchestra and refreshments were served in Roid Hall Lounge during the intermission.

SHAKESPEARE PLAYERS TO GIVE SECOND PLAY

The Shakespeare Players of Washington College, an organization composed chiefly of members and past members of the Shakespeare Class of Dr. Gertrude Van A. Ingalls, will present, under the direction of Dr. Ingalls, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at a time probably about three weeks distant.

The play will be given in William Smith Hall, and shortly, the tickets will be put upon sale. The cast has been well and skillfully chosen, and the play promises to be a worthy successor to the now historical "Romeo and Juliet," the first production of the players, and given last year.

Costumes are in the process of manufacture, and a most becoming collection can be predicted. The play will be given on a very close approximation of the Elizabethan stage at least in so far as stage properties are concerned. The Players are, in many cases, of last years experience, and are therefore more nearly finished actors and actresses.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," it is recalled, is one of the most delightful and most finished of the Comedies, with its "Trance of dewy gossamer." It is a piece of the famous GLOBE EDITION says: "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a strange and beautiful play, delicately by a poet's playful fancy." The play is thought to have been written about 1595-94, and closed one of the playwright's early periods.

Mrs. Ingersoll Gives Library Painting

Washington College is particularly fortunate to have received in connection with a year of historical richness a fine oil representation of the original college building, the generous gift of Mrs. D. W. Ingersoll, of her own hand, and which now adorns the undernated walls of the College Library.

The picture is a fancied reproduction of the first academic hall, and shows the campus as rich with trees and shrubs. The general outlines of the building are like those used on various papers of the Sesqui-centennial celebration last June.

The picture was hung at the south end of the Library. Mrs. Ingersoll is to be complimented on her most appreciated gift.

It is recalled that in connection with the visit of the Ambassador from Germany to the college last June, Baron von Prittwitz presented the institution with a cast in bronze of the First President. This likewise artistic object has not yet accordingly been expended to public view.

Howell E. Donnell Addresses Students

On Thursday, February 2nd, at 11 o'clock A. M., Mr. Howell E. Donnell, Superintendent of the Maryland Penitentiary, spoke at the Washington College Assembly on the general subject of crime sources, and new trends in reform by imprisonment.

Blue Jays Seek Second Victory

Harry Huey Back In Shape

Johns Hopkins plays a visit to Chestertown to line up against the Flying Pentagon of Washington tonight in a Maryland State League game. The Hopkins five will have its full strength available in an attempt to duplicate its 25-20 January victory over the Maroon and Black, and will bank heavily on Don Kelly to take out a killer.

Coach Kibler has his charges in position and ready to smash out a decisive triumph. The entire local squad is in good condition. HARRY Huey and Al Hodgson who saw no service in the Johns' game of last week will be used in tonight's fray. Ward will probably pair up with Huey at the guard posts while Dick Gamber, who has played well recently, will be in reserve for the back court berth. Shipp will start at center with Proud-strange and Gristle at the forward position completing the local line-up.

Al Giletti

In practices this week the Pentagon was keeping his parring attack and concentrating on its offense. Coach Kibler praised the boys on their defensive game against the Annapolis Johnnies who could not open for shot in any kind during most of the first half and made practically all of their scores on outside shots.

The Washington quintet has shown a determined spirit and will not be satisfied with anything less than a victory by a 10 to 15 point margin. Should Proudfoot kick and Kelley be bottled up the Kibler combine will have no trouble for a win.

Before the game is well won, we expect to see the entire red-jerseyed squad given a chance to show its wares.

Probable Lineups:

A GOOD SUGGESTION

We have heard considerable favorable comment upon Prof. Goodwin's suggestion in the Washington College student body that the students aid the administration in its attempt to enroll a larger freshman class next fall. We consider such comment to be a favorable reflection upon the intelligence of Washington's citizenry. It proves to us that our fellow students think along consistent lines; they realize that the same conditions that caused them to choose Washington as the college most suited to their needs still exist for a great many of their friends who will be faced with the problem of deciding on a college to cast their lot with next fall.

There is a remarkable tendency of people to overlook the most obvious facts and conditions in any given situation. Consequently we would like to bring out several points, that because of their obviousness may have been neglected in thinking over the question of encouraging students to express themselves to others concerning their college.

We know that most Washington students and alumni, when speaking of their college to prospective students, will be motivated by thoughts of gratitude and love for their Alma Mater. The fact that so many Washingtonians have such thoughts concerning their college indicates a realization of the unique advantages offered by the Eastern Shore's only institution of higher learning. However we wonder how many alumni realize, when they direct others to this college, that besides repaying the college in part for services it has rendered them, they are indirectly helping a large group of other people including themselves.

It is certainly true that the student who is guided by such advice to complete his education at Washington College will be benefited by his association with a modern and efficient institution supported by over one hundred and fifty years of honorable tradition. But it is not, just as certain that this individual and his associates and community will be benefited by contact with him.

Most clearly of all, however, the graduate himself will be benefited. No college ceases to influence a man on the day he walks from its doors with a diploma in his hands; to the man who has caught the true college spirit his Alma Mater remains a vital thing. And certainly a growing and dynamic college will be a far more significant thing in its graduate's life than one that is in the process of decay.

If we wish our college to be one to which we can point with pride and turn to for aid, then we must support it.

SORRY

It seems that we wasted a lot of effort and space in our recent editorial concerning the library's true situation. We went to great pains to advocate a system that was already in existence and functioning. According to the librarian a complete list of all students having overdue books has been posted regularly three times a week throughout the semester on the main bulletin board. The "Elm" regrets any misunderstanding this error on our part may have caused.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

According to all reports a major crisis has hit the campus. An announcement which has in the past met with a fair degree of success, is once again challenged. Perhaps no problem of the last four years has caused such wide spread propaganda, and aroused the interest of so many students for we are all more or less involved. The student body is clamoring over a problem which could have been prevented.

As in any problem each of us are asking for a solution which will at least satisfy our own narrow thinking. In this case we are now prone to choose the way of least resistance and place all the blame on the hands of others. In this case it is the Council and we will because the Council does not function as it should.

After we have all decided the Council has failed we ask the question why? This is where we hesitate and develop the question no further. Why do we hesitate? Because in looking for a cause for Council failure the evidence begins to point to us as individuals and as a student body.

Has the Council failed or have we failed? We have elected ten men to office, thrown the entire burden on their shoulders. They are failing on our hands, relaxed, apathetic and said: "It might work, it might not, who cares."

Naturally, it did not work and the student who could least begin to understand it, he said, "I don't know why they failed to do it."

Now we have arrived at another angle, and the Council made the proper effort. We are forced to give the credit and the blame to one of its members have fallen into the net, violated the honor system and are in no position to act as a judge.

Some of the individual faculty members have also helped weaken the system. Students are objecting to various classroom practices of the professors which are not conducive to the Honor System. It is true a professor in the room who does not search for "cribbing" lends dignity to the class room. But when professors combine seats, pass out exam questions and before the test starts, open the papers to see that no notes have been written on them, moves pupils from the rear to the front of the room and continually annoy the class with a critical eye, the student is sure to feel that he is under an espionage and not an Honor System.

The Honor System can function and will function if we as students (rown upon violations, I believe there is no need for reorganization if the Council decides to repledge themselves and give fair warning in a public statement that the past is ditched out and that they will function with the proper support of students and administration.

Next year when a new body comes into power an assembly period should be devoted for publicly swearing in the Council and to explain the Honor System. What Washington needs is honest communication and public path is one step toward that end.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

We've often heard that upper classmen forget that they once were freshmen, but now it seems that freshmen forget that upper classmen were once rats. Otherwise, how could that group of this year's rat class expect to find protection on the auditorium stage, to which they have fled, when they heard rumors of a probable "rat party"? They seem to forget that if, and when, the much promised "party" does paddle its way into full swing, all the possible rat places will be thoroughly searched by students who in their freshman days, realized forcibly the utility of trying to evade "the board of education." A certain group of the present yearlings can very wisely profit by the unfortunate results that followed the senior class when they, as freshmen, also evaded detection and underrating the gym activities.

Although we cannot presume to "advise" for such a move, it seems to us that to allow the girls in Reed to dance, would be giving away an excellent idea. These dances give promise of being excellently chaperoned and should be given in a highly desirable manner. It is logical that if the entire college has permission to "leave the hall" to attend the opening dance, it will at the present time be the best thing to follow and the entire series will assume an atmosphere from the start that will be very similar to such affairs held at the college. As such, where can there be cause for objection?

Did you know that—
 Maurice finds his time extremely effective. There is an interesting comparison between Wednesday's assembly speaker and some others we've been exposed to. There are even casualties in the freshman class (see exams started). Hedgren is finally going to take a trip to the long awaited minstrel show (ought to be interesting as well as amusing). The repeal of the 18th Amendment will be broadcast on a nationwide basis. There should be a chair for everyone in the cafeteria between eggs and fish whenever the latter are served (even dreams must apparently be rehearsed although here was a time when a trip to the arm of a dancing couple at a collation meant, "May I break?"—it now seems to be a command to minstrel instead of "May I break" a constant "break" is as undesirable as a dry tag in the cafeteria!!!!

Washington Five Defeats St. Johns

Take Easy Contest From Johnnies

In a game lacking the thrills and closeness that is generally characteristic of a Washington College-St. John's contest, the Flying Pentagons easily defeated the Chalkboard cagers by the score 35 to 21 last Saturday night in the Washington College gymnasium.

Del Proudfoot started his team off with a beautiful shot a few seconds after the opening whistle, and shortly afterwards, followed up with another double-decker and a foul shot. St. John's did not score until the showman had rung up ten points and eight minutes had been played. The Johnnies were playing cautious basketball and made sure of themselves. The game was similar to the one played by the two teams last year, except that in this encounter, Washington College had a large lead at half time instead of St. John's. Scores by Ships, elongated center, Giraults and Proudfoot gave the Flying Pentagons this lead.

The game ended with the Flying Pentagons' lineup consisting of second and third strikers, and Dutch Lests sending in substitutes for St. John's. The final score read 35-21.

Jesus Take Over-Time Game 36-35

The Washington Flying Pentagons met defeat by a hair's breadth by Loyola, 36 to 35 in an extra period game at Evergreen January 28.

The contest opened with Capt. Johnson sinking three baskets from the floor in rapid succession. Washington held the lead at the end of the first half 19 to 17 after a spurt, when players were dropping baskets from all angles. Washington continued to lead in the second period until Loyola tied at 23-23 and then the lead see-sawed back and forth. The regular game ended in a tie 23-23. In the extra five-minute period Loyola scored four points to Washington's three. A Washington 36-35 basket, which would have meant victory just at the end of the extra period, was disallowed because the ball was not in the air as the whistle blew.

This rugged Pennsylvanian will be a big asset to the local football team next fall. However he has not decided whether he will play here or have-hall during the coming spring. Should Dwyer decide to play here he would greatly strengthen Coach Elliott's stock combination as the local star.

Tobacco to smoke right

has to be a different kind of tobacco from that used in cigarettes... and it has to be made by an entirely different process...

OUT in Kentucky, where they have pretty women, fast horses, and blue grass, there grows a tobacco called White Burley. It doesn't grow anywhere else in the world.

There is a type of this White Burley that is best suited for pipe smoking. It is neither too thick nor too thin. It is not light and chaffy; at the same time, it is not rank or strong. "U. S. Type 31" is the government classification for White Burley.

Since no other pipe tobacco has yet been found which seems to equal White Burley, this is what we use in making Granger Rough Cut.

Next, we use the Wellman Method, a famous 1870 method of making pipe tobacco, to give Granger its fine flavor and fragrance. Then, too, Granger is "Rough Cut"—just like they used to "whittle" their tobacco off a plug with a jack-knife. It smokes cool, lasts longer and never gums a pipe.

And finally, we want to sell Granger for 10 cents. Good tobacco—right process—cut right. So we put Granger in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has grown to be a popular smoke. Folks seem to like it.

Flying Pentagon Defeats Delaware 20-16

Seek Revenge For Early Defeat

Kiblerites Take Second Contest

Dick Gamber Stars For Washington

(Special To The "Elm")

Newark, Del., Feb. 24.—The Flying Pentagon defeated the University of Delaware's basketball quint last night by a 20 to 16 score.

The game was featured by very close guarding on both sides. In the first half neither of the two quintets opened up but seemed to be content to control the ball and feel out the opposition.

Dick Gamber played a brilliant game at basketball for the Maroon and Black and took high scoring honors for the night with a total of 9 points.

Lead by O'Connell, the Delaware quint held a 9 to 6 advantage at half time. The Blue Hens were unable to find the basket with any degree of accuracy due to the excellent defense made by the Flying Pentagon. In fact Coach Kibler's charges limited the opposition to a total of three goals, the remaining points being scored on foul shots.

Coach Tom Kibler started almost an entirely different lineup from the one that easily took the measure of the Delawareans in the first game of a home and home series this winter. Proudfoot and Clements at forward, Skipp at center and Huey and Gamber at guard completed the visitor's lineup. The brilliant work of Gamber throughout the game will probably earn him a position in the starting lineup of the Flying Pentagon tonight against Loyola at Chestertown.

De Proudfoot and Skipp at forward and center respectively for the Flying Pentagon turned in very creditable exhibitions of basketball. Skipp jumped well at the top-off and fought hard throughout the contest while Proudfoot's pointing was no small factor in the attack of the Marylanders.

The summary:

ALBERT E. DOBKINS INJURED AT ST. JOHNS

Albert E. Dobkins of the Junior Class of Washington College suffered a painful injury last Tuesday night, February 21st in the St. John's College gymnasium prior to the Washington College-St. John's basketball contest.

Dobkins was practicing on the floor with the rest of the Flying Pentagon Squad, when in the act of passing to Al Blumenthal he ran too far under the Basket, tripped over a temporary bleacher seat and fell headlong into a radiator. He was stunned by the impact and taken immediately to the St. John's infirmary where six stitches were taken to close a deep cut over his right eye which was too injured to see from. Dobby has spent most of the week recuperating and is now well on the road to recovery. Coach Kibler expressed regret that Dobby was hindered from participating in basketball practice this week, for he is a most capable fighter and valuable in making his team-mates work harder.

Ready, Richards Elected To Pegasus Offices

Roland C. Ready and J. Nelson Richards were elected Editor and Business Manager, respectively, of the 1933 "Pegasus" at a meeting of the senior class held February 16 in Room 21 in William Smith Hall.

The meeting was called by President Joseph B. Dickerson, when William M. A. Richards, who had been editor of the "Pegasus" left school. Ready had been Business Manager for Richards.

The class voted that Richards be given credit in the "Pegasus" for laying out the plan for the book. The Senators voted that Paul Pippen be continue in his position of assistant editor of the "Pegasus."

White Studio Photographer To Be Here Next Week

The photographers from White Studio will be here during the early part of March. This will be their last trip to the Campus this year and all "Pegasus" pictures must be taken at this time. Notices will be posted on the bulletin board in time to allow those scheduled to appear. Failure to appear as scheduled will result in the picture being left out of the book. If anyone finds he is not able to appear when scheduled, he will notify the Editor as soon as possible. Your kindest co-operation is asked. The "Pegasus" is your annual and you can contribute your share toward making it a success by co-operating with the staff.

Student Council Resigns In Body

The Men's Student Council of Washington College yesterday, Friday, February 23, resigned as a body. The resignation was the culmination of a Student Assembly in which the Student Council presented the charges, particularly dealing with the Hon. System, that it had drawn up of the Student Government Constitution.

Mr. Hubert Ryan, President of the Student Council, presided at the Assembly, after a preliminary discussion in which he outlined the purpose of the meeting, he set forth the proposed changes in the Constitution. These changes deal with Articles III, IV, and IX which include Membership, Duties and Powers, and the Honor System respectively. Mr. Ryan noted the nature of said changes and then asked for discussion or questions on the part of Students.

After a brief Student discussion, Mr. Ryan asked for a motion to the effect that the changes be accepted by the Student Body. Before this motion was made however, Mr. Ryan of the Senior Class made a motion to the effect that a vote be taken on the question of whether or not the Student Government should continue to exist or be abolished at Washington College. This vote was taken and by a large plurality the Student Government was retained. Mr. Ryan then called for a vote on the proposed changes to the Constitution. After the proper procedure was gone through this vote was taken with the result that the changes were almost unanimously accepted. These changes provide that the Honor System shall be taken to mean all that pertains to individual responsibility in academic work.

After the vote on proposed changes was taken and the result tabulated, a motion was made that elections be held by the Student Body and the various classes to elect Student Council Members over again. Before this motion was even seconded, the Student Council necessitated such elections by resigning as a body.

MIDDLE HALL DEFEATS EAST HALL CAGERS

Middle Hall defeated East Hall last night in a thrilling basketball game which ended 11 to 10 as Davis, long-ought center for the winners, tossed in the winning point on a foul after the final whistle had blown. In the other interhall game, played last night, the Phi Sigma Psi forced the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity to take the first game of a 18 to 6 count.

The first game was a nip and tuck affair from start to finish with the Middle Hall Club holding a slight advantage throughout the contest except once in the second half when, not by Collier made the count 9 all. Barnhart and Menzel scored for the winner.

The Phi Sigma Psi Fraternity assumed a 6 point lead early in the game with the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity never lost the lead after that.

College Board Meets To Choose President

The board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College, met at the college Thursday, February 23rd to consider applications for the presidency of the college.

The meeting was conducted by Col. Hiram S. Brown, chairman of the board. The board was unable to agree upon any of the many applicants for the position, according to Dr. Paul E. Titworth, retiring president who will next year take over the presidency of Alfred University, his Alma Mater. Dr. Titworth stated that the board expected to reach an agreement in the near future.

According to a statement in the "Enterprise" Dean Rogers of Piedmont College, Georgia, is one of the leading candidates for the vacancy.

George Elatis, head coach of football and lacrosse here, will stage a little "comeback" at his Alma Mater, Western Maryland, next Saturday night when the Terror Alumni meet Dick Harlow's present crew of glove swingers.

Lineup For Big Game Uncertain

The Flying Pentagon will engage Loyola's Greyhound quint tonight the local gymnasium in an effort to wipe out a 36 to 35 over-time defeat inflicted on it earlier in the season by the Devils.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend this game choice which has long been recognized as the high light of Maryland college basketball season. Excitement in Chestertown and at the college has reached the fever heat stage as Eastern Shore fans anticipate this impending struggle between the Maroon and Black and the Green and Grey. According to Graduate Manager Fred Dannechott the entire reserve seat region has been sold out and still requests are pouring in from all over the Shore for tickets.

Coach Kibler has been experimenting with the starting lineup of the Flying Pentagon during the past week. Against St. John's, De Proudfoot was shifted to center in place of Phil Skipp and Al Hodgson paired off with Ginitie at the forward posts. The local member has given out no announcement as to what is likely to be his starting combination in the all important affair tonight. However, it is fairly certain that barring injuries Huey will hold one of the guard positions.

The Greyhounds will bank heavily on "Chief" Bender at guard and Vince Carlin and Bobbie Belts at the forward posts in their efforts to repeat their earlier triumph. It was Carlin who bagged a long one from mid court to send the Evergreen affair into an extra period after the Flying Pentagon had taken a two point lead with 36 seconds left to play.

A victory over Loyola tonight would be even more pleasing to the Flying Pentagon because of the fact that several members of the Flying Pentagon believe that the confusion existing about the timing of the game at Evergreen cost them the contest. Should De Proudfoot regain the form that he exhibited against Loyola in the game down here, it is certain that the Kibler combination will be hard to beat. Coach Kibler is satisfied with the work of Ward and Huey as guards and is confident that these lunkies will be set to give a good account of themselves. It is not known whether Hodgson will be given a chance to display his wares or not, however those who say that St. Joseph's game this year know that this tiny forward is capable of playing brilliant basketball on occasions.

| Probable lineup: | Washington | Loyola     |
|------------------|------------|------------|
| Proudfoot        | F          | Belts      |
| Clements         | F          | Carlin     |
| Skipp            | C          | Tamneyhill |
| Huey             | G          | Bender     |
| Gamber           | G          | Lunk       |

"TAKING IT"

The tragic death of Ernie Schaaf brought into bold relief the attitude that so many sport fans take toward their idols.

The "sport fan" not only insists that his athletic hero be able to "take it" but that he actually take considerable of it. Only a short while ago Schaaf was a brilliant young heavy-weight who was considered to be a good prospect for the heavy-weight championship. He had won a reputation as a hard-willing fighter. Consequently crowds packed the sports centers to watch him fight and cheer his greatness—when he won. No one questioned Schaaf's greatness then. However, when he sank to the canvass at the hands of a giant who far out-matched him after having "taken" all that the bravest of men could take, fifteen out of the twenty thousand spectators in the stadium rose up with the cry of "fake." They did not think of his limp and dying gladiator as suffering enough to give them their money's worth. They wanted to see him stand and have his face cut and pounded until it could not be recognized as human flesh. Not one of those blood-thirsty human beings believed Schaaf capable of getting up from the floor and defeating Carna; they were certain that if he did get up the final result would be a victory for the Italian. Yet, these "sport fans" did not want Schaaf to escape in any "easy" manner. Even the next day when Schaaf lay dying many newspapers carried accounts by men declaring the whole thing to be a fake.

This attitude can be observed in sports other than boxing. The fans cry for "blood" in all sports. A vicious tackle, a hard body check in hockey or a punishing hold in wrestling will bring the spectators to their feet cheering. It does not matter that the victim may be lying in mortal agony.

The emotionally overwrought athlete who insists on "sticking in there" even after punishment and fatigue have seriously impaired his effectiveness is encouraged to continue "taking it." However, after the athlete has obeyed this "call of the wild" so often and "taken it" until he is no longer able to, this fact is quickly forgotten by the public. The savage continues to demand his pound of flesh and "thumbs down" is the reward of the one who can no longer "take it." The reason for his inability does not enter into consideration.

WILLIAM MCA. RICHARDS

Washington College lost a real artist when Bill Richards left school a short while ago. Richards had the enviable reputation of having done just exactly those things which he wanted to while in college. Naturally in following out such a policy Richards earned himself some enemies.

However, even the enemies of this cultured Cumberland gentleman recognized his ability in the various fields that interested him. This fact is testified to by the many offices which Richards was entrusted with by his fellow students. Richards' originality and straightforward acknowledgment of his views won for him the respect of all those who had occasion to work with him even though his views were often those held by the majority or those in authority. But like the true artist that he was Bill continued his way undisturbed when his policies aroused the clamoring of the wolves at his door.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Through lack of interest on the part of the most active students in dying of slow death. Several years ago Washington College produced a debating team which was worthy of representing the college. Each year interest is shown, fewer candidates report for try-outs, the managers become discouraged; fewer debates are scheduled and consequently the activity is being erased from our calendar of college events.

Few will deny the fact that debating is excellent training in public speaking, not only in the speaking process itself but in the organization and preparation of the speech. The lack of interest, however, seems to lie in that dreaded word "preparation." The answer that most students give when asked why they don't interest themselves in debating is, "well, I would like to debate but it's too much trouble. Who wants to sit down and dig up material? No, I just won't come out this year." It certainly is a wonderful excuse. It seems that the afternoon nap or the half hour of bridge can not be neglected for the world.

This year one person in addition to two last year members answered the call. There could have been three trips and one home debate if the interest shown would have merited it. Now, it looks as if the whole matter will have to be dropped completely.

Although I have no statistics to prove my point I understand that at most colleges the cheer leaders receive a letter at the end of their season. I have often wondered why Washington College did not adopt this policy. Not that cheer leaders should come out merely for the sake of the letter but the fact that there was a letter to be earned would place cheer leading on a level with other activities.

What has happened to the Blue Key petition? It suddenly appeared and just as suddenly disappeared. At least it is no longer talked about. From observation a defeat of the petition seemed inevitable and the argument that is usually given against it is one of principle and not that of money. I too, believe that it made provision for the support of organizations that the student body at large should not be called upon to support. But setting this prejudice aside, provisions to justify its existence and should have been supported by the student body.

PURLOINED PHRASES

Here is a poem found in the "Brooklyn Polytech Reporter":
 "What have you done," Saint Peter asked,

"That I should admit you here?"
 "I found this paper," the editor said,
 "Of my college for one year."
 "St. Peter pitying shook his head
 And gravely touched a bell;
 "Come in, poor thing, and select Your punishment."

"You've had your share of hell."
 Freshman: "Aren't the stars numerous tonight?"
 Poet: "Yes, and aren't there a lot of them?"

The "Tower" refers a Bowdoin poet's contribution:
 "We laugh at all the professors' jokes
 No matter what they be,
 'It's not because they're funny ones,
 Just 'cause it's policy."

1st Co-ed: "That Sophomore proposed to me last night!"
 2nd Co-ed: "Yes, doesn't he do it beautifully!"

He: "If fifty-fifty women have their beauty secrets, and men have their secret beauties."

He: "You can't believe anything you hear."
 Co-ed: "No, but you can repeat it."

An "American Intercollegiate Association of Giggles," has been organized at Santa Barbara College to escort the coaches. The sponsors promise to provide the "young man in the proper attire" for what is hoped are proper occasions.

King Solomon: "We've got to fire those gold-digging sheiks out of the temple or this nation is sunk."

Court Jester: "Yeah, they sure do heat up the prophets."

And then there was the Scotchman who saw the kangaroo was so good that he left a tip.

TOLD TO ME

By I. O. MEYER

Our fire co-ed's not only believed that they were really going to have a "hot" time at their Valentine Dance but they even prepared for emergencies. Otherwise, who could have blasted out the dance music could be blasted out by the Pocomoke City Fire Company Band.

We wonder whether or not others noticed the humor in the fact that as the conventional production, in the sacred portals of Bill Smith. The orchestra played the "War March of the Priests."

The recent minstrel show was truly a "howling success." We cannot understand whence cometh the invitation for the show to be given on Kent Island. We could swear that it could have been heard at least that far when it was given here.

We hear that the Shakespeare Players have been invited to present their fourth production, in Cambridge after its opening night on 30 hill. If there must be two productions, why can't one be given in Cambridge and the other in Slam?

It is a shame that there is no longer a society column in "My guide ole Elime." Now we have no means of knowing who spent the week end in Baltimore. And, speaking of leaving college for vacation, and often one-day holidays, we hear that "Skip" asked "the Major" not to go home for George's birthday—and forgot that she had agreed—no wonder she was gripped when she realized that he had left for a holiday himself.

And who is the freshman co-ed who bet Jack Knochel a two-fifty gold piece against eight dates that she could keep a resolution not to smoke during Lent. Even though that may be just another means of having dates, at least we can figure on the value of each date in Reid Hall.

Even though you could never press there was a depression to look at the prices in the "cooperative" bookstore at least the three fraternities realize that prosperity is still out of sight round the corner. The idea of a big Inter-Fraternity Dance instead of three smaller dances is really excellent. Why can't there also be an Inter-Sorority Dance?

Did you know that, some Seniors still cannot see the hypocrisy in the so-called Senior "write-ups" which they are begging for. "Diddle" is asking for a man-sized job on her hands than fellow co-ed to a picture of "Fliver" with them. "Bunny" has taken up practicing nursing "High point Pies" entertaining a salesman in Reid Hall Lounge when the girls wanted to in the minstrel show, Taylor impersonated Gracie Allen's lost brother under the personal supervision of Coach "Bugs" the Seniors won a basketball game. "Paul W. T. Pippin and Tom "Smoothie" Truett are ready to publish their findings in their recent library class.

Lord Johnny has a "pen pal" "Happy-go-lucky" Stee has an inspiration in Sanderluse. "Hubie" has an interest on Kent Island. Shall preside over a sewing circle while "skating." Ella almost sent an accompanying "no bumper" "Fleet" ready to give "in the flat." "Mimi" has a yen for "Slippy." Miller has an honorable discharge from the Cadet Corps???

SHAKESPEARE CLUB TO PRESENT PLAY

Midsummer Night's Dream Chosen

Elaborate Production Planned for March 10th

The Shakespeare Club of Washington College, under the direction of Dr. Gertrude van A. Ingalls, will open sponsor its second annual Shakespeare play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," has been chosen for presentation this year.

The play is supposed to have been written for production at Queen Elizabeth's Court, probably on the occasion of some court wedding. Hence the two compliments to the Queen, one in Act I, Scene 1, line 65 ff. The other compliment is in Act II, scene ii, line 157 ff.

As the play belongs to Shakespeare's early maturity it is full of fun and exuberance. The "Mechanicals" part in Midsummer Night's Dream is as good as he ever did along that line. It is always the favorite part and often taken out as a separate play. Only the "Comedy of Errors" was more riotous, but not nearly so interesting.

The Fairy parts in this play are unequaled in Shakespeare or out, for daintiness or grace. At the end of his career Shakespeare again turned to the same theme in the "Tempest." However Ariel and Caliban are too philosophic to rival Titania and Puck and lack their realism. To the Elizabethans the Fairies were not the little folk we imagine but to them were more ethereal. They have quarrelsome dispositions and are still favorite parts, often acted by marionettes.

The Mortals were to honor Elizabeth for whose wedding the play was written. Perhaps there were local references to the cruel father, Eggeus, but they are now lost. Their entangled love affairs compose the theme of the play, but their troubles are never taken seriously. "The course of true love never did run smooth." These surface worries only add piquancy. We know with fairies taking charge that all will turn out well.

The "Midsummer Night's Dream," requires a more elaborate production than does "Romeo and Juliet." The fairy scenes require moonlight, and a modicum of scenery. Thanks to Mr. Kaufman satisfactory lighting effects are hoped to be attained. The costumes will be elaborate, as last year and particularly are the players fortunate to secure an extra good Asa's head for the character Bottom.

The orchestra is working up some Mendelssohn incidental music which will serve as an overture, and as incidental music for the songs and fairy dances.

The cast which this year consists of forty-one people as compared with nineteen last year in "Romeo and Juliet" is as follows:

Puck—Emily Jewell.
Otitania—Gladys Conell.
Oberon—Albert Dowling.
Theseus—James Anthony.
Hippolyta—Theodora Chapman.
Hermia—Alice Dole.
Helena—Genevieve Garvel.
Egeus—Emory Burkhart.
Lyander—J. B. Dickerson.
Memetrius—Mason Trapp.
Philstrate—Hollingsworth.
Quince—Roland Freedy.
Snug—Albert Dobkins.

COTILLION CLUB TO HOLD CARD PARTY, MARCH 4

The Cotillion Club will hold a combination card party and Jig-Saw Puzzle Contest, Saturday, March 4. It will undoubtedly be one of the most interesting minor social functions of the year. To those persons who play neither auction nor contract bridge, a Jig-Saw contest has been devised. The prizes will attract everyone and one can feel assured that the prizes will be most attractive. The proceeds will go toward the fund for procuring better orchestras for the next two dances.

SPICY leaves of TURKISH tobacco are strong to dry and cure in the sun.

Well, that's something about cigarettes I never knew before

*—the cigarette that's Milder
—the cigarette that Tastes Better*

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

St. John's Takes Close Game From Washington

Washington College suffered its sixth defeat in basketball Tuesday night when St. John's took over the Shermans by a count of 36 to 25.

Until the last fifteen minutes of play St. John's seemed to have the game in the bag. At this time, however, the Washingtonians began to hold offensive led by Huey, who converted in quick succession. Gambler scored in a field goal as did Proudfoot, when made good a foul shot. The mud chub was fouled when Donohoe converted a foul shot. Hodgson made good his foul shot awarded by Donohoe and the Johnnies lead was now but one point. In the remaining minute and a half the Johnnies kept the ball until the end of the game by running it in an endless line between the shore guards. The Crabtown boys did not chance taking a shot but were content with their one point lead.

MacCarte turned in his best performance of the year for St. John's, while he and Donohoe formed a defense that could not be pierced except by long range shots. MacCarte was high scorer with 14 points, 12 of which came in the first half and were largely responsible for the 17-9 lead held by St. John's at half time.

MT. ST. MARYS DEFEATS FLYING PENTAGON 32-14

Testing goals from every possible angle and some that seemed impossible the Mt. St. Mary's basketball team mounted its attack in the Maryland Collegiate Basketball Association Friday night by defeating Washington College 32 to 14 in the local court for the worst licking the Shermans had ever received on their home floor.

Taking an early lead the Mounts were never headed and a sport near the close of the first half gave them a lead that killed any hopes that Washington had of overtaking the visitors.

After three minutes of the first half remaining the score was 7 to 15 in favor of the Mounts. A scoring spree, featuring three shots from the very middle of the floor by Capt. J. Lynch, brought the count to 15 to 5 before the half ended.

The visitors took up where they had left off as the second period opened and brought their total to 22 before Washington could advance past the five mark.

Defensively the visitors kept Washington at bay and at the same time J. Lynch and Cardell were caging the ball from what seemed to be almost impossible positions. Only three field goals were registered by the Kibler machine while the Mounts were totaling an even dozen double-doubles.

Sports Notions

By Charles B. Clark

With the basketball season nearing its close the Flying Pentagon has not played up to expectations. Only if remaining games with Loyola tonight, and Delaware, St. Joseph's and Swarthmore later on were won the team held to redeem the six defeats already tallied. The cause of the seemingly bad season isn't known. Coach Kibler has worked with his own enthusiasm and has tried every conceivable method in an attempt to get his charges to play as they should. The team has followed the example of last year's in that it has been unable to win away from home consistently. However to date the games have been won on foreign courts, whereas the 1931-32 team won only on the home floor. The present edition of the Flying Pentagon lacks the fight and spirit that has been characteristic of past teams. Probably this is due to lack of support of the Student Body in away games, but certainly the spirit of last year's body at the home games could be no better.

It is generally said that Mt. St. Mary's team that gave the Shermans their worst defeat on the local court in a decade that they were lucky. Any team that played as they did needed more than luck. Still alone was the cause of their overwhelming victory. However it can be said that Coach Mulroney of the Mounts had his team at its peak. The victory over the Pentagon was their ninth consecutive one. The next night, LaSalle College of Pennsylvania defeated them 32 to 14, identically the same score by which we lost to the chub. The Emmitsburg players are outstanding favorites to win the Maryland Intercollegiate League, especially after the unexpected defeat by Holy Cross handed Loyola. In games with Hopkins and Western Maryland, though, the Mt. St. Mary's team will have to go at top speed for the Terrers and Blue Jays have nothing to lose and all to gain and will consequently not be on edge, but in a better position to win. The Flying Pentagon is favored to take over the Greyhounds tonight.

Outstanding basketball players in the state are numerous this year and there will be difficulty in picking out the All-Maryland five. Proudfoot and Ward are Washington's best players and will be considered for the All-Maryland. Ward, in particular, has shown that he is to be counted as a star.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE HAS TEN GAMES FOR LOCALS

The call was issued for baseball men by Coach Kibler Thursday, Feb. 23rd. After a lapse of two years baseball is returning to Washington College. The season promises to be a successful one although the only letter man answering the call is Warren Carey. However there seems to be much good material in Hodgson, O'Farrell, Bilkinson, Turner, Huey, Reinhardt, Clements, Evans and others.

The schedule to date is as follows:
Osteopathy—April 5 Home
Dickerson—April 20 Home
Delaware—April 22 Home
Mt. St. Mary's—May 3 Away
Saponaqua—May 5 Away
Junata—May 6 Away
Mt. St. Mary's—May 13 Away
Delaware—May 20 Away
Maryland—May 24 Away
A tentative game with Baltimore Fireman.

West Hall Leads Intermural Basketball

The chess and fraternity games are now well under way, about half of the total games having been played. As to date no one can pick a winner with any degree of certainty but West Hall in the Fraternity League and the Sophomores in the Class League have the upper hand on the other teams at present. The standing of the clubs is as follows:

| Class      | Won | Lost | Standing |
|------------|-----|------|----------|
| Sophomores | 4   | 0    | 1000     |
| Juniors    | 2   | 2    | 500      |

| Seniors    | 1   | 4    | 200      |

| Fraternity | Won | Lost | Standing |

| A. K. K.   | 5   | 3    | 625      |

Lacrosse Practice To Start Soon

Eight Veterans Remain From Last Season

With the start of the Lacrosse season only a week more than a month off, the various Lacrosse Coaches in Maryland and in the North are ready to issue equipment and start practice. Coach George L. Elliott of the Washington College Ten announced early in this past week that he would give out sticks and other equipment today.

St. John's College of Annapolis started practice early this week under the direction of Dady Moore, who coached three consecutive National Lacrosse Championship teams between the years 1928-1931. Washington College meets St. John's at Annapolis on April 1 at which time both teams inaugurate the 1933 season.

The fact that baseball is being resumed at Washington College this spring leaves a doubt as to whether several lacrosse players will continue that sport or switch to baseball. Chief among these are Al Giraltis, regular third catcher of the Maroon and Black for the past two years, Ellis Dicker who played football last year, and Russ Baker who was coming along fast at the end of last year in the Old Indian Game. Al Dobbins has definitely decided to play baseball.

Should Giraltis play Lacrosse, Coach Elliott will have nine letter-men coach this spring. These men who played varsity Lacrosse last year are Dick Gambler, Fritz Reinhold, Paul Pippin, captain Phil Wiegels, Charles Clark, Al Giraltis, Charley Harris, Clark Chambers, and Joe Bringham, who played in 1931. The rest of the squad will be picked from last year's second team and from the one or two freshmen of this year.

It is too early to do more than guess which team will be National Champions this year. Johns Hopkins, Olympic and World Champions of 1932 will have plenty of opposition from St. John's and the University of Maryland. The North will put out several good teams, principally West Point and Harvard. The latter team made great strides forward in 1932 under Bobby Poole, ex-St. John's player and now a professional star. This year his team will play St. John's early in the season and then return to Annapolis for several days and practice with the Johnnies before meeting Navy.

At the present time the Shermans have only five games scheduled due to the fact that one or two opponents cancelled their games. It is hoped, however, that their places will be filled to round out a nice program.

BLUE KEY FRATERNITY
GIVES MINSTREL SHOW*Michael Wallace Directs Affair

The First Annual Maroon and Black Minstrel Show presented by the Blue Key Fraternity of Washington College and directed by Michael Wallace on Wednesday evening, February 15th at William Smith Hall, was a great success. From all aspects did the Performance exceed even the most optimistic expectations. The Blue Key Fraternity realized a neat profit which will help to carry out some of the Service Aims it fosters. The Minstrel decided for itself that much talent exists in Washington College, not hitherto brought to light.

Michael Wallace as interlocutor displayed ability which would denote him as experienced in the Art of questioning the End Men. These End Men who were Johnny Lord, Elery Ward, Harry Huey and Phil Skipp continually kept the audience on edge with their witty sayings and actions. Johnny Lord in particular, was much complimented upon for jokes which were excellently put across. Wardie and Harry delighted the onlookers with their postures and antics. Phil Skipp pulled several fast ones in his drill tone.

Mike and the End Men were very capably assisted by the Chorus consisting of Dick Gumber, Richard Cooper, Henry Nowak, Lee Bell, DeWitt Clark, Joseph Mooney, Charles Harris, Robert Furman, Alfred Taitis, Dave Wallace, Albert Geratiss, Albert Bilancioni, Thomson Brown and Alfred Hodgson. The Dance Specialty Feature by William Shepperd was given large applause. Roland Lekebach in a special number sang "Martha" very well.

The complete program was as follows:

- Opening No. "Maroon and Black Forever"—By the Entire Chorus.
- How deep is the ocean—Dave Wallace.
- Brother can you spare a dime—John Lord.
- Say it isn't so—Jerry Geratiss.
- I'll take you home again Kathleen—Joe Mooney and Quartette.
- Dance Specialty—William Shepperd.
- Special Number, Martha—Roland Lekebach.
- Underneath the Harlem Moon—Elery J. Ward.
- I'll never have to dream again—DeWitt Clark.
- All American Girl—Harry Huey.

The speaker is a former Washington College student, having attended this college during his freshman year. He later transferred to Western Maryland where he received his A. B. degree.

Wingate, who has been intimately connected with Maryland College sports for the last fifteen years, will be remembered by Washington College basketball fans as the writer who gave Coach Tom Kibler's great team of 1923 and 1924 the title of "Frying Pans."

The speaker is feature football and lacrosse writer for the "Baltimore News" having picked the all-Maryland teams in these sports for about the last ten years. Wingate attended the 1928 and 1932 Olympiads as representative of the American Olympic Lacrosse Association.

Dr. Beachley has issued a call for the first meeting of the Mid-Atlantic section for May 16 at the Washington Hotel, Washington, D. C. All schools of higher learning in this area will be invited to send representatives to the meeting. Otherwise will be elected, a constitution adopted, dues fixed and committees named to arrange for scientific sessions.

POET'S CORNER

Dr. Gertrude V. Ingalls recently suggested that the "Elm" carry a "Poet's Corner" in order to encourage budding young poets at the college. The head of the English Department also has started plans to offer prizes for the best poems submitted to the column. Further information concerning these poetry contests can be obtained from Dr. Ingalls.

The head of the English department considered the following efforts to be worthy of publication. The first imitates the "conceits" of John Donne and the second is a spring poem.

Convocation Held At College Feb. 24

Dr. R. Walters Receives Degree

The first annual convocation and annual Washington's birthday assembly of Washington College was held Thursday morning, February 23rd, 1933, in the auditorium of William Smith Hall. At the beginning of the ceremony the faculty and seniors of the college marched into the auditorium from the Washington entrance on the campus. The program consisted of the Præcentorials, "War March of the Priests," played by the college orchestra; hymns "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the hymn for the day, read in unison; prayer, in unison; An anthem by the college choir, and music by the college orchestra. President Timworth then introduced to the assembly the main speaker, President Raymond Walters of the University of Cincinnati. He spoke on the topic "Washington and Leadership Today." He told of all the qualities of leadership exemplified by Washington and compared him as one peak standing out over the other mountain range of leaders. He also spoke of our need of outstanding leadership today.

At the close of his address the honorary degree of "Doctor of Letters" was conferred upon President Walters.

DR. R. A. PEARSON SPEAKS AT ASSEMBLY

Dr. R. A. Pearson, President of the University of Maryland, was the Assembly speaker at Washington College on Thursday, February 16th, at 11 o'clock. Dr. Pearson was introduced by the President of the College, who was glad that at last Dr. Pearson should get a first-hand acquaintance with the College of the Eastern Shore. Dr. Pearson spoke on "The best bet for a college student in 1933."

President Pearson, a particularly capable man, as the growth of his University attests, included a large number of illustrative, personal experiences in his address. He insisted that "the best bet for a college graduate in 1933 is himself." He discussed a number of qualities essential to the welfare of such a graduate, naming among these health and general knowledge.

Dr. Pearson blamed the present economic and social difficulties to the invention and departure from "first principles" of his own generation. He looked to the coming Youth's fight as a solution of recognition of present conditions. His talk was replete with bits of quiet humor.

Dr. Pearson, in his introduction, lauded Washington's own President, about to resign, and expressed the general feeling of the College and Community in his regrets.

The visit of the President of the University of Maryland is especially suitable in that it points to even more friendly cemented relations between the sister institutions than ever before.

Fraternities To Hold Joint Dance

Seek Orchestra Of Tim Crowe

The three Fraternities of Washington College have decided to this year disband with the usual three separate dances sponsored by each of them and to unite in an interfraternity dance.

The move by the three fraternities on the "Hill" was partly due to the fact that none of the three could put on a dance which would be of better good quality because of the lack of necessary funds. The combined dance will be held in the gymnasium and will enable the bringing of a fine orchestra to the College as for the large Colleton Dances. Aside from this advantage such a dance will witness a larger number of Alumni members back on the campus. It will bring together a flow of new classes who ordinarily would come back to different interfraternity dances at different dates during the year.

An executive council has been organized consisting of one member from the three Fraternities. This committee is composed of Mr. Fred Wilson of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, Mr. Warren Carey of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity and Mr. Jake J. Cain of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity. This committee will appoint the local committees composed of members of the different Fraternities and who will carry out the details of the Dance. These details will be announced later.

The Executive Committee announced that it is attempting to get the orchestra of Tim Crow, former Washington College football star, to play at the dance.

TWO MORE GAMES ON LOCAL CAGE SCHEDULE

Two more regular games remain on the schedule of the 1932-33 Flying Pentagon. Both are to be played next week and both are off the board court.

The Kilerites meet St. Joseph's in Philadelphia February 25th in the second of a home and home series between these two cage rivals. Washington took the first game by a narrow margin. Ted Proudfoot did not play in the game.

Swarthmore is the last collegiate foe scheduled for the Maroon and Black. The Flying Pentagon meets the Quakers up at Swarthmore, March 6. Last year the heels took an extra period game from the Pennsylvanians after a real hot scrap and all indications point to another

Mid-Summer Night's Dream Postponed Due to State Bank Holiday

New Date For Play Not Certain As Yet

Due to the general inconvenience caused town people and a number of students with the temporary closure of local banks, Dr. Gertrude V. Ingalls announced the postponement of the presentation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which was to be presented last evening, until an indefinite date. In conference, members of the Shakespeare Club reached the decision that presentation of the comedy with conditions in Cheshertown as they are at present would deprive many towns people of the opportunity to attend the play and the success of the play might thus be endangered.

Dr. Ingalls expressed her disappointment in the unavoidable postponement as one of the incidental business of the production had been arranged and the play itself would be worked up to a point of near perfection on the originally fixed date of performance.

The shipping of costumes from Baltimore has been stopped and tickets will not be placed on sale. Meanwhile, Dr. Ingalls will continue to direct practices of all parts regularly, stressing the more difficult action and polishing the entire play.

All is in readiness and the new date of presentation will be made immediately with the return of "normal" conditions in Cheshertown. Dr. Ingalls hopes that the play may be given next week or sometime in the very near future.

Cheshertown High Advances In State Tournament

Cheshertown High School's basketball quintet easily defeated the Centerville cagers in a game played in the college gymnasium last Tuesday by a score of 25 to 10.

The game was of interest to many of the college students due to the fact that the winners were coached by "Duke" Johnson who captained the local varsity this year, while "Doc" Carey had charge of the Centerville cagers. Carey graduated from Washington College in 1932. He did not play basketball but expended much of his athletic efforts on the football field, winning the Wade G. Bounds gold football star senior year.

Maryland Basketball League Meeting Postponed

Coach J. Thos. Kibler was supposed to attend a meeting of the Maryland Basketball League last Wednesday. Due to unforeseen complications other coaches and officials were unable to attend. The local member is president.

Bridge Party And Jig-Saw Contest This Afternoon

HILDA RYAN MARRIED TO ROY BERRY, TEACHER

Announcement Of Ceremony Made Recently

Miss Hilda Ryan, a member of the senior class at Washington College, and Mr. Roy Berry, were married at Princess Anne, Md., November 26th, 1932. The wedding was not announced until recently. The ceremony climaxed a romance of several years duration.

Miss Ryan's home is at Berlin, Md., where she graduated from high school in the spring of 1929, enrolling at Washington College in the fall of that year. Miss Ryan majored in Economics while attending college. Mr. Berry is a resident of Allentown, Pa. He has been an instructor in the public high school at Georgetown, Del., for the last several years.

NEW LYCIUM PRESENTS ATTRACTIVE PICTURES

The New Lycium Theatre has awarded a rather attractive set of cards for the week of March 13-18. "Second Hand Wife," starring Sally Eilers and Ralph Bellamy, is the picture scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, March 13 and 14. The picture is taken from the novel written by Kathleen Norris.

Mac West is the star, in Wednesday's and Thursday's picture which is entitled "She Done Him Wrong." The story was made particularly for Broadway's Big Girl.

A double feature program with a Betty Boop cartoon will show at the New Lycium on Friday and Saturday. Spencer Tracy and Joan Bennett star in the main feature which goes by the title of "Me And My Gal." Zane Grey's "Heritage of the Desert" is the second feature.

Blue Key Fraternity Sponsors Frolic Tonight

The Blue Key Fraternity will be in charge, as on previous occasions of the Frolic to be held tonight at Reid Hall. Delbert Proudfoot, one of the Junior members of the Honorary Fraternity at the college, was appointed by President Union of the organization to act in charge of the affair.

Due to the failure of a sufficient number of students to sanction with their signatures the Student Activities Budget, it is doubtful whether or not these frolics can be continued on Saturday nights, because of lack of means to pay for musicians. As matters stand the Washingtonians who have been playing at these frolics are unsatisfied with a method whereby they might not receive well-earned remuneration. The Blue Key has done all it can to make the small dancers worthwhile but cannot be expected to continue when cooperation is lacking on the part of some students.

LIBRARY OFFICIAL

Mrs. Ethel S. Fox was recently chosen second vice-president of the executive board of the Maryland Library Association. The association held a meeting in Baltimore, Md., last night.

Daughter Born To Bringhursts

An eight pound baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bringhurst, of Cheshertown, Md., last Tuesday, March 7th. The baby was born in Milford, Delaware.

Bringhurst is a senior at Washington College this year. He entered this college in the fall of 1928 and at the end of his junior year entered the school of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, which he attended last year. This year Bringhurst returned to Washington College to take education. Mrs. Bringhurst is the former Miss Bertha Teit. Her home is in the state of Iowa. Before her marriage, Mrs. Bringhurst was a nurse.

Bringhurst has carried off considerable honors as an athlete at this college. Before transferring to Pennsylvania, he held down a guard position on the Maroon and Black grid team and was regular punt on the herculean team. Joe should prove a valuable addition to Coach George Eklat's stick wielders this spring.

Minstrel Troupers To Visit Salisbury Soon

According to an announcement made by Michael Wallace, the Blue Key Fraternity is planning to give its minstrel show at Salisbury State Normal School sometime before the Easter holidays begin.

This minstrel, which was the first of its kind ever given at the college, was very successful when it first played in the Auditorium of William Smith Hall. Through the efforts of Mr. Lee G. Ball it was given a second time at Stevensville.

Richard Cooper, who has a part in the minstrel, has been designated as a committee of one to make arrangements for giving the show in Salisbury. Cooper is a resident of Salisbury.

Dr. Titsworth And Dr. Livingston Return From South

Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, President of Washington College, and Dr. Frederick Livingston, head of the department of education here returned last night from an educational conference held at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

TWO INTERMURAL CAGE GAMES THIS AFTERNOON

West Hall To Play Phi Sigma Tau

The intermural basketball games will be continued this afternoon under the direction of Coach George L. Eklat, when the West Hall team meets the Phi Sigma Tau fraternity team in the first game of a double header, the Phi Sigma Phi fraternity meeting Middle Hall in the second tilt.

The first game will do much to decide the longer leadership as West Hall is at present leading the league with the Phi Sigma Tau fraternity holding down second place. In the last game played between these two squads the West Hallers took a close decision. The game between the Phi Sigma Phi and Middle Hall should also be a good scrap as both of these squads have shown great improvement in their last contests.

WEST HALL CAGERS WIN INTERMURAL GAME

The West Hall basketball team which is leading the Inter-Fraternity and Inter-dormitory Intermural league, tonight defeated the Middle Hall Club by the score of 27 to 23. In the second game Alpha Kappa won over East Hall by the count of 12 to 8.

The first game was noteworthy especially because of the acrobatic stunts which existed at the end of the first half. Players of both teams made tries for goals time after time but could not fix their eye accurately on the basket. At the beginning of the second half Mansel, forward of Middle Hall sank a long toss for two points. This was followed by a successful foul throw by his team. However the other clamorous had shot their bolt, and could score no more. Best, diminutive yet fast forward for West Hall, then scored three straight points, one a foul shot to tie the count. Here Newark and Ellie Dwyer, his big men on West Hall's team then settled their team down and worked his ball in for two successful field goals to lead the game.

The fighting boys of East Hall were unable to check an Alpha Kappa onslaught and trailed 7 to 3 at half time. Morris scored East Hall's last goal while Richards made a successful point on his second foul shot. Rees was the mainstay of the Fraternity team. In the second half Mason Trupp scored two goals under the basket and Richards scored one on his second foul shot. These were counteracted however, by double deckers scored by Alpha Kappa.

Robert W. Beachley Tries For Hopkins Scholarship

Robert W. Beachley, a senior at Washington College has gone over to Baltimore to keep an appointment with his state senator, concerning a senatorial scholarship to Johns Hopkins University. Beachley has made mathematics his major subject at this college and plans to enter the engineering school at Hopkins.

Captain Elect Led Scorers In 1932-33

Delbert Proudfoot was elected Captain of the 1933-34 Washington College basketball team at a meeting of the letter men held yesterday in William Smith Hall.

Proudfoot Played Seasonal Basketball For Cavanaugh

Proudfoot was high scorer for the 1932-33 Flying Pentagon. The new Captain has won an enviable reputation as an under the basket shot. Del plays a shifty brand of basketball and is particularly hard to guard if given the ball anywhere near the basket.

Proudfoot has made Economics his major subject at Washington College. He is also a member of the Blue Key Fraternity and the Varsity Club.

The following letter men were allowed to vote in the captaincy election: Johnson, Gipsie, Gruber, Hodgson, Ward, Hucy, Shipp and Proudfoot.

White Studios Finish Taking Year Book Pictures

The White studio photographer was on the campus last Tuesday to take the remaining photographs for the 1933 "Pegasus." The photographic work was under the direction of Roland C. Ready, editor and J. Nelson Richards, business manager.

Photographs were taken of the winter and spring athletic teams and other organizations, missed when the studio representative was here last fall. Due to the fact that the weather was stormy Coach Kibler would not issue equipment for the baseball squad.

Memorial Plaque For Dr. Errol L. Fox

The Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity has purchased a memorial plaque for the late Dr. Errol L. Fox. The plaque is of bronze and is mounted on a wooden frame. It will be officially placed in the fraternity building at a dedicatory ceremony to be held soon. All members of the faculty will be invited to attend the ceremony.

OUR SUMMARY

The final outcome of the student assemblies concerning the honor system satisfied us that the view we had held all along was essentially correct.

We maintained all throughout the affair that there was nothing fundamentally wrong with the system that so many students seemed to be taking very violent objections to. We think that Professor Ford struck to the heart of the situation when he declared the main trouble to be a desire on the part of the students "to create a sensation and blow off a little steam." For about two weeks the honor system was assailed from every side and all indications pointed to a departure from this "standard" by Washington College. However, after a considerable disturbance had been created, the student body voted by a very large majority to retain this so seemingly objectionable institution, after making amendments that in our humble opinion leave matters much as they were before.

We do not wish to discourage those who are trying to improve the moral tone on the Campus of Washington College but we do believe that these "reformers" became over zealous in their statements on occasions. These over zealous statements will do no harm as far as people who are in position to know actual conditions are concerned but they may create unwarranted impressions in the minds of people outside our campus. One student who earned a reputation for himself as a critic of local current events declared Washington's student body to be entirely too apprehensive concerning possible slips in its code of honor.

However, we do believe that the students assemblies have helped conditions some what—even though there are practically no concrete accomplishments to which to point. By bringing the honor code so strikingly before the general student body the individual has probably been influenced to analyze his actions more closely. This will unconsciously result in a more strict observance of the honor system.

CURLY'S CASE

We have wondered considerably as to just exactly what will be the result of the "Baltimore Sun" vicious attack on the University of Maryland and General and Mr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd in particular. We wonder what Mr. Byrd could have done to offend the "Sun" so greatly. We certainly do not believe that his laudable accomplishments and positions at our State University could be the real cause for the editorial lashings that he has received through the columns of the "Sun."

The vaunted "power of the press" has been turned loose full blast upon the University of Maryland's Vice-President and football coach. If Mr. Byrd emerges from such a storm, unscathed, his position must indeed be a firm one.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

I wonder if table service will ever replace the cafeteria at Washington College. A fast runner exists that has night come to pass.

From a student's point-of-view the present system has many disadvantages. First, is the matter of waiting in line. Then one is forced to carry a heavy tray and to eat at unsanitary tables. It gives the effect of a poor class restaurant.

Could table service be introduced without necessitating any great or expensive changes. I may be overlooking some vital factor, but it seems to me that the change could easily be made before another college term begins. The steam table could be utilized by the waiters as a place from which to serve, and the time of service would not necessarily have to be extended.

Table service would give a more home-like atmosphere, eliminate trays and cover our bare tables.

This is undoubtedly a convincing argument. We need more student expression at Washington College. Murmurs of discontent is the best we heard in the way of opinion. At most colleges the student body takes more interest in affairs. At least college papers contain quite a few open forum letters many of which contain excellent suggestions and criticisms. If the student body prefers table service to the cafeteria why isn't some attempt at expression made.

To the wisest of most students "the Bread Situation" is amusing. After all only a very small quantity disappears by being carried out. The bulk would not amount to more than five or six loaves a day. This is considered out over a group of one hundred fifty or a hundred and seventy-five students does not present such a mighty problem. It is no wonder that "the Bread Situation" remains as acute as ever.

OPEN FORUM

To The Editor Of The Elm:

Sir:
 In the past few months, the cafeteria system of serving at Washington College has been greatly criticized. It is a known fact, however, that if the majority of students want to abolish the cafeteria system a dining room plan will be installed.

Certainly, everyone who rather have food placed before him instead of shoved at him with a "take it or leave it" appearance.

The classes, with the dining system, will probably sit together and he result will be more class and college spirit, as well as more unity.

In colleges many times larger than ours, the dining plan is used, therefore, no argument can be given concerning the disadvantage or inability to serve large numbers of people.

To install this new system, some changes will be necessary which will make the cost of the money expended for installation will more than be made up in the amount of food saved—the loss of which now being tremendous.

Every person does not have the same appetite or equal eating capacity and the cafeteria simply lacks adequate provision for these individual differences, whereas, in the dining system the food is at the person's own disposal, including the amount and variety desired.

As stated above the matter is entirely up to the students "to have or not to have, that is the question!"

Eating is the main item in some people's lives and it is of next importance in most of our lives; therefore, the question naturally affects each and every individual that eats at the Commons and only by our uniting and seizing this opportunity, can a step be made for the better.

E. L. Koerber.

All hail to the Equestrian! Alma Blumy has another claim to fame! The spotlight falls on "Princess of Walls" and H. R. H., the "Princess of Whales." Rumor has it that they are giving riding lessons on merry-go-rounds. And you certainly can't blame the horses. That's what they get for trying to make one horse carry the combined weight of the whole royal family. No wonder the poor horse now looks like a camel.

This column wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate the lucky men and to wish for the recent bride, the former Miss Hilda Ryan, and the lately betrothed, Miss Genevieve Carvel, a long life of increasing happiness and success.

That noise you heard last Wednesday night was the performance of the minstrel show given on Kent Island. The boys were all ready to give 'em the blast when they got there, and the echo could be heard for miles.

We thought "Gracie Allen" must have found her long lost brother, that she say she's merely in his place. What we want to know is whether she's "Mooney" or just in a "Happy-go-lucky Stew."

From the number of out-of-town newspapers that featured the resignation of the Student Council, it seems that it might be a good policy to do it every month or so, as a means of advertising. However we welcome the introduction of "Stoepnocracy" in the college class rooms, where it can be of some real service.

Rumor has it that the "Blonde Menace" is on the war path again, and this time the "X-mas" soap is none other than that of the famous Doctor Murray. When we asked the intended "victim" for a statement for the press, he gave us one, but he hesitate to quote it.

Perhaps we have a medium in our midst! Rumor has it that, in a recent session, "Luffie" was able to tell the senior boys what they would feel like when they had daughters to send to college. Father—sighs, to say the least!

The co-eds will be glad to hear that the next collition will be a Depression Hop—now, if never before, their dates will have to get good programs for them since the boys will carry them embossed across their chests. (The programs—not the girls!)

MINSTREL SHOW GIVEN AGAIN BY BLUE KEY

The entire troupe of the Blue Key Minstrels, including orchestra, journeyed to Kent Island on Wednesday, March 8th to present their show at Stevensville, Md.

The performance was given in the high school auditorium under the auspices and for the benefit of the Stevensville High School Alumni Association of which Mr. T. S. Bell, is president.

The presentation was enthusiastically received by a large gathering of Stevensville Alumni and friends, who entertained the trouper after the show.

The minstrel show itself was somewhat revamped with Mr. Norris Duffy on end in place of Huey. Duffy was one of the high lights in the auditorium and proved himself a born trouper when on having a leopards want of his lines he swung into his dance at jig tempo. "Rudy" Roden, replacing "Little White Lies"

Giraffis who could not be spared had to make 3 curtain calls in response to thunderous applause. The comedy was especially enjoyed.

This was the first engagement of a profound "road tour" of the minstrel show. Although no financial remuneration is realized, the minstrels enjoy putting on their show and by such engagements Blue Key hopes to give advertisement to Washington College in this old but valuable form.

The Women's board of managers picked the honorary girls varsity basketball team last Tuesday. This "sextet" consisted of Kreeger and Helms, forwards; Cannon and Fredrick, centers; and Schmidt and Walters, guards. Mary Farr and Barbara Humphreys were given honorable mention for the positions of forward and side-center respectively.

Three members of the "varsity" are Seniors. Anne Kreeger at forward, and Elizabeth Schmidt and Elizabeth Walcott at guards were the three fourth year women honored. They have been consistent stars on the class sextet that has reigned supreme in women's basketball for the last three years here. Incidentally the entire "varsity" was picked last year from the present Senior class. The Seniors who failed to regain their positions this year were Mary Farr at forward and Hilda Renn and Mary Parks at the center posts.

The play of each of these feminine engers was outstanding this year, but not quite up to the brilliance displayed by those picked on the "varsity sextet."

Other women basketballers who played good brands of feminine basketball are: Metcalf, Harris, Ford and North.

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have... selecting choice, ripe tobaccos... ageing them... blending and cross-blending them... making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy". For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

Baseball Season Gets Underway

J. W. Carey Elected To Lead Nine

The 1933 baseball season got underway last Monday, after an absence of the national pastime for two years at Washington, when Coach Kibler called a meeting of all candidates. Some 36 ball players reported including among the first year men, Evans, Berry, Rhinehart, Tupper, and others. The wares of the entire squad in practically unknown. Carey, newly elected leader, being the only team man left since Kibler had been heavily on Carey's pitching to keep the opponents' earned run down to nothing. "Doc" O'Farrell has had experience as the sound at the "big" store, who appear twice on the local schedule, and Evans has handled the rosin bag.

Among the candidates for the reserve position are Ray Baker, Garrell, and Rhinehart. There is a host of infielders and outfielders who are eager to show their ability both at the willow and in the field.

Incident with the captured the practice session but the strong March wind should subside soon and the Maroon side will be set for their opening game with Occoquan at home on April 5. The store house games follow including Delaware on April 22 and then Washington encounters Sunnyside, Annapolis, Mt. St. Mary's, Delaware, and Maryland in order on foreign fields. There is also a tentative game with the Baltimore Firemen and recently a night game to be played at George Mason in Washington. St. Mary's, with George Washington U., has been added to complete the schedule today.

Washington College has always had a formidable ball club. Although Coach Kibler has a problem in building a new machine from raw material, his reputation for developing ball players is respected even in the Big Two, and Washington should be enthralled about the coming season and the possibilities of the Kibler nine to stay ahead in the race of State colleges for recognition in the Baseball World.

SWARTHMORE TROUNCES FLYING PENTAGON 56-33

Washington College was trounced by Swarthmore at Swarthmore, Pa., 56 to 33, last Saturday night.

It was the last game of the season for both the Garnet and the Maroon and Black. The last hopes of the old Flying Pentagon disappeared before the excellent form in fast passing and accurate shooting of the Quakers. MacCracken led the onslaught scoring 26 points, most of his shots being from mid-court. For Washington, Gamber and Johnson led for the high scoring honors with eight points apiece.

Swarthmore started fast and piled up an early lead of 16 to 10, and continued to amass points to the tune of 30 to 16 at half time. In the second period Washington showed a change in spirit and held Swarthmore in check until the score stood at 35 to 24 only to see the Quakers pull away and the season of '32-'33 went over the horizon with a 56 to 33 victory for Swarthmore. It was Washington's worst defeat in a decade.

Sports Notions

By Charles B. Clark

By defeating the Flying Pentagon on an overwhelming score, Swarthmore ended up for Washington College its most disastrous basketball season of the last fifteen years.

Eight games were won and nine lost. This is something new for the Eastern Shoremen. It is a bitter pill to take. It is especially hard to experience condoleances when one realizes the team did not, absolutely, play the way it was capable of. Seemingly each fellow on the squad was sincerely earnest in his endeavors. It is not doubted that the players themselves knew at least one cause for the team's inferior showing. That cause was internal friction among several of the players. No team can play its best with such pent-up feelings. Some of these were let-alone in an after season game between members of the varsity squad. Enough, however, has been said, the college is still fairly back of the team, and looks for a complete reversal of form next year. Dick Gamber and Phil Slipp in latter games exhibited fine fighting spirit and both should be big assets again next year. Al Hodgson should come through also.

The boys are at it again. Every afternoon the familiar crack of Lacrosse sticks and the swishing of the net is heard as shots bound in. The working men also are lumbering up, bench arm stiffeners out and getting their eye on the ball again. Each team has a difficult schedule and will both have to set fast paces throughout the season.

COACH GEORGE EKAITIS WINS BOXING BOUT

In an Alumni vs. Varsity boxing match last Saturday night at Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., Coach George L. Ekaitis, of Washington College, won a decision over Knapton, outstanding Junior boxer, in the 175 pound class.

The mittmen, who in former years won many bouts for Dick Harlow, proved they could still "take it." The varsity won only three of six bouts. One of these from Doug Crosby in the 135 pound class who although twice inter-collegiate champion in his college days, was in no physical shape to beat his opponent. Wooley in the 125 pound class won the first victory for the Alumni. Klepac defeated Gernik in the 105 pound class to give the old grid four wins.

Coach Ekaitis fighting in the 175 pound class floored Knapton with a swift left hook, the first blow of the bout. At the count of nine Knapton got up, but for the rest of the fight showed effects of that first blow. Ekaitis used these same tactics in his college days and his rivals usually lasted only part of the first round. During the rest of his bout he continually used his left effectively, and received only one or two minor blows himself.

Loyola Takes Close Game From Washington

On February 23, in the last home game of the 1932-33 basketball season, the Washington dribblers were defeated by the Loyola quietest 22 to 20.

The game was nip and tuck all the way but with Loyola able to maintain a slight lead during the greater part of the game.

In the second half a spirited Washington rally fell short of tying the score by one point. This was the first time in several years that Loyola has been able to gain a basketball victory on the local floor.

Seniors Lead In Girls Cage League

Miss Doris T. Bell Directs League

The Seniors are leading in the girls' class basketball league up-date having defeated each of the other three teams once. The Freshmen hold second place position having lost only one game, that being a single point decision to the league leaders. The Sophomores and Juniors stand third and last, respectively.

According to Miss Doris Bell, director of girls' athletics at the school, the schedule of games for the feminine sets is arranged so that each team will play each of the other three two times. The final contest will bring together the Seniors and Freshmen in a return match that should be the climax of the feminine cage games. This game may decide the championship as neither of the other classes have given them two combinations any serious competition. If the Seniors win the title will be theirs, but if the first year women win a play-off will be necessary.

According to Miss Bell, the Senior set, undefeated so far and champions for the last three years, will be a slight favorite to cop the title.

The writer is certainly no expert on the women's variety of the cage game but it seems that Miss Bell's analysis of the situation is essentially correct. The Seniors will concede several points to the Freshmen on the basis of physical build to the generally taller and larger first year women. However, they have shown a clear margin over their rivals in the matter of passing and guarding. Elizabeth Walbert and Elizabeth Schmidt form a guarding combination in a class all by itself.

Ars Kreuger and Carolyn Helms have shown themselves to be the outstanding forwards in the league. The latter is particularly hard to guard once she obtains the ball.

STUDENT COUNCIL MINUTES

The reorganized Student Council held its first meeting on Tuesday evening, March 7th. The meeting was called to order by President Ryan and after the taking of the oath by the Council members the regular business of the Council was taken up.

A committee was appointed to draw up a letter to be sent to all faculty members explaining the new status of the Council and requesting the cooperation of all faculty members.

It was decided to remove the following rules, to become effective Wednesday, March 8th.

1. Wearing of Rat caps.
2. Smoking.
3. Use of back walks to the cafeteria.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Students Re-elect Much The Same Council

Following the resignation of the Student Council on Friday, March 24, re-elections were held on Monday, February 26th for the officers of the Council.

Hubert F. Ryan was re-elected President by a large vote. Fred Upton, a Senior member of the old council, was chosen as Vice-President and Richard Gamber of the Junior class was re-elected as Secretary.

The different classes then proceeded to elect their members. The Seniors selected Charles Morris again, and Mason Trupp was named by his class as the other Senior member. The Junior Class unanimously re-elected Charles B. Clark and Burdette Nuttle. The Sophomores chose Wesley Sadler again and elected John Lord as a new member. Albert Bilancioni was the choice of the Freshman class.

The personnel of the Council remains the same except for three members. Mason Trupp, John Lord and Albert Bilancioni. The Council has met and pledged themselves to do all possible in enforcing the revised Constitution.

Pan-Hellenic Dance To Be Held

Committees Preparing For Large Social Function

The Pan-Hellenic dance is to be held March 24th in the Gymnasium. All committees are now underway preparing for the biggest social function of the year. A large number of Greeks, with returning alumni to swell their ranks, will make up one of the largest crowds ever to attend a midseason dance at Washington College.

The executive committee guiding the affair is composed of Warren Carey, John McLain and Fred G. Upton, Jr. At the present time plans are being formulated for procuring an orchestra, inquiries have been sent to the National Agency and in a few days an answer will be forthcoming. Also Floyd Mills who played for the first Cotillion has been approached.

This is the first time that the Campus Greeks have gotten together to hold their annual dance as a joint function, having one person from each organization on a committee. In doing this it will bring back alumni who would not happen otherwise. Besides uniting the old grads again which is in itself beneficial for the school, the plan will insure a dance that in all respects has never been equalled in orchestra and crowd. The dance will be semi-formal.

Elaborate decorations are being planned but nothing definite has been decided, any ideas or inspiration along this line would be generously appreciated by either D. F. Clarke, S. I. Shinn or Boyd Hopkins who compose the Decoration Committee.

The girls of Barnard College have stolen so many signs from the campus that the administration has requested them to make know their ways. "If a certain sign appeals to you, don't steal it, but tell us and we will have a duplicate made for you."

POET'S CORNER

The following drifted into the "Elm" office with its author unknown. We print it with the request that it be taken in the tenor that it was evidently written—one of humor. Incidentally, we do not expect to see this poem win any prize.

Russ Baker loves his Catherine,
And Allen Brougham loves his Burdley;
While Burkhardt loves his hairy old,
And Bess Pontz loves her Sparky.

Bob Fleetwood has a pretty girl,
Reinhold is not so lucky;
While freshmen Slacum loves them all,
And Rosennie longs for Ducky.

Some think June a silly girl,
And others think blondes oppish;
While Dobby thinks Church Hill is nice,
And Dave thinks far coats rubbish.

The Gale leans costly to Mae,
As does the Fly to Sceppe;
And Brougham fears he'll lose his gal,
While young Nuttle has high hopes.
McAlpine loves the maidens all,
But Dick Gamber is chesky;
While Taylor loves them large not small,
And Murray loves them not at all.

Varsity Club To Hold Initiations March 13

The W. Club will hold initiation Tuesday evening, March 13th. All men who have earned the varsity "W" in any sport are eligible. To date, ten men, Ward, Eldred, Phipps, Hodgson, Upton, Fleetwood, Hall, Harries, Skipp, Bilancioni, have signed their intention of joining the club and others are expected to.

The club at the present time is working on a plan to give awards to those men who have participated in sports at Washington College, but who failed to win their varsity monogram. It is hoped that this plan when fully worked out will serve to increase the number of men participating in W. C. sports as well as reward the unflinching efforts of the non-varsity men.

W. WILSON WINGATE ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY

The assembly speaker at the March 9th assembly hour at Washington College was W. Wilson Wingate, feature football and humor writer for the "Baltimore News." He spoke to the student body on the subject of newspaper reporting. He told of the duties of a reporter, putting special stress on the necessity of truth as a requirement for a good reporter. He also spoke of the part that scandal plays in the newspaper business.

Mr. Wingate was received as an assembly speaker by Dr. Frederick Livingston at the request of Dr. J. S. W. Jones.

During the afternoon Wingate watched Coach George Khatie's stick-men work out. The speaker and Khatie are both graduates of Western Maryland College.

BLUE KEY PETITION TO BE GIVEN NEW CHANCE

The petition which the Blue Key Fraternity has sponsored for a Student's Activity Budget has been laid aside.

This action resulted when enough students, particularly Seniors and ex-college men, did not sign their signatures. The petition provided for the adding on to the regular college bill the sum of seventy-five cents to be distributed among the following organizations: The Blue Key Fraternity, the Student Council, the Literary Society, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

As matters now stand, the petition will be presented to the Board of Governors and Visitors at their Quarterly Spring Meeting. If the Board approves of adding this additional amount to the College Bill, signatures or approval of the students will be unnecessary.

DR. R. G. BEACHLEY'S CAR STOLEN AND RECOVERED

An automobile, belonging to Dr. R. G. Beachley, was stolen and recovered all in less than two hours last Saturday night, and charged with the theft, William Thomas, William "Tessie" Johnson and Simon "Keg" Everett, all Negroes, are being held in the Kent Jail.

A few minutes after the car was taken from in front of his home on High and Front streets, Dr. Beachley notified Sheriff John T. Vickers. Sheriff Vickers communicated with State Police and town officers in nearby towns and less than an hour after the call Deputy Sheriff Edward Squires, of Millington, arrested Thomas in possession of the car here. Thomas implicated the other two Negroes.

"Don't know what it is about Granger, but it must be made for pipes—real pipe tobacco.

"Somehow, there's a flavor and aroma about Granger I never found in any other tobacco. When I pack my old pipe tight and good with these big Granger flakes, it's about the coolest smoke I ever enjoyed. It makes me downright pipe hungry every time I look at the package."

scientific study to find out, if we could, the kind of tobacco best suited for pipes.

Down in the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky, we found a tobacco called White Burley. There is a grade of this tobacco between the kind used for chewing and the varieties suitable for cigarettes that is best suited for pipes. This tobacco is used in Granger.

This tobacco is prepared by a method worked out many years ago by Mr. J. N.

Wellman. It gives Granger a fragrance and mellowness that pipe smokers like, and makes it burn to a clean, dry ash. Granger never gums a pipe.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has come to be popular, and there is this much about it: We have yet to know of a man who started smoking it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

Rabbi Israel Speaks To Student Assembly

Last Thursday, March 16, Rabbi Israel, of Baltimore, capably gave an inspiring speech on the present economic situation and the way in which a remedy might be possible.

During the course of his address this exponent of orthodox theology and modern thought in religion expounded his theory, that if a small percentage of the gross income of our large corporations was legally required to be put aside in the form of an unemployment fund, it would not place any noticeable burden on these firms and would absolutely be a direct and definite aid to charity organizations. He also pointed out several instances, where, in the past World War, many of our patriots aided the enemy by selling them munitions and supplies through underground channels. For this reason he stated that pacifism should be encouraged by everybody.

The discourse was exceptionally well given in view of the fact that the Rabbi is one of the most prominent speakers in this region of the country.

WEEKLY FROLIC TO BE HELD IN REID HALL

The many Washington Alumni and friends who attended the successful Inter-Fraternity Dance last night will be entertained this evening at a Frolic to be held in Reid Hall. Dancing is to begin at nine o'clock.

Through the efforts of the Blue Key Fraternity, this informal weekly dance, a survival of the old Saturday morning frolics held in the gym, has been maintained during the college year. It is the only informal social offered those students who find it necessary to remain on the campus every week end.

Music will be furnished by members of the Washington orchestra. Old grads may enjoy their extended stay on the campus at tonight's dance. Blue Key welcomes Washington Alumni!

New Lyceum Offers Attractive Programs

The following pictures are candid for the New Lyceum Theatre for the week of March 27 and April 1.

"The Island of Lost Souls" with Charles Laughton, Richard Arlen and Bela Lugosi, will show here Monday and Tuesday. Vincent Lopez and his orchestra are an added attraction.

On Wednesday, "Billions Dollars Scandal" will be the feature, with Robert Armstrong and Constance Cummings playing the leading roles. A double feature consisting of "State Trooper" and "Blondie Johnson" will be shown Friday and Saturday. Joan Blondell and Chester Morris star in the second feature.

Ignacius BJORLEE Addresses Students

Principal Of Frederick Deal School

Principal Ignacius BJORLEE, of the Frederick School for the Deaf, addressed the regular eleven o'clock Assembly at Washington College on Thursday, March 23rd. Mr. BJORLEE spoke on the general aims and accomplishments of modern education, with particular emphasis on the necessary prevalence of literacy.

Mr. BJORLEE, after a "eulogistic introduction," gave a definition of education synthesized from several incomplete ones furnished by the others. He then proceeded to elucidate upon this definition from the point of view of mental, physical and moral education. In this connection, he suggested that Washington College operated with a proper sense of value of physical education. No spontaneous applause occurred in the audience at this point, although the entire speech was very well received.

After the fashion of that eminent scientist, Mr. Charles Steinmetz, Mr. BJORLEE, who is of Norwegian stock, and is an ardent Rotarian, got around to the body of his address in the last five minutes, and here seemed to expatiate upon literacy, upon the control of which he is a natural authority.

He deplored the relatively high percentage of those unable to read or write in this country, and pointed with pride to his Norway, which has a smaller degree of illiteracy than any other nation on earth.

EDUCATION NOTE

Graduates of the College who met the requirements for a Maryland High School Teacher's Certificate, but who were not successful in being placed in previous years, are urged to send in their names to Dr. Livingston before April 15th, if they desire to have their names listed on the 1933 rating list.

This list will be sent to all Maryland County Superintendents, principals of preparatory schools in Maryland, and to principals and State Departments of Education in nearby states.

Big Crowd Of Alumni Present At Affair

The first Pan-Hellenic Prom in the history of Washington College was held last night in the gymnasium to the strains of Mal Hallet's orchestra.

The dance was attended by a large crowd composed of fraternity men, pledges and alumni. In the opinion of practically all who attend the affair it was pronounced the most successful social event of the year.

The gymnasium was elaborately and skillfully decorated in orange, red and black to represent the flames and fumes of the infernal regions. At the entrance to the gym was placed a sign on which were the ominous words: "Abandon all who enter here!" Inside, flames licked white walls, and at the rear of the orchestra stand an imitation fiery furnace burned merrily beneath "Satan" himself.

The dance was given under the auspices of all the Greek Letter societies on the campus. However, only the three fraternities were connected with the administrative and financial end of the dance. Mal Hallet's orchestra furnished excellent music. This orchestra was especially the most famous and expensive ever to play in the local gymnasium.

The chaperones, listed under the title of "Guardian Angels" were as follows: Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Titworth, Dr. J. S. W. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Livingston, Dr. Esther M. Dole, Miss Florence T. Smoggin, and Mrs. Fred S. Fox.

The executive committee, under the name of "Satan," consisted of the three fraternity presidents: Carey, McLain and Usilton. Other committees were as follows: "Flames"—Clarke, Hopkins, Shinn, "Chorus"—Baker, McCrone, Nuttle, "Minors"—Davis, Noble, Baylor, "Minors"—De Socio, Lord, Wallace, "Limbo"—Bringham, Furman, Girault, "Cerebus"—Carey, Huey, Wells.

Varsity Club Holds Annual Initiations

The Washington College Varsity Club held its annual initiations last week when several new letter men were taken into the organization.

The applicants for membership were put through a rather rigorous ordeal, being fired upon at close range with "grape shot" and other missiles. The feature of the ceremony was an operation performed by the mysterious "Dr. Whaley" upon each of the applicants.

Among those who joined were: Dr. and Mrs. Philip H. McGee, the Chambers, Shipp, Hilsenrath and Berry.

The Board of Visitors and Governor of the Washington College held a meeting in Wilmington, Del., last Thursday night.

The meeting was for the further consideration of applicants for the vacancy in the presidency when Dr. Titworth finishes his stay as president here this coming July. No announcement was made as to the result of the meeting.

Women's Student Government Situation In Regards To Freshman Regulations Reviewed

By Albert E. Dobbins

At a meeting held on Monday, March 20th, 1933, and attended by the Dean of Women the Reid Hall Council judged the Freshmen members of Reid Hall incapable of having representation and removed Miss Dorothy Slater from the position she had held since her election to the Council early in November. Further as a punishment because of their general disregard of all rules and because of their "general attitude toward upper classes," during the remaining time of the college year the Freshmen are deprived of the privileges of studying in the library during the evening period, 7:00 P. M. to 9:00 P. M., and of receiving calls in Reid Hall, or having any kind of date, from 5:00 P. M. to 7:00 P. M. Also the Freshmen must at all times account for their absence from Reid Hall and are compelled to observe a form of room-campus while in the dormitory.

The entire procedure of indiscrimination was inept and unjust; an insult to the Freshmen. The Freshmen, including Miss Slater, were summoned en masse before this legislature, executive and judicial body of the Reid Hall Division of the Student Government Association of Washington College, with Miss Elizabeth V. Schmidt, chairman, presiding, and Miss Margaret C. Brewer, head of Reid Hall present. The announcement of the ousting of the Freshman representative came as a bolt out of the blue to the complete surprise even of Miss Slater who had not been informed of her removal. Understand that there is no charge of any nature made against her. She was dropped from the Council because the Freshmen are not capable of being a part of a self-governing body. At least the Council might have shown the courtesy and respect due one of its own members. Incidentally the By-Laws of the Girls Student Government Association make no provision for impeachment of Council members and in removing Miss Slater, the last clause of Sec. 4, Art. II, which reads "The members of the Freshman class shall take office immediately following her election and shall continue to function throughout the entire college year," was violated. Some Freshmen were made this discovery and became bold enough to send a petition to the Council, with the fifteen Freshmen signatures alphabetically affixed, asking for their rights. They received a reply stating that the Council would be glad to consider their case at their next regular meeting; meanwhile the Freshmen continue to remain without representation.

The whole affair shows with petty spite and revenge. Note that no one violator was singled out nor was any definite rule or regulation pointed out as having been violated; just a "general disregard of all rules." The punishment inflicted because of the Freshmen's "general attitude toward upperclassmen" certainly is unreasonable. Whoever took the lead in the formulation of the penalties plunged headlong into blind folly without consideration of any person or the possibility of any harmful effects. The innocent are being punished in the same degree along with any so-called guilty.

Regardless of the opinion of the body of Councilmen in regard to the lack of capabilities of the Freshmen, there are among them those who are here in Washington College with a definite end and serious purpose and to them being deprived of the liberty to use the library and its many facilities when convenient is a grave matter. To some Freshmen the whole thing only means solo walks to Reid Hall after dinner and the loss of an occasional date in the library, while others taking their first glimpses of life in it through the wrong end of the telescope and cry out, "They can't do that." After such treatment should the Freshmen be expected to have respect for rules and order? Should they be expected to cooperate with a body that considers them unfit, unworthy, and incapable of being a part? Or should they laugh off the insult?

MISS WHITTAKER

We would like to nominate for the position of quartermaster on the All-American team of college secretaries, Miss Mattie Whittaker of Washington College. Incidentally we also pick her as Captain and Best Bet of said team. Just in case you don't clearly understand what we mean by all of the above we will continue on to say that in versatility, dependability, and all around ability we believe the secretary to the Dean and Registrar to be unequalled.

The round of applause that greeted Miss Whittaker at the showing of the college moving picture last Wednesday made it clear just what opinion the student body at large has of her. We think that we are safe in saying that Miss Whittaker does more to make the phrase "friendly college" an actuality than any other individual on the Hill. We will be most surprised to hear a single denial of the above statement.

Back in the fall of 1931, Miss Whittaker was ill for a time and consequently unable to perform her duties. As we remember it, one regular secretary and two part time secretaries took her place, which was not all properly filled.

Mr. Ross, former editor of the "Elm" once told us that if we wanted to find out anything whatever concerning Washington College to go see Miss Whittaker. We do not wish to pile any more work on one who now does the work of three, but we pass on Mr. Ross' advice as your best bet in case you ever desire any such information.

FRATERNITIES AND ATHLETICS

The resignation of Coaches Kibler and Ekafitis from the Alpha Kappa Fraternity should entirely remove the basis for rumors circulated at various times by certain narrow minded and uninformed persons to the effect that fraternity politics played a part in Washington College athletics. We speak plainly concerning this matter because we know that practically every student here has at one time or another heard such rumors. However, we hasten to add that the athletes and coaches in those position to know have not aided such rumors but have flatly denied them. Although no direct statement was made it should be clear to all what the purpose of both coaches' action was.

In a college with an enrollment as small as that of Washington College, fraternities naturally are somewhat over accentuated. However, it is essential that all things in the way of athletics be as far removed as possible from the competitive and other undesirable features of the fraternity situation.

Even the most ridiculous rumor will find believers in certain people and eventually these people begin to construe the simple and direct actions into secret plots with concealed purposes. Thus no matter what is done it finds a critic in some one and finally these suspicious cause a demoralizing affect on college spirit which is then either directly or self-consciously transmitted to the athlete.

Therefore while the action that the Washington Coaches have seen fit to take will of course not change the actual straight-forward handling of affairs that has existed all along, it should change the opinion of certain groups toward the handling of these affairs. And after all the general opinion of conditions is almost important as the actual conditions in such matters as this.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Due to many comments and severe criticisms from the student body at large, Slippery Elms feels obligated to express some of these opinions.

The current protest seems to be due to the lack of adequate facilities in the Women's Athletic Department. The need for an improvement has so often been felt but until recently the student was right.

However, the cry seems to be growing louder each day and it seems as though something must be done before another spring you begin.

The surprising part is that the matter has apparently never been considered by the administration nor have there been any united action taken by the co-ed to better the condition.

We realize this is no time to be suggesting improvements but as soon as possible another shower room should be added to the gymnasium.

The Washington College moving picture last Wednesday night certainly were excellent. These pictures should prove to be a fine piece of advertising for the college. Dr. Titmarsh and the other persons responsible for the piece of work are decidedly in line for congratulations.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

The early part of this year in one of the Elm's columns the short-comings of the Saturday night Frolics were pointed out. Since that time with but few exceptions, these weekly get-togethers have been before their old part, fact, they have been far more successful. What is the trouble?

The first thought would be to mention the music. Are we being fair in our criticism of the fellows who never been playing? The situation is such that we can't expect an Elton Jones here every week. But we do have a number of talented musicians on the campus. These fellows have been giving their services faithfully week after week. I ask the Student Body if they really believe they have been supporting them as they should. Have you done anything to show them that you appreciate their efforts? It is so easy to give them a good applause after a dance, or say good to them about enjoying their music. Little things like that would go a long way in raising more enthusiasm in our orchestra.

Another thought. Here on the campus we have a quartette that is and to be sure, as well as several other good singing groups. These fellows we can't get to hear them enough. The Frolics seem the logical place to get acquainted with our campus stars and nothing would be more welcome than to have dancing a few moments and hear the quartette give one of their ditties. Perhaps someone would volunteer to become master of ceremonies and be in charge of the singing.

Let's do something before it is too late. Give your financial assistance might be limited.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

Even though the "Snooperact" may have diplomatically appealed to the freshmen for support, the Rat Rule regarding "decorating the gym" is still in effect. Since the Vigilance Committee seems to have died a natural death, "its rumored that the enforcement of the few remaining rules is falling to the numerous willing hands that are eager to undertake it."

Judging from the activities in Reid Hall, it appears as though the "Snooperact" are still organized. They seem to have caught up with the pace of the yearling co-eds—we wonder if their sphere of influence couldn't possibly be extended to cover those few young ladies who have not yet realized the mistake which they make when they continually "hook in" the "bread line" ahead of their turn.

We nominate for oblivion:

Classes that continually extend eye-rolls at the sight of a "Tidy" or "Slick" classes. Friday's meals in the cafeteria. And the suit-cases known as "evening bags" which the men are forced to carry by their thoughtful Coddien dates.

We nominate for the Hall of Fame:

All short assembly speeches. The legalized sale of beer in the Cafeteria. All scholastic holidays. And this column.

This week's laugh comes from the recent nocturnal activities of our self-styled astronomers. It must be rather embarrassing, after you have focused your field glasses on Reid Hall, to find several night spy-glasses there focused on you.

These levers who immediately telephone their "One and Onlies" after their dates are ended at 10:30 P. M. seem to forget that someone may want to roll Reid Hall with something really important to say.

Rumor has it that some of the students were not satisfied with the idea of a Pan-Hellenic on this weekend, and so they held an Inter-Fraternity Bravel last week end—all of which was hard on Monday morning "cuts."

What we want to know is how can we get the "drag" that will allow us to have OUR breakfasts at 8:30 A. M. to forget that someone may want to roll Reid Hall with something really important to say.

Rumor has it that the college may have its name changed to "Pity Alley Academy." We hope now long it will take a congratulatory cable from Mussolini to reach Pity Alley?

Do You Know That:

Someone stacked the cards on Brinsford "Papoose" noted a dozen times for the Delaware Student Council. It's O. K. for our co-eds to make dates for 2 A. M. on the fire escape, but it's hardly considerate when they don't show up. "Moon" figures on robbing the cradle. It "Sutcliffe" is tough as "Tidy."

Dad has moved his trunk, to High St. "Doc" Murray is now known as "Freddie." The telephone company now has a Dorman Evelyn "Dramatic Club" Walker has a stage whisper for "Lord Java." Frits is interested in the jail. It was actually quite complimentary to say that the Prom decorations "looked like Hell!"

First Lacrosse Game Today

Only Home Game Of Season

Coach George L. Elmit's Lacrosse team will make its initial start of the 1932 season this afternoon on Kibler Field when the Sparrows Point High School team will be engaged in a practice game.

Inclement weather during the latter part of last week and on Monday of this week somewhat slowed practice, but since Tuesday the Maroon and Black players have been working hard, polishing up a nice passing and cutting attack, and getting use to the shorter field on clearing the ball out on the defense. All indications point to a better team than the good one of 1932, mostly due to added experience.

The lineup this afternoon will probably consist of eight players who have been regulars in previous seasons. "Pat" Beaman who was out for the sport a short while during fall practice of his Freshman year, has taken up the game again this year. He has made such strides forward that he is expected to start the season as running mate to Al Giraldis on the wing attack positions. Omar Carey who played some fine Lacrosse at cover point last year, but who was not a regular, has been shifted to one of the close attack positions. Carey is an excellent stick handler and will wage a merry battle with Charley Morris for the in-home position.

The probable lineups:

| Washington  | Goal           | Sparrows Point |
|---|----------------|----------------|
| Reinhart  | Todd           | Bringinghurst  |
| Pippin  | Cover Point    | Nagle          |
| W. gate   | Second Defense | Royston        |
| Gumder  | Third Defense  | Butler         |
| Clark   | Center         | Grant          |
| Brasman   | Second Attack  | Nordhine       |
| Giraldis  | Third Attack   | Kelley         |

BASEBALL HELD UP BY BAD WEATHER

With the passing of the equinoctial storms on last Monday, Coach Kibler was able to put his baseball charges through brief practices during the remainder of the week, the sessions consisting mainly in conditioning workouts. Little real work could be done but the short drill served to help the head mentor get some line on the 36 diamond candidates, practically all new and every one a serious contender for a place on the 1933 baseball combine.

Equipment was issued last week and more than two full sizes were outfitted for the time present. Batting and fielding practices were held. Coach Kibler concentrating on the infield positions, trying several combinations in the various posts. Among the first suckers are Evans, Johnson, Rodney and others. Dokkins, Bean, and Boyles were tried at second base, while Winbrow, Hodgson, and Dwyer, worked out on the hot corner. Berry and Rhinehart alternated at shortstop with Baker and Blalock taking turns at the backstopping job. Among the host of outfielders are Tigner, Nicholson, Dickerson, Clements, Koebel and Neval. The old veteran J. W. Carey continues warming up as did J. O. Farwell, filling up the very limited pitching staff.

At the while no one looked particularly impressive but Evans, Tigner, Baker, Blalock and Nicholson showed possibilities of developing into consistent and dangerous hitters. Tigner and Nicholson stepped into a couple of Coach Kibler's offerings for long hard drives.

Minstrel Show To Be Presented In Salisbury

State Normal School To Be Scene Of Show After Easter

Arrangements are being made by the Blue Key Fraternity to give a presentation of the Marion and Black minstrel show in Salisbury at the State Normal School. A date early after the Easter holidays, but not yet set. Members of the production feel that a chance to show their talents in Salisbury would be the fitting climax after its two successful playings, its premier here and a second appearance at Stevensville.

In fact the Salisbury trip would be nothing less than a big "break" for the minstrelers as it presents an opportunity for the fellows to give their show a strictly modern stage, before an appreciating, though critical audience.

Dr. Holloway, president of the State Normal, is doing everything possible in co-operating with the proposed production. In this he is expressing his keen interest in Washington College.

The audition of the new two million dollar school reads second in the East to the Regis in New York, in regards to modern stage facilities, and lighting technique. With such a background, along with the expected crowd attending, the third showing of the Marion and Black's should be a howling success.

Louis Goldstein Given Party By Close Mates

The third floor of Middle Hall, fondly called Pig Alley by many successive occupants through the years, witnessed an unusual scene last Thursday night. Perhaps never before in the annals of its blue life has any of its dwellers given a party like this one in its ancient portals. Goldstein, one of Washington's hundred sons, was leaving sweet 18, an occasion worthy of celebration, according to his friends in Pig Alley.

So when at 10 o'clock the unsuspecting Mr. Goldstein walked into his room, he was greeted by a roaring cheer from the throats of his fellow class mates. On the table in the center of the floor he saw a huge three-deck cake aglow with candles. A number of neatly wrapped presents added more prospects to the general impression.

COACHES KIBLER, EKATIS RESIGN FROM A. K. FRAT.

Coach J. Thomas Kibler and Coach George L. Ekatis recently announced their resignation as faculty members of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity of Washington College. Both coaches emphasized the fact that their resignation was not due to any trouble or misunderstanding with the fraternity or any of its members.

Coach Kibler made the following statement: "In resigning from the fraternity I wish to make known that my action was not caused by any disagreement with the fraternity. After consideration, I have decided that a faculty member in the athletic department would be less hampered in performing his duties if not a member of a social fraternity on the hill."

Freshmen Girls Defeat Seniors For Cage Crown

Seniors Lose Title Held For Past Three Years

The Freshmen girls' basketball team won the last two games of their three game series with the Seniors to cap the interclass title and thereby topple the fourth year women from the pedestal they have occupied for the last three years. The games were played March 14 and 15. The Freshman sextet won both of the last two games by decisive margins despite the fact that the Seniors played very creditable basket ball.

The champions displayed a telling margin in center play. This ability to control the ball in mid court was of vast importance in getting the ball up to Carolyn Helms at forward, who was responsible for most of the Freshman scores.

The series brought out the fact that the Athletic Board probably overlooked the best guard in the league when Velma Carter was left off the honorary varsity. Although the Seniors, had the most efficient guard combination in the league, Miss Carter was superior in individual brilliance to either of them.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

The following editorial was taken from "The Gold and Black" of Birmingham-Southern College:

In accepting the presidency of Washington College in Maryland, Dean Gilbert Wilcox Mead gains a signal and highly deserved honor and Birmingham-Southern College loses a brilliant, capable leader. Announcement of his election came somewhat as a surprise to students and friends here.

Washington College, famed for its tradition and work in liberal arts, has recognized in Dean Mead the ability and alertness to modern trends, which for eight years has marked his work in connection with Birmingham-Southern College. That ability and alertness will go far to enhance the prestige of his new charge.

During his eight years here, he has proved an excellent executive and department head. Pedagogical duties have not been the limits of his work. Dean Mead has shown his worth as a critic of contemporary writing and a leader in civic affairs. As a proponent of sportsmanship and athletics he was one of the founders and first president of the Dixie Conference. He has been a prominent figure in Southern educational circles.

The many friends of Dean Mead will join in wishing him the best of success when he goes to Washington College. Those who have studied under him count themselves most fortunate and rejoice in this opportunity and honor afforded him.

STILL AT IT

We note with considerable disappointment that certain Marylanders are still trying to attract attention to themselves by attempting to ridicule a very important section of Maryland. Of course our disappointment is considerably lessened by the knowledge that these persons and concerns are habitual "knockers" and find it hard to cause mistakes to receive any notice in any other fashion. We are referring to the "play," if such it can really be called, written by a certain Donald Kirkley and now playing in Baltimore. It is called "Peace Officer" and is a crude and feeble effort to keep alive the unfortunate Salisbury affair of about a year ago. The play reveals the author's lack of knowledge as to actual conditions as well as his inability to see into situations.

We are surprised that the "Baltimore Sun" should give space to the reviewing of such a thin and childlike effort as "Peace Officer" is.

"NO CROWDING"

According to reports, when the rush for beer licenses in Kent County finally took place, Washington College authorities stepped in and said: "don't rush gentlemen; no crowding."

At any rate our good friend who recently succeeded Adam Schaubert is still without a license and if the "golden beverage" flows thru his door it does so without sanction of license.

Of course since we prefer root beer to all others this issue is of small import to us. However, we do hear that certain people are taking the affair pretty seriously. In fact Mr. Emerson is taking it so seriously that he is making great efforts to do something about it. Maybe he will be able to and maybe he will not.

Anyway, we shall see what we shall see.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ROLAND C. READY

Will the Cotillion Club be discontinued and if so what will take its place? At the present time Cotillion Club members are wondering if there is any truth in the rumor that Washington has seen its last year of Cotillion Dances.

According to members the Club has, within the history of the present student body, functioned smoothly and with a large degree of success.

As has been pointed out it is the only organization on the campus which offers formal dances to the student body and at the present time one cannot see by what means these dances will be sponsored if the Club is discontinued.

It is needless to go into the merits of these dances as most students will testify that to them it has been an entertaining activity and one which they loathe to see discarded. A large percent of the student body takes advantage of the social opportunities offered and the Club seems to have become an integral part of campus life.

When we so often hear friends of the college say, "Washington College is known for its dances," it is in the sense that the dances are wholesome and enjoyable and represent all that formal college dances should be. Officers of the club feel the organization has been conducted efficiently and boast of having secured the best music possible in view of financial conditions.

It is to be hoped that the current rumors of this and next year will see the usual program offered which, unfortunately, was limited this year due to banking conditions.

The council's suggestion in regards to the honor system may be worthwhile but, it seems that the three days grace period will be welcomed by any culprit. It is wished to think the situation over and prepare an air tight defense.

PURLOINED * PHRASES

It seems that we're cranking the headlines in other college papers.

The "Connecticut Camper" says: At Washington College the Co-eds were granted permission to smoke during the lectures, so the weaker sex swept into a psychology class with cigarette held between their pearly teeth. The professor was a student as well as a professor of psychology. He merely ordered all the windows closed and courteously bade the girls to light up. Not many minutes passed before the psychology class fled in mass to the infirmary.

The "Swarthmore-Phoenix" announces:

Three students at Washington College were arrested for attaching a freshman to the rope of a flagpole and running him up to the top.

No dances, cigarettes, highballs or bridge games are allowed at Muskegon College.

A "Depression Club" has been organized at the University of Chicago. The club's blackboard motto reads: "We consume more than a 'coke' and two cigarettes on a date."

Carnegie Institute tells of the student who won the 1933 Pulitzer prize, who when asked to write an "Ode to America" in one of his class papers wrote the following:
 "Ode to America"
 $3,483,650,000
 By France.

A freshman at Drexel began his autobiographical theme with "I don't know how it all began—"

A McGill University student's definition of a coed: "A Co-ed—just a contradiction of the word co-educational. Applied new to world existing to compete for an education with the higher type of human."

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

New Beer's Eve has passed. Enter Variation is but a rainy memory, and we return to our short six weeks separating us from the Day of Reckoning. As in the past, the college student's principle problem concerns the saddest misfortune of student life, namely, moonlight nights, so that, like beer, the mixture will not suddenly lean up—and over. However, unlike the past, there is the added problem as to whether or not we will walk a block or a mile for a "schooner." Unfortunately, that decision has been left to us to decide. Oh well—if we'd "walk a mile for a Camel!"

We hear that the river bank was the scene for a good old pre-holiday party just before Easter. We don't know whether or not the nervousness of the winter suggested it or not, but from what we hear it seems as though several of the members of the party were giving some really excellent impersonations of a salubrious lunking up to a river. But perhaps they merely wanted to show that they too could be "a couple of sheets to the wind."

Question: If April showers bring may flowers, what will May 5th bring? It is undoubtedly a red-letter day—we hope that at least the movies will be going on that night.

We thought that St. Patrick's Day was over—at least for another year. But, judging from the color of the moon in the Queen's cafeteria, St. Pat is still honored here about once a week. Possibly the "hearing of the green" is a feudal duty to "Royalty."

We nominate for oblivion:

1. Northern girls who affect that southern drawl.

2. Term papers of any kind, shape, or form.

We acclaim for the Hall of Fame:

1. Musical assembly programs—when the performers are imported.
 2. June 19th.

From what we hear, it seems as though in the spring, some young men's fancies turn to the Reid Hall fire escape. Judging from the effectiveness of the shot-gun marksmen in the recent campus dog hunt, the only real danger to a date "in fire-escape" lies in the possibility of falling off.

Who you know that:
 "Mims" is still "the Berry's" the orchestra had an engagement to play in Delaware until the sponsors of the musical heard that the quest was coming too. "Yanching" at the Country Club is a popular student activity. Priscilla Everett refers to "Skeets" as "someone good enough to eat." "Limer" Bean is some what attracted to Betterson. Mason Trapp is the excellent choice for June's Senior Orator. Five years have been spent in the Washington library and the work is still incomplete. All librarians ought to wear rubber heels so that their shunting demands for quiet might be more effective.

Sports Notions

By Charles B. Clark

The Maroon and Black representatives of Washington College on the lacrosse and baseball fields are in the midst of their schedules. The lacrosse ten has played three of its five games and today will play their fourth against a fastly improving and powerful University of Maryland team. Only one team remains in contest, that with Swarthmore College, offers a good chance for victory, though the stick wielders are optimistic over today's game.

The present season appears has witnessed unbroken success in the defeat of St. John's by Swarthmore, and in the fine exhibitions of Lacrosse put forth by Bobby Pool's Harvard team which lost to St. John by one point and earned a win by Navy. Sports writers are prone to doubt seriously the superiority of Swarthmore over St. John's in as much as the latter team was too greatly handicapped by tootstick refereeing. Washington College's chances of victory over Swarthmore were brightened considerably when the Hopkins team, conquerors of the Shore by a 9 to 2 score, swamped the Carret ten 14 to 2.

Washington College has produced two players to date, in Fritz Reinhold at Goal and Dick Gamble at first defense, who are good enough for any team in the country. The Shoremen have a good team but are playing teams far out of their class. The above named players, however have not over-shadowed the efforts of Captain Phil Wingate and the rest of the team. With seven Juniors as regulars and a hope for a much better schedule, followers can look forward to next year as a banner one in the Old Indian Game.

Captain Warren Carey, southpaw hurler for the Shore nine, started his team off last Saturday with a 4 to 2 victory over Delaware by pitching a good ball game. Though prospects for a respectable schedule were darkened by the Bank situation, Coach Kibler and Manager Reedy have revised the card, listing among other opponents the Baltimore Firemen and Carey's former Rock Hall team-mates, the latter team to be played twice. The feature of the schedule however, is the contest with George Washington University to be played at Griffith Stadium, in a night game after encountering the University of Maryland in the afternoon.

Hillmen Defeat Local Lacrossers In Easy Game

Washington College lost to the Mt. Washington Club in Lacrosse last Saturday, April 22, by the score of 11 to 1, at Mt. Washington.

The Shoremen secured the ball on the opening face-off and controlled it for the first seven minutes of the game. However the former college players, once in possession of the ball, lost no time in cleverly securing their first goal. Before the first quarter was ended the Maroon and Black were trailing by four goals. During this period, Doug and Jack Turnbull led their team.

The second quarter witnessed many new Mt. Washington players, equally as good as those in the starting lineup. Coach Ekblat's players tightened up, though, and only two goals were scored in this period. Stude, of the Hillmen, goals of last year's Hopkins' World Championship team, was making sensational stops.

In the third quarter Dick Gamble scored for Washington following the scoring of a block by Al Girvin. The Maroon and Black players held the ball more the second half than did their opponents, but were unsuccessful at scoring goals.

In the fourth period Dick Gamble of Washington College and Kelley of Mt. Washington were forced out of the game after receiving facial cuts. The Shoremen, playing against great odds, were unable to stop a club numbering many former All-American players.

Carey Defeats Delaware Nine

Pitches Two Hit Game For Locals

Washington's Maroon and Black nine opened their curtailed season with an impressive 4 to 2 victory over the University of Delaware Blue Hens last Saturday on Kibler field. After two seasons absence of the spring sport, Coach Kibler presented a formidable ball club, built around "Moxie" Carey, veteran speed-baller, who had little trouble in taking the Delaware rivals into camp.

Captain Warren Carey

Carey, master of the situation throughout, fanned four batters and allowed only three hits during the tilt. The first Washington tally came in the third inning when Beery connected with one of Riley's offerings for a circuit clout into deep center field with none on. The locals scored again in the fourth when Tignor slammed a three banger into center and then scored on Nicholson's infield out.

Delaware annexed a run in their half of the fourth when Minner slipped and brought home their only earned run on a two-base hit by Ed Thompson.

In the sixth, Hudson dropped Tignor's easy fly and on consecutive hits by Baker and Winbrow another run was scored. Tignor tallied his third and the final run for the home team when he singled and registered on a hit by Nicholson.

Hudson walked, advanced to second on a passed ball and came home for Delaware's second run on a wild pitch by Carey.

Washington showed a strong all-around combination, playing errorless ball in the field and forcing Riley for nine hits, three of them for extra bases. Coach Kibler expressed his satisfaction of the beginning made by the Washington nine. The locals are ready to exchange tales with the strong Rock Hall aggregation.

Intermar College Ball In Speed And Games In

Coaches Kibler and Ekblat have launched a program of twilight intra-mural sports for the male students at W. C.

The sports listed are speed ball and volleyball.

The speed ball league will be comprised of 4 teams; a team being drawn from each of the classes.

The volley ball games will be played also by 4 teams. Each of 3 fraternities and one non-fraternity team will be presented in this league.

The limitations laid down by the coaches for the participants are: no baseball or lacrosse candidates can play on the teams and no student can engage in 2 of the sports listed.

These activities have been started mainly for the purpose of fulfilling requirements in Physical Education, as well as a means for diversionment.

The games are scheduled to start promptly at 6:30 P. M. and will continue until nature, in the form of darkness or rain, halts the contests.

Up-to-date much interest, competition and spirited rivalry have been displayed in these contests. The results of competition up to April 26, are:

Eight Changes In Cage Rules

None Of Changes Are Important

Among the eight minor changes in the basketball rules for next season is one that was first experimented with at Washington College, found to be successful and later adopted by other teams with similarly small playing courts.

This change concerns the division of the court into halves for the purpose of the ten second rule which does away with stalling. Washington College, finding its court rather short and therefore having the offensive playing half of the court crowded, decided to draw two lines, each of the one corner mark, and make forty feet in each offensive zone. This innovation was found to be highly satisfactory and such a rule was placed in the playing code for next season.

The changes as outlined at the New York meeting, at which the name of the organization was changed to the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada, are as follows:

1. The 10-second rule will be applied to all courts, regardless of size. On courts 75 feet or more in length the center line is mandatory. On courts of less than 75 feet two lines may be used, so that the offensive half of the court is 40 feet. Where this 40-foot line encroaches within the foul line on exceptionally small courts, it was decided, the prolongation of the foul line will mark the 10-second line.

2. Only the first player to receive the ball in the offensive zone may pass the ball back over the center line.

3. Officials must handle the ball, placing it on the floor, in out-of-bounds plays, to prevent quick-action returns.

4. The three-second rule, which had applied only to players in the free-throw area receiving the ball with the exception to the basket, applies now to players receiving in the area regardless of position of the body.

5. A player may reenter the game twice.

6. A ball on the basket's rim may be batted in, providing no part of the basket is touched.

7. Points covering legal and illegal running with the ball are determined in detail.

8. Where games are played in quarters—usually high schools—the second and fourth periods will not start from the center tap, but will be resumed from out of bounds nearest the point where play ceased and the ball in possession of the team last in control.

Psychological Study Made

Average I. Q.'s. Of Upper Classes Taken

A study has been made of the Intelligence quotient Average of individual Classes based on the average of Intelligence scores of the different Junior and Senior classes in which the identity of the individual was lost. These scores were furnished by the Dept. of Education.

As a result the accompanying figures are presented. The foregoing classes considered were those having over 50 per cent Jrs. and Sen. The I. Q.'s of all Jrs. and Sen. in these classes were averaged and the following results obtained.

We present the higher ten classes without further comment. Public Speaking I and 2, and English 15th and 21st regts. was arbitrarily used as the averages for the 30, and Jr. classes regts.

|                  |        |

| 12. Pub. Sp. 2   | 108.88 |
| 13. Lowest Class | 101.50 |

The table of results has been shown to different faculty members, and discussed. The following comment of Dr. K. Carpenter, Head of the Dept. of Biology, may be of interest. The comment is as follows:

"Although these results are certainly interesting, the numbers of students estimated are too few to warrant the drawing of any definite conclusions. They may, however, indicate 'trends', but it is very necessary to remember that many of the results are either officially or unofficially confidential, so that we must be careful not to lay undue stress upon the apparent choice of any one by the more or less able students. Finally, I do not personally believe that it is possible to frame any 'Intelligence Test' which is a genuine test of native, and not acquired ability. Such test, also, of course, give some measure of such qualities as speed of thought, presence of mind and general 'ability' of some individuals, etc., but I have yet to see one which is capable of testing pure, native, untrained ability."

Revised Baseball Schedule Given Out

The revised baseball schedule is as follows:

April 29—Rock Hill—Away.
May 6—Baltimore—Home.

Blue Key Fraternity Holds Annual Dance

On Saturday night, April 22, 1933, the Blue Key Fraternity held its annual dance of the school year. This was important because it was the last informal dance of the year.

Excellent music was furnished by the "Centaurians" of Dvor, Ed. Incidentally, several Washington students were members of the orchestra.

The dance was rather poorly attended but was greatly enjoyed by those that participated.

The dance came as a climax to the Washington-Baltimore football played on Kibbey Field in the afternoon.

The chaperones were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goshorn, Prof. and Mrs. Lawrence Ford, Dr. Frederick Layman, and Mrs. Kenneth Burton.

POET'S CORNER

Upon a celestial curtain of flower,
For me, a star was hung.
Which, as I gazed upon it grew,
My heart seemed not to long.
My thoughts lifted, and my soul
Gazed;
"Let your reach exceed your grasp."
Across its glittering path of light,
For it, dark clouds were poured,
And in it waited—but in strife,
Its winning strength surmised.
We live and we strive, both near
And far, "What's a Heaven far?"

Student Council Makes Suggestion

In order to insure greater cooperation and efficiency in carrying out the Honor System and in supporting the Student Council at Washington College the following suggestion is made by the Council.

"A student, or faculty member may upon discovering an offense to the Student Government, warn the person or persons concerned. They in turn are bound by honor to report themselves to the Student Council. If the offender disregards the warning, the offender must report the case himself. The time allotted the offender shall be three days. The defendant shall have the opportunity to prove himself not guilty."

The above policy has been very successful at some outstanding American Colleges and Universities.

The Washington College Concert Orchestra will give its initial broadcast of the year May 3rd, over WCAO Baltimore, at 4:30 P. M.

It will be recalled that last year the orchestra broadcasted from WFBR, Baltimore and the program was very well received. This year plans were set afoot to duplicate the performance. This concert is valuable to the school in gaining publicity, and is extremely fortunate in being able to secure a booking at the Baltimore station and will be on the air next Wednesday afternoon.

The orchestra is under the leadership of Dr. F. G. Livingston and student director Fred G. Talbot.

Blue Key Makes Annual Awards

Louis Thibodeau Given Gold Pentagon

The Blue Key Fraternity in a special meeting held on Monday, May 7, elected Mr. Louis J. Thibodeau and Mr. Frederick G. Gilson, Jr., recipients of the Annual Gold Pentagon awards to the alumnus and student who contributes most in interest and effort toward the advancement of Washington College. Richard M. Gamber was judged the best all-around athlete and was awarded the Simpson's medal, donated annually by Dr. Harry G. Simpson, '95, of Chesterton, to the male student who is considered the best all-around athlete of the college.

Mr. Louis J. Thibodeau is an alumnus of Washington College class of 1912. He has since that time been engaged in educational pursuits entering the education field as a school teacher. At present Mr. Thibodeau is principal of Crosby High School, Waterbury, Conn., position he has held since 1925. Mr. Thibodeau is active in the New England Alumni Association and is interested in directing Connecticut students to Washington College.

Fred Uffton has been considered the representative college man. He is the most prominent student organization since his enrollment in college. Among his offices and extra-curriculum affiliations are Blue Key Fraternity 2, 3, 4; Senior President 4, President Alpha Kappa Fraternity, Vice-President Student Council 4, Concert Orchestra 1, 2, 3, 4, Student Leader 4, Football W 2, 3, 4. Mr. Uffton, a senior, will graduate in the class of '33.

Richard M. Gamber of the Junior Class prepared at Darby, H. S., and Swanton. Frequent Secretary. Since his entrance to Washington he has participated in three major sports and has to date won eight letters, three in football, three in lacrosse, and two in basketball. Gamber has had honorable mention for All-Maryland in football and All-Maryland in lacrosse. He was elected to captain the Maroon and Black gridiron eleven next fall.

Dr. David E. Robinson Speaks At Assembly

Dr. David M. Robinson, of the Johns Hopkins University faculty, addressed the Washington College Assembly on Thursday morning, May 10. He spoke concerning his findings as an archaeologist. The ruins of Olynthus, a Grecian city destroyed in 346 B. C., by the father of Alexander the Great.

Dr. Robinson, formerly Kent county attorney attended Dr. Robinson's intellectual talk. He spoke interestingly of his search for buried treasure as represented by the ancient art of Greece and Rome. The type of barbituric used by these people was a source of much interest to Dr. Robinson while doing excavation work.

Dr. Robinson is Professor of Archaeology at the Johns Hopkins University. In his distinguished career he has been accorded the highest honor of membership in the faculty of the Hellenic School of Classical Studies at Athens, in addition to his services as Professor of Greek and Latin at several institutions of higher learning.

ALUMNUS DIES

Olyn D. Veach

Olyn D. Veach, a graduate of Washington College in 1930, died at the Cambridge, Maryland, home on Wednesday night, May 3, following a short illness. He was 23 years old and the only son of Carl L. Veach, prominent Cambridge oyster packer, and Mrs. Veach.

Veach was an outstanding student while at Washington College. He played regularly on the football and lacrosse teams during his last two years and was on the track squad in his Sophomore year. Aside from his athletic prowess he was an active Y. M. C. A. member and was Vice President during his Senior year, of that organization. He was Editor of the Handbook in 1930 and was a member of the Varsity and Cotillion Clubs.

His funeral took place on Friday, May 5th at his home. It was attended by several members of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity of which Veach was an alumni member.

SHAKESPEARE PLAY GIVEN

On the evening of May 5, 1933, the Shakespeare Club of Washington College presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream" under the direction of Dr. Gertrude Van A. Ingalls. These players exhibited a blend of acting that can scarcely be rivaled by any other troupe of amateur actors. The production was made even more finished by the costumes and additional facilities furnished by Jones and Co., costumers, Baltimore, Md.

Some of the talent shown was especially commendable and is worthy of further comment. The part of Bottom, star of the Mechanicals, was well portrayed by J. W. "Moxie" Nacey. The players were fortunate in securing for him a mechanically "reflect" as head, with rolling eyes, twitching ears and a mouth that all but brayed. The parts of the other mechanicals were well interpreted by William Baker, Albert Robbins, Roland Ready, Stuart Shinn, and E. L. Koerber. Time and again the action of the play was enlivened by the pranks and jests of Puck. This part was exceptionally well portrayed by the light and nimble-footed Emily Jewell. A light and airy atmosphere was created throughout the play by groups of dancing and fluttering fairies.

Special incidental music by Mendelssohn was played by the college orchestra.

Dr. Uphaus Speaks On Technocracy

Economics Dept. Secures Speaker

Dr. Willard E. Uphaus who at the present time is serving as Field Secretary of the National Religion and Labor Foundation, spoke to several groups at Washington College yesterday, May 12, on topics dealing with the relation of religion to the present world-wide crisis in thought and social life.

Dr. Uphaus who received his M. A. degree at Indiana University in 1917, and his Ph. D. at Yale taught at Vanderbilt University, 1923-1929. While there he taught Professor Goodwin, Instructor in Social Science at Washington College. He was brought to Washington College by invitation of President Titusworth, and while here, was entertained and introduced by Ralph Harrier, President of the local Y. M. C. A. Dr. Uphaus was accompanied on his trip by Dr. Seaman of Johns Hopkins University.

To three different groups which totaled one hundred and thirty Washington College students, Dr. Uphaus spoke freely on Socialism, then on "The Indications of Technocracy for Education," and lastly on "Can Man Be Revivified in His Social Relationship?" An examination of Reinhold Niebuhr's "Moral Man And Immoral Society," Economics, Government and History studies were required by some Professors to attend these discussions.

TO FIGHT SOON

George L. Ekaitis

George L. Ekaitis, football and lacrosse coach at Washington College, will make his debut as a professional boxer sometime within the next few weeks. Ekaitis, a former intercollegiate champion in the 175 pound class while a student at Western Maryland College, will battle in the pre-weightweight division.

Coach Ekaitis is taking daily workouts with Clarence (K. D.) Dierne in the Washington College gymnasium. Burns is a light-heavy-weight and has won quite a reputation in Baltimore as a puncher.

Ekaitis was recognized as one of the best boxers and hardest hitters ever to wear a crown in intercollegiate circles. Despite his boxing ability he is known generally as a slugger because of his many quick victories while fighting in college ranks.

JITNEY PLAYERS APPEAR HERE

The JITney Players, of Middletown, Connecticut, presented at 8 o'clock in the evening of Wednesday, May 10, in William Smith Hall, "Caste," an original comedy in three acts, by Tom W. Robertson.

This famous and talented company, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Cheyne, tripped and swept over the Victorian Stage with their usual charm. "Caste," a production of the Victorian Age, is held as the finest play in the JITney's repertoire, and the small but enthusiastic audience of Wednesday night were unanimous in acclaiming the high perfection of the piece.

"Caste" is the second production of the ten year old company at Washington College, the first being "A Trip to Scarborough," by Richard B. Sheridan, presented about two years ago. The Shakespeare Club and Dramatic Club of the college sponsored this latest visit, which was arranged through the courtesy of Dr. G. Van A. Ingalls.

The stage tableau and expressions of "Caste," the excellent English accents of Maria Hawhee and Polly, and the gentle satire with which the piece was done render it unforgettable. It was the sort of acting that one liked the fabled Englishman is always discovering a new bit of humour in an hour a day or even a week after the actual staging.

Reinhold Made Lacrosse Captain

Bert Hastings Is New Manager

"Fritz" Reinhold was elected Captain of lacrosse at Washington College for the 1933 season at a meeting of the letterman held last night in William Smith Hall.

Reinhold has been regular goalie for the Maroon and Black for the last three seasons and last year was recognized as one of the outstanding net tenders in the country, being picked on all star teams by W. William Wrester of the "Baltimore News" and "Sunday American" and Paul Brandwick of the "Baltimore Evening Sun." This year Fritz ranks as a leading candidate for the position of All-American goalie. Dinty Moore, coach of the former three-time National Champion St. Lawrence, declared the newly elected Washington Captain to be one of the finest net performers around, after watching Fritz perform brilliantly against his Johnnies early this season.

The new Captain of the old Indian name is also a star on the local gridiron, holding down a regular half-back position and doing practically all the punting for the Maroon and Black. Two years ago Fritz printed his name indelibly on the minds of Maryland football fans by giving one of the greatest exhibitions of place punting ever seen in the old line state when for sixty minutes he consistently put the pinpoint out of Ray Poppleman and was instrumental in helping one of Maryland's finest football machines to thirteen points.

Reinhold, who succeeds Phil Winge, of the Captivity, came to Washington College from Donaldson prep school in Baltimore. Fritz was given his first lessons in goal tending by Andy Kirtinich, former St. John's ace lacrosse.

The following men make letters in lacrosse this year: Capt. Phil Winge, Capt. Elect Fritz Reinhold, Buck Gamber, Charley Clark, Al Gittis, Charley Morris, Paul Pippin, Omar Carey, Dick Chambers, Joe Bringham, Pat Bearman, Mason Trapp, and George Nelson Richards.

Bert Hastings was elected to manage the 1934 lacrosse team.

New Lyceum Cards Three New Pictures

"Ex-Lady" will show at the New Lyceum Theatre Monday and Tuesday of next week. Bette Davis is the star of the picture, which was produced by Warner Bros.

A very timely picture will be shown Wednesday and Thursday in "The Fighting President." Stuart Erwin is in an added feature entitled "Learned About Women."

Jane Grey's "Under The Tonto Rim" is carded for Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20. Fred Ward and his Playboys are in an added attraction.

EDIT YE EDITOR

This is our valedictory effort as a college editor and according to precedent we should write a long editorial reviewing the events of the year and making a formal address. However, there is nothing that we can think of to review and we wish to make our departure from the editor's chair so quiet and noiseless that the first indication the student body of Washington College will have of our leave-taking will be the sudden improvement in the brand of journalism when the new editor takes the reins.

We have been accused on several occasions during the past year of being entirely too staid and dry. This may be true. Nevertheless, we do believe that our policies pleased a few people besides ourselves. But even if we pleased only ourselves, that is better than pleasing no one. Yea, verily, much better.

Last year the retiring editor formally willed to us the accoutrements of the "Elm." Said accoutrements were: an antique ginger ale bottle, a badly worn file, a 1928 calendar, two electric light bulbs, and some dried orange skins. To justify the student body's faith in us when we were selected to look after these valuables we wish to announce that we have kept the treasures still unliquidated even in this period of depression and are prepared to pass them on to our most worthy successor. Of course the calendar has gradually depreciated in value as time has sped by, but our most stupendous efforts to prevent this would have availed us nothing so we wisely saved our energy. We also wish to report an addition to this collection; this addition consists of two slightly worn pen points borrowed from the "Pegasus."

We close this dissertation with the hope that the incoming editor may continue to add to the permanent property of the "Elm," while preserving that already possessed, even as we have done.

ELECTIONS

The general elections for the college will be held during the early part of next week and we can not refrain from asking the student body to use a little more discretion and a little less cheap politics in these elections than have been used in some others we have known.

At the same time we realize that we will probably be accused of the very thing we are trying to avoid, if we make any direct statements of any kind. Therefore, we merely ask the students of the college to realize that there are several positions to be filled next week that would be best filled by certain definite persons on the campus and a grave mistake would be made in electing others to these positions.

Consequently we do not think it unreasonable to ask the students, if they do not already know what individuals are best fitted for the various positions, to seek out some reliable information before casting their ballots.

Georgetown University has adopted a new system of cuts, leaving the matter to the conscience of the individual.

Speaking of conscience: The Elgin College Days confuses the plight of a senior at Wisconsin who found himself without the intellectual equipment to pass an examination, passed a $5 bill on the bluebook, and wrote: "Let your conscience be your guide." He passed the exam.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

Much to the surprise of some, to the chagrin of others and to the intense delight of those who attended, Shakespeare's "A Summer Night's Dream" was produced in a highly satisfactory manner. To thus successfully produce a classic with its inherent Shakespearean difficulties on a stage as sadly inadequate as ours, is, in itself, a tribute to the dramatic capacities of director, stage manager, and cast. Even though it is true that this column rarely has the opportunity to bestow praise that is deserved, it cannot help but thus commend each of the individuals responsible for the success of the "Shakespeare Play." In true "Winchellian" style, however, we believe that "orchestra" should be presented to Dr. Legh, without whose efforts the play could not have been presented; Paul Pippin, whose artistic work found expression in the stage setting; to the characters of "Puck," "Bottom," and "Helen," who added materially to the audience's enjoyment of the production.

It seems as though "Moxie" has quite a host of admirers in Rock Hall. At the recent baseball game played there, while Moxie was leading his team to victory over the home team, we heard one of his feminine admirers call to a companion "He certainly is a good man to have around the house!" The fact that one order came from Rock Hall for 12 tickets to see the "Shakespeare Play" and "the perfect ass" is perfect testimony to his popularity.

One of the most amusing things we have ever seen in our years of exposure to weekly student assemblies was a speaker who, after his last stirring speaker suddenly wheeled on the faculty and asked if there were any saloons in Chestertown and, caught unawares, half of them answered with a negative shake of the head, while the other half cheerily admitted it with a decisive nod.

We're still trying to decide whether the Rock Hall "fire-knitter" episode was a freshman protest against a cold dormitory or against a previous "roasting" by the "Shoogoo-cats." However, from any point of view, aside from that of the Chestertown Fire Department, the incident displayed a stupidity which freshmen are not allowed to show. They should know by now that "doing the unusual" is a privilege reserved for the upper classes alone.

We've been asked to write about a great many things, but never before have we had a request like the one "Seapee" asked recently. Says he, "Write about the various 'love spots' around school—I'd like to know where they are!" Well, Ted! And after living here for the past ten years, too!

Carey To Pitch Against Easton

Washington's Maroon and Buck diamond representatives led by Captain Carey take to the road this afternoon to open their two game series with the newly organized Easton Club. The Eastonites will show a strong and aggressive baseball combine having the pick in ball players of the formidable Blue Jays and Easton A. A. of last year who merged this season to form a club which should prove to be one of the best on the Eastern Shore.

The locals have had a long lay-off, caused by inclement weather, being idle since their eleven inning 3 to 4 win over Rock Hall on April 29. The game at the Baltimore Firemen scheduled for last Wednesday was called because of the threatening weather. The Fire Fighters will visit Chestertown probably on May 17 if Rock Hall is unable to fulfill that date.

Unable to practice for five days the Kibler men resumed activity this week in which scrimmages between the regulars and the youngsters featured. Coach Kibler will start with the same line-up he has used up-date, relying on Carey to do the pitching. Blumstein who looked impressive behind the plate in the Rock Hall encounter will do the receiving in place of Baker who is out for the season with a sore arm. Should the youngsters get a winning pace Coach Kibler will give second string men a chance to show their wares. The Washington ball tossers have their heads up for a third successive victory.

University Of Maryland Wins Lacrosse Tilt

On Saturday, April 29th, a strong University of Maryland Lacrosse team trounced the Maroon and Black ten of Washington College at College Park by the score of 13 to 1.

Decided lack of reserves for Washington caused fresh men of Maryland to leave little undone in the first quarter when the Fabermen scored eight goals, three more than their Shore rivals had allowed them during the entire first three periods. A closely contested affair turned into an overwhelming crushing. The Shoremen fought valiantly throughout the contest and never allowed to suffer although these same efforts were feeble when the game ended.

The pupils of Elkatts secured the ball on the opening face-off but were not anxious to score and lost possession of the coveted sphere. The Terrapins counted twice in the first period and then in the second quarter took goals were registered. In the third, only on one occasion was the Maryland team able to slip the ball past Gonnie Fritz Reinhold who was making some fine stops.

As the fourth quarter started the Shoremen were too fatigued to offset Maryland substitutes who were not lacking in ability. However Omar Carey, playing a good game at the Out-House position for Washington saved his team from a shutout when he perfectly dodged his defense man, Silber and pierced the netting with a well aimed shot.

Vincent and Pugh on the attack and Rombo and Sothoren on the defense played best for a coming Terrapin ten while no Washington College player was outstanding over his team-mates.

Swarthmore Ten Wins Stick Game

By Charles B. Clark

Captain Lloyd Pike led his Swarthmore College Lacrosse ten to a 6 to 3 victory over the Maroon and Black of Washington College at Swarthmore on Wednesday, May 10th.

The two teams presented night-light defenses in the first quarter with the result that no score was made by either. Early in the second period, Dick Gamber, Wing Defense man for Washington, who left open long corners near the crease to receive a pass and open the scoring for the day. However, Pike, who looms as an outstanding candidate for All-American honors this year, soon tied things up and then forced the Little Quakers ahead with his second goal. His third in the same period made the score 3 to 1 at half time.

In the second half, Washington suffered greatly from the one or two player advantage that their opponents had from several occasions, due to Shore players being ejected from the game for fouls. The refereeing was much more strict than the local team has been accustomed to and adaptation to it came too late. Three goals were scored while Swarthmore had extra men, and one of these registered while Gonnie Fritz Reinhold was on the sidelines for slinking.

Locals Defeat Rock Hall Ball Nine 5-4

"Moose" Carey, Maroon twirler, held his former team-mates to five scattered hits while the Kibler men took the measure of the strong Rock Hall aggregation, 5 to 4, in an eleven inning contest played on the latter's diamond last week. Nine innings of thrilling, though rugged baseball found the handliners deadlocked, 4 to 4, and the extra innings gave Al-day Clements the opportunity to perform a "high-diving act" to break the tie.

Approaching the ninth inning both teams threw away chances to clinch the game but failed because of poor base running. In the final inning Clements smacked a drive labelled for a single base hit that got by Archibald, who came in to tag the ball, and rolled deep into right field. As Clements rounded third, Grant, Rock Hall backstop was forced a few feet to the left of the plate by the throw in. As Grant bent to grab the rolling ball Clements dove headlong over the catcher and landed prostrate on home plate, safe, with the winning run.

Tie Results In "W" Club Elections

The Washington College Varsity Club met on Tuesday night, May 9th, for the election of officers. After several ballots were cast for President, Albert Dukakis and Charley Clark were tied in the number of votes received. Due to lack of time the final ballot casting was postponed until next week. One of these will be President and the other Vice-President.

John Lord was elected Secretary and for '34 Treasurer position. Elmer Ward, Harry Huey, and Harold Blinn were nominated. As in the choice of President, no one received a majority and this office was left open also until next week. Del Proudfoot was elected to fill the Sergeant-At-Arms office.

Dramatic Club To Give Play

Sir Arthur W. Pinero's, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" has been selected by the Dramatic Club as the Commencement Play to be presented on Thursday, June 8.

Pinero, a contemporary of Shaw and Galsworthy, is considered the greatest master of technique of the modern drama.

"The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," a play in four acts, concerns the marriage of a conservative widower to a lady with a past and their subsequent struggle against custom in her attempt to lead a new life.

Mr. Tanqueray, Robert Furman, turns a deaf ear to the advice of his boon companions, Mason Trupp, John Lord, and Roland Ready, and marries Emily Jewell, who thereby becomes the second Mrs. Tanqueray. Evelyn Walbert, Furman's daughter by his first wife, falls in love with Capt. Hugh Ardale, DeWitt Clarke, erstwhile clandestine friend of Mrs. Tanqueray.

Rosine Scotten plays the part of a neighbor who stands high in the social world. The comic element is supplied by Lucille Rubin and Harry Rhodes, aided by the mammoth English Butler, Nelson Richards.

Pineapples were not named because of any association with pine trees but were really meant to be "pineapples" because of their prickles.

"As long as We're Settling things

SUPPOSE YOU TELL ME WHY
YOU SMOKE
CRANGER"

"WELL, it's like this. Back in the old days, when men wore high hats and frock coats, they had plenty of time to think things out, and they had sense, too. They used to sit down on a log and take the time to whittle their tobacco from a plug, to be sure of having a cool smoke.

"In those days, a man named Wellman, right here in Quincy, Ill., made about the best tobacco you could get. He knew how to keep the flavor fine and mellow.

"Well, sir, the people who make this Granger Rough Cut acquired Mr. Wellman's method, and they must have known how the old boys used to whittle their tobacco to make it smoke cool. Yes, sir, this Granger is the real stuff. The same mellowness and fine flavor that Wellman used to hand out to his friends. And it's whittled into big shaggy flakes all ready for the pipe. 'Rough Cut' they call it—'cut rough to smoke cool' is the best way I can describe it.

The Granger pouch keeps the tobacco fresh

"Regardless of price, Granger is about the best pipe tobacco I ever smoked. That's why I smoke it, and that's why they call it America's Pipe Tobacco, sir."

Now we wanted to sell Granger for 10¢. It was just a question of how to do it for the price. So we pack Granger in a sensible foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package. We give smokers this good GRANGER tobacco in a common-sense pouch for 10¢.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has grown to be a popular smoke. And there is this much about it—we have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

Gamber Elected Council President Clark Chosen As Elm Editor

Miss Sarah Ellen Byrn
To Head Women's Council

By Philip Wingate
In the general school elections held last Tuesday, Richard M. Gamber and Charles B. Clark, were elected president of the Student Council and Editor of the "Elm" respectively.

Other results from Tuesday's balloting were as follows:

President of A. A.—Albert E. Dokins.

Vice-President of Student Council—Charles B. Clark.
Secretary of Student Council—John M. Lord.

In the nominating ballot which took place May 16 the following men were elected to office due to the lack of other nominees:

Business Manager of the "Elm"—J. Patterson Bennett.

Assistant Editor of the "Elm"—William O. Baker.

Assistant Business Manager of the "Elm"—Louis L. Goldstein.

According to the modification of the Student Joint Association Constitution made last year, these men will take office immediately in order that they may become acclimated to their new duties.

Consequently the new council will be sworn in shortly and will be charged with the regular student council duties in the conductance of the new examinations.

The last issue of the "Elm" this year will be edited by Charles B. Clark and his assistant William O. Baker.

In practically every case this year the men elected to the various positions were given overwhelming majorities. With the exception of the vote for Council Secretary, which John Lord won by a 95 to 49 count, all others elected received at least twice as many votes as the nearest competition.

Considering the total college population, a light ballot was cast.

Richard Gamber, new Student Council President, is a native of Pennsylvania having graduated from Swarthmore Prep School. Gamber is also Vice President of the Blue Key Fraternity, President of the class of 1934, Captain of the football, and a member of the Alpha Kappa.

His major subject is Economics.
Charles B. Clark, new editor of the "Elm" is a graduate of Elliffort City High School. He was also recently elected president of the Varsity Club of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity. He is a member of the Blue Key and has earned two letters in both football and lacrosse.

His major subject is History.

The first election taking place under the new system resulted in the choice of the following officers for the Women's Student Council:
President—Sarah Ellen Byrn.
Vice-Pres.—Marie Poff.
Sec. Treas.—Mary E. Kneib.
Secretary Members—Dorothy Kildie, Katherine Eastman.

Junior Member—Eulie Cannon.

The new system corresponds to that used in the Men's Council, whereby the president, vice president and secretary are elected by the whole student body, and the remaining members are chosen by their respective classes.

PIPPIN AND BURKHARDT CHOSEN FOR YEAR BOOK

Paul W. Pippin and W. Emory Burkhardt were chosen in Junior Class elections Thursday as Editor and Business Manager, respectively, for the "Pegasus" of 1934. At the same time Richard M. Gamber was for the fourth time elected President of the Class of '34.

Both the Editor and Manager of the Pegasus take over office with experience. Pippin having served on the staff of the Chestertown High School paper while in that school—and in this year was appointed by the present Senior Class to act as Assistant Editor after Richards was forced to leave. Pippin has shown his talents also in his decorations and sketches of various Civilian and dramatic presentations.

Burkhardt at various times was Business Manager and later Editor of the publication put out by Easton High School. This year he served as Assistant Business Manager of the Pegasus. He is also Manager of Football and of the Concert Orchestra.

He is a member of the "Elm" staff and of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity.

Others elected were:
Richard M. Gamber—President.
Charles B. Clark—Vice-President.
Ellen E. Fife—Sec. Treas.
Burdette Nattie—Blue Key Representative.

Albert Grattis, Burdette Nattie—Student Council Representatives.

GIVEN MEMORIAL

Dr. Errol L. Fox

A Memorial Service was held by the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity of Washington College recently for Dr. Errol L. Fox who was a Faculty member of the Fraternity from 1929 when the organization was established, until his death during the summer of 1931 while abroad in Germany.

The service was opened with a prayer by Joseph Dickerson, William T. Willis of the class of 1930 and ex-president of the Fraternity then spoke of Dr. Fox's contribution to Fraternity life. He stressed particularly the activities of Dr. Fox concerning the formation of the group and of his holding them together during their early existence, albeit Ryan spoke of Dr. Fox as a co-founder not only as a Fraternity Advisor but also relative to Student-Teacher relationships. Dr. Livingston, who with Dr. Fox was greatly responsible for the origin of the group stressed the qualities of the latter as a fellow Faculty member.

President Titworth was the last of the speakers. He told of his connections with Dr. Fox which were always of the most pleasant and intellectual type. He expressed regret that the College and the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity had to lose such a man.

Warren Carey, retiring President of this year, unveiled a Memorial Plaque which the Fraternity erected in memory of Dr. Fox.

OUR AIMS

It is appropriate that we, the newly elected Staff of the "Washington Elm," attempt to make clear to our readers and to those connected in any fashion with our publication, the ideas that we ascribe to. We will attempt to please many and all if possible, though we realize at the start that endeavors of this nature will be difficult to carry through.

It will be one of our major objectives to create at Washington College in the Student Body, a much greater interest for literary works. We can accomplish this only with the cooperation of those students who have the ability but who do not participate even slightly in the preparation and publication of the "Elm." Our idea is to get more students working for the paper other than in a negative destructive way. At the present time only the slightest minority of students and in the instance; this statement can be borne out by merely glancing at the top of this column, where one finds other than the Editorial Staff, only three or four reporters. We could go on as they who precede us have and issue a paper consisting of the efforts of just a few. We probably will do just that, but at the same time we wish to urge others to take a part and make the paper have the marked features of a group.

Aside from the above we will attempt to encourage Open Forum letters. If things about the campus don't satisfy you, and you justifiably think they could be made better, express yourself to that effect, rather than sullenly annoying a few people with your contentions. We hope also that our efforts will be as successful and as well received as those of the Retiring Editor. We will strive to make such improvements as can be made, probably with a few minor changes in the make-up. We shall, finally, get out six-page issues, just as this year's Editor has done, when financially able to do so.

PRESIDENT TITSWORTH

Very briefly, the Staff in the last issue of the year, wishes to add its commendations to those already given to our departing President. Already his excellent work for Washington College has been praised in a former edition of the "Elm." However we wish to express our sincere hopes for the success of President Titsworth at Alfred University, his Alma Mater, and to which he returns in July to act as President. We are sorry he is leaving, and can only add that Dean Gilbert W. Meade, our new Head, will have our support to be as successful and as cherished as he who leaves us.

"FAREWELL" SENIORS

In a very short time, the present Seniors of Washington College will have completed their course. To some, this achievement arrived at only after four years of diligent and patient efforts will mean more than to others. A few probably have a set course to follow after graduation, but the greater number will be thrown out into a world which at the present time is unable to find for them a place. Consolation must be gained from the fact that they will not be alone. For quite a while many who have much more need of employment have been walking the streets in quest of subsistence for themselves and ones dependent on them. Having become well acquainted with this group we extend to them our sincere desires for both success in finding employment such as they may want, and in making a good job of what they undertake. We will miss you, Seniors next year, and will endeavor to do as well as you have.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

In true keeping of newness of course we look to our predecessor for a push to start us in the running as a columnist. If we recall correctly Mr. Ready's maiden article carried a pretension to being "tooth-paste asters" which materialized into modern drinking fountains being installed in the new's dormitories. No one could fail to recognize the improvement and spontaneously Mr. Ready won the reputation of a "reformer." We are not so fortunate there being no problems of newness except at present to warrant advocating change without being considered extremely revolutionary.

After research we find that we can make this column what one wills. Everyone who attempts to write even because its fun can appreciate the drudgery of the penny-annual. This is not a solicitation for sympathy; neither is it an apology nor the building-up of a defense mechanism. Our ambitions too are purely of a literary nature.

But we must leave something to write about or leave only a mass of words and as yet we feel no exhalation in our power to manipulate words. Bearing in mind the place that this column has in the Elm and staying within its scope our purpose is to write on everything of sufficient interest and importance that is called to our attention. Our hope is to stimulate thought on the part of the student body concerning all pressing questions. Washington's problems are our problems. Whose college is ours?

We shall criticize, advocate for reform, praise, and censure as falls due. Without sparing any measure and in the face of being charged with insensitiveness or radicalism we shall vent all alike, justly and from an unbiased though personal point of view. In exchange for the fun of writing we accept responsibility of planned and adverse criticism. We know knowing that this author-to-pub write-up is sure to draw a smile.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

This is our own song. Perhaps in view of the precipitous drop which all present-day college graduates are forced to take, it will cause a ripple and be called our swan dive. It does not help matters particularly when we realize that, contrary to the laws of nature, no matter how flat our swan dive is, it will cause a ripple and the pond is important affairs. We've been inching out on our individual spring boards for a long time, and now that we've reached the end, somehow we seem to have lost the poise and perfection of form which we imagined we would have. For all these years we have pictured the water as being clear, fresh and inviting; instead we had the tide low over a rock bottom—the waters murky, turbulent and forbidding. If it were left to us to do as we would undoubtedly back up, and wait for a rain to raise the tide, freshen the water, and allow the waves to die out. Instead, the weight of the numbers behind us would carry us forward—we have the choice of a dive or a jump—but in any event—live or go. Man overboard!

Perhaps all this has no place here. We were told that since this is our last column, we ought to "talk a talk at everything and everybody." Obviously it is an excellent idea, but obviously enough, a strange sense of "Faint on earth—goodbye to all such, women, children, human beings and the faculty" has invaded our souls. We're disgusted, but helpless; we are bound up, and rather than destroy, Fax goodbye.

During the few years that we have graced the campus of "Washington-on-Chester," we have found some things that we would like to change. The principal abomination, aside from the existing "cut-system," lies in the apparently ever-growing, ever-spreading disease of "Fraternity Politics." This germ, sown, as it was, immediately preceding our arrival here, has spread to a rather alarming degree. The fact that we haven't checked it is evidence of our own weakness. As yet, we have no substitute to offer which could take the place of fraternities in elections of all kinds. Not that we want them to play any part—but we haven't found a workable, practical substitute. Yet we believe we have found one in the matter of making and in the matter of pledges who fail to make the required index. Under the existing conditions a freshman is asked to join a fraternity just prior to the Christmas holidays. We believe that they should not be asked to join until after the mid-year examinations. If invitations are issued immediately after the examination period, it will tend to alleviate the conditions as they now exist in the following ways: first, it will allow fraternity members to become better acquainted with the material to be found in the freshman class; second, it will allow the freshmen to observe the fraternities as they actually exist—not as they exist during a rushing season; third, the proximity of examinations will make the last-minute, concentrated backslapping hypocrisy that now exists a danger to the indices of the fraternities; fourth, it will tend to make a freshman who has not made the required index will be considered a candidate for pledging, thus eliminating those pledges who are usually failures to make the scholastic grade. We hope that the "Powers That Be" will see what we feel to be the wisdom underlying the suggested change and will act accordingly.

Baseball Team Loses Four In Row

Game With George Washington Rained Out

The Rock Hall Independent Team gained revenge for an early season setback by defeating the Maroon and Black in the second game of the here and there series, 11 to 4. O'Farrell started on the mound for Washington, but gave way to "Edgie" Evans in the third inning. Evans held the invaders well in check, but the heavy damage had been accomplished in the first two innings. Washington wasted several chances for easy scores in the latter stages of the game.

The Maroon and Black traveled to Easton and lost its second game of the season, the score being 4 to 0. Carey pitched great ball throughout the game but had breaks at critical moments spelled his downfall. Several fine plays on the part of the Easton players cut off a late Washington rally.

The Maroon and Black dropped its third game last Saturday at Delaware in a hard fought contest, the final score being 3 to 4. Carey and Riley hooked up in a mound duel, but the latter had the better of the breaks. Washington staged a rally in the last inning scoring two runs, but a fast double play cut off a possible tie or a win.

Maryland defeated Washington College 7 to 2, at College Park last Wednesday in a well-played game, the score was 2 to 1 up to the eighth inning when Carey weakened and allowed the winners to hit his offerings for five runs. Tiger, of Washington, clouted a home run in the final inning.

The Washington-George Washington game scheduled for Wednesday in Washington, was cancelled because of wet grounds.

EKAITIS WINS BY K. O. IN PROFESSIONAL DEBUT

Couch George Ekaitis made his professional debut at the Sports Center, Baltimore, last Friday night by scoring a 30 second knockout over Frank Sucky, of Philadelphia.

The former Green Terror showed again the flash and power he possessed when in college. When the gong sounded he rushed from his corner, feinted with his left and hit Sucky with his right. It was the hardest blow the "Terror" says he ever struck and had the same results as if he had used one of the ring posts. Sucky went down for the count of nine, at ten he was on his feet, but still seeing the lights. Ekaitis measured him and very soon the Philadelphia joined the long list of those who have gone to make up a long record of one round knockouts for the college coach.

In fact, it looked so simple to the Boxing Commissioners that they held up Sucky's purse, charging him with pulling a dive for Ekaitis. This however was proven not the case and it appears as if the "Green Terror" is slated to go places in the professional racket.

MISS BUCHWALDER TAKES AT COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

The speaker at the Washington College Weekly Assembly, held at 11 A. M., Thursday, May 18, in William Smith Hall, was Miss Buchwalder, head of the Placement Bureau of Baltimore, Md., who spoke on modern trends in industrial and commercial society.

Miss Buchwalder delivered a well-organized address covering many of the causes of present-day unemployment. She clearly showed how such distress was not sudden, but the result of continuous "breaking-down" of certain industries and businesses over a period of years. She gave a number of examples, and quoted the usual statistics on the subject.

Phillip Wingate Retires As Editor

Has Made Envious Record While At Washington College

There are always men on the campus who are outstanding but who receive little in the way of recognition. Philip J. Wingate, the retiring Editor of this year's "Elm" has not been in a position to receive acknowledgment for his fine work.

"Phil" came to Washington College in the fall of 1929, having graduated from High School in Maryland, during the month of June of the same year. In high school as he afterwards has been in college, he was a leader, graduating with the highest scholastic honors.

At Washington College, his activities have spoken for themselves. He immediately became a reporter on the staff of the college paper, then called the "Washington Collegian." His excellent work was awarded when he was elected Assistant Editor of the "Elm" for 1931-1932 his Junior year. The crowning achievement in newspaper lines was his election in the Editorship for 1932-1933. During the past year he has been responsible for a college paper that ranks among the best of small college papers. In literary lines, Phil follows in the footsteps of St. John's, Brown, V. M. and W. M. gate, feature sports editor of the Baltimore News and Baltimore American.

Wingate has also distinguished himself in lacrosse. As excellent runner, he has been a regular on the Washington College team for two years, serving as Captain during this past year and forming a part of a tireless midfield. As Captain he has set a fine example for his players, and for succeeding Captains.

Many other activities have taken the time of this Senior. He is an active member of the Phi Kappa Phi Fraternity, was football manager last fall, has held an Assistant in structure in Geometry and was an Assistant in the Chemistry Department. Phil has distinguished himself also by acquiring a "Three Point" inch, on at least one occasion. His services are in Mathematics and Chemistry, and he will receive a Bachelor of Science Degree in June with honors.

Phil is uncertain as yet concerning his work for next year. He has qualified as a teacher and will instruct High School students and coach if an opening in that field is found. Possibly he will pursue newspaper work if a position is available.

Women Students To Present Fete

Miss Doris T. Bell Will Direct June Week Enactment

The entire student body of women will present, under the direction of Doris T. Bell, a fete consisting of Aesthetics, Characteristic, Fantomine and standard ballet dances. They will enact an old Medieval fairy story "The Charming Princess."

Contrary to previous years when the fete consisted of several distinct interludes, the 1933 fete will present a complete pantomime.

A quaint old story is developed around a fair princess, Gladys Conk, and her lover, Early Jewell, a most unusual prince.

The college is fortunate to have the fete under the direction of Miss Bell. With her professional training and experience she is able to present a pageant unlike any other college in the State of Maryland.

College Gets Large Gift

$150,000 Fund Is Left By C. F. Harley

As a result of his continued interest in Washington College since his graduation in 1882, Charles Fuller Harley, of Anne Arundel county has provided for the eventual distribution of the residue of his estate amounting to $150,000 to his Alma Mater. Bequests totaling some $47,150 being deducted from that amount.

Coming to Washington as a poor boy, Mr. Harley secured his education here by means of a scholarship. Immediately after his graduation he was admitted to the Maryland bar and was active in his career formed a partnership with John B. Whelan. The firm has since been enlarged, being, at the time of Mr. Harley's death, Harley, Whittle and Leachter. He was active until his death in the practice of his profession and a member of the American Law Institute, American Bar Association, Bar Association of Baltimore City, and the American Judiciary Society of which he was a member. Among his other activities we note his interest in the Y. M. C. A., of which he was a member for over fifty years, his membership in the Academy of Political Science, and the most interesting to us, his position as a member of the School Board of Baltimore City and of Governor Ritchie's College Commission.

The will left the corpus of the residue of the estate in trust for the wife, Mrs. Edwina Harley, for life. Upon her death it will go to Washington College for construction and building purposes only, not for endowment purposes.

The will was not made until December, shortly before his death in July. As representative of the college Dr. Mead and Jones attended Mr. Harley's funeral.

Mr. Harley always maintained that he owed his entire success to his Alma Mater and felt that in this way he could repay her.

ACTIVITIES FUND RECEIVERS NOTED

Many Organizations Benefited By Plan

Many students have been wondering where the money appropriated for the Student Budget Fund is being used. One can readily see that it has been divided among the following organizations, who are allowed to use it as they see fit.

| Organization           | Amt. Total |
|------------------------|------------|
| 1. Blue Key Fraternity | $45-$100 |
| 2. Student Government  | $15-$30  |
| 3. Literary Society    | $10-$10  |
| 4. Y. M. C. A.         | $10-$10  |
| 5. Y. W. C. A.         | $10-$10  |

Totals $75-$160
These above figures are subject to change due to the numerous special bills and students leaving school.

Erldman C. Jones, ex-33, and Miss Carolyn L. Packs were married during the summer.

ENTERTAINERS

Dr. J. S. William Jones

Dr. J. S. William Jones entertained the members of the Dean's Cabinet at his home on Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 6 P. M.

Dean's Cabinet Is Feted By Dr. Jones

The Dean's Cabinet of men had its first meeting of the year in the office of Dr. J. S. William Jones on Monday morning, October 2, 1933. The meeting was called by Dr. Jones to start the year's work of the cabinet. Several items were discussed, chiefly the one concerning the construction of the Cottillion Club dancers. Other important matters were laid aside until a future meeting of the group.

The cabinet, headed by Dean Jones consists of the following: The president of the Student Council, Editor of the ELM, Student of the Pegasus Year Book, The Presidents of the three upper classes, The Mt. Vernon Literary Society President, the President of each of the Social Fraternities and of the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity.

On Wednesday night, October 4, the Cabinet was entertained by Dr. Jones at his home. The following members and guests were present: Dr. J. S. William Jones, Dr. Esther M. Dole, Prof. Paul Solandt, Mrs. Ethel Fox, and the Messrs. Richard Gamber, Charles B. Clark, Albert E. Dobbins, Paul W. T. Pippin, John R. Smithson, James D. Davis, Harry R. Huey, William Reinhardt and the Misses Olga Shortess, Elizabeth Cooper, Alexina Robinson, Betty Chiles, Carolyn Helma, Margaret Wanders, Jean Young and Leah Frederick.

Assembly Speakers For Next Two Weeks Announced

By the efforts of Dr. Livingston the following chapel speakers have been secured for the month of October: October 12—Sweepen Earle, Commissioner of Conservation of Md. October 19—H. V. Holtzworth, Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Delaware.

MEN'S COUNCIL TAKES OATH

TAKEN BEFORE WHOLE ASSEMBLY, SEPT. 28

The Men's Student Council of Washington College was officially sworn in as the governing body of the Student Government Association, at the regular Thursday morning assembly, on September 28, before the speech of Mr. Candier Lammy.

President Mead first gave the oath to Richard Gamber, President of the Student Council. The latter then gave it to the following officers and Class Representatives: Charles B. Clark, Vice President and Senior Representative, Barretto Nuttle and Albert Gristis, Senior Representatives, Lord, Secretary and Junior Representative, Walter Sadler and Richard Saylor, Junior Representatives, and Albert Blamendi and Robert Bean, Sophomore Representatives. The Student Government Representatives will not be elected until Fresh elections in November.

The Oath as taken by the above mentioned officers and members reads as follows: "I do solemnly swear that I will, to the best of my ability, uphold and administer the Constitution and the regulations of the Student Government Association of Washington College, in the position to which I have been elected; that I will give a careful and conscientious hearing to all matters brought before the Council, and do my best to render an honest decision on all cases, to preserve the honor and the tradition of Washington College."

Rev. Robert E. Green, '30, pastor of the M. E. Church, Greenwood, Del., was a member of the graduating class, School of Theology, Boston University, the past June.

President Mead States

This is the season of the year when campus publications the country over take stock of the student bodies they represent, and commend or criticize them as follows: "I do solemnly swear that I will, to the best of my ability, uphold and administer the Constitution and the regulations of the Student Government Association of Washington College, in the position to which I have been elected; that I will give a careful and conscientious hearing to all matters brought before the Council, and do my best to render an honest decision on all cases, to preserve the honor and the tradition of Washington College."

The truth is, of course, that there is no accepted definition. Each student body arrives at its own standard. There are still a few, notably those subterfuge-published (and sometimes subterfuge-published) which limit their exhibition of "College Spirit" to the excessively vocal lip-service for a team of men whose names they scarcely know, and whom they do not recognize in their street clothes. The idea of doing anything for Alma Mater except shouting is foreign to these lands.

Such, of course, is not the Washington ideal as I have observed it. I believe in enthusiasm, in organized cheering, in the proper "blowing off steam," in the encouragement it

BALTIMOREANS GIVEN EDGE

CAPTAIN DICK GAMBER LEADS LOCAL PLAYERS

The Maroon and Black of Washington College will today clash with the Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins University at Homewood Field, Baltimore, Md., in the opening game of the season for each team. Baltimore sports writers are granting a light edge to Hopkins, making the Shoremen the under-dogs. Regardless of pre-game odds, the game will be a close one, with both teams having to fight to the bitter end to exact victory.

During the past three weeks the Elks-Hiker coached squad has put in many hard drills, and with more time to go in steps than in previous years, the eleven is in better condition as the opening game draws nigh. The past week has been utilized principally for signal perfection. Each dinner time, as well as in the regular afternoon drill, the players have been running through plays. Kneeballs have been placed on passing-defense, kick-offs, punting and passing.

The starting lineup has some new faces. Elfin Dwyer, big tackle in the line holding down his position following absence from school during the last two campaigns. His running mate is Henry Nowak, who has made good strides forward in his playing this year. He failed to even make his letter in 1932, but this season he shows more improvement than any man on the squad. The guards will be Elfin Ward and John Lord, both veterans of 1932, though Ward then played tackle. The center position will be filled by Ralph Harrison, whose heady play is expected to be instrumental in the team's success this year. Captain Dick Gamber, all-around athlete will again play right end. For a light man, especially Gamber is one of the best linemen in the state. Russ Baker will perform at the left back. Charley Clark, Phil Shipps and Joe O'Farrell will be ready to take over. An end position is called upon. In the back field, Fritz Reinhold, star punter, will call signals. Other regular backfield men will be Charley Berry, Al Bilanchuk, Al Green, the latter a Freshman, and former star at Friend Central High in Philadelphia.

Hopkins is rated as having a fine chance for an undefeated season, though being the best since 1925. Their hopes were blighted somewhat, however, when Pete Reynolds, speedy and clever halfback was injured the other day. His play was second only to that of Boots Evers, All Maryland end last year for Hopkins. Other threats on Hopkins team are McClen, Beeler, Yearley, Russell and Stacey. Grooms the latter will go to the team with the most fight, and to the one getting some breaks.

The Hopkins lineup is unavailable. Other Washington substitutes besides the three end men above are Jones, Hall, Wallace, Carey and Mead, lineemen; and Stacey, Dobbins and Tignor, backfield men.

TRADITIONAL "RATING" MUST GO

At Washington College we have a tradition which has continued for too long a period. Usually such things around the College are discarded with great difficulty, because of the long fact that they are traditions. They become often, though, "warm-out and unintelligent customs." The one we have in mind and which exists too freely in our Institution is called "Rating." At other places it takes other names, for instance, "hazing." But, at the larger and progressive Colleges and Universities, it has become obsolete, regardless of what it is called. Probably the fact that we are "Small" here at our College, in more than one interpretation, is the dominant reason for our backwardness.

We make our position clear to begin with. We do not contend that Freshmen should be treated with too much regard, for that in itself would be harmful to "recent powers" in High Schools. We see nothing about the initial rat party which causes us to advocate its abolishment. In fact, we favor rating for a month or two, but after then it must go. At Washington College it has in the past extended in some forms up until the first of June, nine months after Freshmen matriculation. We admit that it has become less intensive, even since our arrival on the Campus three years ago. But, that is not as it should be. We justly think it must disappear entirely after our designated period.

Our reasons for our stand are several. In the first place, nothing is derived from the continuation of the system after the first of December. We designate the first of December because it is about that time that the Fresh-Sophomore football game takes place, the climax of relationships between the two classes. Freshman who has not then become aware of his own insignificance, can be made to do so, by an upperclassman's mere disregard of the former's self and actions. Secondly, rating after this period becomes tiresome to Freshmen who tolerate it, by force more or less, without objection at first. It hinders to a certain degree their ability to derive all benefits from College life that they should, and takes away from their complete enjoyment of College. Thirdly, it is no longer practiced in Modern Institutions which cope differently with the situation. Dealing out physical punishments was a method used in the past to make what was, irrelevant of its ethical qualities. It still is used to a limited extent, but every tendency is away from it. Not only are physical punishments being eliminated, but at other places an upperclassman doesn't yell on the first year class men to perform personal services that they themselves should do. At least this is true, after the first of December. There are other arguments but the related ones suffice.

So, in conclusion, we advocate that after the first of December, all forms of "Rating" be abolished. We are not attempting, however, to urge the elimination of Student Council regulations as those requiring Freshmen mail route, and such others. Several reasons are given as to why these are necessary to this plan. The present Sophomore Class and its Vigilance Committee must be the leaders in the movement. The Student Council, which by the way favors such a move, must be willing and ready to back the leaders, and lastly, upperclassmen who have had their time, must altogether refrain from rating.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

A severe yet just criticism of us as a student body is our lack of intellectual curiosity, but perhaps one is not wholly at fault for one's lack of scholarly desire for knowledge. The criticism might have been brought closer home by decrying our indifferent attitude toward all student activities. Too many words have been wasted on college sports when what is the cause of our want of interest and enthusiasm in affairs which are our own? Remember that we the students, primarily, make up Washington College. Certainly college holds more for us than the necessary requirements for graduation, and a degree so will deliberately cheat itself and ourselves.

Are affairs in such a deplorable state that we are not conscious that there is such a thing as student activities? If such is the case, all of us have in some manner contributed to make conditions as they are. Surely there are some worthy and desirable organizations on the Hill, yet notice the difficulty in getting full attendance at meetings, read the carelessly written contributions to the "Elm," or watch the football scoring through its schedule with six backfield men. Rather than add to the "vicious circle" by retreating and "kripping" or drawing aside and lamenting and still remaining ineffective, let's make a change and let's do it immediately.

Let's us not ask how, let's come out of our shells, let's offer suggestions, if necessary let us grow bold and demand things, and then watch he spirit grow.

CULTURAL COMMENT

In "The Shape of Things to Come" (Macmillan $3.50), H. G. Wells continues to outline the uneven trend of our ways up to the year 2106. The author, a fascinating and readable account of the gradual self-destruction of what we call "civilization." The reader finds himself in the Utopian world state of 2106, much bewildered but enthralled with the triumphs of militarism and the eventual decimations of the world population. Mr. Wells has omitted none of his customary caustic humor, and to it he has added a brilliance for surpassing that of his other works.

The U. S. is grateful to the Hitler regime for its political exile in the country of Emil Ludwig, Germany's most outstanding contemporary biographer. The author of "Napoleon," "Bismarck," etc., has decided to turn his attention to history as a result of the recent atrocities of Germany and promises a brilliant record. Among other duties, Mr. Ludwig will supervise the filming of his great work, "Napoleon" in Hollywood.

William Lyon Phelps believed Yale professor, now retired, has recently published a list of authors, some of which he is convinced will survive through the next 100 years. The discriminative list follows:

Kipling, Conrad, Hardy, Yeats, Mark Twain, Meredith, Henry James and George Santayana. Berry's "Peter Pan," Shaw's "St. Joan," Galsworthy's "Fanny Hill," Bennett's "Old Wives Tales," and George Moore's "Evelyn Waters."

Sinclair Lewis' newest novel, "An Arden" will be called "Work Of Art." It is to be published in January 24th by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

PURLOINED PHRASES

By ROLAND LEKEBUSCH

I am afraid that this column has given the impression that all phrases which can be purloined verge upon the frivolous, if not the "natty" side of life—but as the cold grey dawn of a new college year breaks upon us with the same ghastly reality with which a new schedule containing eight o'clocks dawned upon my consciousness about three weeks ago, and as I ponder in this chastened and sober mood, I feel it my duty to perpetrate upon my fellow suffering reader one certain phrase of a more serious nature. So let me see if I can't "crack" this "natty" material and extract a musty kernel, in the hope that I might inspire my readers to let me say—keep awake in class; spend less time behind the power house; put away those field glasses; or—oh well!

For he dreamed beneath the moon, And slept beneath the sun, And he lived a life of "going to do" And died with nothing done.

To reach the Port of Success, we must sometimes sail with the wind and sometimes against it—but we must SAIL, and not DRIFT, nor LIE AT ANCHOR.

Two little men stood looking at a hill;

One was named CANT and one was named WILL.

CANT said, "I never in the world can climb this hill,"

So there he is, at the bottom still.

WILL said, "I'll get to the top, because I will,"

And there he is now, at the top of the hill.

Two little men are living by a hill;

At the hill, none is CANT, at the top is WILL.

Now let me add a "crack" by Longfellow

The heights by great men reached and kept,

Were not attained by sudden flight,

But they, whilst their companion slept,

Were toiling upwards in the night.

And, for the benefit of some of the students, conclude with one by Diviac:

To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step toward knowledge.

TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

As was the case last year, a declaration of just what this column is going to be, is in order. In the first place we shall print nothing but what is true. If it is not all we can say is, "We only heard." A fair warning might be to quote the well placed words of last year's columnist when he said, "You are my friends won't tell you but they will tell on you."

We have often read of how graduates have longed to be able to come back and tell their learned professors where to "shend in." Now, there is such a story circulating about our own Washington College. We won't bother the authorities, because we did not learn it from a wholly veracious person. Last August Dr. Howell was taken fishing by a grad, fresh from the toils of "econ." It was a decidedly unexpected thing, for no fish were caught and because the boat overturned, our good Registrar received an excellent dunking. Knowing "Joe Dick" as we did, perhaps it was premeditated. Tsk. Tsk!

We wonder who the girl was who cried to "Joe" Hall during the entire period he was teaching at High School? What was the name of the piece?

The co-ed held a nocturnal feast—no, it was not because they gorgeous too much although they were rather well fed, but it must have been the devilish crabs that made all sick.

Skip the social because is only a "Flicker."

A Froch is starting a new hobby of collecting Scout badges. All year scouts "be prepared," for in four years it may be asleep.

From Reid Hall, the home of mystic and musty secrets, there is a Scotch atmosphere. The bag pipes are playing "The Campbells." Are you? Unhappily this has become a display of a rather sordid piece of humor on the part of one whom we think should know better. However, it is offset by an Aid ballad to a new but nice Scot, it's "She's My Anne, He's My Jo."

"Lone Scout" Dwyer commutes many miles each week. Chercher is femme.

The old school is on the back stretch when the men go out for archery while the women take laps around the track. Well, girls, keep it up and we'll soon have the boys trotting over, perhaps not "Okey," but able to stand the pace.

Its truth "Ralph got the bump over his eye from a door!"

There were "A. W. O.'s" to Beterton, Nuff said!

Two men attend a football meeting, the same night both coaches were killed.

Perry calls up 3 times in one day, drives 16 miles to find—? (The girl in Gill's with another man.)

However, it is not a record which we saw you propped against a brick wall last week end.

Full many and peaceful are the sighs of those who have scanned this column and failed to find their name herein. But not the latter who refuses to be left out. "John Alden" is a record which you "Okey." The test that went with it was scene by Presells and given to the worthy. What score John got we don't know, but we are sure he will be able to speak for himself and have that indefinable, irresistible something called charm. We're all for you!

FOOTBALL

—By Geo. Eklatis

The football season opened in many sections of the country a couple of weeks ago. But for Washington College, the all-important season is this Saturday, with Johns Hopkins University as the opponent. Already there have been upsets in the South, West and Midwest. Tulane's losing to Texas A. & M. in the South, Santa Clara defeating California in the West, and Northwestern falling before Iowa in the Midwest were among them. Our little upset, (or should I say, mine and Western Maryland fans') happened last Saturday when St. Thomas dented Western Maryland College.

Our small squad is in the position of accomplishing a little upset. Johns Hopkins University is reputed to have the best material and finest prospects since 1926, when they were through a difficult schedule and defeated. We shall start the game Saturday as the "under-dog," with Johns Hopkins fans speculating on how large the score will be. Be that as it may, Roger, who he was coaching at Princeton said, "A team that won't be beat, can't be beat."

The squad has been working for three weeks on the fundamentals of tackling, blocking, punting and passing, also in mastering a new type of offense; consisting of spins and double spins. This new offense puts a lot of pressure on the boys, as timing is essential, too. Timing cannot be accomplished without exceptionally good blocking and hard running.

The schedule this year is blessed by the absence of so-called "big-leaguers." Each of the eight games is within reach of the boys' ability to put in the "win" side of the season ledger. The boys have been attacking the boreome duties of mastering fundamentals with far greater enthusiasm than shown in the past two years. Barring injuries, this bodes no good for future opponents.

Our college has never had many men experienced in the art of playing football and this year there are less of these experienced men than ever before, making the loss of Brimhurst, Dickerson, Johnson, "Moxie" Carey, Usilton, Bissard, Nicholson, Evans, Higgins, and Wilmot, felt more than it would normally have been. With only two substitutes for the backfield, and one experienced man for the position of guard, tackle, and center, most of the boys will have to "iron Man" throughout the entire season. My prayers that no one will be injured!

May I make a request to the student body? Help the squad by taking a load off their minds regarding how you feel about them. Their task will be heavy enough carrying on through eight games, mastering a new offense and with no chance of a let-down, as all of our games present a difficult problem where all of the boys will have to be "on their toes" mentally and physically, and nursing bumps and bruises. They represent you all and the school. Do not add, lighten by cheering them on and giving them your whole-hearted support!

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAMS PRACTISING DAILY

Most Successful Year In Sport Hoped For

The hockey season this year is hoped to be more successful than that of any previous year. The girls are practicing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at three-thirty in the afternoon. Help to beginners is given in the mornings.

Although Walbert, Kreeger, Farr, Schmidt, Dele and Horres, valuable members of last year's varsity, have graduated, there are many new players to take their places.

Some of the seasoned players, new this year and possibilities for the team, are Post, Brown, Anthony, Westcott, Grainger, and Harshaw.

Those left from last year's varsity are Frederick, Helms, Metcalf, Byrn and Rasin.

Miss Doris Bell, Women's Athletic Director, feels that the rivalry between the Freshman-Junior teams and Sophomore-Senior teams should be intense, and that each team will have plenty of competition with many hard fought battles waged.

Gridders To Play Gallaudet Oct. 14

Victory Expected In First Home Game Of Year

The first home football game of the season will be played next Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14, at 2:30 P. M., on Washington field, against Gallaudet College, of Washington, D. C.

This game creates much interest, for last year when the Maroon and Black players beat the Mutes, it was their first victory in three years. The game was won by a score of 6 to 0, following Bill Nicholson's dash off tackle late in the game for the only score.

This year Gallaudet is slightly improved and the pupils of Coach Eklatis will have to play head-up football to beat their Capital City rivals. However, at the same time, the Mutes will present the weakest team on the Shoremen's schedule this year.

Barring injuries in today's game against Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, the local players should be in a position to win their first game on the home field in four years, next week. The game will be followed by the Varsity Club's dance in the gymnasium at 8 P. M. That affair must be a Victory Dance.

FALL PRACTICE FOR ARCHERS BEING HELD

Attempts Will Be Made To Break College Records

The popular sport of Archery has its full share of followers at Washington College this year. There are many new students out for the game during the present fall practice. The regular season is in the spring. Techniques and fundamentals are now being perfected.

The main object of the archers this year will be to beat Carl Wyle's standing record, also the record, of 117. Miss Doris Bell, Women's Athletic Director also presents a record of twenty-three out of twenty-four target hits, that students will attempt to break with a perfect score.

Candler Lazenby Speaks In Assembly

Subject was "Life At A German University"

Mr. Candler Lazenby, an Assistant Secretary of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, addressed the Assembly of Washington College, held in William Smith Hall on Thursday, September 28, at 11 o'clock in the morning, on the subject of "Life at a German University."

Mr. Lazenby was appropriately introduced by his former Dean and Advisor, Assistant Mead, who was associated with the Speaker at Birmingham-Southern University. Secretary Lazenby began his account of student life abroad by taking his hypothetical American student, who holds the Bachelor's Degree, and knows but little of German, across the Sea, and to Bremen, the principal port of the Land. Thence to Hanover via railroad, Mr. Lazenby had him become acquainted somewhat with German customs, and especially German courtesy.

With detailed descriptions of the courses, faculty, and the ritual of registration, Mr. Lazenby traced the students activities and experience through the various semesters, an vacation periods, which he noted a differing from ours. He told of the variety of sports, and particularly that of skiing, which offer recreation to the brainy scholar.

Finally, the Speaker explained the origin and purpose of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, and spoke of the many international benefits derived from its wide spread achievements.

The Assembly was adjourned by Dr. Mead, who expressed his wish that some time soon Washington College might have the opportunity of sending some of her students abroad in exchange for those of other lands.

The exodus of Canadian hockey players continued when it was announced that four "Ottawa" scouts would play this winter with the Racing Club of Paris. They are sailing with three Montreal players.

COLLEGE SENIORS

Editor's Note:

It is the aim of the "Elm" to publish in each issue throughout the year, accounts of members of the Class of 1934. After being in college four years, these Seniors merit having their accomplishments placed before all those connected with the college.

RICHARD M. GAMBER

Richard Gamber is a native of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. He graduated from that High School and later from Swarthmore Preparatory School. He was an outstanding athlete at these places of learning and has carried on in those lines after entering Washington College with the Class of 1934 in the fall of 1930.

"Dick" was elected President of the Freshmen class and since then has been re-elected unanimously three times to the same office. He (Continued In Next Column) has been a member of the Student Council since his Sophomore year, was Secretary his Junior year and is President of that organization this year. He has held other numerous offices at Secretary of the Varsity Club, and Treasurer of the Blue Key Honorary Fraternity. This year he is President of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, Vice President of the Blue Key, Captain of the Football team. He has twice won the Porter Character Medal and last year won the Snijders Medal for the best all-around athlete at Washington College.

Dick has made a name that will go down in history at the Shore College in athletics. Up to his Senior year he has won eight letters, three in football, three in lacrosse and two in basketball. He has twice been given honorable mention by W. Wilson Wingate of the Baltimore News and Sunday American for All-Maryland (Continued In Next Column)

Lacrosse teams, and was picked by Paul Braderick of the Evening Sun of Baltimore on the Second All-Maryland Lacrosse team in 1932. Wingate also gave Gamber Honorable Mention in football last year.

This Senior is majoring in Economics and his record since we have known him certainly indicates a bright future. Our hats off to him.

FREDERICK W. REINHOLD

Fred W. Reinhold is a graduate of City College, Baltimore, and of Donahoe's Preparatory School at Ilchester, Md. His home is at Irvington, Md. At Washington College Fritz has made many friends and done much fine work.

He is majoring in Mathematics and the Sciences. In the last three years he has made himself well known for his athletic ability. He has been a regular in football and in lacrosse, each year since his matriculation in 1930. His excellent kicking in football has constantly been the worry of opposing players. In his Sophomore year his "educated foot" kept (Continued In Next Column) the University of Maryland constantly backed up to their goal line, and was very instrumental in holding them to a low 13 to 0 score. Other teams have run against the same thing. Although too light to be a constant ground gainer, his open field running is valuable. In lacrosse Fritz has made the largest name for himself. In 1932, his Sophomore year, he was picked on the first All-Maryland team by Paul Broderick of the Evening Sun, and on the second by Wilson Wingate, famed Features Sports Editor of the Baltimore News and Sunday American, and was given Honorable Mention by the latter for All-American Goal-Keeper. Last year, 1933, he was chosen by Wingate as All-Maryland and was selected by the Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association to play on an All-Star team at the Chicago World's Fair, against an All-Star Canadian Team.

Fritz is Vice-President of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity and at one time was Treasurer of that organization. He was President of the Sophomore Vigilance Committee and is a member of the Varsity Club.

—about Cigarettes

Of all the ways in which tobacco is used the cigarette is the mildest form

YOU know, ever since the Indians found out the pleasure of smoking tobacco, there have been many ways of enjoying it.

But of all the ways in which tobacco is used, the cigarette is the mildest form.

Another thing—cigarettes are about the most convenient smoke. All you have to do is strike a match.

Everything that money can buy and everything that science knows about is used to make Chesterfields.

The right home-grown tobacco—seasoned with just enough aromatic Turkish—are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way.

Then the cigarettes are made right—firm, well-filled. Chesterfield uses the right kind of pure cigarette paper.

There are other good cigarettes, of course, but Chesterfield is

Editor Of Year Book To Resume Studies

Paul W. T. Pippin Has Been Out Due To Operation

Paul W. T. Pippin, a Senior at Washington College is expected to return to college within the next week. His enforced absence so far this semester has been due to a serious operation he underwent this past August. Paul is now fastly regaining his usual fine health and by spring he hopes to be in shape for lacrosse. For the past two seasons he has held down in a fine manner a close defense position.

Pippin is Editor-in-Chief of the 1934 Year Book, the "Persius." Although away from school these past three weeks, he has been able to do some work on this publication, with the aid of Business Manager, William Emory Burkhardt. His many friends in College will be glad to see him again on the Campus.

NOTICE

In order to make strides forward as far as "ratting" is concerned, the Sophomore Vigilance Committee wishes to ask every upperclassman Juniors and Seniors, to refrain from "taking a turn" at the Freshmen. The example of upperclassmen can go quite a ways in helping to make Washington College a progressive one in regards to the treatment of new men.

—The Vigilance Committee.

Student Council Minutes

Oct. 2, 1933.

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber who reported Dr. Mead's suggestion of a Frosh-Soph tie-up to substitute for the annual tug-o-war and mud fight. After a general discussion the question was referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Sadler, Nuttle and Giraltis.

Mr. Giraltis submitted a completed motion that rat rules be suspended after the Frosh-Soph game with the exception of one or two rules; the motion was withdrawn and tabled until a future date. Dr. Livingood suggested that the Council meet with the Vigilance Committee at the beginning of the school year. This was put in form of a motion and carried. Mr. Giraltis suggested that something be done to stop the participation of upper classmen in "ratting." Mr. Lord motioned that a notice to this effect be published in the Elm. The motion was carried. President Gamber appointed the following committee to personally request the cooperation of the Faculty with the Council: Messrs. Clark, Sadler, Bean.

On due motion the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

John Mason Lord, Secretary.

The name "naval stores" was given to turpentine and rosin because in colonial days gum from the southern pines was used in caulking ships.

Gems From Alice Leone Moats's Book

"No Nice Girl Swears" Gives Girl's Viewpoint

Alice Leone Moats is a smoothie. She knows the ropes and she can keep track of the score. Any college man would be lucky to inveigle a date with her and any co-ed would be more than lucky to get this unusual society girl into a corner in order to parlor a few pointers. The very fact that she has written a complete volume of her cogitated information should send the whole of Washington College into the seventh heaven of delight. "No Nice Girl Swears" is written from the girl's viewpoint, all of which means nothing at all. Any one of the masculine campus cut-ups, whose mother hasn't told him all, might and some of Miss Moats's slants extraordinarily handy. For you, you beaux and belles, and you would-be-the-same, we shall excerpt from week to week little gems from "No Nice Girl Swears." (A word about the extensive correspondence passing through the college post office.)

"Effusions of any kind have gone completely out of style, and nowhere is this more true than in letter-writing. When your latest beau goes to South America, don't try to out-Rhél Miss Dell and go into passionate flights of literary ecstasy in an attempt to describe emotions which no one human is capable of feeling. If you can't restrain yourself, at least extract a promise from your correspondent that he will tear the letters up as soon as they are read. And make this a rule with those you yourself receive. Packages of love-letters tied up in pastel ribbons smuck ridiculously of the nineties, and if you are a newspaper reader, and need secretly warn you of the trouble and embarrassment they can cause."

First Club Meeting Of Year On Wednesday, Sept. 27

The first meeting of the Washington College Varsity Club was called to order by President Charles B. Clark on Wednesday, September 27. The work of the year for the club was outlined and then the rest of the meeting was devoted to making arrangements for the Annual dance of the club. It was suggested that a petition be submitted by John Lord, Secretary to Dr. K. S. Buxton, Secretary of the Students Activities Committee, for acquiring the date of Oct. 14, following the Gallaudet home game for the dance. A committee for securing an orchestra was appointed to act at once.

The second meeting of the year was called on Wednesday evening, Oct. 4. Final arrangements were made for the dance. It was reported that the Students Activities Committee had approved of the requested date for the dance. Russell Baker, chairman of the Orchestra Committee reported that he had secured Bob Ryan's Troubadours from Baltimore to play at the affair. This orchestra, it is remembered, played at the "Depression" Cotillion last year. The Club approval of Baker's action. Other committees were appointed and the meeting was adjourned.

A life line for mine rescue work has been constructed which is equipped with an electrical signaling device and also supplies each member of the crew with light in addition to their cap lamps.

GRIDMEN MEET U. OF DELAWARE

President Roosevelt And Party Expected To Attend

LARGE CROWD WILL SEE GAME AT KIBLER FIELD

The fighting Maroon and Black football eleven of Washington College, fresh from crushing Gallaudet College last Saturday by an unexpected 48 to 0 score, will this afternoon attempt to mark the second year of the season when the Blue Hens of the University of Delaware are met on Kibler Field, Chestertown, Md.

Pres. Roosevelt Expected To Attend

Aside from a great desire to avenge the 8-0 defeat handed them last year by this team in the first gridiron clash following the renewal of athletic relationships between the two Colleges, the Shoremen will have several other reasons for victory. In the first place it is very possible that President and Mrs. Roosevelt and party will attend the game, in connection with their official visit here to take part in the Inauguration of the Gilbert W. Mead as the Head of Washington College. Then, the day has been designated as Homecoming day, and a large crowd of Alumni and friends are expected to appear by nearly the same score by which Washington won last week, it must be considered that the Blue Hens engaged of the big-league West Point team. At the same time, however, newspaper men credited Delaware with out-playing the second and third teams of Army during the second half, all though outscored. They have no tentative stars in Pohl and Nigels, end and tackle, respectively, and in their own backfield of Capt. Branner, Owen, Kemmle, and Ed Thompson, sloping any running plays the visitors have. Ward, out of last week's game by virtue of an injury incurred in the Hopkins game, is expected to start in form today. In the backfield, Fritz Reinhold will bark signals, punt, and do most anything required of a good football player; Chetley Barry, Al Dobbins, and Ed Thompson, the halves and Al Bianconi will be at the fullback position.

Delaware Has Better Reserves

have, and which is a great one, is that of possessing many more and experienced reserves. Although satisfied with the play of his substitutes, in the Gallaudet game, Coach Klattke is hopeful that his first-stringers will not be injured. The line-up and numbers will be found on the sports page.

FOOTBALL MANAGER THROWN UNDER SHOWER

Burkhardt, Fully Dressed, Is Victim As Tradition Goes On

If traditions count for anything, the Washington College representative on the gridiron should have no trouble with Delaware University today. It has long been a custom to throw the Football Manager, fully dressed, under one of the gymnasium showers, in order to bring victory to the team that performed the act. Consequently, after a peppy practice yesterday afternoon, Football Manager Wm. Emory Burkhardt was the victim of this old tradition. The good part is that he is said to have had on some of his roommate's clothes, but we are sure they both would do anything for victory today. Last night's pep meeting was the best since they were started anew last year. Prof. Dumchott gave a good talk, and Capt. Gamble, Dobbins, Ward and Reinhold spoke for the players. "Cheer Leader Hodgson and his assistants Beynton and Sterling, were in charge, Raymond Moffett led the singing of the college songs.

INAUGURAL BALL TO BE HELD IN GYM TONIGHT

Under Auspices Of Student Gov't.; Music By Bob Ryan

The festivities of the gala Saturday, October 21, will be brought to a close, after the spectacular celebration of the morning, and the traditional football game of the afternoon, by a dance, given under the sanction of the Student Council of Washington College, held in the College Gymnasium, at which the Delaware team, Alumni, and friends will be guests.

The dance is being planned by a Committee of the Council, and the gymnasium will be simply but appropriately decorated. An orchestra, probably "Bob" Ryan, who, it is recalled, performed at the Varsity Club function last week, is being engaged by Albert Bianconi, and various other Councilmen are arranging for the accommodation of the many guests who are expected. It is now thought that an admission fee of approximately fifty cents will be charged. All visitors who wish to do so are urged to attend. The dance begins at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening.

U. S. Artillery Field Pieces To Fire Roosevelt Salute

A very late news report indicates that the Presidential salute to be accorded Franklin Roosevelt will be fired by two U. S. Artillery field pieces, which are being sent with a complement of officers and men, from Fort Hoge.

An earlier dispatch indicated that a National Guard piece would be used, but in its stead will be these two guns which have not yet been fired. The event will assume their future historical significance.

TO RECEIVE DOCTOR OF LAWS DEGREE AT MEAD INAUGURAL

Is Second Chief Executive To Be So Honored By Washington College; Geo. Washington Given Same in 1789

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES BEGIN AT 10:55 A. M.; MRS. ROOSEVELT WILL ACCOMPANY HUSBAND

History will repeat itself on the Campus of Washington College at 10:30 o'clock in the morning of Saturday, October 21st, when Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, receives the Degree of Doctor of Laws from the College, presented by the newly-inaugurated President Gilbert Wilcox Mead, as did his immortal predecessor, George Washington, on a memorable morning in May, one hundred and fifty-one years ago.

George Washington, the first, Franklin Roosevelt, the latest, of the thirty-two men who have held the most powerful position on earth but two of them have been recommended by the Board of Visitors and Governors and presented by the President of the College with this historic honor. And in a ceremony exceeding in size and equalling in pomp and pageantry the first President's, so does President Roosevelt receive from President Mead, after the latter's inaugural address, this scholarly designation. Every moment of the event, from the entrance of the presidential yacht, the Sequoia, into the historic Chester River, the Chief Executive's landing at Gollington Manor, the Colonial estate of Col. H. S. Brown, Chairman of the Board of Visitors and Governors of the College, and his military progress into the College grounds, until the luncheon at noon back at Gollington, will be of memorable significance in the life of the institution and the community.

The academic award will be made in the presence of thousands of spectators, and scores of distinguished guests, including Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Congressional delegation, representatives of colleges and universities from far and near, will be received by the complete broadcasting, sound-filming and newspaper arrangements which have been made. At the completion of the ceremony President and Mrs. Roosevelt and their parties, Governor Ritchie and his party, and other invited guests totaling some fifty will return to Col. Brown's country estate, where luncheon will be served, text, which luncheon will be served.

Morning Itinerary

President and Mrs. Roosevelt will board the Sequoia at Annapolis some time Friday night, and thence will proceed to the Chesapeake, or possibly, at a short distance up, the Chester River, where the craft, with her submachine-chaser escort from the U. S. Navy, under way again then, the boats, which welcoming yachtsmen will have increased to a sizable flotilla, will proceed to the pier on the river, where Col. H. S. Brown, who the President will embark about 10:30 A. M. and rest for a short time.

Escort To Chestertown

At about 10:50, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and their aides will depart in White House cars for the College. They will be escorted by a detachment of Maryland State Motorcycle Police under the command of Captain Ed. McK. Johnson, who is the Commander of State Police. Other cars in the procession contain representatives of the College and town, and Secret Service men. The party will make historic points, as Wordsell's Tavern, where Washington stayed, and Emmanuel Church, birth-place of Protestant Episcopalianism in America, as it enters old Chestertown, which is already bedecked with flags and bunting for the occasion. Guard ropes strung along the curbs will keep the way clear from two-enthusiastic sight-seers, and when the Guest of Honor and his company finally reach the top of broad Washington Avenue, two hundred Maryland National Guards, under the command of Major Frank B. Hines, will act as a guard of honor.

Inaugural Ceremony

At 10:55 A. M. the Academic Procession, colorful for the brilliant regalia of Washington's Faculty and the representatives from more than three-quarters of a hundred colleges which have responded to the invitations, will have formed, and to the accompaniment of music of the College Orchestra and a local band, will majestically move to the platform which has been erected on the terrace directly in front of William Smith Hall. There the President, Mrs. Roosevelt, and their aides will join the officials of the College. Probably Governor Ritchie will do likewise. The inaugural address will be offered by the Rt. Rev. W. E. Daveport, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Eastern, and Dr. Gilbert Wilcox Mead, after being introduced by Col. Brown, will deliver his inaugural address as nineteenth President of the sequentary institution. After the speech, which will contain a personal message, Col. H. S. Brown, Chairman of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College, will present the President of the United States as candidate for the Degree of Doctor of Laws. After the formal citation by Registrar Wm. R. Fowell, of the College, the diploma will be presented, and the degree conferred, by President Mead.

Washington's Diploma

The diplomas for the Doctor of Laws is handsomely bound in a richly embossed leather case, on one side of which is contained a photograph of the diploma presented to Washington a century and a half ago. (Continued On Page Two)

Educator Wants Politics Taught

William McAndrews Says Students Must Know Affairs

(From the Milwaukee Journal)

When white-bounded William McAndrews, one of the outstanding high school educators in the country and former superintendent of schools in Chicago, stood up to address them, members of the Milwaukee Principals' Association rose in spontaneous tribute.

"Sit down, sit down," said Mr. McAndrews. "I'm no star-spangled banner. Ask Milton," he nodded at Milton C. Potter, Milwaukee superintendent of schools, "if I am. Milton comes from that State which—my native State Michigan."

From then on they were he. He could scold them good-naturedly, bully them humorously, and he did, and they liked it.

"We're supposed to be leaders," he reproved, "but what do we lead? Literary discussions on whether W. Shakespeare's works were written by W. Shakespeare or by another man of the same name! We don't know a thing about the economic news of the day. We know what happened in 1492, we know what happened in 1666, we know the square of a triangle, and we know the abbasive algebra, but our knowledge of the political and economic situation in 1933 is appalling in its paucity."

"What are we teaching children about the N. R. A.? What are we giving them about the bank moratorium? We're teaching little, why not? Because we don't know ourselves! We don't read political editorials in the daily press because political are dry." But I tell you that unless you do something to turn children's mind toward vital, living problems this generation will be as muddle-headed as the one we taught.

"Somebody said that it would be a grand thing if we could have an epidemic that would leave all the school buildings standing, but kill all the teaching teachers. What do you think about that?"

"Remember Washington? Of course, you remember Washington; you may not know who Oliver D. Young or Nicholas Murray Butler is in 1933, but you know all about Washington and 1787. Well, Washington preached the spread of knowledge among all people in order that public opinion might be enlightened, for public opinion, he said, is the force in government such as ours."

"We must teach politics in the pure sense of the word. Look at the future! This winter will be worse than the winter before, and nobody yet has a solution. You're the people who must be relied on to see that this generation doesn't make such mistakes as the last; you must prevent wreckage of the school."

"No teacher thinks of dollars and cents when he's in his classroom. But a teacher can be a good teacher on his pay isn't sufficient for him and the life of a growing person."

He shifted his attack to the side.

"If you," he accused, "don't get enough, if you break a leg in the morning, if you haven't had enough sleep, if you're nervous and you're not fit for my children. Go to bed an hour earlier. Go to bed at 8 P. M. There's no law against it. If you're ashamed to not tell any body, sneak in there under the covers."

College Is One Of First To Send Report To Baltimore

The N. R. A. Campaign at Washington College was quietly but effectively conducted a few weeks ago. Many have been interested in looking over the Consumer's Roll of Honor of the Washington College Division which is posted in the Post Office in Chestertown. The Honor list of Kent County is also on display, and records show this county is second in the state in this campaign.

A report was sent to the N. R. A. headquarters in Baltimore, and a letter of appreciation was received from them stating that Washington College was the first college in this district to send in a report. And it was also stated that they had made special mention of this fact in their Baltimore district report to Governor Ritchie.

INSTALLED AT ALFRED

Dr. Paul E. Titworth formerly the President of Washington College, was yesterday inaugurated as Head of the Alma Mater, Alfred University.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY OF COLLEGE IS FORMED

At a final organization meeting held on Friday, Oct. 13, in the lecture room of the chemistry department, in William Smith Hall, the Chemical Society of Washington College was permanently formed.

The Society is the result of a general movement among the students of chemistry at the college for such organization, and the recognition of this desire led to the calling of an assembly of all students interested in science, not necessarily chemistry, for the election of suitable officers by Dr. K. S. Buxton, Professor of Chemistry.

The aim of the Society, it was pointed out, is the advancement of science and scientific knowledge at the College, and at the meetings, which will probably be held semi-monthly, at a time not yet decided upon, papers will be read dealing with recent research in the sciences.

At the first meeting the following officers were elected: President (Senior) John Wagner; Vice-President (Senior), John Southam; Secretary (a Junior), Jiged Ingersoll; Treasurer (a Sophomore), Charles Dudley. The present roll of the Society numbers twenty.

A GREAT HONOR

The events of today at Washington College will go down in the History of the College and in that of Historical Societies and books just as George Washington's visit back in 1789. The visit of the present President of the United States to Washington is indeed the greatest honor bestowed upon our old and venerable institution of higher learning since that visit of the first Chief Executive of the country. The visits are similar in that each man who honors us is likewise honored in turn by the conferring of the Honorary degree of Doctors of Laws upon him, by Washington College. It is only this fitting that our College which has served so usefully for the past century and a half should receive such distinction.

We are deeply indebted to Colonel Hiram S. Brown, Chairman of the Board of Visitors and Governors, and to our President, Gilbert W. Mead as the sponsor for this program. Their foresight in the planning of it is to be greatly commended, and the RLM offers its congratulations.

In speaking of the honor that is being accorded us, we must not forget the event, that of the inauguration of Dr. Gilbert W. Mead as the nineteenth Head of Washington College, that after all is the fundamental concern of the day. We have spoken previously of his fine qualifications and already he has attested to their validity.

So, students, grasp the significance of the whole affair, take it all in and make records of it for your heirs. It is something that cannot be casually regarded unless one wants to miss one of the finest opportunities available to witness a great event. Aside from getting a glimpse of the President of the United States and being heard speak, there will be other notables who will help add to the importance of the fact that National Radio hook-up will enable people all over the country to listen in as the Honorary degree is conferred, and that a Movietone will be taken, testifies to the importance of the day, other than its great significance to Washington College. Make the most of it!

A STEP FORWARD

The recent steps taken by the governing body of the Fraternities on the Hill, and the rules set down by them, is indicative of progress and accomplishment. The action taken is clearly given and defined in an article in this issue. Everyone who has been acquainted with the Fraternity problems, is prone to consider what has been done as necessary for the growth, as it should be, of the organizations which are involved.

The rules and regulations as set down, will be of great benefit to College Freshmen, who shall not in the future be molested by over-zealous Fraternity men who attempt to influence them in many ways concerning the Greek Letter bodies. This will allow the first year men to become adjusted into College life in the normal way. The Fraternities themselves, will not be in a position in the amount of respect accorded them. No longer will they be looked upon as cut-throats, who have no possible device to flatter their victims who once won, must settle down to the reality that he is then only an ordinary individual and not a superior being.

The rule which forbids pledging a man with an index below the equivalent of a "C" average will serve to eliminate ones who dangle on as a liability of the Fraternity.

Therefore, Fraternities, and your representatives who have been responsible for this action, we predict better times for you if agreements are carried out.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

A situation that has grown to a disturbing problem is the lack of an atmosphere conducive to study during the evening periods in the library. When the student librarians lose control and when the college librarian himself cannot command respect the matter must be serious.

The cause of the disturbance is a group of students, numbering as many as the fingers on one hand, who would command attention to themselves by rattling their pipes, spitting, and throwing away the library, deliberately scraping chairs, and shouting through the open windows, and a second and somewhat larger group who use the library as a social-gathering center. The result is the impeding for the remainder of the students who must use books in the stacks to study.

Conditions have become such that the Student Council deemed it necessary to assign a Council member to the library every evening to help maintain order. Perhaps the Council hoped that the action, although mild, would prove the students' recidity. The majority of the students need no such supervision and some recent polling. We doubt the wisdom of holding in check these people who cannot convert themselves to not to overstep the bonds of freedom granted them in the use of the library. The number of offenders is few and could be very easily singled out and punished by exclusion from the library or expulsion from college.

We are not attempting to magnify the problem but it is serious enough to be called to the attention of the Student Council, who take half way measures about it!

Galworthy: Creative Genius

The year 1933 marks the death of John Galworthy, the finest interpreter, perhaps, of the English people. Galworthy began his literary career as a dramatist, a field in which he enjoyed well-merited fame. His plays are all based on ethical or social problems, but reflect a keen sense of dramatic values. We are all familiar, of course with such noted pieces as "Justice," and "Justice."

It is in his capacity as novelist, however, that we know Galworthy best. Who does not appreciate his significant "Saga" of the Immemorable Foray? The "Saga" is perhaps the most representative of Victorian England, and Soames Foray, most representative of all Englishmen. Galworthy has given to us a detailed canvas of upper middle class society during the later Victorian and Edwardian eras. He claimed no honors as a deep reflector of the love of a tender father towards his were the passing reactions of detached observer in a changing world.

Galworthy knew his England as Hawthorne knew his Greece. He felt great passion for her, an ecstatic ardor that he breathed into all his works with tremendous pride. It was the love of a tender father towards his only daughter. All of Galworthy's works are permeated with the glory and the splendor of England and the English people. The work before he died, Galworthy was the recipient of the Nobel award for Literature, at which time he was cited as the greatest living contributor to European letters. In sheer cre-

Galworthy, in refined literary skill, and a superb descriptive ability, Galworthy knew no equal. He held the stage alone. His death has left an irreconcilable gap in English literature. Of him the student might say as Markham once said of Lincoln—

"And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

Have all these characters been mustered, not
As puppets for a penny show to bind,
Into a web of plot and counter-plot;

Then, when I think, a too momentous
On a more stable and expansive stage,
Drawn to a stature that effaces art,
Or beside the margins of the printed page.

All that was England, all the bulk-winded pride
Of blood and gentle heartedness, survives
In these familiar people of your pen.
The heritage you gave them will abide

Beyond our breath, on brief unwitting lives—
The Foray women and the Foray men.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

In spite of all the official preparation for Saturday, the powdered preobedies and well combed hair for the Pegasus photographer there is still going on that which can't be printed and that which will be printed despite unveiled and voiced pleas.

Of the Seniors we can say nothing. Double negative! Sarah Ellen is curiauring the Sterling type. As we write this there is the choice bit of the week securing again, and again but it will be placed at the end of the column. Anyway, the party asked for it.

It is our personal opinion that the school is topsy-turvy. Perhaps due to the 48 to victory in the fast fading Indian summer. Any way, Paul put in his first official appearance at the game with a young and attractive married woman, the fecklessness of men. No sooner than he is safely in school, Paul feverently and ardently yearns for an introduction to Anne Whyte.

The man who needs no introduction because of that strange hypocritical personality—has either paid or mesmerized the inmates of Reid Hall into forming a Thompson Brown Club. All but one on an entire floor herein lies mystery. Who is the grand mogul of this organization? Why famed? Well after all—

"Dave" Skipp and "Burke" are rapidly becoming practiced gonologists—it's a shame they can't croon or play a dulcet ace.

It will not be long before the girls of Reid Hall will have to take up the veil, (if it was one of the famed seven there wouldn't be this paragraph). But what can one do in place of the usual Sunday school straths, aside from standing out in the cold before the door? You men—come to come inside and then—no nice girl will ride on a motorcycle. Reid Hall will no doubt edit in the near future a new copy to take place of the antiquated "What Every Nice Girl Should Know," only this new monstrosity will be "What Every Nice Girl Does (7)." Wot st!!!

Rumor has it:
A. Reid Hall is actually overrun with cats.

B. Yearly is intruding "Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong." C. All Freshmen women are bleachers.

D. A Co-Ed dance is in making. E. Gamber was treed by a "mad" dog.

Sh: "How is it you can kiss so delicately?"
?: "I used to love the bugle in the Boy Scouts."

Then comes the lip rouge harvester who reaps a bumper crop. The fact was very much in evidence when Jack was held at Gills and a very much beamed mouth exhibit. You know her as well as we do.

For Jean—watchman—how he nite!

The best definition heard in 'moon is that of a kiss. "An animal and the Sunday school far muscles in a state of contract.

Will be around after the game. Fries' hoping, praying and yelling. "Beat Delaware!"

FOOTBALL

—By Geo. Ekalis

Our Man Football last Saturday was not very kind to the colleges in Maryland. All were beaten with the exception of Washington College, Baltimore University and Loyola College. Baltimore University did not play and Loyola held Langley Field to a scoreless tie. This last bodes no good for us in our game with Loyola, as Langley Field generally has a very good football team, and this year is not an exception.

There were no startling upsets among the major colleges and universities. Some of the scores were surprising. Cornell and Navy being beaten by overwhelming scores and Virginia holding a highly favored Columbia squad to a score of 16-6, were the biggest surprises in the East. Other games resulted as expected in other sections of the country.

Today presents some of the finest contests of the season, among the "Big Leaguers": Army vs. Illinois; Pitt vs. Minnesota; Notre Dame vs. Michigan; Michigan vs. Ohio State; Oregon State vs. Southern California; Washington State vs. California; Georgia vs. Tulane; Tennessee vs. Alabama; Louisiana vs. Arkansas; Texas vs. Centenary, being the more important.

Our own little "big" games are those between Washington College and Delaware; Western Maryland and Georgetown; Loyola and Johns Hopkins; Maryland and Virginia Military Institute; and Navy and Virginia.

We may be so fortunate as to have our very hard working President of these United States as a spectator at our game with Delaware today. We are being highly honored by his presence at the inaugural of Dr. Mendel as the President of Washington College, and we hope he will be able to spare time from his many duties to attend the game in the afternoon on Kibler Field. If he does he must surely will see a football game worthy of his presence and praise.

GRIDDERS TRIPPED BY HOPKINS IN OPENER

Misplays By Local Backs Cause Defeat

The Washington College football team officially opened the 1933 season by losing to Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore on Saturday, October 7th, by a score of 21 to 0.

This score, however, does not in any way indicate the main feature of the game, which was the strong defensive play of the sturdy Shoreliners. On four occasions the forward wall proved too strong for the Hopkin's backfield men to penetrate, when Washington was in the shadows of her goal posts. Each score that Hopkins made came after hard judgment, on the part of the Maroon and Black backfield men, and were not earned.

Hopkins registered all three touchdowns by an aerial attack, which completely fooled the Washington defense on numerous occasions. The defensive work of Captain Gambler Ward and Dobkins featured the play of the Washington cohorts, while McClean and Beeler stood out for Hopkins.

"Elm" Lists Choice Of Winners Of Today's Games

In keeping with one of the main duties during the football season, the ELM picks the following winners for today:

Washington to beat Delaware, Hopkins to beat Loyola.

Y. M. I. to beat Maryland, Lebanon Valley to beat Mt. St. Mary's.

Georgetown to beat Western Maryland.

Army to beat Illinois, Navy to beat Virginia.

Harvard to beat Holy Cross, Princeton to beat Columbia.

Notre Dame to beat Carnegie Tech.

In 1878, A. Cutler, of Louisville, pulled his body up by the little finger of one hand six times.

Coming Opponents Beaten Last Week

Only Susquehanna Emerges Victor, Loyola Tied

The football teams that represent College that Washington College will meet in coming games this year, fared rather poorly for the most part in last week's contests.

Delaware University, designated as today's opponent, took the short end of a 52 to 0 score when playing in an last game against the West Point Cadets. However, this defeat will not place the Maroon and Black gridders as favorites, for the Blue Hen will be fighting to forget their setback by emerging victors from a tussle with more natural opponents. If anything, we would predict a tie, unless superior reserves of Delaware come too heavily.

Susquehanna University of Soligscrope, Pa., which will be encountered by the Shoremen next Saturday, October 28, was fortunate last week to defeat Haverford College 6 to 0. The latter team will still offer opposition for Washington on November 18. The recent victory of Susquehanna indicates that Haverford is getting greatly improved over last season, or that Susquehanna is below its form of 1932 when it was rated next to Colgate in the East. The latter is more probably the situation. The Maroon and Black should defeat both of these teams if everything goes well, and expect improvement in play as the season advances, materials.

Mt. St. Mary's College of Emmitsburg, Md., is reputed as having the second best team in the State, second only to their Western Maryland College neighbors. To date, the Mounts who play here on November 4, have not won a game, losing to Georgetown after a stubborn resistance was offered to Western Maryland, by one touchdown; and last Saturday to Vincent's by the count of 14 to 6.

BOARD OF MANAGERS CHOSEN BY COEDS

Miss Raising Heads Girls' Athletic Body

On Monday afternoon, October 9th, there was a meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association. A Freshman representative was elected to the Board of Managers. It was decided that every girl who was on this board had to attend the practice and games or she would be asked to resign. This rule was passed so that when the Board has to pick the team, every girl will have a fair idea of who deserves a position and who doesn't.

Those on the Board of Managers are: Seniors—Patience Pyle and Dorothy Kimble; Juniors—Katherine Hyland and Ruth Cannon; Sophomores—Leah Froedrick; Freshmen—Jean Harshaw; Members at large—Ellen Pick, Doris Metcalfe and Isabel North; Publicity Manager—Jean Harshaw.

The officers of this association are: President—Lucille Rasin; Vice-President—Sarah Ellen Bray; Secretary and Treasurer—Carolyn Helms.

The Board now has set a meeting to decide when the first game between the Freshmen-Junior team and Sophomore-Senior team will be played, and what girls will participate on each team.

Stevens, Former Yale Coach Predicts Tricky Grid Deaths

Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, formerly varsity and now freshman coach at Yale, predicts that thirty to forty fatal injuries would be charged to football during the coming season. He says that between two and three hundred thousand young men will be playing the game this season.

Lefty Grove pulled a Rubie Waddell who was charging an exhibition game against a Syracuse, N. Y., semi-pro team recently. The outfield walked away and lefty proceeded to strike out three in a row.

Henri Cochet, famous French tennis star, has turned professional.

Gallaudet Beaten 48-0 By Shoremen

Maroon and Black Players Exceeded Expectations

Back on the home stamping grounds and full of a new team spirit, the Washington College gridders made an impressive and unexpected showing Saturday, October 14th, by completely baffling and trouncing a big Gallaudet team, 48 to 0. A great change in teamwork, spirit, attitude and play was shown more convincing than was the largest score made by a Maroon and Black team in fifteen years.

With the opening kick-off the fighting Maroon and Black players started their assortment of splinters, reverses, and passes which soon piled up a 27 to 0 lead in the first half. The second half, "Burr," "Joe," "Hall" and "Ship," tramp up seven touchdowns in short order, while "Fritz" Reinhold and "Art" Griems converted six of the seven attempts into added points. Most of the evening was done in the second and fourth quarters.

Coaches Ekalis and Kibler expressed satisfaction with the improved play of the team, and are looking forward to the Delaware game with new enthusiasm. Coach Ekalis was well pleased with the play of the backfield men, especially with the wall carrying of Dobkins, Berry and Bilancioni. "Fritz" Reinhold, quarterback, gave his regular excellent performance as a finished punter, placing several of his spirals well out of the reach of the Gallaudet safety man. The line play of Dwyer and Lord was outstanding through the game. Omar Carey playing in the injured Ward's place also performed well. The large score, a novelty to many of our supporters, gave Coach Ekalis a chance to use his second team part of the time, and they made an impressive showing during their stay in the game.

The lineup and summary: Washington
Baughman L. E. Gamber

New Scholastic Attitude Is Seen

Feeling Between Faculty And Students Discussed

By William O. Baker

The past few years have seen much discussion, both here and abroad, over the scholastic attitude of those receiving instruction. Toward the instructor, and, possibly, this feeling at Washington College provides a subject for some study, especially at the opening of the Academic year.

In many poorly informed circles the system extensively followed by many European Universities regarding the relationship between the professor and student is recommended. This would seem, to the casual observer, to be one of distant and cool formality. Actually, at least a part of the faculty by whom the student is instructed become his intimate friends and advisors. To be sure, this association is much more mature than can usually be expected in this country, since European students tend to be more ripened than Americans.

Here, all sorts of adolescent barriers exist between a friendly and complete understanding between the teacher and the sincerely interested student. Our university system is factory-like for its largeness and studied impersonality. The student has the privilege of gazing at the lecturer for a crowded period, and then may be allowed to confer with a very minor instructor. Here is no chance for a close bond between the well of knowledge and inspiring experience which is the fine teacher's, and the inquiring mind of the pupil. However, this important circumstance of size need not trouble the members of Washington College.

But, with the speed of the Lernaean Hydra's head; new separating walls project themselves in the small college. A student inclined toward friendliness with his professor is accused of courting the latter's favor for marks and such machinery. These litigious and provincial contentions seem absurd, as do also the policies of "family-like breeds contempt," and also disdain often rightly attributed to faculty members, but, thankfully, very slightly in Washington College.

Published research by a leading American journalist this past year indicates a decided trend, in the scholarly circles of this country, notably Yale, Harvard, Princeton and a few others, toward more cooperation of the teacher and student in a purely pedagogical way. Also, in these institutions, the tremendous value of consulting instructors, or perhaps a particular instructor, about one's personal habits and decisions is being recognized occasionally.

The fine staff of Washington College offers a worth-while opportunity for the student body to adopt the policy which, in the expensive of at least a few at the college has earned great dividends, that of—less the pedagogue, more the friend.

Y. M. C. A. Reviews Rattling In Meeting

Freshmen Proclaim Good Effects Of Old Custom

On Wednesday evening, October 4th, the Y. M. C. A., sponsoring at its first meeting a discussion on "Rattling," provided an interesting hour on this—seemingly inexhaustible though time-worn topic to the large number of students who attended. Led by Chairman Dick Gomer, those present admirably covered the subject in so short a time, Professor Goodwin and several other students bringing forward their experiences at a wide range of other colleges. But, most revealing was the attitude of the freshmen, who, under no compulsion, unanimously agreed as to the lack of success of this year's rattling, and even proclaimed of a beneficial effect by its use opposed to the upper-classmen, who offered all the destructive criticism. Constructively, one of the speakers suggested as a substitute for the hazing, a plan whereby all members of the student body would ostracize those entering students who needed discipline by simply ignoring them. As to the results of the meeting, in the words of the chairman, both sides fared equally well, and President Sadler promises, in the light of the fertility of those present, to continue the investigation.

NEW MEMBERS TAKEN IN BY MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Biology Department Gets Gifts For Its Museum

The Department of Biology acknowledges recent gifts to its museum as follows: (a.) Two very fine specimens, dried and mounted of Tarantula (Giant Poisonous Spider) and Phosnoom (The Harned Toad of the Western Desert) respectively, given by Emerson P. Slacum (Sophomore). (b.) Samples of polished wood from the same genus. (c.) Specimens of local spiders given by A. Elliott Brown (Freshman).

Gifts of specimens, living or dead, are always welcome, and anyone interested in our collection may see them at any suitable time on application to myself, or to John Wagner, (Student Assistant).

Victory Dance Held By Varsity Club

Affair Following Gallaudet Game Is A Success

A large number of the student body crowded the gymnasium last Saturday night in celebration of the 48 to 0 victory of the Ekatis eleven over the Gallaudet gridlers. The occasion was the "W" Club dance sponsored annually by the Washington varsity men. The athletic department was represented by Miss Doris Bell, Coach Kibler and Professor Dunschoff. Among the other faculty guests were Dr. Livingood and Dr. Buxton. Coach Ekatis having been called to Baltimore immediately after the game, could not attend.

Excellent music was furnished by Bob Ryan and his Troubadours from Baltimore who featured a specially arranged medley of college songs and marches including the Washington Alma Mater. The gym was simply but effectively decorated in the Maroon and Black colors of old Washington.

All of the football squad were present and received many congratulations and deserved praise for their decisive crushing of Gallaudet. A madri gasp spread as the students celebrated the first grid victory of the season and the first triumph of its kind in the football history of Washington College. The next victory dance, will be this Saturday after the Washington-Delaware contest.

COLLEGE SENIORS

EDITOR'S NOTE. This is the second of a series of Senior biographies being conducted by the Elm. Others will follow in later issues.

SARAH ELLEN BYRN

Sarah Ellen Byrn holds the highest and most important office available for Women Students at the College, that of the Presidency of the Women's Student Council. Her long list of other activities points her out as the most outstanding Senior girl. Graduating from Cambridge High School in 1929, she took a post-graduate course the following year, acting also as Laboratory Assistant in Chemistry and Physics. In the fall of 1930, she matriculated at Washington College. Her athletic ability was immediately recognized as she made the Hockey Varsity her first year, and has continued to win a position on the same every year since. She also made the Girls' Tennis Varsity in her first and third years, and was Singles Champion in 1932, being runner-up in her Freshman year. In other athletic lines she has played on her class basketball team each year.

Miss Byrn is President of the Kappa Gamma Society this year, and was Sergeant-at-Arms last year. She is President of the Y. W. C. A. and Vice-President of the Board of Managers of the Girls' Athletic Association and of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society. This year she is Women's Editor of the Elm, and Senior Editor of the Year Book. Her high scholastic ranking qualifies her for the Women's Honor Society, of which she is a member and of which she was Secretary last year. She also is a member of the Senior Honor Society, and this year was one of the recipients of the scholarship given by the Board of Visitors and Governors. She has also been a Library Assistant all four years.

The abilities of this Senior leave no doubt that she will be a success in her chosen field of teaching French and English, her Major and Minor subjects respectively.

ALBERT E. DOBKINS

Albert E. Dobkins came quite a ways to enter Washington College in the fall of 1930, traveling from his native Waterbury, Connecticut. He starred on the athletic team at Crosby High School in Waterbury, being rated as a great basketball player on the Connecticut State Championship team. Also in Football and Baseball he won quite an enviable reputation. He spent one year at Troy Conference Academy in New England after leaving High School.

At the Shore College Dobkins' popularity is attested to by the many offices he holds. He was elected to the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity at the end of his Fresh Year. Last year he was Secretary and now in the Blue Key President. He was Vice-President of his class for his first three years. Last year he was Treasurer of the Varsity Club and now is Vice President. He heads the Athletic Association and is Vice President of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity. Along Literary lines, "Dobby" is Literary Editor of the ELM and writes a column in one of the local town papers.

His accomplishments have not been limited to extra-curriculars, for his Scholarship ranking won for him a Merit Scholarship last year, but this year he gave it up to become Head Waiter in the Cafeteria. In athletics, Dobby has done well. He has been a regular in football each year, serving as quarterback some of the time. His defensive play is of high order, as he makes up for lack of size by fight and ferocity. In Baseball he has been a mainstay of the squad each year. He played Lacrosse two years but last year took up Baseball when it was reinstated at the College.

With the respect of everyone who knows him, Dobkins has many friends who will miss him after graduation. He hopes to find a Coaching and Teaching job for next year. Good luck to him.

RALPH E. HARRIES

Ralph Harries, prepped at McKinley Tech of Washington, D. C., and at Takoma Park Silver Spring High School. His home is at Takoma Park, Md. In High School Ralph was a three sports man, starring on the Basketball, Football and Baseball teams. Also he was Editor of the Student Publication in his school, and prominent in other High School activities.

At College, Ralph has shown great knowledge, but has not secured equivalent marks, seeming to regard them as side issues, it seems. He had made friends with everyone and probably can claim more of them than any man in College. Among these friends are men of high position, whose contact has given Ralph a wealth of valuable information.

Ralph has been interested in the Y. M. C. A. work and was chosen President of that organization for his Junior Year. He attended several conferences in connection with this work. He has twice been Editor of the Student Handbook and at the present is writing a column for one of the local papers. He has been Secretary of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and has taken an active part in the work of other organizations as the Glee Club, singing in the Double and Mixed quartets. He is also a member of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Ralph won his letter in Football his second and third years at College and this year is regular Center. Last year he played at that position. His head-up play makes him a valuable lineman. He has been out for the Varsity Basketball team, but has not followed up this sport. Last spring he reported for Lacrosse, and his work as a close defense man was impressive for a beginner. He made such progress that he is expected to fill the position left vacant by the graduation of Joe Bringham.

To a congenial friend, whose interest lies in the History and Government field, we extend our best wishes.

JOSEPH M. O'FARRELL

Joseph M. O'Farrell claims Westminster, Md., as his home. He graduated from the St. John's High School there in 1930, having been a prominent Football player and an excellent Baseball pitcher.

"Joe" spent the first two years after graduation at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Maryland. He was making a name for himself as a Baseball pitcher until an elbow injury threatened to end his ball tossing days. However he regained use of his arm, though it left him with an "orthopedic delivery" and hindered his effectiveness slightly. O'Farrell grew tired of the Mt. St. Mary's strictness and entered Washington College in the fall of 1932, as a Junior. His friendly personality and ability to argue especially along Sports lines has gained Joe many friends. In arguing for Baseball in preference to Lacrosse, he could practically out-argue the three occupants of Room 55, Middle Hall, last year who were Bartholomew, Beuman and Check. Doing the latter was no easy task as we recollect.

O'Farrell has been a hard worker, majoring in History and minoring in English. He plans to teach school and coach if an opening is found. We are anticipating a successful life for this fine friend and excellent fellow. Joe is enjoying his second year of football and next spring will make his second in Baseball at Washington College.

NO NICE GIRLS SWEARS

Extracts taken from Alice Leane Most's Book, by Olga Shortess

Mrs. Nice Girl has launched out. Last issue she wasn't writing soft letters, nor was her Romeo no matter how gloomy. Now Alice Leane Mosts can tell you almost all you need to know about that grand old American custom, the blind date. True it is that a nice honey campus like Washington doesn't offer so many opportunities for an entirely blind date, but there will always be transient visitors, you know. So—

"While we're on the subject of dates, we might as well go into the 'blind' variety. It is not good form or luck of it that should worry you in accepting a blind date—it's the risk you run by being holed to death.

"There are two kinds of blind dates. The first: George has a friend, Joe Gatch, who either is a stranger in town or, for some reason, known no girls. Kind-hearted George asks Helen to provide another girl for the occasion and the merry foursome sets forth. All too soon the poor girl discovers that the probable reason why somebody had to be provided for Joe is that he, on his own, couldn't possibly get anything but a blind date suitor. The second: George arranges a date for his good friend Henry with Mary, and they go out alone together. Unless Mary knows that George's taste in men is infallible, she had better take and advice and plead another engagement. And she will do well to keep in mind that one man's opinion of another is usually founded upon whether he was once able to drink the entire University of Virginia, under the table (an impossible feat, we understand), or is a good football player. Undoubtedly worthy qualities, but of little use to a girl.

MT. VERNON HOLDS INFORMAL MEETING

Impromptu Speeches Are Source Of Program

The Mount Vernon Literary Society met in the Auditorium of William Smith Hall at the regular meeting hour, October 19, 1933. Due to existing conditions the regular program could not be carried out and impromptus were substituted as a means of entertainment. This type of speeches was made by various members of the society, expressing opinions on the programs to be held hereafter. Opinions were expressed by Joseph Freedman, Alfred Gardner, Ralph Harrier, Katherine Kierin, and Mildred Skinner.

Commissioner Earle Addresses Assembly

On October 10, 1933, Mr. Serpenson Earle was the guest speaker before the assembly. Mr. Earle, who is the State Conservation Commissioner of Maryland, is also interested in the historical background of the State, particularly in the Eastern Shore, and has written a book entitled "The Chesapeake Bay Country."

The topic of discussion was the "Historical and Present Interest of the Underlands of the State," in which Mr. Earle traced the marine life history and mentioned oysters, crabs, and fine fish as the chief foods of the Chesapeake Bay which furnish livelihood for many inhabitants of Virginia and Maryland.

Classical Society Is Formed Recently By Prof. Solandt

Miss Harriett Ragan Will Head New Group

Washington's first Classical Society was organized last week under the patronage of Professor Solandt of the Classical Department. Mr. Solandt, acting as Praeses pro tempore, welcomed the forty enthusiastic charter members with a brief resume of the purposes of the society.

The officers elected are: Praeses, Miss Harriett Ragan; Scriba, Joseph H. Freedman; and Quaestor Aeserli, Miss Phoebe Pyle. Upon assuming the office of the Praeses, the organization authorized the creation of two committees, one on Program and consisting of the Misses Moore, Hopburn, and Zittel, and one on Constitution, consisting of Miss Silex, and Messrs. Anthony and Slavum. The first was authorized to prepare programs for the current year, and the second to draft a set of by-laws. Meetings are to be held bi-monthly, every second Friday.

An outlined, the functions of the Society are twofold: To provide classical background for Latin and Greek students and to acquaint the student body of the college with the great store of Latin culture. The Society contemplates to bring to the college, classical articles of note, motion pictures, slides, objects d'art, and anything tending to promote an interest in the Classics. Suggestions from students and faculty are welcome.

Greims Elected Fresh President; Yeartee On Council

At the Freshman Class elections yesterday conducted by the Men's Student Council the following were elected to office: Student Council Representative, Lawrence Yeartee; President of Class, Arthur Greims; Vice-President, William Hall; Secretary, Phoebe Pyle; Treasurer, John Mead.

Dr. F. G. Livingood Heads Newly Formed Honor Society

The results of the movement that was on foot last year to form scholastic honor society for both men and women have at last assumed definite form. The idea was originated by the Women's Honor Society, and a tentative organization was formed last year. This year the organization was modeled after a national honor society and the officers chosen were: Dr. Livingood, President; J. R. Smithson, Vice-President; Dr. Buxton, Recording Secretary; Dr. Dole, Corresponding Secretary; Dr. Dole, Treasurer. Since the beginning of the present year a constitution has been drawn up and adopted. Under many conditions the officers will be all faculty members except the Vice-President and an Assistant Recording Secretary (this office has not yet been filled).

Of most interest to the students of the college are the qualifications for membership in the Society. Members shall be chosen at the end of the first semester of the junior year and must have an index of 2.25 and be in the upper tenth of their class and of good character.

MISS MABEL BABCOCK WEDS DELANO BOYNTON

College Mates Married Saturday; To Continue Studies

College romances have a way of culminating in marriage after graduation but last week a romance at Washington College glided swiftly into matrimony as Miss Mabel Babcock, a senior, became the bride of Delano Boynton, a junior.

The bride is a resident of Wilmington, Delaware, and the groom resides at Marshallton, a suburb of the Delaware metropolis. They were married on Saturday in the latter State.

Marriage will not interfere with the completion of their studies at the local college. They have taken an apartment in town and will continue as students, the first case in history locally where man and wife were undergraduates in the college at the same time.

Fresh-Soph Tie-Up Will Take Place Monday, Nov. 6

The Fresh-Soph tie-up which will replace the annual tug-of-war on Sunday night, is described by Albert Givalt, chairman of the Student Council Committee in charge of the tie-up.

Procedure
A number of pieces of rope, equal to two-thirds of the number of participants, each piece six feet long are placed in the center of the circle. At a starting signal given by one of the referees, the participants standing outside of the circle rush for the pile of ropes and immediately proceed to try to tie each other up. At the final whistle the number of tied up men on each side are counted and the class which has the larger proportion of its members tied up loses the contest.

Rules
1.—FOULS—Such as flinging, biting, kicking, and other forms of unnecessary roughness will constitute a foul and the offender will be disqualified from further participation in the contest.

2.—TIME—The time of the contest will be from 10 to 15 minutes according to the discretion of the referees.

3.—ALL contestants must be outside the circle when the starting signal is given.

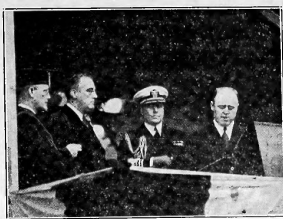

4.—TIE-UP—A person is considered to be tied up when he is outside the circle with both hands, both feet or one hand and one foot tied. When a person is once tied up he is immediately disqualified from further participation in the contest.

All questions arising in connection with the tie-up must be settled by the referees.

Speeches Given By Members At Chemical Society Meeting

The newly formed Washington Chemical Society held its first organizational meeting on Friday, October 21, at seven o'clock in room 35. President Javon took charge of the meeting which was attended by twenty-five students and two faculty members, Dr. Buxton and Prof. Tule. The program for the evening consisted of three short speeches given by members of the society.

PRESIDENT MEAD STATES

I had a letter on Monday from a gentleman who visited me on our big day, October 21. He played a very important part in the ceremonies, and all of us saw him. At present he lives in Washington.

The letter was unexpected, and was therefore more than ever appreciated. We had been thanked, both formally and informally, by the proper parties, and I supposed the account was square. Then came this letter.

It was personal, informal, and obviously very sincere. Presidents of the United States don't have to write for letters unless they have them, and unless they mean heartily what they say.

One sentence in the letter belongs to all of us, and should add to the pride of every Washingtonian, present, and future. It was this: "I am happy indeed to be an alumnus of Washington College."

Truly I was not surprised to see that statement in that letter. The name always sentiment had been spoken, first, before we left the platform after the exercises; second during luncheon; and then again on the day of the yacht on which our visit departed. Obviously he has meant it every time he has said it.

If the President of the United States can express himself unequivocally as being proud to be an alumnus of your college, you have just reason to be proud of her yourself.

I wish every Washingtonian could get into the habit of being proud of the college, and of being willing to express that pride properly on every possible occasion.

When you next go home on vacation—especially at Christmas time—you will certainly be asked a great many questions about the College by your friends and acquaintances. You can do inestimable good, or equal harm to the College according as you answer these questions. Last week's events have put the name of Washington College into every news-report picture house in the United States and Canada, and the broadcast was heard across the continent, and even on ships at sea in the Pacific. Pictures of William Smith Hall, with the company gathered on the platform before it, will appear, by international news service, in the journals of Great Britain and continental Europe.

At one stroke, you have become members of a college whose name has been heard around the world. Are you, also, like Mr. Roosevelt, proud of your connection with this age-old, ever-new institution?

Remember that you are the institution. If you are not proud of it, the reason lies in the shame you have for yourself. If such there be among us—which I doubt—I suggest for them a bit of sweet "pride pill." Try saying over to yourself a dozen times a day these two simple things: "I am proud of Washington College," and "I am a part of Washington College." Then, by the time you go away from the campus you will find it easy to proclaim from the house-tops of your "old home town" that you and Mr. Roosevelt are unanimously proud of the place; and you will find yourself the magnet whose attraction will bring to the College next year an excellent group of new members of the College who will come to share in what we have to offer.

For myself, I join heartily with our newest alumnus; our recent distinguished guest. I am proud to be the President of Washington College; and am anxious to proclaim the fact to everyone I meet. I know I have excellent reason for my feelings of pride in all of you, faculty and students. Washington College is alive and moving forward; and a certain amount of well-bred tooting for ourselves isn't going to hurt a bit!

Gilbert W. Mead.

Dramatic Club Will Present "Dalcly" Late This Fall

The Dramatic Club of Washington College, under the direction of Prof. John W. Makosky, recently announced as its first play of the year.

The list of characters include: Robert Flint, Dorothy Clarke, Ervin Kerber, Betty Childs, Harry Huey, Norris Duffey, Harry Rhodes and Olga Shortens.

Washington Meets Mt. St. Mary's Here Today At 2:30 P. M.

Maroon And Black Conceded Even Chance For Victory

Playing the third home game of the year, the Maroon and Black eleven, still clinging to a narrow and undesired defeat at Susquehanna University last week, will today stack up against Mt. St. Mary's College (team coach Kibler Field at 2:30 P. M.).

Couch Khalids has been putting his charger through strenuous workouts all week in preparation for the Emulphor, plan which comes here with the resumption of having a fine line, with plenty of weight, and with an exceptionally fine backfield ace in the person of Vince Hopkins, who will rank as an All-Mariland player this season. He is a fine pass receiver, and specializes in carrying the pigskin around the flanks. It is in the line of play that he has the right of the thirty yards defeated Washington in 1931 on Kibler field, in the last minute of play. Last week he led Loyola by a similar feat in the closing minutes of the game, a big and fast and also is an outstanding performer for the Mounts, and drops back to do most of the punting and passing. The Mounts have not won a game to date, but have given a good exhibition of ball playing against superior foes.

The Shoremen, although they have won one game, also have not enjoyed very much success. Ward and Harrier will both probably start today, but will be replaced by Omar Carcy and Joe Hall if their injuries have not been healed out sufficiently. Al Dabkins, the mighty little halfback, whose play has been outstanding all season, is expected to be in the lineup although he has been kept from action all week in the last game of the first of last week's game. Fritz Reinhold and Captain Garster also are ready to go, after taking things easy all week in order to be in the best condition for today.

The game will be a hard fought affair, with the Shoremen enjoying a slight edge if injuries are kept down, and if the good passing play of the Mounts is kept in check. The fighting mood and his spirit is the best of the season.

The probable lineups, numbers and reserves:

CAFETERIA SITUATION AGAIN

The existing situation at Washington College concerning the Cafeteria is again the source of an Editorial in the ELM. The very fact that the same thing occurs year after year is indicative that the proper procedure has not been taken by those in a position to remedy the causes of complaint. The whole affair revolves about the condition of the foods as presented to the boarding students at their meals. Before this Editorial is read, a meeting of the Student Body will have been called to consider the question. Because this page goes to press at about the time of the meeting, we cannot comment on it.

The Student Body is protesting not because of the quality of the food, but because of the way it is prepared. There are many well-founded complaints that at times the food is practically unfit to eat, as a result of having been burned, cooked to pieces, or otherwise injured. A good illustrating comparison is afforded by the football players who had occasion to partake of several meals at Susquehanna University last week-end. They related that the Friday evening repast consisted of exactly the same constituents as the same meal at Washington College, but due to proper preparation it was far superior and much more enjoyed.

If only a few students were entering protests, we would be inclined to overlook them, for some, even though they are not so well fed at home, are the first to offer destructive criticisms. However, we know from our own observations and experiences that the reports are true, and instead of coming from those few who object to everything, they are vouched for by the majority of boarding students.

In making our charge that a great change he made, that a new personnel be hired unless immediate improvement is shown. After all, the students are paying for what is given them, and why should they not receive what is due them?

We might add in connection with the cafeteria, that there is too much cutting in line by underlining students who do not realize that they are infringing on the rights of others.

FROSH-SOPH TIE-UP

The abolition of the old and traditional tug-of-war and mud-fight and its replacement by a Soph-Soph tie-up by recent action of the Student Council is a sensible step.

Perhaps to justify our initial statement we must make clear the reasons for the change, because there has already been misunderstanding. Primarily, the Student Council took such measures because Health authorities have declared the site of the old event to be unfit for the continuance of the annual fray. Their decision was the result of finding the water stagnant in the stream used for the rope-pulling contest. Also thick undergrowth and buried barbed wire are dangerous and have in the past caused minor injuries. Last year the contest turned into a mid-slugging affair and the hazards of this are foreseen.

Thus, although serious injuries have not yet been received by participants, it is wise to eliminate any chance when a good substitute can and has been found.

After reading the large expenditures made for athletic equipment for the reforestation army, we wonder if the money is one of planting trees or producing future heavyweight champions and Babe Ruths.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

The finest example that school spirit exists at Washington was manifested in an occurrence that took place in the form of a student body in general.

Last Saturday Washington completely outplayed Susquehanna as statistics will prove, yet lost by a score of 6 to 6. It not because of weakness in the technical phases of the game, not because of lack of determination of the will to win, but because of a just in the form of a mental hazard that the Maroon and Black has been unable to shake. The cause of this bitter defeat served as the living example of what has been hitherto feared lack of winning spirit at Washington.

The football squad spontaneously sensed the realization and at the earliest possible time met for the particular purpose of preventing the repetition of the same cause of future defeats on the gridiron. No one person called the meeting. Not even were the coaches aware that such a meeting was to take place on Sunday night.

It was the gridiron's own problem to be solved by themselves for themselves.

It would hardly be proper to disclose what took place at that meeting. You may see opponents roll up hundred points but you will never again see Washington's chin dropped.

Whatever spirit it, was in evidence in the proceedings of Sunday night. In the day of every man for himself the whole thing was an inspiring experience. Let us begin to clap our own praises, should it be said that College Spirit at Washington is not dead while any one of those twenty-three men on the football squad remains on the Hill.

PURLOINED PHRASES

By ROLAND LEKEBUSCH

She (at football game): "Darling, it's awfully cold here!"
 He: "Maybe it's because there are 16,000 fans here."

According to a French Professor at Syracuse University, when a French girl has reached the age when she can go to an institution of higher learning, she is considered old enough to direct her own affairs, and consequently is under no supervision from the school authorities.

I'll bet on idea like that would be welcomed in the U. S.

"A co-ed who had lost her compact walked:
 Compact, compact to me!" Grrr!

The enterprising students at St. Thomas College take out insurance policies against being called on in class. For a down payment of $25 they may collect $5.00 if the Professor calls on them.

According to various reports, a course in love-making is given at Middlebury College. Not only students, but also members of the faculty have signed up. Demonstrations are given by Seniors.

Some of last month's proposing "rats" might benefit from a few years of Middlebury.

Members of the Royal College of Surgeons in London have succeeded in changing fish into land animals.

Cultural Comment

By Joseph Freedman

We note with sadness the recent death of E. H. Sothern, America's most prominent Shakespearean actor, and dean of the romantic drama. For forty-five years Mr. Sothern had been closely identified with the stage, bringing to it a sense of dignity and grandeur that with his majestic forehead. Among his more famous roles were Romeo, Styloek and Hamlet. He had begun his career in farce, and he played in comedy and romance. With Hamlet, however, Sothern became a tragedian, par excellence. Co-starring with his wife, Julia Marlowe, the two rose to unprecedented heights of fame and international reputation of Shakespeare. In 1930, after retiring from the stage, Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe jointly presented their complete collection of scenery, costumes and properties to the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

In "Poor Spoken Words" (Little, Brown and Co.) Francis Winwar has given us the highlights of the Pre-Raphaelite days in England, and when he has created an exciting chronicle of the Rossettis and their circle. She pictures the Rossettis as highly sensitive, imaginative, and often exuberant. The book is a story of the attempts of Ruskin, Millais, Swinburne, and Rossetti to break down the conventional Victorian attitudes on painting and literature. It is a splendid contrast to the history of the ultra-conservative careers of Trollope, Thackeray and Dickens. Beginning with the turbulent youth of 1840, the chronicle ends with death, beauty and wisdom. It is a luminous pageant, dramatic, accurate, and highly readable.

We welcome the newest addition to Washington, The Classical Society. As is evident by its forming, such a society is in much demand, and can give many benefits to the school. Culturally, it is a great achievement, and we earnestly appreciate the foresight of the charter members.

Special thanks are due to Prof. Solandt.

TOLD TO ME

By I. ONLY HEARD

News galore—and not enough space. Now that the headaches of Homecoming are placed in the archives of past "news," we dimly recall many instances of that notorious week when all went along in the "primrose" path.

First we have a swell story that told Col. Brown said of the Mead (Sr.) chin at the Country Club Dance but it's censored. Among the outstanding events of the past fortnight is the naming of the Holy Souls by "Skip" and "Babs." LOTS O' LUCK. One does not need the specs to know why the A. K. Worton Club was formed. Dubby is Honorary President, pronounced.

Mothers have warned their daughters of strange men—and so what? Olga says Harry Huey what his intentions are—(we're interested in the answer).

Last week we found Gamber treed by a poach in the basement of Villard Hall, but shot (???) Last week we find him treed on Mt. Vernon Ave.—saw that Liz and Bob are gone, don't let the bio-wags get you Dick!

A Beer club has been formed. Five and walk is the requirement. Alas, the Grand Schmeizler can't take it and now a Co-Ed is after honor. She gets them. Other clubs are being formed, not without purpose—the first "skating club"—Charley Berry and the "Little White Lies" Whyte are the newest recruits.

Rumor has it that Sue dated three men in one day but only placed second, being eliminated by Flicker, who dated two in one day. But the boys aren't getting their best out.

The new fad of truth parties is rampant in the aged Normal Hall—truth hurts, but if that's true, we're really angry. Little of that bitter essence is believed and from what we rather there were some rather "gummy" truths told. A mere "bull session" is one of the Fraternity houses seems to have caused more contention among the co-eds than has two of their unweaving gatherings.

The Sheriff is still looking for that big blonde man on the campus. Why?

Mark Wingate following in the footsteps of many of those who have gone before him, is the first Freshman as we know who has dated Mary Jo.

For I. North we recommend a driving ticket to the toe and heel. (It is a cure for somnambulism). Gosh'g, if you start to sleep-walk again in the day light at least wear a coat.

See together:
 Casteel and Johns, Fontaine and Morgan, Slacum and Legg, Skipp and Mitchell.

Co-eds wonder why Charlie Clark is not to be "had." Well girls, but out!

COLLEGE SENIORS

RICHARD W. HALL

Richard W. Hall, more commonly known as "Joe" to his class and College mates, graduated from Princess Anne High School in 1930, after a rather successful High School career. He played on the team, won the half-mile run in his county his Senior year, and took part in other extracurricular activities.

At Washington College "Joe" was primarily distinguished himself as a "mighty" small man in athletics, and as a fine friend. As far as we can find out, he has the respect of everyone who knows him. Not quite experienced enough to win his Varsity letter in football his first two years, "Joe" starred on the Freshmen and Sophomore class teams in their annual games. During his third year, however, he played a lot of good football, alternating at the Quarterback and halfback positions, and easily won his letter. This year, he has shown his versatility by playing not only in the backfield when needed, but by playing at the guard position, when injuries kept other players out. For a small man, his work is exceptionally fine. In Lacrosse he has not yet made a letter, partly due to the fact that he has been out for Goalkeeper, a position which has been expertly filled by Fritz Reinhold. However, Joe had some experience on the Attack last year, and it is expected he will play regularly in one of the positions left vacant by graduation last June. His ability in gymnastics has caused him to be often called "Little Jim London."

Hall is Sergeant-at-Arms of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, a member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and of the Y. M. C. A. He is working for a B. S. degree, specializing in Physics and Mathematics, and qualifying for a Maryland High School Teaching certificate.

OMAR J. CAREY

Omar J. Carey, another Princess Anne youth, was the outstanding athlete at his High School, and was interested in just every High School activity. He matriculated at Washington College in the fall of 1930, and has made out well.

Carey played guard on the Freshmen and Sophomore Class teams, thought out for the Varsity team these two years also. Still trying to make the team when most fellows would have been discouraged and would have failed to continue the attempt, Omar has at last been given an opportunity to show his Football ability. When Ward was injured in the first game of this season, Carey was summoned to take his place. In the last three games he has played a brand of football that has gained the approval of the Coaches and the praise of his team-mates and others. Such persistence deserves recognition of the best kind. In Lacrosse also, Omar has distinguished himself. Substituting as a defense man for two years, he was switched to the In-home position last year and played regularly throughout the season. His consistent good and hard playing won for him an enviable Honorable Mention for the All-Maryland lacrosse team last season. Coach Elvick is banking heavily upon him this year.

Omar has been a star of the Class basketball games, making the All-Star Class team each year so far. Last spring he won the tennis championship of the College and was awarded a silver loving cup for his efforts. He is majoring in French and minoring in Spanish, and hopes to secure a position with the United Fruit Growers and travel in foreign countries after graduation.

W. EMORY BURKHARDT

William Emory Burkhardt was graduated with honors from Eastern High School, Eastern, Maryland. At that High School he took part in many extracurricular activities. He was in several play productions and played for two years on a fine soccer team, which in his Senior Year, 1930, won the Eastern Shore Championship. He also was county champion as High Jumper.

"Turk" won a scholarship to Washington College and enrolled as a freshman in the fall of 1930. He has held several important positions while a student here. He was Assistant Business Manager of the Year Book, the Pegasus, in his Junior Year and this year is Business Manager. He is a reporter on the "ELEM" Staff and served as chief Staff Photographer in 1932. He advanced from the Assistant Managership in the fall of 1932 to the Managership of the Football Team for his Senior Year. His ability was also recognized when he was elected manager of the Concert Orchestra for this year. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity and of several other organizations on the Hill.

Burkhardt is majoring in History and minoring in English. He hopes to teach these subjects, and Coach Athletics. At Washington College he has been a valuable member of the Lacrosse squad for three years and will be again this year. He has also played Class Basketball.

JOHN R. SMITHSON

John R. Smithson came to Washington College in the fall of 1930 after graduating the previous June from Belair High School with high-scholarship honors.

At the Shore College where he is majoring in Mathematics and the Sciences, Jack has been satisfied only with the best of grades. In his Sophomore and Junior Year he had the highest average in his class, won both the Alumni Sophomore Medal and the Visitors and Governors Junior Medal. Though primarily a scholar, Smithson has become associated with several outstanding organizations on the "Hill." He is Historian of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, President of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society of which he served as Secretary during the second semester of his Junior year, and Treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. He has twice Edited the Freshman Handbook and is a member of the Dean's Cabinet.

We look forward to nothing but the best for one of our classmates who, unimpaired with his high grades alone, makes "three point indicies" and who hopes to teach.

FOOTBALL

—By Geo. Ekstis

The football season enters the home stretch. November is truly the "football" month. The spectator is treated to every sight he cares to see on the gridiron. Attacks have been smoothed out, defenses tightened, and the spectator is needed to gather those precious yards and touchdowns. The games the dyed-in-the-wool fan has been looking forward to, are played this month. Those unbroken teams look forward with anxiety to the portion of the year and those beaten to making up for past defeats. This month belongs to the real American boy or college man. The thrill of a perfect back or good hard tackle; out-manuevering a worthy opponent; victory, by hard work, a victory; or in defeat, the glorious feeling that one has done one's best. November belongs to the great American game of football; and to the American boy or young man who plays it, and the young and old who are interested in the sport.

Into this month go only a few undefeated teams. Among the better known are, Michigan, Southern California, Fordham, and Duke. And each of these fine teams that may top place them into the ranks of the defeated any Saturday of this month. Even October gave a couple of them night-moves. Fordham and Southern California will not forget the battles they had to wage to win 2 to 0 and 6 to 3 respectively. Today Fordham, Duke, and College and Michigan face tests worthy of some loss of sleep last night. The majority will hurdle the barriers, but two still fall.

Our sports today are rivals of long standing. Many have been the hard-fought contests with them in all sports. And in the winning or losing, these contests have been clean-cut and today will be no exception.

DELAWARE BLUE HENS CONQUER SHOREMEN

Repeat 8 To 0 Triumph Of Last Year Before Large Crowd

Before the largest crowd yet to witness a football contest at Washington Field, the Maroon and Black performers played a great game, only to lose the "Blue Hens" of Delaware by the same score as last year, 8 to 0. Washington outplayed the Delaware invaders after the first five minutes, but their scoring punch was not forthcoming. Branner scored Delaware's only touchdown in the first few minutes of play, aided greatly by a fifteen yard penalty, which placed the ball on the one-yard line. A few minutes later, Pohl of Delaware broke through to block Reinhold's punt from behind the goal line. Reinhold recovered the ball for safety, which added two points to Delaware's score.

Throughout the second half Washington consistently advanced the ball mainly through the ball toting of Berry and Reinhold, and the forward passing of Blain. Time and time again Washington threatened to score but seemed to lack that scoring punch which has not many a close battle for them.

The play of Carey and Hall in the guard positions was the feature of the game. These little sticks of dynamite were a thorn in the Delaware attack throughout the second half. Green and Kemke bore the brunt of the Delaware offensive, while the fine defensive play of Palmer, a huge tackle, was outstanding.

"Elm" Picks Notre Dame

Last time we picked six out of ten winners. Let's see what we can do today. Here goes:

Washington and Mt. St. Mary's (tie).
 Princeton to beat Brown.
 Notre Dame to beat Navy.
 Fordham to beat Mt. St. Mary's.
 Tulane to beat Colgate.
 Bucknell to beat W. Md.
 Michigan to beat Illinois.
 Yale to beat Dartmouth.
 Columbia to beat Cornell.
 Duke to beat Auburn.
 Record—Win, 6; Lost, 4; Tied, 600.

Washington's Foes Lose Last Week

Haverford Bows To Hopkins; Albright Beats St. Joseph's

Mt. St. Mary's has been the tough luck team of the state so far this season. They have lost four games, to Georgetown, Western Maryland, St. Vincent's and Lebanon Valley, and last week, tied Loyola in the closing minutes of the game. Georgetown beat them because of reserve material. In the fourth quarter, and Western Maryland won only as a result of a recovered fumble deep in the Mount territory. Loyola was completely outplayed and gained only about one-third as much ground. Hopkins, who is making a strong bid for All-Maryland honors, seem to be the real threat. In last week's game of Kibler field, the Malleysmen will be keyed up to win their first victory and the game will be close, for the Shoremen are at an average an undesired defeat at Sellsboro last week.

St. Joseph's College will be met by the Washington College eleven at Philadelphia on Saturday, November 11. Though improved over last year, the Hawks took a 47 to 0 lacing last week when they engaged Albright College. However against Susquehanna University, a team in their class they did well, losing only by a 7 to 6 count. The Washington College-St. Joseph's game should be evenly matched.

Haverford, according to Coach Ullery, of Susquehanna University, is one of the most improved teams he has seen this year. Though they lost only one of last year's players, and depend chiefly on Platts for their ground gaining, they held Susquehanna to a 6 to 0 skimpy victory and last week repulsed the onslaughts of Johns Hopkins University time after time, but finally yielded a 13 to 0 victory to the Blue Jays. Looked upon as rather easy prey for the Shoremen earlier in the season, Haverford will be as tough to beat as any other team on the schedule.

Loyola College, of Baltimore, the last opponent of the Maroon and Black, to be met on Nov. 25, here, has been known to break into the win column all season. Their best effort was last Saturday when they held a much better Mt. St. Mary's team to a 7 to 7 draw. The Jesuits will point St. Mary's and will prepare an aerial offensive, for it is remembered that last year they threw passes all over the gridiron to beat the Washingtonians 52 to 0.

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAMS CHOSEN FOR SEASON

Fresh-Junior Team Promised To Be Strong

The board of managers of the G. I. A. met for the purpose of selecting two teams composed of the Freshman-Junior and Sophomore-Senior classes. No definite decisions were made in regard to these teams. The Sophomores and Seniors have Basie, Helms, Byrns, Metcalfe, Frederick and Cruikshank back in their old positions. Priscilla Grainger a fast inner who played with Sweet Briar last year is only filling the position left open by Bowen.

The Freshman-Junior team is made up mainly of Freshmen. With a little more experience their line will function like veterans. Anthony and Harshaw as wing and center are the main stays of the team. They propose more opposition than the Sophomores and Seniors have met in former years. The first game will be played sometime in the week of November 6th.

The probable lineup will be:
 Soph-Senior Fresh-Junior
 Basie C. Harshaw
 Byrns R.I. Post

Susquehanna Beats Maroon And Black

Coach Ekstis's Chargers Take Undeserved Defeat

Washington's ambitious football team traveled to Sellsboro, Pa., last Saturday and outplayed, out rushed, and outlasted a heavy Susquehanna team but came out on the short end of the score, 6 to 0. Susquehanna managed to score a touchdown in the waning minutes of play in the last period and captured another close battle from the Maroon and Black cohorts.

The Maroon and Black's flashy backfield of Reinhold, Duhkins, Berry and Bianconi sprung a brilliant passing attack but inside the 20-yard stripe their scoring attempts were checked. They had the ball on the 1-yard line but failed to push it over the goal line.

Captain Lee Ribbel led his Susquehanna team in brilliant fashion and was the main factor in the only score of the game, which was played before several thousand homecoming fans. The defensive play of "Al" Duhkins, captured for the Washington College team.

PROF. GOODWIN SPEAKS AT BLUE KEY BANQUET

Five New Members Installed At Annual Affair

The Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity of Washington College held its annual banquet on Thursday evening, October 26, at the Bell Haven Tea Room. The banquet was marked by the installation of new members, elected by their respective classes last Spring.

Professor Frank Goodwin was introduced by Toastmaster Albert E. Dobkins as the guest speaker of the evening. He complimented the group for their active part and leadership in Campus activities, and spoke of the position the Fraternity held.

Others present in addition to Professor Goodwin and President Dobkins were Dr. F. G. Livingood, Faculty Advisor, Professor F. W. Dumschott, Dr. Davis and old members; Richard Gamber, Charles B. Clark, John Lord, Harry Bury, William Baker and Michael Wallace; and new members who were installed: Bar-dette Nottle, William O. Baker, Chas. Berry, Albert Bilancioni, and George Pratt.

Dr. Paul E. Titworth Visits College For Mead Inaugural

Washington College was very glad to welcome back Dr. Paul E. Titworth, former president of the college who visited here the week end of October 21 to witness the inauguration of Dr. Gilbert W. Mead as the new president of the institution and the bestowing of the degree upon President Roosevelt.

Dr. Titworth seemed in the best of health and very much enthused over the visit of President Roosevelt. He considered the event to be the greatest that has ever happened at the college history. He remarked additionally that the feeling of comradeship between the student body and faculty has been noticeably on the increase since the installation of Dr. Mead, and that the greatest period of development of the college has begun. He stated also that Dr. Mead's numerous contacts will be of great benefit to the college.

Student Council Minutes

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber and the previous minutes were read and approved.

A final report on the return of the Delaware dance was presented—the total profit being $15.50.

The library schedule of student council men was discussed. President Gamber suggested that the members being present in the library should act at their discretion in helping to maintain order. The sentiment was advanced that the presence of a student council man in the library as a "policeman" was undesirable. It was suggested that the librarians present a list of offenders to the council.

After a discussion the date for the "Pajama parade" was set for Wednesday, Nov. 1. (weather permitting.) President Gamber announced that the Freshman election would be held Friday, November 3, at 12:30 P. M.

President Gamber appointed Messrs. Sadler, Saylor and Bilancioni to draw up plans in regard to the Thanksgiving holiday—their plans to include the Fresh-Soph football game. (Tentative date, November 29).

The cafeteria situation was discussed with the result that the cafeteria committee is to confer with Pres. Mead.

A further suggestion was made to the effect that President Gamber speak to the Student Body after the next assembly in regard to cutting campus, cutting in line at the cafeteria, etc.

A discussion of the desirability of a shower bath in the gymnasium for the girls resulted to the effect that this matter is to be presented to President Mead.

Respectfully submitted,
John Mason Lord, Sec.

NO NICE GIRL SWEARS

Extracts taken from Alice Leone
Moat's Book, by Olga Shortess

That little simple sentence "No Nice Girl Swears" by now changes quite familiarly on many and many an ear drum. Hitherto the statement itself has gone unchallenged and unexplained. Therefore it might seem high time that the title of these literary feignings be delved into. So the question is, will she or won't she, and if so why not? Alice Leone M. is stilled at nothing. She delects the question of cursing and swearing and using bad words thus: "Mrs. Pest tells us that no lady ever uses slang or swears. Surely this is a slight exaggeration. Or have we been misled by the novels of her day in which the heroines, perfect little ladies all, would in moments of girlish daring refer to their chaperons as "gooseberries," talk of "sponging" (although heaven pretend they should have practiced it) and was "daisy" where we use "swell." What- ever expressions happen to be the current style in slang fall into such general use that the most sensitive ear becomes accustomed to them, and stubborn purists by adopting them unconsciously (usually, it is true, after the rest of the world has had to find something new or go mad). But swearing is slightly different. It has not been affected by vogues, and although an occasional "damn" passes unnoticed, any systematic swearing on the part of a woman comes as a shock. It is always ugly and particularly in moments of stress, vulgar. People who preface every sentence with "My God" are worse. They're tiresome.

DWYER COACHES FROSH;
DOBKINS, THE SOPHS

Teams Working Out Each Day For Annual Class Classic

The big football classic of the year the Freshman-Sophomore tilt, will be held Wednesday, November 29, on Kibler field. The Sophs will be fighting to avenge their humiliating defeat in the tie-up, while the Frosh will be interested in increasing their victories over the upperclassmen. The teams are about evenly matched and a good game is to be looked for. The first year men are depending on speed and the weight of their line while the upperclassmen are placing their hopes in the backfield.

Coach Ellis Dwyer of the Freshman team is relying on members of the varsity squad to assure a victory, namely: Jones, Mead, Towner, White, Bohrer, Wingate, Tiers and Taylor. Other promising prospects include Abolt, Reddish, Nicks, McLain, Weir, Hall, Bordley, Ledbetter and "Bruiser" Branton.

The Sophomores' head coach is Al Dobkins who coached the victorious Frosh team of last year. Assisting him are Dick Gammer, Ralph Harries, and Henry Nowak. The Sophomore backfield includes Evans, Tignor, Pratt, Reinhold and Linthicum, with a number of good reserves. On the line they have such men as Clifford, Miller, Weinroth, Sterling, Krieb, Grieb, Bean and a long line of other dependables for their positions.

Place your bets now for the big game.

MT. VERNON HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

Bohrer Talks On Reactions
To Washington College

At the regular Thursday meeting hour the Mount Vernon meeting of November 16, consisted of a joint program given by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. The first feature was "A Country School" given by the Y. W. C. A. Those participating included Misses Ragan, North, Young, Legge, Clifton, Sparlin and Shinner. Eddie Bohrer then gave a talk on his reaction upon coming to Washington College. A one act play was presented by Messrs. Taylor and Kemper and a pantomime was given by the Y. W. C. A. called "Wild Neli of the Plains."

The meeting of November 9 was entirely put on by freshmen. The program included recitation, reading, Marie Register; Piano solo, Alice M. Sterling; Reading, Louise Nichols; Reading, Barbara Sparlin; Talk, Marjahn Wingate; and a Pantomime by Olga Schweser and Jean Harshaw.

Gammer Attends Meeting Of Philadelphia Alumni

Richard M. Gammer, president of the Student Council, represented the Washington student body at the annual dinner of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Alumni Association in Philadelphia last night. The dinner was held at the Meridian Club, Chancellor and Camac streets.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Mead were the guests of honor at the dinner with many members of the faculty attended.

President MEAD States

I have often been asked what part general reading should play in the life of a student. From my own experience, I am inclined now to agree with one of the teachers of my college days, who always said that, no matter how busy we thought we were, we had more time for reading while in college than we ever would have later. I disagreed with him then, as you probably disagree with me now. Today I am inclined to believe him.

The purpose of a college education, Woodrow Wilson once said, is "to help us to know a good man when we meet him and to tell him when we see him." In other words, to gain a perspective of life by which we may be enabled to make relative judgments. Nothing will do this for us but constant contact with human nature, and books can be as useful as living people, if we treat them properly.

There is a virtue in books as there is in the character of a man. We can never speak with Seneca, nor sit with Will Shakespeare and the brilliant roisters in the Mermaid Tavern, nor walk the seashore and talk the night away with Shelley, nor the student of sciences and mathematics and penetrating lectures of Huxley from his own lips. Yet their essential element is preserved for us, if we will but have them.

Do you recall Hamlet's delightful essay "O! Persons One Would Wish to have Seen"? The title indicates the subject. What a regret we cannot meet and talk with Cervantes, or Moliere, or Walt Whitman, or Keats, or thousands others. Yet we may hear them speak, though we cannot see them again. Some centuries ago the miracle of the printing press multiplied ancient voices and insured their continuance to our later generations. If we think of books as projections of personalities now vanished, and of voices now quieted, we can catch a new glimpse of the pleasure in studying their words.

No man should ever write and issue a book unless he really has something to say. There have been many of those which Charles Lamb called "Things in books of clothing." Time usually takes care of them, and oblivion happily takes them away.

But what about the book which the world has refused to let die? In every case. I believe it is because of the presence of that vital spirit of living human nature, even over the thirty centuries since Homer told first of sullen Achilles or the unscrupulous braggart, Odysseus, or the wandering affections of the wide-living Helen.

Yes, truly great literature is ageless, but it has more than lived for years to recommend it. It has the eternal vitality of a never-dying human record. If it has not life at its core, it is not real literature.

If you are interested in life as you find it, a library is, then, a laboratory of human experience. One man, in an otherwise uninhabited place, can understand himself with the illusion of life, if his bookshelf is adequate. But it will remain illusion, and never furnish him with vital companionship until he has learned to enter into the understanding of the masters of the printed word.

—Gilbert W. Mead.

Class Of '34 To Give Tablet To College

WILL NOTE DEGREE GIVEN TO PRESIDENT

Committee Appointed At Class Meeting To Make Plans

At a Senior Class Meeting yesterday in room 21, William Smith Hall, called by President Gammer, it was decided that the class of '34 present a tablet to the college commemorating the recent visit of President Roosevelt and the conferring of the Doctor of Laws Honor Degree upon him.

The idea, originally conceived by John Wagner '33, is very much approved by President Mead. Dr. Deane Deon, of Women's College, has given valuable information and Wagner has secured information from companies that may be approached on the matter.

President Gammer appointed John Wagner, Paul Pippin, Charlie Clark, and himself, to act on a committee to work on the proposition. Additional plans will be released shortly. As planned, the inscription will probably read, "This tablet commemorates the conferring of the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws on President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, October 21, 1933."

PLANS BEING MADE FOR COLLEGE PRESS CLUB

All Interested Will Meet In Room 11, Monday 7 P. M.

Plans are being perfected for the organization of a Washington College Press Club, whose members will represent the College as correspondents for the papers throughout the territory of the College's influence. All interested persons are invited to meet in Room 2, William Smith Hall, next Monday evening at Nov. 20, at 7 o'clock. Professor Makosky, Professor Goodwin, Dr. Mead, and the Editor of "The Washington EAM" will assist in the formation of plans for the new organization. It is hoped that all sections of the state and surrounding territory will be represented.

SOPH - SENIORS TEAM BEATS FROSH JUNIORS

Hockey Tilt Won By Score Of 5 To 1

Friday afternoon, November seventh, the second game between the Freshman-Senior team and Sophomore-Senior team was played. The final score was five to one in favor of the latter team. It was a very exciting game, however, with each player doing his best and fighting for possession of the ball.

The goals were made by Helms, Rabin, and Grainger for the winning Alumni Association, by Eleanor Stevens for the defeated.

It is thought by all that the next game between the two teams will be a grand clash, as the Freshman-Senior team is gaining more experience and confidence with each game.

GRIDMEN MEET HAVERFORD TODAY AT PHILADELPHIA

GRID CAPTAIN

GAMBER LEADS LOCALS; REINHOLD WILL PUNT

Both Teams Will Be Fighting
For Second Victory Of Year

A badly battered but determined Washington College Football squad moved on to Haverford, Pa., this morning where the Haverford College eleven will be met this afternoon. Both teams will wage hard battles to emerge with their second victory of the current season. From all available information and using performance of this fall as a basis of comparison, the game promises to be a tussle-up between the two combinations.

Haverford Improved

Haverford will present a young team in experience, but which under a new coaching regime has shown much improvement over last year. Coached by Roy E. Randall, All-American Quarterback on the Brown "Iron Man" team in 1927, with his Assistant H. A. Letelle, Brown 1932 Guard, the squad has to date lost to Earlham and Susquehanna, but has won against Hopkins 13 to 0, to Hamilton 14 to 7, and won 7 to 6 from Wesleyan.

VARIED PROGRAM FOR THANKSGIVING PERIOD

Many Students Unable To Go Home Over One Day Holiday

The Student Council has arranged an interesting program for the Washington College Students for the Thanksgiving period. Due to the fact that only Thanksgiving Day is given as a holiday, the majority of the Student Body will have to remain on the campus.

On Wednesday afternoon, November 29, the annual football game between the Sophomores and Freshmen will be staged, offering entertainment for members of these classes and for the upperclassmen. The Victory Dance, sponsored chiefly by the Senior team, will take place in the gymnasium at 8 P. M. Wednesday night.

On Thanksgiving Day a late breakfast will be served, and then the girls' Hockey team will play the football game in a Hockey game. This will afford amusement as well as a happy game, and as it can be determined by the said co-eds are planning on finishing the heaviest football players in the first few minutes, and then will run the other half.

After Miss Ponty feeds the students on turkey and accessories early in the afternoon, either a dance or a matinee at the New Lyceum Theatre, if it can be arranged, and if it is wanted, will complete the Turkey Day activities. Students going home will miss plenty.

Will Organize Kent And Cold County Alumni Body

Dr. J. S. W. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Washington College Alumni Association, has announced a meeting for next Thursday evening at which the Upper Delmarva Chapter of the Alumni Association will be organized. The meeting is set for 8 P. M. in the Alumni Office, William Smith Hall.

The new chapter will be composed of alumni residing in Kent and Cecil counties, totaling some three hundred according to Dr. Jones.

A badly battered but determined Washington College Football squad moved on to Haverford, Pa., this morning where the Haverford College eleven will be met this afternoon. Both teams will wage hard battles to emerge with their second victory of the current season. From all available information and using performance of this fall as a basis of comparison, the game promises to be a tussle-up between the two combinations.

Haverford Improved

Haverford will present a young team in experience, but which under a new coaching regime has shown much improvement over last year. Coached by Roy E. Randall, All-American Quarterback on the Brown "Iron Man" team in 1927, with his Assistant H. A. Letelle, Brown 1932 Guard, the squad has to date lost to Earlham and Susquehanna, but has won against Hopkins 13 to 0, to Hamilton 14 to 7, and won 7 to 6 from Wesleyan.

Captain Pleasant Is Star

Captain Pleasant, the only Senior in the starting lineup, is easily the most outstanding player on the team. A product of the Washington School, Philadelphia, he is a hard running back and an excellent punter. A fine punting duel between Fritz Brown, Haverford, and Black Star and Quarterback, and Pleasant is in the offering in today's contest. Six Juniors, Evans, Watkins, C. G. Smith, Boyle, and Lenta, two Sophomores, Gue and Tiersan, and two Freshmen, Morgan and Taylor complete the Haverford starting eleven.

Shoremans Crippled

The increased injury list of the Shoreman has prevented Head Coach Ehlis with perplexing problems. The reserve strength of the squad is limited and Nowak's broken nose, Ehlis' injured leg, and Tiersan's broken thumb has caused a shakiness in the lineup. Harries will be unavailable probably for the rest of the season due to torn ligaments in his ankle. Only one of the regulars, Gue, has shifted to Center, Omar Carey will play right guard and Jones will probably see service as tackle as running mate to Dwyer. Baker or Shipps, and Gammer will play ends. In the backfield, Reinhold, Berry, Dobkins and Tignor will probably start. The latter, if he works up to his ability, will receive a great deal of play.

The probable starting lineup:

|               |                |
|---------------|----------------|
| Washington    | Haverford      |
| Gammer        | R. E. Morgan   |
| Dwyer         | R. T. Watkins  |
| Nowak         | R. G. Smith    |
| Boyle         | L. C. Boyle    |
| Carey         | L. G. Lenta    |
| Ward          | L. T. Evans    |
| Baker or Skip | L. E. Kane     |
| Reinhold      | Q. B. Tiersan  |
| Dobkins       | R. M. Taylor   |
| Berry         | L. M. Pleasant |
| Tignor        | F. B. Conn     |

Washington reserves—O'Carroll, Clark, Hall, Harris, Jones, Gray, Ellard, and Reed, Cohe, Steiner, Towner, Taylor.

CHEER LEADING

During the recent Football season Cheer Leading at Washington College has taken on a new aspect. Increased College spirit has necessitated that something be done to organize a definite system. Two students have done most of the cheer leading at the Pep Meetings and at the games, and though lacking in experience, they have done well and are to be greatly commended for their cooperative spirit. There would be little college spirit if people who at times have belittled efforts of these two men, would show as much willingness to support the players.

The improvement that we have noted has led to a desire for further advancement. Thus, the Varsity Club has taken initial steps in a week or two should be completed. The Athletic Club has intimated that it approves of the plan and is ready to back it. This proposed procedure as advanced by the Varsity Club, is briefly described. In short, Cheer Leaders will in their Senior Year receive a "W" which shall differ slightly from the type worn by athletes. The Senior Cheer leader will be chosen by the Student Body at the end of his Junior Year, from two candidates who survived elimination procedures during their first two years. The idea resembles the promoter in which Managers for the College teams are chosen by the letter men. Men who hope to become the Senior Cheer Leader will have to report in their Freshman year, be given try-outs, and then lead at Pep Meetings and be on hand to learn the art at games.

The President of the Athletic Association of which every student is a member, will present this to the Student Body at the regular Thursday morning Assembly this week, for approval. Students should think the matter over and if a better method is known, it is advisable that it be submitted to the Varsity Club or to the President of the Athletic Association.

The Athletic Council, consisting of the Athletic Director, the Graduate Manager of Athletics, a Faculty Member, and the President of the Athletic Association, has final authority in the matter of awarding letters. They use their own discretion, and thus, on at least one occasion we know of, in 1929, a varsity "W" was awarded to a cheer leader. He ready to respond intelligently when the proposition is laid before you.

WE ARE GRATEFUL

The College was very fortunate this past Thursday morning to view motion pictures taken at the great celebration here on Oct. 21, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt visited here and received the Doctor of Laws Degree, conferred by Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, who had just been inaugurated as President of Washington College.

We are deeply indebted to and grateful to the owners of the Lyceum Theatre who generously showed the two reels on their screen; and to the National Motion Picture Company which presented them to us. Students, Faculty Members, and visitors were impressed as thoughts ran back to the day which, whenever we think of College. President Mead already has said that we should all be proud of our Institution, and should not hesitate to inform others of it, especially when the Chief was honored by the Nation writes after his visit that he is student should have aroused in himself a progressive feeling.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

At last Washington is to have an organized corps of cheer leaders. It is strange that this essential phrase in athletics has been overlooked at the college. Colleges and Universities no different in makeup from Washington have organized cheering of which they can be rightly proud. We are reminded of the part that the Susquehanna student body played in turning certain defeat into victory. The participants can fully appreciate the part that a vent cheer section plays in victory or defeat.

Though the efforts of members of the "W" Club which has been developed similar to that by which managers are provided whereby there will be a regular body of cheer leaders during the college year. As an inducement and because a good cheer leader is as deserving of athletic praise as a competitor, major athletic awards will be given cheer leaders who win their letters. In order to secure awarding of the athletic certificate "legals" and the wearing of the "W" legitimate, an amending clause will be added to that effect in the constitution of the Athletic Association, and the awards for cheer leading will be made through the A. A. just as for a membership or an emblem now is.

The Athletic Council has approved the proposed action and on Thursday the matter will be presented in detail before the student body and a vote of the Athletic Association, of which all students are members, will be taken.

AS A STUDENT SEES IT

By MARIAN EMMORD

Unexpected opposition appeared in the results of the recent German elections. After Hitler asked for an unanimous endorsement of the Geneva stand, out of the eligible electorate of forty five million, more than two million (4.7 per cent.) have and the majority, might or least nullification to vote "no." One and eight tenths per cent of the electorate did not vote. Some possible explanations of this dissension might have been the fact that there is only one party in Germany. Votes are cast "yes" or "no". Then, too, the German women may be discontented with a weak, or, worse, several foreign countries eligible Germany boarded steamers and cast their vote outside the three mile limit.

The exact question as Hitler put it was "Do you, German man or German woman, approve of the policy of the Reich government and art thou ready to acknowledge this policy as the expression of thy own views?" and will, and solemnly pledge thyself to it?"

The first world war, which ended on Nov. 11, 1918, killed ten million and maimed ten million others. Fifteen years after the peace, all of corners of the world are armed camps whose military resources and armed man power far exceed the pre-war level. The only benefits accrued from this "organized slaughter" are enormous fortunes amassed by the munitions factories, whose stockholders including, according to an article in last month's "Forum," some of the leading statesmen in the world.

OPEN FORUM

To The Editor of The Elm.—Sir: The fact that during the past week the temperature has fallen below zero mark causes the writing of this communication. Whether or not we are supposed to be Eskimos or polar bears isn't determined, but there is no justification in our being kept out in the cold before the editors' doors are open. Do you know of any reason why we aren't allowed to stand in the snow and there await the serving time?

It implies, it seems, lack of consideration for the student body. The policy of keeping the students out of the building by saying that they needn't come until the doors are opened. That could be a good argument if the doors opened at precisely the same time every year and if there would not be too great a rush by all the students piling in at once. Such however, is not the case.

It is hoped that this Open Forum letter might awaken those in charge to their lack of consideration that students deserve. Certainly the waiters would not be bothered, nor would anyone by using us to enter the cafeteria and wait there.

—A Sufferer.

MT. ST. MARY'S DEFEATS WASHINGTON, 19-6 SCORE

Coach Ekalis's Team Unable To Check Mounts

With St. Mary's football squad in ved Washington field, Saturday Nov. 4 and managed to win by the same score as last year, 19 to 6. The visitors had a powerful offense with time and again ripped through our sturdy line for long gains. Acti and Corridor scored their touchdowns after successful plunges through the line, while Hopkins, Mt. St. Mary star ball carrier, scored his on a long end run. Dinkins, our mighty full back, intercepted a lateral pass and sprinted 30 yards to score Washington's lone touchdown.

Washington failed to take advantage of two Mt. St. Mary's fumbles early in the game and lost the victory. Hopkins' field goal and the return of Reinhold's punt paved the way for Mt. St. Mary's first touch down in the first quarter. Washington had several chances to score late in the game, but poor judgment in picking the plays spoiled the opportunities. Hopkins, Acti and Corridor were the mainstays of the Mt. St. Mary's team, while Hopkins, Reinhold and Capt. Gamber upheld the Maroon and Black's attack.

FLYING PENTAGON TO PLAY FOURTEEN GAMES

Graduate Manager Dumchott Lists State Games Chiefly

The 1934 Basketball schedule of the Flying Pentagon, as recently released by Prof. Frederick W. Dumchott, Graduate Manager of Athletics at Washington College, consists of fourteen games. Only three of state games will be staged, two with the University of Delaware, and one with Swarthmore College. Eight games will be played on foreign grounds and power, respectively, complete the varied roster.

Of the seven above named, Army and Nebraska, judging from performance, appear to have the best for both have been the most decisive to date. The other five, however, are just as apt to capture national honors.

When the New York Giants triumphed over the Boston Redskins last Sunday in a professional game by a score of 9 before a crowd of 30,000, former was paid to Frank Cavanaugh, former Dartmouth, Holy Cross, and Fordham Coach who died several weeks ago from complications resulting from shell wounds suffered in France during the War. He left no estate for his widow and seven minor children. As a tribute to the man who developed especially great teams at Fordham, forty percent of the game's receipts, amounting to approximately $10,000 were turned over to his widow.

The Maroon and Black Washington College results is much improved, though game results might not uphold the statement. The team lacks only the final something which marks the difference between a winning and losing team. If it is forthcoming in today's tussle and in the home game next week, the gridders will still have ended the most successful season in several years.

LOCAL FULLBACK

Albert E. Dinkins

Albert E. Dinkins, of Waterbury, Connecticut, has been the most consistent player on the Maroon and Black eleven this Fall. He has far exceeded expectations, playing smart football in each contest. His defensive fullback playing is as good as that of any small college performer.

Gridders Will Meet Loyola Next Week

Jesuits Look For First Victory On Kibler Field

Loyola College of Baltimore will be the next Saturday in the final contest for each team. The bitter rivalry that has always existed between representatives of Loyola and Washington College is expected to draw a reasonably large crowd. The Jesuits have not won a game and have indicated that they are looking forward to their tussle with the Shamrocks in order to end the season with one victory. Early in the season, Comerford's team tied Langley Field, and later on held a much stronger Mt. St. Mary's combination to a 7 to 7 tie.

Coach Ekalis expects to have his full strength on hand next week, with the exception of Harries, barring injuries today. Harries, the best center at Washington College during the last few years, is still incapacitated by torn ligaments in his ankle. Ken Nounk who has played a bang-up game at tackle all season, will probably hold his position despite a broken nose, incurred in the St. Joseph's contest. Other seniors who will wear the Maroon and Black football uniforms for the last time next week will be Joe Hill and Omar Carey, the two most improved players on the squad. Joe O'Farrell and Charley Clark, reserve ends.

"Elm" Chonoes S. California Over Undeleted Oregon

Today's games will probably see the fall of one or two of the seven undefeated and united major teams in the country. We're inclined to stick by them for the most part, however. Our choices: Michigan to beat Minnesota. Princeton to beat New York Southern California to beat Oregon. Duke to beat North Carolina. Nebraska to beat Pitt. Georgia to beat Auburn. Washington College to beat Harvard. U. of Maryland to beat Hopkins. Gettysburg to beat Mt. St. Mary's. St. John's to beat Lord. Record: Won 12, Lost 8.

SENIOR-SOPH TEAM WINS HOCKEY GAME

Helms, Byrn and Rasin Star For Winners

With experience and smooth-running team work on their side the Sophomore-Senior Hockey team, lead by Carolyn Helms, came through with a victory last Thursday over the Freshman-Junior team.

The teams were more evenly matched than they have been in former years. The Freshman-Junior team is made up of Freshmen except for two players. Many of the Freshmen are playing their first year of hockey. At present their defense is stronger than their offense. The Freshman line carried the ball to the Sophomore-Senior twenty-five yard line but lost it in passing to the center for a drive at the goal. They were unable to score throughout the entire game.

The Sophomore-Senior team showed a remarkable improvement over last year. With Rasin and Byrn playing for the same fast game on the line, and timely and consistent saves by Helms and Metcalfe, it was a well lost game by the Freshmen. Leah Frederick, who has not been up in his usual play in practice this fall, came back with a good, steady game. Sterling, who played most of the game at fullback for the Freshman-Junior team played a veteran game.

The next game promises to be one of the best played at Washington College. The lineup was as follows:

| Senior         | Fresh-Junior   |
|----------------|----------------|
| Jewell         | R.W. Pyle      |
| Byrn           | L.R. Westcott  |
| Rasin          | C. Harshaw     |
| Pyle           | L.L.E. Stevens |
| Sutton         | L.W. Anthony   |
| Metcalfe       | R.H. M. Brown  |
| Helms          | C.H. Inley     |
| Frederick      | L.H. Rowe      |
| Carder         | E.B. Hyland    |
| Crutchen       | L.R. Sterling  |
| Substitutions: | Nicholson      |

Granger for Sutton; Youns for Pyle; North for Carder. Freshman-Junior: Westley for Harries; L. Stevens for Westcott; Shearer for Sterling. Score: Jewell 1; Rasin 3; Granger 1; Metcalfe 1.

Maroon And Black Lose To St. Joseph's

Kane's Touchdown In First Quarter Causes 7-0 Defeat

The Washington College football team journeyed to Philadelphia last Saturday, Nov. 11, and lost a bitterly fought game to St. Joseph's. St. Joseph's managed to put across a touchdown early in the first quarter, which proved to be enough to win the contest, 7 to 0. The game, which was played in a raw, cold wind, was even through the first half, but St. Joseph's, while Dinkins and Dinkins gave a great showing throughout, Reinhold's punting being equal to Kane's great ball tussle.

Washington advanced the ball well into St. Joseph's territory early in the first quarter but lost the ball on downs. St. Joseph's offense immediately started to click and they advanced the ball down the field, coming running plays with long forward passes, to score their only touchdown. Five other times St. Joseph's advanced the ball within the twenty yard line, but Washington put up a stubborn defense and kept the ball on downs each time. Kane and Harrison starred in the play of St. Joseph's, while Dinkins and Dinkins gave a great showing of defensive play.

The lineup and summary:

| St. Joseph's | Washington    |
|--------------|---------------|
| McKusker     | L.E. Gamber   |

The 1933 Nobel Prize for Literature has been awarded to Ivan Bunin, Russian poet and novelist. In European circles Comrade Bunin has long been distinguished for his classic simplicity and minute observation. A member of the Russian Academy, and recipient of the Pushkin Prize for Poetry, he has translated into the Russian, Longfellow, Keats and Tennyson.

Stephen Vincent Benet, famous poet, whose "John Brown's Body," is generally regarded as the American epic is the recipient this year of the "Pulitzer" for "distinguished service."

Marylanders are interested this week in the centenary of the birth of Edwin Booth, celebrated tragedian, and a native of Belair. His anniversary is being observed throughout the U. S. by an appreciative and grateful public which still cherishes a slowly dying art.

All the long runs of popular motion plays are put to shame by the film romance "Orlando Furioso," by which which has been running lately in New York City for 12 years. Mr. Manteo, of Sicily, at the whole hour, since he carved the marionettes, controls them, and speaks for them.

HONOR SOCIETY MEETS AT D. R. LIVINGOOD'S

Prof. Dumschott Speaks On Present Day Governments

Tuesday evening's monthly meeting of the Honor Society at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Livingston, was characterized by an extremely interesting and educational talk on "The Trend of Government" by Professor Dumschott and lively arguments following.

Professor Dumschott discussed three foremost types of present day governments: Capitalism, Communism and Fascism.

Capitalism at present, he maintained, is tottering and its longevity depends on the success with which the U. S. pulls out of its present economic crisis.

Communism, of which Russia is an example, is characterized by its presentation of the working people and by its advances being made in its own behalf.

Fascism, the first government of which was established by Mussolini in Italy, has since been followed by Hitler and, to some extent, by the N. E. A.

Mrs. Livingston served delicious refreshments, and these together with the interesting talk in Prof. Dumschott's talk made the evening a most enjoyable one.

NO NICE GIRL SWEARS

Now to get at the personal but nevertheless so fundamental question—swearing. Even smart girls have their problems, while dumb ones have their difficulties. Alice Leone Meats says some things about the physical demonstrations of can this be love. Take it or leave it, but the billy knows.

Anyone will admit that in the long run a reputation for being a heavy necker doesn't really add to a girl's popularity. She will undoubtedly be a belle, but only a flash in the pan, for no matter how much skill is displayed, it is pretty difficult to keep a bona for any length of time, by playing this hazardous game. You can't hope to get away with the "you're the first man I've ever kissed" line with seventeen different men. The day will inevitably come when your name will be brought up under a bottle of brandy, and your talents discussed. Remember, after the first few drinks gallantry is likely to get into the general fog. No matter what, all this while business is a very personal problem and one you can scarcely expect someone else to work out for you.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY HAS SECOND MEETING

Speakers Include Wagner, Moffett And Skipp

On Tuesday evening, November 14, the Washington Chemical Society met at 7 o'clock in room 35 for its second meeting during the month of November. The meeting was well attended, many new members coming out. A very interesting program was presented.

President Wagner, spoke first, and he chose the "Thyroid Gland" for his subject. The second speaker was, Walter Moffett. Mr. Moffett thoroughly explained the "Chemical Examination of Water." The final speech dealing with "Scientific Current Events" was presented by Philip Skipp.

INAUGURAL MOVIES SHOWN TO STUDENTS

Were Guests On Thursday Of The New Lycium Theatre

The usual Thursday morning Assembly at Washington College was displaced on November 16 by the occasion of the attendance of the entire student body, the Faculty, and many guests at a private showing of the 1933 Inaugural movies and the 1932 Sequi-Centennial pictures, given by the courtesy of the New Lycium Theatre.

The event was appreciatively hailed by the students as an unusual opportunity to see Washington College as the nation has seen it; and the pleasure of seeing one's self in the cinema is unforgettable. President Roosevelt's and Dr. Mead's speeches were partially reproduced, as was Governor Ritchie's of the 1932 affair.

Blue Key To Hold Its Annual Program Dance Next Week

Once again next week end the Blue Key Fraternity will be in the limelight. The Blue Key men are planning to hold their annual program dance as a grand finale for the evening of the Loyola game, Saturday, November 25th, in the gymnasium. Stark's band of the Lovely Water has been secured. The affair is semi-formal and there will be no stamps. Many alumni and friends are expected to be back for the week end.

POET'S KORNER

OCTOBER

Today has been a poem. Every laugh is flushed with crimson, rich in autumn gold.
From chin and neck, hanging low,
O'er shaded walks, when loitering students pause.
Drop yellow leaves. And here,
One lonely and embroidered butterfly,
Flutter forlorn.
As evening comes, long shafts of shadows fall.
Dark patches on the rusty gold
Where all was green.
The sun sinks low, and pale the evening star,
One lonely and embroidered butterfly,
Glow high above the sunset; calm,
Drowsy descends, and luminous
From tower and gateway glows the lights.

IN PRAISE OF EIGHT O'CLOCK

Rhapsodies in blue I sing
Too often harshly named,
To thee sweetest and light I bring
Ours hours of life.
Horrish for the eight o'clock class!
Bringing faces so cheery and bright;
Dispositions as sweet as molasses
All eager to struggle for light.
What slag would so peacefully sleep on
When dawn's breaking over the sky?
What miscreant would dare to sleep
on
When blithely to class he should lie?
Alas! Proud Culture, hear them rail!
Proud Wisdom's on the rocks,
This modern spirit shan't prevail,
I have no eight o'clocks.

COLLEGE SENIORS

Alfred S. Hodgson

Alfred S. Hodgson is a Chestertown High School product. During his high school career he won an enviable position among his classmates as an all-around athlete. He played on all the teams and also held the Kent County record in the one-hundred yard dash until last spring. Scholaristically, he ranked among the leaders.

At Washington College, "Al" has worked hard and consistently. He has been a member of the Glee Club for four years, acting this year as President of that organization. He has been a member of the Double Male Quartette each year also. He belongs to the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, to the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, the Varsity Club, the "E.L.M." Staff, and to the 1934 Pegasus Staff.

In his favorite sport, Basketball, he has been a mainstay of the squad. Though he didn't make his letter until his Junior Year, he played in many contests his first two years. Fast, astute and small and shifty, he has been a hard man to guard. His entrance in several games last year provided the necessary spark to turn defeats into victories. This year, with experience gained in previous seasons, he should be even better. He also plays Baseball, and made his letter as a third baseman last spring. Al is majoring in History and minor in Mathematics, and expects to teach and coach athletics.

Harriette M. Ragan

Harriette M. Ragan received her preparatory training at Jacob Tome Institute of Port Deposit, Md., near Conowingo, which is her home. Here, even, are shown those fruits of versatility which have borne in abundance during her years at Washington College. Beginning finishing school as President of the Freshman class, she finished as the Valedictorian; and the interim is filled with the colorful activities of varsity basketball, chess, soccer, the Latin Club and the Agara Literary Society.

Noting first the purely tangible accomplishments of Miss Ragan, at Washington College, one cites her excellent scholarship, which is signified by her membership in the Honorary Society of Washington College. She has been treasurer of the Kappa Gamma Sorority; is President of the Classical Club; and a member of the venerable Mt. Vernon Literary Society and the Y. W. C. A. But her fields are also notable in Athletic achievement, since she belongs to the G. I. A. A. and plays hockey and basketball.

Of the more abstract qualities of Harriette Ragan's self, it needs but to be said that she has shown loyalty and completely the grand old traditions of the "friendly college."

J. Patterson Beaman

"Pat" Beaman came to Washington College in 1930, after graduating from Sykesville High School in Carroll County, Maryland. He led his class each year, played on the teams, took part in Class productions, and got second place in the State Track meet in the 440 yard dash.

At this institution, "Pat" holds the Carroll County Senatorial Scholarship. His numerous activities attest to his ability and popularity. He is Business Manager of the "E.L.M.", having been Circulation Manager and Assistant Business Manager last year; and is a member of the 1934 Pegasus Staff. He was Sophomore Assistant Football Manager his second year, is a member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, of the Varsity Club and of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity.

Pat performed in the backfield for the Freshmen and Sophomore Class teams in his first two years, and has since played Class Basketball. In his Sophomore year he was a member of the College track squad. His outstanding achievement along athletic lines however, was his making the Lacrosse Ten last year, his first season out for the sport. He held down an Attack position effectively, and is expected to play in finer style this year.

Pat is majoring in History and minoring in Mathematics. He will probably teach school if an opening is found.

Thelma B. Smith

Thelma B. Smith attended, previous to her membership in Washington College, the Chestertown High School at Chestertown, Md., her home. She was noteworthy at this institution as an efficient administrator in extra-curriculum activities, and distinguished as a student. She graduated with the Valedictory honors, and matriculated in the Autumn of the same year at Washington College.

At the college, Miss Smith's unobtrusive sense of humor and quiet sincerity have created for her, no less than her excellent scholastic record, an esteem and cordiality from her associates. She was active in the former Adolphus Literary Society, and her specialisation in Latin well fits her for Senior membership in the Classical Society. She has acquired a deal of practical experience by her efficient discharge of duties as an Associate Librarian at the college. The unusual modesty of the girls of the class of '34, and especially so in Miss Smith's case, may be proffered as an apology for the apparent incompleteness of these and following comments.

Student Council Minutes

November 13, 1933

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber; the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

It was reported that Mrs. Fox pledged the cooperation of the librarians with the Councilmen. Following this report Mr. Suller presented the detailed report of the Thanksgiving Day Program committee.

Wednesday, Nov. 29, football game, Dance, Thursday, Hockey game, dinner, tea dance. On Mr. Nuttle's motion the committee's report was accepted and made official. Mr. Lord summarized the report of the visit of the cafeteria committee to Dr. Mend with the statement of Dr. Mend's pledged cooperation in this matter.

President Gamber reported the results of the letter sent by the Council to the disciplinary committee; he presented the opinions and replies of

Dr. Jones, Dr. Mend, Dr. Dole and Dr. Livingston.

In order to stop the current disturbing element of writing wrinkles on the notices on the Bulletin board, it was suggested that the members rebuke offenders. A decrease in "cutting in line at the cafeteria" and "cutting campus" was noticed. It was decided that "line cutters" be punished in the Elm.

On due motion the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
John M. Lord.

It is expected by all to be a rough and ready game, with each team determined to get the ball from the other. Pity the poor girl who runs into some of our heavy-weight football heroes!

FROSH DEFEAT SOPHS IN FIRST OF TIE-UPS

Organized First Year Group Dispose Of Upperclassmen

The Freshman class gained a decisive victory over the Sophomore class in the first annual Frosh-Soph tie-up held at three o'clock on the afternoon of November 6, 1933, on Kibler Field. The final score was 13 to 4.

Outnumbered but not out-weighted the Sophomore class met a well organized Freshman group which quickly disposed of the larger upperclassmen in the first few minutes of the battle and then took care of the smaller Sophs for the remainder of the fray.

However, if not handled with care, this "Rat" victory is likely to have boomerang qualities as the Sophs have worked up more spirit over the forthcoming Soph-Frosh football game than was expected before their loss in the tie-up.

BURLEY TOBACCO

SOUTHERN MARYLAND TOBACCO

U. S. Type 11 is produced in the Piedmont Belt of Virginia and part of North Carolina.

U. S. Type 12 is produced in eastern North Carolina.

U. S. Type 13 grows in South Carolina.

U. S. Type 14 is produced mostly in southern Georgia—a few million pounds in northern Florida and Alabama.

U. S. Type 31 includes what is called White Burley tobacco. It was first produced by George Webb in 1864. It is light in color and body, and is milder than the Burley used for pipes.

U. S. Type 32, Maryland tobacco, is noted for its "burn". In this respect Maryland excels most other tobaccos.

These are the kinds of home-grown tobaccos used for making Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Then Chesterfield adds aromatic Turkish tobacco to give just the right seasoning or spice.

Chesterfield ages these tobaccos for 30 months—2½ years—to make sure that they are milder and taste better.

Ellis Dwyer Will Lead 1934 Gridders

Has Played Tackle Position For Three Years

At a recent meeting of the Football Letter Men of the 1933 campaign, Ellis Charles Dwyer, of Chester, Pa., was elected to the Captaincy of the 1934 eleven.

Dwyer enrolled at Washington College in the fall of 1929 and was a regular that season, playing at a tackle position as he since has. Because of financial conditions he was forced to leave school at the end of the first semester of his first year, but returned the following fall of 1930. During that season he played a bang-up game and a tower of strength on the Washington line. He played Lacrosse the next spring and was developing rapidly into a good close-defense man as the season closed, and narrowly missed earning his letter.

"Ellis" was unable to continue studies during the 1931-32 season and didn't return to college until February 1932. Last spring he was a substitute catcher on the baseball team. He probably displayed his best during this past season on the gridiron and well deserves the honor given him by his team mates. Dwyer plays a slightly unorthodox brand of football, but his effectiveness gave Coach Eklatis and Kibler no reason for changing his style.

He is majoring in the Science courses and boasts an excellent record. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity and of several other organizations on the Hill, in addition to being in charge of West Hall. A popular fellow, a hard worker, and a good player, as attested by his gaining Honorable Mention for the All-Maryland team, leaves no doubt that he will make a fine captain.

Varsity Club Takes In Eight New Members

Eight letter men of Washington College became members of the "W" or Varsity Club last Wednesday night, December 5, at the Fall Initiation in the gymnasium. The addition of these men gives the club its largest enrollment since its formation several years ago.

The initiation ceremonies are probably the most severe on the "Hill," but each man came through in fine fashion and is ready to take an active part in the club's activities. Several aims are fostered by the members, chiefly those of making the official "W" more coveted and of advancing the old Washington spirit in athletics.

Those fellows who became members, and the sports in which they have won letters are: Patterson, Beaman, Lacrosse; Joseph O'Farrell, Baseball and Football; Emory Burkhardt, Mrs. R. H. Hall, Football; Omar Carver, Lacrosse and Football; Robert Tignor, Baseball and Football; Ed Evans, Baseball; and Henry Nowak, Football.

GIVES GOLD FOOTBALL

Max Montour Will Speak Here Jan. 4

Is A Well Known German Actor Of New York

Mr. Wade G. Bounds

The gold football, presented annually by Mr. Wade G. Bounds to the person who has done most for the success of the Washington College Football Team, is this year awarded to Albert E. Dobkins, '34, of Waterbury, Connecticut.

Albert E. Dobkins Receives Wade G. Bounds Award

Albert E. Dobkins, '34, of Waterbury, Connecticut, was awarded the Wade G. Bounds gold football, at the Annual Football Banquet held this past Wednesday night. The presentation is made to that person, whether or not a football player, who has done more for the success of the football team during its playing season.

There was hardly a doubt that the recipient would be any one else but Dobkins, for his excellent spirit and fine playing were evident in each contest of the season. Coach George C. Eklatis made the award while the seventeen letter men present acknowledged the fine choice made by the Coaches when they selected Dobkins as a man who should receive the gold honor.

Mr. Bounds, formerly President of the Alumni Association, has given two other such awards.

SEVENTEEN GRIDMEN RECEIVE VARSITY "W"

Curly Byrd Unable To Attend Football Banquet

On Wednesday, December 13, the annual football banquet was the final event of the 1933 grid season and the last play in the college football career of seven seniors. Mr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, Vice-President of the University of Maryland, who was invited as guest of honor, was unable to attend.

Mr. Harry S. Russell, Washington grad, acted as toastmaster and presented the speakers. Professor Dunschott in the capacity of Chairman of the Athletic Council awarded the varsity "W" to seventeen letter winners: Captain Gamber, Reinhold, Harries, Dobkins, Hall, Carver, O'Farrell, Blainville, Lord, Greiss, Beyer, Baker, Ward, Tignor, Nowak, Skipp, and Captain-Elect, Dwyer. Emory Burkhardt, manager, was also presented the varsity certificate.

Coach Eklatis officiated in the presentation of the Wade G. Bounds award to the person contributing most toward the success of the football season. The award was made to Al Dobkins, class of '34.

The Athletic Council made a gift of an athletic jacket to Captain Dick Gamber. In reviewing the season the coaches and speakers had only words of deserving praise for the best team that Washington has produced in nearly a decade.

Max Montour Will Speak Here Jan. 4

Is A Well Known German Actor Of New York

The College Assembly for January 4th will have a guest artist in the form of Max Montour, well known German actor, now of New York City. Mr. Montour will render a program of dramatic impersonations, including selections from German dramas in the original and in English translation.

Mr. Montour, who is traveling under the auspices and management of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, is internationally known for his unusual interpretations of drama and poetry. He was born in Vienna and studied at the Imperial Conservatory of Dramatic Art in his native city. He made his debut in Zurich, Switzerland, as a "Nephtopoulos" in "Pant" and "Pant" tours took him through Austria, Germany and Switzerland, with long engagements in Hamburg, Munich and Berlin.

The American career of Mr. Montour began nine years ago. He has appeared on Broadway in "Stingberg's" "Dance of Death," in "Isen's" "Rosenholm," opposite Eva Leclaire, in "The Master Builder," with Walter Hampden, in "The Merchant of Venice," in "Suderman's" "Magna," and recently in Elmer Rice's "Street Scene."

Mr. Montour is coming to Washington College through the interest of Mr. Camille Lazenby, who was the speaker at the second assembly of the present college season. Mr. Lazenby will be remembered for his talk on "Student Life in German Universities."

Plans are being made for a second recital to be held at eight o'clock the same evening, with an attendance of Chestertown and surrounding communities as guests of the college. Further details concerning the evening program will be announced later.

Christmas Cotillon A Success Last Night

The Cotillon Club of Washington College presented its annual Christmas German last night in the gymnasium. The gym was very appropriately decorated with pine and mistletoe with the necessary variegated colored lights. The lighting effect was culminated by the use of a large spot light which changed colors every three minutes. This was the second of a series of five dances to be presented throughout the year.

The patrons and the patronesses included Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Wood, and Mrs. A. L. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Simon W. Westcott, Dr. Kathleen E. Carpenter, and Dr. Esther M. Dale.

Those on the decorating committee were John A. Wargay, chairman; Alan R. Broughman, John William Long, Ivon Culver, Ralph C. Miller, Carroll W. Castled, Lawrence Younts.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Christmas cards, designed by Paul Pippin, and showing the Gateway and views of William Smith Hall, may be obtained from either Paul Pippin or Sarah Ellen Byrn. (See Bulletin Board.)

HEART ATTACK VICTIM

Dr. Paul E. Tittsworth

Former Head Of Washington College Died Last Sunday

A memorial service for Dr. Paul E. Tittsworth will be held on Tuesday morning, Dec. 19 in the Washington College Chapel.

Memorial Services For Dr. Tittsworth Tuesday

Plans are being made for a Memorial Service for Dr. Paul Emerson Tittsworth, eighteenth president of Washington College. The service will be held in the auditorium of William Smith Hall at eleven o'clock, Tuesday morning, December 19th.

The service will include a series of brief talks by President Gilbert W. Wood, townspeople, faculty, and student representatives, presenting the varied contributions of former President Tittsworth to the educational and civic life of the community, county and state. The musical organizations of the college will have a part in the program.

All members of the college, members of the various organizations with which Dr. Tittsworth was associated, and the general public are cordially invited to be present for this service.

DR. GEORGE W. CARVER SPEAKS IN ASSEMBLY

Is A Leader In Agricultural Research Of South

Dr. George Washington Carver, the boy who was trained for a nurse, but who is now recognized as a leader in agricultural research, was the Chapel speaker at a recent assembly.

Dr. Carver has refused many lucrative positions to remain at Tuskegee Institute, in Alabama, where he has first made it possible for the Southern Negro to grow the two most practical crops, peanuts and sweet potatoes, then proceeded to create a demand for the supply obtained. This he has done through creative chemistry, by analyzing both peanuts and sweet potatoes and using the constituents of these articles to produce everything from face powder to chocolate wafers. According to Dr. Carver, one potato, if dried, from soup to nuts, could be prepared from peanuts. Judging from the display of results which he brought with him we can well credit such a statement.

Simplicity and modesty were the outstanding keynotes of Dr. Carver's speech, just as service means to be the keynote of his life. Seldom do we find a personality which makes at the same time an impression of profound admiration for achievements made, and an impression of simple friendliness such as we find in this unusual man.

Dr. Tittsworth's Death Mourned

Former Head Of Washington College Died Last Sunday

All day on this Monday past, when the untimely death of Dr. Paul Emerson Tittsworth, President of Washington College for ten years, and recently President of Alfred University, was commonly realized, the hollow wind-blinds drove their deerying dinns, in weary harmony with the sorrow and futile grief which seemed to enshroud the College which he had drawn from antique obscurity into eminence among others.

Raised Washington College

The sense of loss of those who had known Dr. Tittsworth, who had worked under his administration, who admired the scholar and executive, who loved Washington College, is engulfing to the spirit, and incalculable. Not the least of his living monuments in the world is Washington College as it is today. The degree of this institution's debt to him is particularly shown by a comparison of the college developed by Rufus R. Wilson, in "Ramble in Colonial Byways" as a "degraded college" overlooking Chestertown, and that seen by the same eye in 1911, recorded in the Sesqui-Centennial year of founding.

Spectacular Career

Dr. Tittsworth was born at Ashaway, R. I., on May 31, 1881. After the usual primary and preparatory training he attended the University of Ph. R. degree from Alfred College, after having studied abroad, at the summer of 1902, at the Universities of Berlin and Dresden. Also he received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1903-1904. From 1904-1907 he was instructor in Modern Languages at Alfred, and Professor from 1909-1911. In 1911, after having been a Fellow in Germany there, he received the Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin. In 1913 he again studied abroad, at the University of Erlangen. Dr. Tittsworth was Professor of English at Alfred, and from 1920-1922, Dean of the Liberal Arts College. He was also the president of the Washington College, which position he held for ten years.

Many Works And Interests

Dr. Tittsworth was distinguished for the number and versatility of his work, and the volume of his scholarly articles innumerable, especially treating with Goethe and his school. Dr. Tittsworth was particularly known for his "Bibliography for High School Teachers of Modern Languages," published in 1902, and as a translator from the French of "Emancipation of Medieval Terms." Besides his close personal and intellectual connection with Rotary International, President Tittsworth was affiliated with many other societies and organizations.

These above enumerate but a few of his associations and honors. He had received the LL. D. degree from Alfred University, and, last June, from the University of Wisconsin.

His own modestly worded 10-year report, delivered last June shows completely and clearly the tremendous material which makes his administration, to Washington College, for Dr. Tittsworth, of the Dead, Robert Brooks has sung: "But, dying, has made us regrets than gold."

DR. PAUL EMERSON TITSWORTH

We realize with great regret the passing away of Dr. Titsworth who so recently was in our midst as College President and who just about two months ago, was installed as President of his Alma Mater, Alfred University. The latter was the realization of an ambition he had long harbored, and marked the climax of a spectacular and excellent career as an Educationist. We lament the fact that he was so briefly allowed to enjoy that which meant more to him than anything else.

We need not go into a discussion of his many and varied accomplishments and virtues, but we may state that he made Washington College what it is today, and with his ability and a dissenting opinion, did more for the College than has any other of a long line of Presidents, with the possible exception of its founder, William Smith.

As one who have had the privilege of working with Dr. Titsworth, we offer condolences to his family and to the vast number who mourn his death, as we.

DEBATING

We are glad to note that recent attempts at Washington College to form a debating Society, sponsoring an Intercollegiate Debating Team, are about to be realized. Professor Frederick W. Dumschott, Assistant Professor of History and Government, is responsible for the plan. With the aid of Prof. Makosky, there is every indication that a successful and formidable team can be developed, starting even with this season for several Maryland Colleges and one or two out of state ones have declared their willingness to engage Washington College in debate.

We look with favor upon the move for several reasons. In the first place it is our belief that every Institution of Higher Learning should grant to students the privilege of expounding their beliefs and contentions concerning such vital problems that confront the whole nation, and which often have a more wide-spread and far reaching scope. In the second place, if individuals do not have the interest that they as College students should have, in such questions, it must be cultivated in them. A Society of the type planned can make such a theory very practical. Again we are glad to encourage such a plan because it will give a certain number of Washington College students the opportunity to help create a finer College atmosphere and the proper seriousness that they justly insist should prevail at this Seat of Learning, but which is missing. On all sides we hear of a new seriousness which has taken hold of American students, as a result of the depression now running into its fourth year. Economic classes are more popular, for in them might be gleaned knowledge of monetary and other serious problems which affect every group, local or world. We regret that students at Washington College are less concerned, as far as we can determine, than they should be in such matters.

The Society as planned, will not only offer to a limited number the right of debating on an Intercollegiate level, but will grant to as many others, who take advantage of the proposition, the privilege of discussing vitally important questions and of debating intramurally.

Large students who are capable and who have time, to cooperate with Mr. Smithson and Mr. Sadler, President and Manager of Debating respectively, and to take advantage of fine help that Professors Makosky and Dumschott can give.

SLIPPERY PURLOINED ELM PHRASES

By ROLAND E. DOBKINS

"TO THE FLYING PENTAGON"

Mr. Harry S. Russell, acting manager of ceremonies at the football banquet, struck at the heart of the matter of lack of college spirit when he urged the 1934 grid squad to become a fighting eleven that will in turn develop a fighting student body. The matter occurs, why wait until next fall? Today is the time to begin making a completely united student body and fostering true school spirit.

The members of the squad of the Flying Pentagons have no objection to do just that because this year's basketball season presents the golden opportunity. There is no reason why Washington cannot make a clean sweep of the schedule. Individually the players are equal to or better than average performers; put together they should by now be well enough experienced to each other to function as a perfectly working unit. The mechanical phases of the game can be easily taken care of and once the determination to win is set it is not too much to hope for a championship five. We are intimate enough with the leader of the 1934 edition of the Flying Pentagons to know that one fifth of the Pentagon determined to come through in a big way. It is not enough to want a good season. This year Washington should reclaim her rightful position on the state basketball scene. Once the desire to win takes the form of an obsession the result will show for itself.

Recapitulating the words of Mr. Russell, then, we exhort you, the fighters, and watch the spirit grow. The Maroon and Black should be satisfied with nothing less than a fighting team, a winner, and the state championship title.

CULTURAL COMMENT

By Joseph Freedman

Joseph Hershenshel, noted novelist and recent visitor to Baltimore has paid a rare compliment to the city of Poe and Menckens. Said he, "Unlike other cities, Baltimore has an unusual number of intelligent and attractive people." He found the women slightly old-fashioned and the young folks dignified as in no other city. The author confessed however, that he was somewhat tired of Baltimore chimney pots and oysters.

In this day and age of practically minded people it is not surprising to find such archaic things as Romance and Fancy have not entirely died. This has been practically evident from the warm and cordial applause that has greeted the appearance of the new motion picture "Little Women," adopted from Louisa May Alcott's immortal tale. In all large cities it has far exceeded the average and has been in demand by both young and old. This has also been true of Eva Le Gallienne's "Alice in Wonderland" which is grossly and grossly out of fashion than ever. All this is particularly gratifying to know that American sentiment can still bloom on the desolate flats of commercialism.

Our attention has been called to the unusual "Noel" edition of the French magazine "L'Illustration," now in our library. It contains many extraordinary and beautiful reproductions of Oriental and Western art, that have evoked the admiration of all browsers.

She: "Do you know what good clean fun is?"

He: "I'll tell, what good is it?"

Doctor: "What you need, young lady, is a little sun and air."

Cord: "Why doctor, how dare you? Why, I'm not even married!"

The reason they had to stop the honor system at Yale University was that the Profs had all the honor and the students had all the system.

At a fraternity party. She: "I'm Surette—the oriental dancer; please to meet you."

Senior: "Shake!"

The new bride was obviously concerned with the fact that there were eleven in the bride's train; then she said: "I surely thought that we were going to have the room all to ourselves, dear!"

Econ. Prof.: "What two raw materials not affected by the tariff are imported from France?"

Cord: "Books and pictures."

He knocked at the door of my room. "May I come in?" he said. "This is the same room I had when I went to college here in '90. Yes, sir, the same old room; same old windows; same old furniture; same old view of the campus; same old clock."

He opened the closet door.

"Er—this is my sister," I said.

"—same old sister!"

Mother: "Were you discreet daughter?"

Daughter: "Hell yes, we locked the door!"

The March of Time:

"What do good girls go?"

"To heaven."

"Where do bad girls go?"

"Over to the hospital!"

Student Council Minutes

December 11th

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

President Gamber requested a stricter vigilance on the part of the council in the matter of books missing from the library. A vote of thanks was given Mr. Giffitts for his work in providing refreshments at the Thanksgiving Tea Dance.

In order to restrict cribbing Mr. Giffitts motioned that the Student Council members sit in the back row during a test. Mr. Nuttle seconded this motion and after a discussion, a motion amended it to the effect that this action be voluntary. The substitute motion was rejected and the original motion was carried making this action compulsory.

President Gamber appointed Messrs. Giffitts, Clark, Sadler, Hinton and Young as a committee to go over "rat rules" and take off of those which should be done away with. Their decision will become effective after the Christmas holidays. Pres. Gamber adjourned the meeting until after the Christmas holidays.

Signed,
 John M. Lord, Secy.

It has been found and proven; Despite and in addition to being only in the process of construction, the new Kent County Hospital is a greatly improved place for Campunity.

It looks as though Sluam's Log(z) is also someone else's Log(z).

After keeping it under cover for nearly five years, Joe O'Farrell is 'thawing about the rest of the Irish-Hat Ragans! Yes, it even surprised us, Dave.

If the question of a non-opposed window can arouse such an uproar in our own little "H. C. C. Sadler" towards a roommate, think of what might have happened if Brittan had covered two such men at the Black Hole of Calcutta.

The late Manager of football now sits his evenings at home mending the socks and keeping the house fires warm while in his mind runs, "Where is my wandering roommate tonight?"

There is a certain Senior girl who has been crying all year to get a date here on the Campus in order to make her Alumnus friend jealous. Either all are afraid of the Irish wren or else the technique has misused.

Considering the low cost of commodities in the co-op, it seems weird when the manager is taking her next trip to Europe, or how soon the last year's model car will be discarded.

When such a riotous good time is had in the Paul Jones at the Tea Dance—why not pop up the lagging Saturday night informals in the gym in the same manner? As for more room to fall in, Ref. P. G. Gainger.

What mean these weird ramblings of the approaching Tuesday night—anyway, they recall last year's curiosity club formal—especially the night before Easter and sundry other instances of staid activity.

We think when girls of one sorority refuse to give the girls in another—admission at the Scotchman's hall, the situation has been carried too far even if the lady were such choice morsels with which to struggle about the floor. (or weren't they?)

Does it mean much or little—anyway it is altered this and is senseless! How much does Brown Regester?

How long is it since and is it White's Ferns? How high is Reinhold's Hill or what is Wells's Pea or Brown's Sterling? Who says, "Lorinda you're a creek pod?" In what precinct is the Gamber's Ward? Personally we like Guy Lombardo. Sunday night meals—two dollars for two many eat classes—holiday being held in the Gamber's Ward? ## Sports, Here and There

By C. C. B.

The record compiled by the 1933 Washington College eleven is the most satisfying one that any team has made since the previous Senior Class has been in college. It is a fitting climax to the football careers of eight men who graduate next June, who have performed on the gridiron. At other colleges, more fortunate with better material and cooperation from the squad and student body alike, two victories in eight starts would be considered as sufficient grounds for obtaining a new coach. But at Washington College the situation is just the reverse, for here the Coach has been solely responsible for those two victories which are exactly twice as many as teams of the past 3 years together have been able to register. It might also be noted that Coach George L. Eklund's gridders deserved victory in at least two other encounters, this season.

Coach Eklund has done more for Washington College football than has been accredited to him. In fact, he has made the College team a great credit by his constant and excellent efforts. Coming here three years ago, fresh with All-Maryland laurels, and with a reputation of being the best and best quarterback in the football history of the State of Maryland, he has since been waging what until this year had all the characteristics of a losing fight. Washington College, it seemed was not the college for football. The team itself apparently was unconcerned, playing because of a certain physical fitness which practically required it to. The Student Body didn't give whoop, and sadly enough, seventy-five percent of that group still doesn't. But, Coach Eklund at least has installed in his players that fighting spirit which wins games, won two this year, and will win more in coming years. Even his own players have not given him half in return for all that he has given, but it is an all-around improvement.

It is not our idea that the players themselves haven't done a lot, for, after all, they have been the ones who have taken the punishment, and here returned back more. Individual abilities have recently been recognized by Baltimore Sports writers. However Coach Eklund is the man who has by tireless efforts brought out these abilities. He has aroused the Washington College players from a real slump, and for it deserves the greatest amount of praise, for others in recent years have given it up. The student body might well follow the example set by this man, and the players might get in better shape for more next year. If so, then there will be a team to boast of, rather than to feel ashamed of, as has been the case in the last several years.

The choice in most instances were easily made, as each player was outstanding not only in the Washington College game, but in other parts of the season. ## BASKETBALL PROSPECTS GOOD FOR THIS YEAR

Captain Del Proudfoot and Team Mates Practicing Daily

The 1933-34 edition of the Washington "Flying Pylonette" is slowly being moulded into a team of aggressive ball-hawks, and will be ready to start the season with a veteran composure.

The return of seven letter-men and the improved play of several of the members of last year's squad has given Coach Eklund and Coach Dumschell a look forward to a highly successful season. With such veteran players as Capt. Proudfoot, Gamber, Kibler, Holston, Huey, Ward and Skips, as well as Evans, Nicholson, Rees, Berry, Bilancioni, and Johns, improving in the daily practices, Washington College supporters should realize that the team has a fine chance to clinch the state championship.

Coaches Kibler and Dumschell have been drilling the candidates in daily workouts, and have been trying several combinations so as to find the team that works as a unit. Several close practice games have been played, and great expectations of a worthy team in the current season of both coaches.

The basketball schedule lists fourteen games, all of which come after the Xmas holidays. Washington is again scheduled to play in the Inter-collegiate League, of which Coach Kibler is President, and home and home games will be played with such league teams.

Coach J. Thomas Kibler
Coach Kibler is more optimistic over his prospects for a championship quarter this season than he has been for two or three years. With all of last season's regular back, and with the spirit characteristic of the fine teams of several years back prevalent, there is every indication that his optimism is well founded.

COED-FOOTBALL SQUAD HOCKEY GAME

In a Turkey Day Contest, the Floral-A. C. consisting of members of the 1933 Football squad, played the girls' Hockey team to a 1 to 1 draw. The game was a nip and tuck affair throughout, and the Floral girls leading until the last minute of play, were evened by their coed rivals.

Take Final Contest Of Season, 5 To 1

The final game of hockey season was played between the Freshmen and Sophomores.

When the game began the Sophomores had only eight players on the field. The Freshmen scored their one goal in the first five minutes. The Sophomores backfield got in the game. The score remained in favor of the Frosh until the beginning of the second half when Sutton, center for the Sophs, pushed one by the Freshman fullback. The Freshman team played a fine defensive game holding the score down to five points.

Local Gridders On All-Star Elevens

Gamber and Dohkins Most Honored By Sport Writers

Several Washington College gridders were honored by Baltimore Sports writers when they were chosen on All-Maryland elevens and given an Honorable Mention.

Leading the Shore players was Captain Dick Gamber, who was picked on the Evening Sun's second All-Maryland mythical eleven. He was even more honored by W. Wilson Wingate of the Baltimore News and Baltimore American, when in addition to being picked on the Second All-Maryland eleven, he was chosen Captain of it. Of Gamber, Wingate wrote: "The gridding player with real football instinct. Gamber is played by Washington College folk in the same class with such former Eastern chieftains of song and story as Whitey Frank and Gabe Young of 17 and 16 years ago, respectively.

At Dohkins, given Honorable Mention by Wingate, was selected by Oreg Taylor of the Baltimore Sunday Sun as his gridding player in his Second All-Maryland team. The splendid work of the small but effective fullback who, after playing steadily in a usual regular of three years, came into his own with a superb performance in each of the 1933 contests, qualifies him for the honor. Taylor described him as the "quaking" of a Washington team which fought well in its class."

Fritz Reinhold was given Honorable Mention by Wingate in the Quarterback position, mention being made by several writers of his leadership. Among other Washington College players who were recognized as outstanding is Elery Ward, whose masterful injury probably kept him from gaining a higher rating. Both the Baltimore Sun, and the Baltimore News and Sunday American gave him distinction. His running mate and Captain-elect, Elly Dwyer was similarly honored as was John Lord at a guard position. Charley Berry, excellent Shore passer, was given Honorable Mention by Wingate also.

THE MOST NOTHING-- Nothing In Particular

All Time Cold Football Team in the spirit of fun, the All-Time Washington College Cold Football team has been selected by some of our illustrious Male observers. In publishing the chosen list, the sponsors hope that it all is taken in the spirit that they have been made.

Skinner and Metcalfe at the ends, Harshaw and L. Crulsbach or Wyle at the tackle berths. First All-Time was at the guards and Frederick at Center on the line; and Humphries at Quarterback, Ford and Grainger at the halves, and Helms at Fullback complete the first eleven.

Honorable Mention has deservedly been accorded to Yonke, Shattuck, Ragan, Emmord, Cannon and Moore at the back positions. First All-Time and Childs as tackle, and, in the Half and Reinhold at Center. In the Backfield the Four Horsemen, Cooper, Poole, Robinson and Kinsale, deserve major mention. Morgan, H. H. Hickey and Thelma Smith are recognized from performances as meriting Honorable Mention at the Quarterback position. Other fullbacks who have performed well are Barkley, Jewell, Clarke, and Pyle (Patience).

Helms has been designated as best bet, and Humphries as Captain. The average height is 5 ft. 10 in. and the average age, fifteen. The size average weight is 190, the backfield, 210, and that of the team, 200. Harshaw also might be listed as a triple threat (S. P. & T.). Rip, (Herm) Miller is Coach. Dr. Dole master, Burkhardt, Manager, and as Trainer, O'Farrell, Roy, oh boy, what a combination. In making a statement of the team's record recently, Rip stated that, with a little practice his team, he felt, could play in any bowl in the country, he is lined up with or not. With a manager like O'Farrell, a manager like Burkhardt, and publicity men like Charley Clark and Pat Beaumont, this combination could wipe out any Eastern Shore eleven.

HOT AIR

By Phil A. Blinn

All right school classes at the University of Rochester have been dissolved by action of the faculty. T. students claim that it is better for the students to sleep in their own rooms than to come to class for their "hot air."

Several faculty members of Syracuse University are permitting students who can not afford to pay board to live with them. Others have contributed to help needy students who have. Perhaps profs' need to hug after all.

A professor defined by a professor as "one who learns more and more about less and less, until finally he can tell you nothing about anything."

Smith college gives advice to freshmen: "Communism has never worked out successfully. Wear your own clothes and let others wear theirs." "Never let studies interfere with your education," advised Dr. George D. Cutten, president of Colgate University, to his freshmen.

Columbia U. reporters questioned people on the street and discovered that five out of six men think that college students are loafers. How did they know?

Baylor College is offering a new course this fall. It is "The Proper Means of Loafing."

At Denison University students who drive cars on the campus last year were fined an average of 25 per cent higher than the grades of pedestrian students. Deal me!

A flash from Stanford states that 100 per cent of that institution must pass a physical examination before they are allowed to stay out until 12 on week nights and until 1:30 on Saturday nights. At least there is no college where the girls have to prove that they can take it. It's fun to be a college boy. He lives a life of ease; And even when he graduates He does it by degrees.

The following was written to Elly Ward, that big Washington College brawler, in care of Richard "Quiet" Debbis, Gambler.

Dear Sir: When I came to this school I weighed 160 pounds, could even lift a merrigame and was so strong I would get rope burns on my neck every time I tied my neck tie.

Since drinking your coffee I have lost thirty-five pounds, and my hair has started falling out. I'm getting so thin I can't tell whether I have a backbone or a stomach ache. I owe it all to your coffee.

An Invalued Friend, Phineas Quillman, P. S.—I find your coffee is first-rate for sluggish drains, spavins, barbers' polish and fumigation.

Another, written soon after President Roosevelt came into office: Senator

Washington, D. C. Dear Senator: I am the father of a full house, three queens and a pair of Kings. Will the cards be stacked against me, in this new deal of March 4, so that I will be lost in the shuffle? I am new away in the hole and there will be the deuce to pay if I don't make my bid. If you want to be an ace in my home do something that will help me to bring in a good hand. Very truly yours,

How bright are Washington College Students? See if you can solve this one.

A brickman, fireman and engineer are employed on a train. Their names are Robinson, Smith, and Jones, not respectively. On this same train are three passengers with same names, Robinson, Smith and Jones, hereafter referred to as "Mr." to distinguish them from employees.

1—Mr. Robinson lives in Detroit. 2—The brickman lives halfway between Detroit and Chicago.

3—Mr. Jones earns exactly $2,000 per year.

4—Smith beat the fireman at billiards.

5—The brickman's nearest neighbor, who is one of the above passengers, earns exactly 3 times as much as the brickman.

6—The passenger living in Chicago has the same name as the brickman.

QUESTION: What is the engineer's name? This test was supposed to have been given by the Bethlehem Steel Company to prospective engineers. There is no catch in it. Each statement must be considered in arriving at the correct answer and if you are bright you can solve it in 5 to 10 minutes.

Honorary Hockey Players Selected

Fourth Time For Miss Bryn; Third For Miss Rains

At the close of each season an honorary varsity team is chosen by the board of managers of the G. I. A. A. This team is made up of the players who have made the best showing during the season.

Rains, Bryn, Helms and Metcalfe won their old positions of former seasons. This is the last season for Rains and Bryn. They have both played an outstanding part in college athletics since their freshman year. Bryn has been elected honorary varsity captain four years while Rains has won for three.

Leah Frederick is back again this year but as fullback instead of half. Her place as halfback is filled by Ingham who received honorable mention last year.

Kitty Anthony, a freshman, played hockey for the first time this season. A fast player from the beginning of the season, Anthony developed into the best bet on the Freshman squad. She was elected left wing on the honorary Varsity. Eleanor Stevens, another Freshman, because of her steady playing was selected left inside, a position which she will hold for all coming seasons. Lucy Crulsbach won her honors in the game with the football team Thanksgiving morning. Her steady playing and clear thinking made many saves. Grainger's reputation as the fastest player on the field was established when she outran Johnny Lord in the Thanksgiving game.

The complete Honorary Varsity is as follows:

Center Forward—Lucia Rains.
Right Inner—Sarah Ellen Bryn.
Right Inner—Frances Grainger.
Center Halfback—Caroline Helms.
Right Halfback—Dicky Metcalfe.
Right Fullback—Miriam Ford.
Goalie—Lucy Crulsbach.
Carolyn Jewell, Louise Nicholson, Kitty Hyland and Jean Harshaw received honorable mention.

AS A STUDENT SEES IT

By Marian Emmord

As a means of meeting foreign competition, in which Italy admits she is losing ground, the Premier Mussolini has worked out a cooperative plan to lower costs of living and wages. This must necessarily result in a lowering of living standards for the Italians, but it must be effected if the country is to continue to export products.

The U. S. flag is flying again over Moscow. Ambassador Bullitt was given a cordial reception. It is hoped for out-landers to realize what an exceptional position Mr. Bullitt enjoys by virtue of Levin's appraisal of him fourteen years ago as "a young man of great heart, integrity and courage," which carries enormous weight.

The South seems singularly insensitive to the criticizing eyes of the world in connection with the trials of the Scottsboro boys. Judge Callahan maintains an attitude of half-concealed hostility toward the chief defense counsel, Samuel Leibowitz, when he has refused to permit the usually important evidence showing that the two young women (one of whom has denied there was an attack) had spent the preceding night in a hotel just with two white men. Her eventual bias was strikingly revealed when, in charging the jury, he forgot to instruct them how to bring in any verdict except that of guilt. Appeals will be made of course and it seems that such a mis-carriage of justice is sufficiently obvious to bring the question before the U. S. Supreme Court.

The "New Republic" offers a rather naive suggestion—that of procuring the Order of Lenin for Albert H. Wiggin on the grounds that he has converted more Americans to Communism than all other revolutionary agitators—after Karl Marx to William Z. Foster.

Mr. Vernon Grant Talks To Y. M. C. A.

Leading Commercial Artist Speaks On "Breaks"

The Y. M. C. A., carrying on its rehabilitation efforts this year, presented Mr. Vernon Grant, commercial artist, on Wednesday night, December 6, to an audience which would have undoubtedly been larger had it foreseen the quality of entertainment offered. In line with its endeavors to expand its influence on the campus as compared to preceding years, the association succeeded in bringing to the college a speaker, much in demand, who has spoken over a national radio network on occasion, and to numerous assemblies who have often called on him. As Mr. Grant himself explained in his talk, his prestige rose to the position of a leading commercial artist, with cover illustrations on three of the leading monthly magazines was due at the outset to a start given him by a Y. M. C. A. secretary, and in this spirit, he ventured to detail to the audience his opinions on the subject of "Breaks." Sketching his life from birth in a Missouri pioneer's household thirty-one years ago (a story seemingly out of a dime novel) to the present day, Mr. Grant convincingly pointed out that "breaks" are simply the inevitable culminations of long worked for aspirations—in effect, there are no such things as breaks, and that the "inherently talented" are only those who have driven themselves enough to attain their goals.

Equally as well received as Mr. Grant's talk, were several violin pieces by his wife, and three songs by the artist himself, at the beginning and end of the program, which contributed a most enjoyable evening to all.

COLLEGE SENIORS

MARIE POOLE

Marie Poole was graduated as the salutatorian of her class from the Harlock High School; her home is in Williamsburg, Md. In her preparatory training she included such extra-curricular activities as the Glee Club, Editorship of the High School paper, and Presidency of the Senior Class.

In Washington College, where she is a Major in French, her scholastic ability has served to distinguish her. But other fields have also successfully claimed her attention. She has been active in the Glee Club (especially in the Sophomore and Junior years), Adolphus Literary Society and the Y. W. C. A., of which she is now Vice-President. Belonging to the Honor Society in both the Junior and Senior Years, she now acts as its assistant executive. She plays class basketball, is on the Pegasus staff, and was elected Vice-president of the Women's Student Government Association, on which she had served since her Junior year. A member of the Sigma Tau Delta Sorority, Miss Poole has shown her diversity of endeavor by the accomplishments above. Perhaps most significant is the thoroughness with which she has achieved each.

JOHN T. BRUEHL

John T. Bruhl graduated from Centerville High School in the class of 1930. He participated in all sports, playing on two county championship soccer teams. He graduated with honors and received the citizenship award in his senior year.

Bruehl entered the University of Maryland in 1930, and there pursued a course in mechanical engineering for two years. He was a member of the Engineering Society and made the Freshman rifle team in 1930, and in his second year was a member of the Varsity rifle team, which won highest honors in 3rd Corps Area matches.

Bruehl transferred from U. of Md. to Washington College in 1932, taking the science course. He is majoring in Mathematics, and taking up Education preparatory to teaching.

His ability to work hard and a natural high intelligence will help this Senior to win his place.

LUCILE RAISIN

Lucile Raisin, of Chestertown, Md., played at basketball, football, declamation, dramatics and studying at the Chestertown High School, from which she was graduated in 1930. Both she and her playthings benefited.

Thus, the histrionic attributes indicated make natural her role as 1933 leader of the Thespians at Washington College; she is this year's President of the Dramatic Club, an actress of local note.

Miss Raisin belongs to the Kappa Gamma Sorority, she has been its Secretary, and to the Girl's Athletic Association, whose President she is now. She plays hockey and basketball with enthusiasm and success. Scanty other fields occupy her vital, active attention. At present, she is vigorously directing the Dramatic Club's Dulcey.

DELBERT PROUDFOOT

Delbert Proudfoot is a graduate of Penn Avenue High School in Cumberland, Maryland. As one of the representatives of that school in Basketball, Del was very instrumental in their winning the State Championship in his Junior Year, 1929, and traveling to Chicago to the National Tournament in which their team made out well. Del was placed on All-Star teams in this sport while in High School, and his ability as a "sure shot" won quite a reputation for him. He learned Basketball under Bobby Cavanaugh, former Washington College Star Athlete.

At Washington College Del has carried on in his favorite sport until he ranks among the best players in the state. His election to the captaincy of the Flying Pentagon of 1934 is the crowning achievement. We do not hesitate to say that Del, if unhampered by more or less frequent ailments of some kind, and if in the mood, is as good as any player in this section of the country. Del also won his letter in Track his Sophomore year, starting as a high jumper. He is a member of the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity, of the Varsity Club and in Sergeant-Arms of them both.

This Senior's good nature and friendly personality will go far in helping him to make good in whatever he undertakes. Though a trifle lazy, he can work when necessary, and has not shirked his duties here at College. We wish our basketball captain all luck needed.

PAUL W. T. PIPPIN

Paul W. T. Pippin is a graduate of Chestertown High School, at which he was an outstanding member of the class of 1930. His ability along the line of Art and his cooperative attitude has made him just as valuable, if not more so, as a College Student.

Paul has consistently made good indices, working for an A. B. degree. Since his entrance at Washington College he has been the mainstay of the Collision Club in planning designs and schemes for decorations. Also he has been a valuable aid to the Dramatic and Shakespearean clubs in this connection.

This Senior was honored by his classmates last June in their elections when he was chosen to Edit the 1934 College Yearbook, the Pegasus. In his Junior year he acted as Assistant Editor, having been chosen by the class of 1933 when Richards left college and Roland Rensky became Editor. Paul is also a member of the ELM staff, the Varsity Club and of Mt. Vernon Literary Society. Also he has augmented to his all-around activities by playing regularly for the past two years on the Lacrosse team. Last year his ability as a close defense man was recognized when W. Wilson Wingate gave him Honorable Mention for the All-Maryland Lacrosse Ten.

To a classmate who is willing to work, who makes many friends through social contacts and otherwise, we can give the assurance that we do not doubt that he will make good in his favorite time, and in which he is very talented, architecture.

Plans Formulated For Debating Club

Smithson Chosen Chairman; Sadler, Manager

Plans were formulated, Tuesday, December 5, 1933, at a meeting called by Professor Maloney to organize a Washington College Debating Society.

Prospects for intercollegiate debating were discussed as several debaters are in view. The list included: Hillsdale College, Mich., John Hopkins University, University of Delaware, Albright College, Blue Ridge College, Allegheny College and Western Maryland College.

Professor Dumschott will direct the collection of the debate material while Professor Maloney will assist with the development of the debate.

By action of the group, John Smithson was elected President and Wesley Sadler, manager.

There will be nine or twelve debates with the possibility of a women's debating team. The membership of the society is not limited to the nine or twelve members of the team but will also consist of all those interested who will take part in intramural debating which is a new activity at Washington College.

Nineteen persons interested in the society were at the meeting, more are welcome.

PROF. SOLANDT FETES CLASSICAL SOCIETY

Dinner Planned After Typical Roman Celebration

On Thursday evening December 6, Professor and Mrs. Solandt entertained the Classical Society and friends with a turkey banquet given at the Bell Haven. The dinner was followed by a typical Roman celebration and afforded these persons much pleasure.

The special event of the evening was a lecture by our distinguished president, Dr. Mead, who spoke on the development of the Greek drama. Dr. Mead was able to speak with authority, having lectured on comparative literature for the past sixteen years. With the aid of a slide machine he was able to illustrate the growth of the drama from the days of the Dionysia, revivier up to the age of Aeschylus's brilliant tragedies.

In addition to the members of the Society, Prof. and Mrs. Solandt's guests of honor were Dr. and Mrs. Mead, Dr. Doh, Dr. Inaella, Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. and Mrs. D. K. Boynton.

Two new islands have appeared in the southern Atlantic ocean, near Brazil.

NO NICE GIRL SWEARS

Extracts from Alice Leone Mast's Book—by Olga Shortess

If you think a nice girl doesn't have her problems, drop around some night at intermission. Unless her date is Secretary of the Y. W. C. U. or Tom the Ten-Twiler, in person, he's found to weaken at one time or another. So women at the boy Scout camp, they're not to be prepared, Alice Leone Mast says:

"When out with a plumed friend, control your feelings and on no account lose your temper. Let go the next day, the angrier you get, the better; but at the time right down give desire you may have to give him a piece of your mind. It only leads to a review and makes no impression. Remain calm and try to get him to go home, but under no circumstances let him suspect you think he is right. There is nothing that will infuriate him as the suspicion of his condition. Agree with everything he says, as, nine times out of ten he will forget it five seconds later. If you argue with him, you fix the idea in his mind. If he wants to take the orchestra away from him, be thrilled. If he develops a craving to play the saxophone, leave saxophones and don't mention the merits of a tuba. If he takes a dislike to a stranger among the room and decides he wants to punch him, agree that the man has a ugly face, but try to shift the conversation to another subject, and if the fight seems unavoidable, leave by the nearest exit."

Lacrosse Dropped By Athletic Council

Action Final Unless Faculty Changes Decision

The following is an official announcement released by the Athletic Council of Washington College. The decision and action is final unless the Faculty of Washington College reverses it.

December 14, 1933

To whom it may concern:

The Athletic Council of Washington College takes this opportunity to announce that Lacrosse has been dropped from our schedule of spring sports for the spring of 1934. The action of the Council was taken because of the financial conditions of the Association, which necessitated the eliminating of one of our two major spring sports. After giving complete consideration to the matter, the Council came to the conclusion that the cost of conducting baseball for the spring of 1934 would be much less than the cost of conducting Lacrosse.

If in the judgment of the Athletic Council the financial condition of the Association warrants its restoration, Lacrosse will be included in the spring program of that year.

JOINT MEETINGS OF Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. HELD

Prof. Dumschott Speaks On Good Citizenship

Interesting topics have been discussed in joint meetings of Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. recently. On December third Dr. Livingston addressed the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. and spoke on religion as rounding out character. His talk was enjoyed by all present who learned a great deal from it.

On December tenth Professor Dumschott talked on the requirements of a good citizen. He told what he thought every young person should do to help his country along the road to success. He closed his talk with the request for everyone to join in a silent prayer for Dr. Tinsworth. This was done, and after singing a few more songs, the meeting ended.

THE ELM LETTER BOX

To The Editor of the Elm:

Sir:—"LACROSSE DROPPED AT WASHINGTON." That was the heading of an article in the Baltimore Sun on Saturday morning, December 9th. The text of the article was, that due to several reasons, Lacrosse may be dropped at Washington College. The reasons given were, (1) lack of funds, (2) the large number of homes gone this year, and home games never have attracted a crowd, (3) the cost of equipment.

Now it seems in fairness to the student body that someone might let us know something about the athletic policy that we are going to pursue.

It seems that if there were no doubt as to the finality and validity of the reasons given for dropping Lacrosse, then Lacrosse should certainly by all means be dropped. But here is where some of us begin to wonder.

About the first reason given above, "lack of funds." It is known to some that the football team has quite a good sized sum of money, due to the Delaware game that was unexpected when the athletic budget was made. I see no reason why some of this amount could not be used for Lacrosse, except that it be used for other sports.

In reference to the second reason, the large number of homes gone this year, and home games never have attracted a crowd, something might be said. Last season we played all our games away from home, except a practice game with a high school. So, to tell the truth, there wasn't much chance of attracting a crowd, was there? Then, the spring before last, we played New York University and Swarthmore College at home. Of course I couldn't count the people one by one, but I can say conservatively that there was as large a crowd at both of them as there was at any football game here this fall, with the exception of the Delaware game.

Now just a word about the schedule that Washington College played last spring. It was acclaimed by the Baltimore press as the hardest of any team in the country. It included St. John's, Hopkins, Mt. Washington, Maryland, and Swarthmore, four of the best teams in the country and the last one named not far behind. There are other teams that we could play, believe it or not, and satisfactory terms could be arranged I think, with them. How extensive an attempt has been made to get these games? We don't know.

Equipment undoubtedly has to be bought. The team needs shoes and a few new sticks, but all of it will not amount to a prodigious sum. That is my evaluation of the reasons given for dropping Lacrosse, the major spring sport of nearly every Maryland College.

Still, how about the students? How do they feel about the game? That is not definitely known, for they have not been given a chance to say. It is a prevalent fact upon the campus that the game is well liked, but there are those Freshmen who have not seen Lacrosse played. In all fairness to them, should they not be given an opportunity to see the sport played that has Maryland as its center? Even the Sophomores, except those on the squad, have seen only practice games, and not the thrills of a regular game.

This season promises to be the best since the sport has been played at Chestertown. The squad boasts the services of one, All-American and several that were given honorable mention on the All-Southern and All-Maryland teams. The spirit of the team may be summed up briefly by saying that we can and will sacrifice if given an opportunity. Consider the fact that there are nine regulars on the team from the Senior team, and much other material in the lower classes.

It seems a shame that Washington College is going to take a step backwards by dropping the spring sport which is growing so fast at the present time.

(Signed) Richard Powell Chambers.

Furnishes Foods For Expeditions

Products Of Col. Phillips, Former Board Member, Used By Byrd

Students and Alumni of historic old Washington College undoubtedly will be interested to learn that a former member of the Board of Governors and Visitor of this venerable institution today is playing an important role in the two outstanding expeditions of scientific research and adventure now breasting the seven seas in search of romance and undiscovered lands; of thrills and changes in the world's geography.

He is Col. Albanus Phillips, of Cambridge, president of the Phillips Food Company, whose 20 varieties of Phillips Delicious soups and vegetables are going around the world with Adventurer Philip H. Lord, aboard the Suth Parker, and with Scientist Richard E. Byrd, aboard the Jacob Ruppert in quest of new discoveries in Antarctica.

Piled high in the holds of these sturdy ships are sun-ripened, nature-kind vegetables from the broad and fertile tracts of Del-Mar-Va. And because the food chosen for such perilous expeditions must necessarily concern the comfort and health of the crew, to a vital extent, the fact that Phillips Delicious brands were selected both for jaunts into unknown and uncharted areas is a dual honor shared by Col. Phillips as a packer and producer of Del-Mar-Va agriculturists.

The two extremes of adventure meet in the respective junkets of Capt. Lord and Admiral Byrd: the first, a radio and motion picture trail, sailing a four-masted schooner around the world for the sheer love of romance and adventure, and the latter equipped with the most modern and expensive scientific apparatus to study regions in the South Pole zone.

Though the pressure of expanding business operations several years ago necessitated the retirement of Col. Phillips from the Board of Governors and Visitors of Old Washington, throughout all the intervening years he has retained a fond and devoted pride in the steady march of the Eastern Shore college to new pinnacles of fame in the educational world.

Guest Artists Will Entertain Assembly January 18

The regular eleven o'clock Thursday evening assembly of January 18th will be featured by a recital by guest artists from the Delaware School of Music of Wilmington. The program will present Mr. Daniel Healy, tenor, and Mrs. Edna Woods, pianist.

Y. M. And Y. W. C. A. Will Hold Vesper Service Sunday

Dick Gamber is to be the speaker at the vesper service this Sunday evening, held by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. This service like the last, will be held in Reid Hall around the fireplace at 6:30. Lawrence Williams is to lead the singing.

"DULCY" TO BE GIVEN MONDAY

LEADING PART IN PLAY TAKEN BY MISS RAISIN

On Monday evening, January 15, the Washington Players will present "Dulcy," a three-act comedy, directed by Prof. John D. Makosky.

Lucile Basin plays the title role of "Dulcy" and she is ably assisted by Robert Fink, her husband—in the play you understand.

Some of the other characters are Mr. Forbes, a more or less peaty old gentleman played by "Curly" Korrer.

Mrs. Forbes, his frivolous second wife—Betty Childs.

Oh! These love scenes! "Curly" has been kidding you!

Angela—his romantic daughter—Olga Shortess.

Schlyer Van Dyck—a man of no-nonsense—Clifford. Watch. Don't surprise you at the piano! It's tricky!

Bill Parker—Dulcy's blase younger brother—Bill Hall.

Vincent Leach (don't miss the Big Alby Passion) in up an coming young scenarioist—Harry "Dust-in-the-person" Rhodes.

Tom Sterrett—an enterprising young advertising engineer—"Chuck" Wells. Look forwards to his impromptu remarks!

Blair Patterson—the mystery solver—Harry Huey, as usual. Harry has condensed not to speak his native brogue so you'll understand.

Harry—the ex-convicee butler—Norris Duffy.

Dulcy, poor dear, gets herself and everyone else, in all kinds of scrapes, as when she helps Angela to elope with him.

We'll we won't tell you.

If you come to William Smith Hall next Monday night at 8 P. M., you will have the mystery explained.

Shoremen Will Play Lacrosse This Year

Found Possible To Play Game After It Had Been Dropped

Contrary to prevalent opinion as formed by various reports and announcements, Washington College will be represented by a Lacrosse team this spring, according to a statement recently made by Graduate Manager of Athletics, Prof. Frederick Dumchurch.

Though it is not certain whether or not the team will be supported by the college, or will be managed independently, at least four games are lined up for the players of the Old Indian game. The Mt. Washington Club, the best in the country, will probably be met on the home field. Such a contention is based on the statement of Oster Norris, manager of the Baltimore Club, that his team would do anything possible to help retain Lacrosse at Washington College.

By coming here in private cars little expense would be incurred, he added.

The other teams that will be engaged compose the "Big Three" of Maryland and United States Lacrosse, St. Johns, Johns Hopkins, and the University of Maryland, each of which has been met in previous seasons.

The Student Body voiced strong approval when it was learned that the popular game would be played again this year. Athletic Director Kibler and Graduate Manager Dumchurch are attempting to secure other games, if financial terms can be arranged.

CAPTAIN PROUDFOOT LEADS QUINTET IN LEAGUE CONTEST

MEET MT. ST. MARY'S AT EMMITSBURG TONIGHT

Tonight the Flying Pentagon will attempt to overthrow a fast-flying Mt. St. Mary's quintet, which, however, isn't as fine a club as Art Mallory presented last year. The Mounts are extremely hard to beat on their home floor and have an advantage of having been in action more than their other Shore rivals.

Game A Toss-up

Coach Kibler plans to start the same five tonight, led by the stellar forward and captain, Del Proudfoot. Inspired by their initial success, the Flying Pentagon will be conceded an even chance to win at Emmitsburg. Mt. St. Mary's is considered the main obstacle in the Shoremen's path to a State Championship.

Library Science Course To Be Given Next Semester

Required Of Library Helpers; Open To All Students

LIBRARY METHODS

A practical course in the fundamentals of Library methods, required of all students desiring to become Library assistants. Elective for others. Instruction is given in book selection, reference work, classification and cataloging of books according to the Library of Congress and Dewey systems. One hour of lecture and two hours of practice per week. Credit two term hours. Not open to Freshmen. Second term.

SHOREMEN START OFF SLOWLY, CLICK IN SECOND HALF

(Special Dispatch To The Elm)
Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13.—Overcoming a 19 to 3 lead which John Hopkins commanded at the end of the first half, the 1934 edition of the Flying Pentagon, won its initial contest of the season by the count of 29 to 20, at Evergreen last night.

Mercon Shaky At Start

Coach J. Thomas Kibler's players were a bit shaky throughout the first half and consequently were unable to score more than a single field goal. Seven kickers kept them in the running. The final period, however, witnessed a fine comeback as Captain Del Proudfoot, was shifted to center and began compiling his total of nine points which led all other players. Harry Huey, guard, sank two field goals and three out of four foul shots for seven points, while Elbery Ward, playing in his new forward position, scored two double dunks and one free throw.

Kibler Uses Nine Players
Coach Kibler used a total of nine players, and was pleased with the showing of the Maroon and Black, once they began playing as they should. The Hopkins Blue Jays, unsuccessful in five starts this year, were led by Don Kelly, forward, who tallied five points.

President MEAD States

Time has such an inevitable habit of running along, that the middle of the school year is on us before we have had time to do much more than get started. There's a warning to us all, to get something done while we may, before Old Father Time slips up on us.

Mid-January begins to warm us that semester exams are just around the corner. Seniors are starting to realize that in another six months they will be shoved out into the cold, cruel world, with their college days forever behind them. Sophomores and Juniors take the flight of time with their accustomed savoir faire, and Freshmen are scarcely realizing from the importance they experienced at home during the recent holidays where they were received as full-fledged college men and women.

But there is another side to it. Consider the faculty who do not progress from class to class, but progress and watch the stream of students flow by them, year after year. Have they given you leadership, guidance, and intellectual stimulation? If so, the best thing you can do for the college is to recommend them to your friends who will follow you to this college—or will go elsewhere to seek their further education unless you exhibit enthusiasm in trying to enlist some other student to take the place you will leave vacant when you finish.

A philosopher has well said that he who plants clover and fills them with students is planting seed for the world. Constant re-seeding is necessary to keep constantly new crops developing. I wonder if there is a student of Washington College who failed to represent his or her Alma Mater somehow while at home, or elsewhere, during the vacation. What did you do to show your loyalty to Washington College during those two weeks? Did you represent her well, talk favorably about her, advertise her properly by your words and bearing? When you are gone from the campus, someone will fill your place. Will it be someone who was moved to come as a result of your word or example?

There is room for a limited number of good students in our family during the new semester. Can you do anything to help attract them here? If so, it should be a matter of pride, as well as a duty to your college, for you to exert every effort.

Never forget that Washington spirit is marked first of all by cooperation. Together we go forward—liberty by mind.

New Rules Made By College Sororities

Especially Concern Bidding And Pledging

To Whom It May Concern

At a joint meeting of the three sororities of Washington College it was decided that the following rules should govern all sororities:

1. No new girls, whether Freshmen or Upper Classmen are to be allowed to use the sorority rooms until pledging takes place in February.

2. An explanation of Bidding, Pledging, etc., will be made to Freshmen before February Pledging.

3. Rushing shall be defined as "any formal party involving only members of one sorority and non-sorority girls." There shall be no formal rush function given by each sorority.

(Signed)

Sarah Ellen Byrn,
Pres. Intervarsity Council.

NO NICE GIRL SWEARS

Extracts from Alice Leone Most's Book—By Olga Shortess

This time it's little Lesson No. 2 about dealing with our plattered friends. Self-preservation, it seems to be the main object. Nice girl, her virtue can lose her bank-book, her income, or her best lipstick but she's got to manage by hook or by crook to save her own sweet self. So on with Alice Leone Most.

"Never, never go out at night without a few pennies in your purse, call it 'mad money' or what you like, it will pay for your taxi home if the need should arise."

"Learn to drive a car whether you own one or not. The day will surely come when you will have to take the wheel or run the risk of crashing against a tree with a man you know has affected his vision. In fact, if you take my advice, you will carry caution to the extent of never getting into a car with a man you know is drunk. Even if you are at a friend's house in the country and you suddenly realize that your young man has reached this stage, don't go home with him. Spend the night where you are, no matter how embarrassing it may be. After all, plastic surgery is pretty expensive."

POET'S KORNER

The following was composed by one of our illustrious Faculty members when he struggled in College with an English Literature course:

I am compelled to write this mournful lay
By one who teaches rhetoric for

While peaceful souls are floating down the Nile
I spend my time accumulating style.

'Tis true that Marlowe had a mighty line,
And fully half that Shakespeare wrote was mine!

But why should I, in agony and pain,
Be forced to find the word that rhymes with rain?

While others get their fun from English Lit,
I rather like nuncupatory wit.

If Popian style is supercilious
I may as well prepare to wield the broom,

If I could only work some trick or ruse
And thus secure the aid of Dryden's muse,
I would, with all content of soul and mind,
Be satisfied to sing to humankind.

By Charles Clark

As the 1934 edition of the Washington College Flying Pentagon looked up with a fairly good night in Baltimore, and as the Kibler players engage the Mt. St. Mary's championship combination tonight, there is much speculation over whether or not the Maroon and Black will live up to expectations and dedicate Art Malloy's Mounts from the top rung in the Maryland Collegiate League, or whether one of the other three colleges represented in the league will be able to upset the dog and win top honors this year.

From all indications, it would be merely a matter of time to determine the winner, at least until the League play is well under way. Sports writers in Baltimore, and many others, are anxious to witness the Washington College five in action, are figuring on that team to prove its two games this week end, its superiority and ability to win. The Mt. St. Mary's is the team to beat, but think. However, Loyola, Hopkins, and Western Maryland have ideas of their own, and most concrete evidence of their will serve notice that it is anyone's league as far as winning the championship is concerned.

The Mounts have one League victory, having trounced Hopkins on Tuesday night in a free running contest, 43 to 31. Such a score is not decisive enough to consider the Blue Jays as no certain contender. Loyola has been winning games since before Christmas, and with early season sloughbacks tucked away, the team is now developing at full stride in the circuit play begins. Cornerford has a squad of younger but rather experienced players, eager to place Loyola where Bethesda would like to see them. As for the Western Maryland, as the Maroon and Black, is rated as far as determining real strength, but seems to be the team to watch, really to surprise at any time.

The fate of Washington College depends upon the results of the game last night and the affair this evening tonight. Early season losses in the past two years have cost Coach Kibler's players the leadership in Maryland basketball. The present combination looks better than any since 1931, and has a better crop of reserves.

It comes to the core time after time, it seems again for better teams again and again—and yet, teams conscious of it do not profit by knowing it exists. Stanford, a better eleven, suffered from the possession of it in the New Year's Rose Bowl game in which the boys from the East's Columbia completely fooled practically every expert sports writer. Every one knew about it—OVERCONFIDENCE.

And, why bring that up? Well, a certain group of better Intramural Basketball players, deciding before the game to hold the score down after getting a safe lead over their unrespected Senior Class rivals, were forced to take the short end of the stick in one of this week's class games. It isn't the idea that these juniors should be absolutely condemned for their performance, but it is something which brought before their attention, that might cause it to disappear if it wasn't already.

Flying Pentagon Favored In Maryland Collegiate League

Coach Kibler and his Assistant, Prof. Dumchett are well pleased with the form that the Maroon and Black Basketball squad has rounded into as Maryland Collegiate League play begins for the Sheremans.

The combination, likely to start games this week end, consists of Captain Jim Stout, and Larry Ward at the forward positions, Phil Skipp as pivot man, and Harry Huey and Bill Nicholson, guards. All but the last named are lettermen and regulars of last season's mediocre quintet. Nicholson, a near two-handed pounder possessing plenty of speed, natural ability, and willingness to move, is the star of the team last year. His development since early in the fall under Dumchett, while Coach Kibler worked on the football field, has been remarkable. In addition to this starting string, is a bunch of veterans who are pushing all the time for starting berth. Al Hansen, the fastest and most effective half-back on the squad, Al Blawie, an smooth and tricky as they come, Al Giraffe, playing in his veteran manner, Dick Gouley, a rugged athlete at Washington College, Charley Berry, who is exhibiting greatly improved form, and Ed Evans, a splendid center who is in the mood, compose a group that would find favor at any college. Jimmy Johns, Bill Reinhardt and Dale Rees, three steady players, also will be a factor in the team play this season, while Bramantino, Mooney, Shaul, Bean, Greaves, MacMahon and McLain are considered by Coach Kibler as being good enough for his varsity squad.

The team plays a schedule of four games, chiefly state and Maryland Collegiate League contests. The early season play of the Flying Pentagon is expected to be the chief factor when chances of topping the championship are considered. Next week three games will be staged, Western Maryland being met at Westminster on Tuesday night, and here on Saturday night, with Swarthmore offering stiff opposition on Friday night, at Swarthmore.

INTRAMURALS

Under the direction of Coaches J. Thomas Kibler and George L. Ekatis the Intramural Basketball Leagues assumed full swing on Monday past, January 8th. A schedule map drawn out by the Coaches has games scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, and Saturday afternoon from now until early in March. The games if played as last year, will offer much in the way of recreation for spectators, exercise and satisfaction for the performers, and probably much amusement for the Coaches.

There are two leagues, one composed of the four class teams; and the other of the three Fraternities and three dormitories.

Seniors Defeat Juniors
So far six games have been played. The Senior combination unexpectedly defeated the 1933 Class League champions, the Juniors, on Monday night. Wandering too much about how high they should run the score, the Junior team, with four of the Junior Varsity players in the lineup, were completely out of their determined error of Seniors.

In the other contest, the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, featuring the play of Al Dohkins, recovered from a game ineffective and took the game with a comfortable lead. On Wednesday night, the Fresh team defeated the Sophomores with little difficulty as Greaves starred, and the Phi Sigma Phi took the measure of the Middle Hall Club in a rough contest. Game results of last night were received too late for publication.

Many Players
The games played between 6:30 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. will give many students who do not participate in intercollegiate athletics, at least Phi Sigma Phi, a chance to play. The results of the several teams are as follows:

Class League
Seniors—Ralph Harvey, Pat Beaman, Joe O'Farrell, Omar Carey, Emory Burkhardt, Bert Hastings.
Juniors—Bob Shaul, Vincent Brandolini, Calvin Rogers, Bill Dwyer, Joe Mooney and Wes Sadler.

Harry Rhodes Will Manage '34 Eleven

Has Been Assistant Manager For Two Years

Editor's Note—By an oversight, the newly elected Football Manager for 1934 was not mentioned when the Captain-elect was given a write-up in the last issue of the ELM. The error is regretted.

Harry C. Rhodes, of Queenstown, Md., and a member of the Junior Class at Washington College, was chosen as Football Manager of the 1934 eleven at a meeting of the 1933 lettermen immediately before Christmas. He has two years of Assistant Managering qualified him for the important position.

Harry is a member and Secretary of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, a member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and of the Y. M. C. A. He has taken leading parts in the plays presented by the Washington College Dramatic Club, and is a member of the cast of "Dulcy" to be presented by the club on Monday night, January 15. He is majoring in the Science courses.

COACH EKATIS WILL HOLD BOXING CLASSES

Although Intercollegiate boxing is not conducted at Washington College as yet, Coach George L. Ekatis, Head Football and Lacrosse Coach, will again conduct a boxing class this year for all those interested; it was recently announced. The first workout was held yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium.

The factors preventing Inter-Collegiate boxing at present are financial and lack of material. Though there are some good lightweight fighters, few in the heavier classes can be found. With a former Intercollegiate Champion as Coach, Ekatis, his record known to all, and with opposition in nearly every Maryland college, it is expected that in time the Shore College will be represented by a boxing team.

ELMER W. BOYLES

Elmer W. Boyles was a Honor Student at Calveria High School, Calveria, Maryland, from which he was graduated in June 1930. He played on the several High School teams and in other ways did credit to himself.

Since his matriculation at Washington College Elmer has carried on, and even though handicapped by being a day-student his first two years, he has made very enviable scholastic records, averaging around a 2.75 index. He is majoring in Chemistry and Mathematics, and his excellent work in the Laboratory qualified him for an Assistantship. His high standing in favorite subjects and in others resulted in his being awarded one of the two Senior Scholarships, awarded annually by the Board of Visitors and Governors.

Boyles is a member of the Baseball squad, and plays Basketball in the Intramural League, for his Fraternity, the Phi Sigma Tau. He is a charter member of the newly formed Honor Society and of the Chemical Society, being an officer of the latter. Also he is a member of the Y. M. C. A. and of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society.

In a few words, Boyles is a Senior of all-around ability.

MARGARET ANN BROWN

Margaret Ann Brown was graduated from the Chestertown High School where she was active in athletics and the fine art of making friends. At Washington College, she has been for four years, a member of the Gamma-Sigma Sorority, and is serving in an official capacity this year. During her Freshman and Sophomore years, she belonged to the Y. W. C. A., and is an active member of the Town Girls' Association. Besides being a thorough student, especially in History, her major field, she has even continued her policy of quiet and genuine interest in the queer goings of mankind. At college, also, she has not let her athletic ability languish; this year she is assistant coach of volleyball and basketball, and has requested her class team in these two sports for the entire four years. Miss Brown would indeed seem to be one of those with a real "desire for living."

GROVER BERT HASTINGS

Bert Hastings was one of three Washington High School graduates of Princess Anne, Md., who entered Washington College with the class of 1931. Since then he has matured both physically and mentally to a great extent, standing well in his classes.

Bert is best known for two things, his excellent bridge playing, and for his friendly personality and cleverness. At the present time he is probably the best bridge player on the Campus, excelling in the Contract game as well as in Auction bridge. However, we do not want to give the impression that his time is taken up with this recreation more than it should be, for he has many other interests at College. The Lacrosse players recognize him as a fine manager, looking out for their many needs, as well as cooperating with Coach Editha. It is hoped he will not be without a Lacrosse team to look out for this spring.

He has been an active member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and of the Y. M. C. A. for four years, and is a charter member of the newly formed Chemical Society. Each year he has participated in class athletics with average ability.

Bert is majoring in the Science courses and will be qualified to teach when graduated in June. His native ability along with willingness to work and cooperate will be a great factor in determining his success.

FATIENCE PYLE

Fatience Pyle was graduated from the Chestertown High School, where she was distinguished not only as a quietly adequate, interested, student and a vivacious companion, but also as an accurate writer and conscientious contributor to the school literary enterprises. She also performed well as an athlete.

These qualities and accomplishments she has continued at Washington College, where she is an active member of the Shakespeare Players, and belonged to the Mt. Vernon Literary Society. Miss Pyle played hockey in both the Junior and Senior years, and basketball in the two years before these. In her Junior year she was selected as a member of the Honorary Hockey team. She is one of the Board of Managers of the Girls' Athletic Association. Also she has been a member of the Kappa Gamma Society for four years, serving in the capacity of Treasurer last year, and being Vice-President this year.

It is always difficult to define the abstract qualities of a subject's character, other than by his impression on the observer or intimate, and such impressions, or expressions of them, are always inadequate. Albeit, that is the case, it may be said of Fatience Pyle that she is one of that gifted class of eternal optimist.

ALBERT P. GIRAITIS

Albert P. Giraitis graduated from High School in Hartford, Connecticut and worked there at the Insurance Business for a year or two before entering Washington College in the fall of 1930. Since his matriculation he has added to the laurels that his brother Stanley won, in athletics and business, distinguished himself as a student, averaging over a 2.5 index.

Al has made eight Varsity letters and will have two more by the end of the College year. He has won three in Basketball, three in Lacrosse and two in Football. Though he claims Basketball as his favorite sport, his ability in Lacrosse was recognized when W. Wilson Wingate gave him Honorable Mention for All-Maryland Lacrosse honors in the Baltimore News and Sunday American. Coach Kibler has found Giraitis a hard working player who has been a big asset to the team each year.

Giraitis has been noted for his independence and ability to speak on intellectual subjects. He is thoroughly familiar with the leading current questions, and has definite ideas of his own concerning them. At times his College notes have convinced him too progressive, but he will justify his notions and thoughts.

He is a member of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, of which he was Business Manager during his Sophomore year. He has been a member of the Varsity Club for four years, and last June was honored by his class by being elected to the Student Council. He also is a leading figure in the newly formed Honor Society. With Al's intelligence and ability to do things, we expect to hear about him in the future.

MAX MONTOUR GIVES VERSATILE PROGRAM

Recitations From Great English And German Dramatists

Mr. Max Montour, celebrated and skilled German actor and reader, presented at the first Washington College Assembly for 1934, held on January 4, in William Smith Hall, a versatile program of character parts and recitations from the great writers and dramatists of English and his native land. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, of the same day, at the same place, he gave a different selection of representations, including an entire one-act play, by Schiller, for the convenience and entertainment of the people of the town and countryside.

Mr. Montour, in the morning, was introduced to the Assembly by Dr. A. L. Davis, Chairman of the Language Department of the college. Here, he portrayed Hamlet, in the grand soliloquy, in both English and German; a passage from King Lear, and contrasting roles of the Jew—crafty and always vindictive as Shylock, in the Merchant of Venice, and philosophically tolerant, sorrowing for unceasing humanity, in Nathan the Wise from the tale by Lessing. The finest piece, if one finest can be picked from Mr. Montour's brilliant repertoire of portrayals, was his recital of the Erlkönig, when his interpretive dialogue of the warrior and his dying son was indeed artistry.

Before an audience slightly smaller, but not less enthusiastic, in the evening, Mr. Montour enacted parts from Goethe's immortal Faust, including a bit of his famous part as Mephistopheles.

Mr. Montour came to Washington College through the courtesy of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

AS A STUDENT SEES IT

By Marian Emmord

An example of the relation of economics to politics is shown by the cases of Mr. Stevitzky, international banker, who was reported missing several days ago. An extensive search revealed his hiding place in the Swiss Alps. It was reported that when the gendarmerie entered his home, he immediately shot himself and later died. However, rumors cast abroad suggest that the gendarmerie shot him in order to prevent his implicating certain high officials in France in nefarious practices.

Immediately an armed guard of 1000 men was posted around the French assembly. Further developments should prove most enlightening.

General Johnson now comes out with the announcement that the average working week will have to be reduced from 46 to 32 hours if recovery is to be speeded up. He qualifies his statement, however, by adding that certain industries which have suffered severe losses due to the curtailment of the working hours of their employees, may be exempted or have special codes arranged. If the plan is brought into practice there is the possibility that the smaller firms and businesses will not be able to compete with large scale industry by virtue of the fact that their weapons lie in the now illegal practices of price cutting, sweat shops, etc., unless something unprecedented happens, there will be further frustration by capital and creation of monopolies similar to the plan submitted by Girard Sèvepe.

CODES GIVEN LIBRARY BY MRS. FRANK DICK

Generous Gift Of $1500 Provides For Reading Facilities

The Washington College code will soon have a library of their own in Reid Hall, which, however, will be at the disposal of their male classmates.

The establishment of the library was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. Frank Madison Dick, of Cambridge, Md., Librarian General of the Daughters of the American Revolution. From her it is presented to the college through the Dorset and the Old Kent Chapters of the D. A. R., and will be a Memorial to Eliza Cullen Dick.

Special Assembly Will Mark Birthday Of Geo. Washington

President Mead To Make Convocation Address

The birthday of the patron-founder of Washington College, and the United States of America, George Washington, will be celebrated, as has become an annual custom, on Thursday, February 22, at a regular Assembly in William Smith Hall, marked by unusual formality, and special exercises appropriate to the date. The address of the convocation, to which the interested public is invited, will be delivered by President Gilbert Mead, and will indicate significant but in no way obscure students in the rich and complex history of Washington College.

Although of an uncommonly dignified nature, the Assembly will not assume the character of a celebration of last year's, for it was learned at a recent interview in the President's office that early in March a truly "patriotic" celebration will designate the formal acceptance by this college, and opening of, the new Reid Hall Library, the recent beneficiary gift of Mrs. F. M. Dick, of Cambridge, Maryland. Though plans for this latter occasion are not complete, it is surmised that speakers of historical prominence will grace ceremonies of historic character, when a dream of those who sought, for a rich-complete Girl's Dormitory at Washington College is at last realized.

Dr. Mead's speech on February 22 will reveal in an organized way, so excellent of the intensive collection and study he has made of fragments and little-known references to, and relationships of this college.

The Saturday following the twenty-second will be a college holiday.

John Mead, '37, Remains Ill In Baltimore Hospital

Although the current year has seen little absence because of illness from the ranks of the students at Washington College, it is with general sorrow and regard for an early recovery that the report of the continued illness of John Mead, of the class of '37, is reported. Mead, the son of the President of the college, played on the football squad during this, his Freshman year, and therefore, for his general athletic bearing, it was with unusual surprise that it was learned that at the beginning of 1934 he was the victim of a vicious attack of the systematic pleurisy. To John Mead, in the hospital, from his friends, in the college, are sent the most cordial wishes for early convalescence.

Four New Students Enroll For Second Semester

Washington College is pleased to welcome into its midst four new students this semester. They are Frederick P. Campbell, of New York City, N. Y., and transferring from Brooklyn College; Brooks Reynolds, freshman, from Georgetown, Delaware; Howard Chase, freshman, from the University of Maryland; and William H. White, freshman, from Wicomico High School, Salisbury.

President MEAD States

One of the most pleasant things about youth is, to me, its capacity for enthusiasm. When that vital element vanishes from a person's make-up, it is an inevitable sign that the arteries of the soul are beginning to harden, and rapid fossilization is on the way.

I like enthusiasm. True, the younger and less balanced a person is, the more chance for the enthusiasm to bubble off into froth, or boil over and put out the fire. Yet I would rather take a chance on that than be faced with an eternal listlessness, which has constantly to be poked at from without to stir it into any semblance of heat.

I like enthusiasm for play, and I like intellectual curiosity which is not content with a little knowledge, or the knowledge of a few things. Life is too short to be content with small segments.

Of course youth is sometimes wrong-headed. But then, so is age. In the first instance we call it callousness; in the latter, it is likely to be a rubber and reactionary attitude which is much harder to resolve. And the individual who risked nothing by the enthusiasms of his youth is most prone to become this staid, born conservative in his older days.

Somewhere between these two extremes lies the true path of real progress. Keeping one's balance in this disturbed world today is as well as walking a tight-rope over the Grand Canyon with the wind blowing from all directions at once. "Our stability is but balance," as Robert Bridges says, and like the rope-acrobat, we shall fall if we try to stand still. Our safety lies in moving forward, even though slowly. And this is as true for the College as a whole as it is for individuals.

—Gilbert W. Mead.

Fraternities Issue Bids To New Students

A total of nine men were pledged by the Washington College Fraternity, yesterday, as Bids were handed in to Dean Jones by the Freshmen and new uppermen following Silence Period which lasted from 12 noon on Thursday until 5 P. M. yesterday.

The Fraternities pledged the following men:

Alpha Kappa—Arthur Greims, Jas. White.

Pi Sigma Phi—Alger Abbott, Joseph McLean.

Pi Sigma Tau—Marshall Wingo, Bill Chalkley, Philip Sterling, Eugene Younts and Bill Hall.

Dr. Micou Speaks To Classic Society

The Classic Club of the college met on February 22 at Reid Hall for a special social event. It was very fortunate indeed to have as its distinguished guest and speaker the well-known classicist, Dr. Micou. For some months the members of the society have been anticipating this occasion to hear Dr. Micou, as it has the first time in several years that he has consented to address such a group.

Washington College Students Will Be Helped By C. W. A.

Md. College Heads Meet To Day To Discuss Plan

A telegram on Wednesday to Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, president of Washington College, from George F. Zook, Commissioner of Education, announced that the clause in the CWA project to give financial aid to students to which Dr. Mead and other college and university heads had objected had been stricken out.

The clause, which Dr. Mead and other college heads indicated would work extreme hardships on private colleges and universities, even to the extent of forcing some of them to close down, was that whereby the college was required to "waive all fees for registration, tuition, laboratory and any other purposes for students working under this arrangement."

With that clause out of the contract Dr. Mead announced recently that Washington College would probably be able to take care of 25 students under the CWA plan. Under this plan, it is said, students forced to drop out of school because of financial difficulties and those prevented from starting college courses for the same reasons, would be given sum, ranging up to $30 a month, to help them continue their studies.

Requests for information have been received by Dr. Mead from prospective students, their parents and left students now in college. Inasmuch, however, that only two students were forced to leave Washington College at the end of the first semester because of financial troubles, it appeared that most of any number getting aid from the CWA to attend the local school would be new students.

College and university heads of Maryland will meet in Baltimore today to discuss the plan. Dr. Mead plans to attend the session.

Gardner and Fink Are Honored In Class Elections

Alfred Gardner, of Chaptico, Maryland, was elected to the Presidency of the Junior Class at Washington College yesterday at noon time. He succeeds Harry Huey who held the office last year.

In the Sophomore class elections, Robert Fink defeated Charles Dudley by a 20 to 17 vote for a Student Council position, left vacant by the withdrawal of Robert Bean from college.

Dr. Livingston and Dr. Howell Resume Work After Illness

Dr. F. G. Livingston, Professor of Botany and Psychology, and Dr. William R. Howell, Registrar and Professor of Economics and Sociology have just recovered from winter illnesses and are resuming their college work. Each was confined for approximately a week.

Kibler To Head Yacht Club

Mr. J. Thomas Kibler, Athletic Director at Washington College, Head Basketball and Baseball Coach, was elected President of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club on Tuesday night, February 6, as the stockholders of that organization held their annual meeting.

Albert Dobkins Is New Mt. Vernon Head

On Thursday evening, February 8, 1934, the Mt. Vernon Literary met in the auditorium of William Smith Hall for its first meeting of the second semester. The meeting was in charge of the newly elected president Albert H. Dobkins, who delivered his inaugural speech to the society. In this he stated his reconstruction program that he plans to carry out in the near future. He stressed the importance of such an organization and urged all members to do their part in bringing it back on a sound basis. Selections on the plans were rendered by Vincent Brandolini.

The officers for the second semester are: President, Albert H. Dobkins; Vice-President, Harriet Rigan; Secretary, Elda Burdick; Treasurer, Louis Goldstein; Sgt.-at-Arms, Joseph H. Freedman; Board of Censors, Jack Smithson, Wes Sadler. (One member yet to be elected).

Paintings Of Marshall On Exhibition In Reid Hall

Washington College is very fortunate to have on exhibition the paintings of the Rev. Clark S. Marshall, formerly of Church Hill, Maryland. The new library in Reid Hall, seed dormitory, is the scene of the exhibition which are being sponsored by the Women's Literary Club of Chertestown and by Washington College.

The paintings have been shown since Thursday, February 8 and will continue on exhibition until Wednesday, February 14. ### Members Of "W" Club Must Attend Meetings

To Varsity Club Members
The new constitution of the Varsity Club provides that members must attend four meetings in a row without a very good excuse, be dropped from the Club. This announcement is made following the continued absence of several members without expressed reasons.

(Signed) Charles B. Clark, President of Varsity Club.

Prof. Coop Entertains Assembly

The regular Thursday morning Assembly was unusually and agreeably entertained on Feb. 8, by a demonstration in Physics, by the Head of the Physics Department at Washington College, Professor J. J. Coop.

CORRECTION: In our last issue of the ELM we credited Prof. John D. Makovsky with directing the Dramatic Club's recent play, "Daley." Though he directs the club's activities, and carries the members in the play, Miss Lucile Rasmussen, President of the Dramatic Club, was entirely responsible for the "Daley" presentation. We regret the error.

Cagers Meet Johns Hopkins In Return Game Here Tonight

Flying Pentagon Defeated Blue Jays In Previous Game

The Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins visit Washington College tonight for return basketball contest, to be played in the College gymnasium at approximately 8:30 P. M., following a preliminary game. The Flying Pentagon came out on the long end of the score, 28 to 26, when the two teams met on January 12 in Baltimore.

Both Teams Improved
The Hopkins quintet, starring Don Kelley, is a greatly improved combination and will offer much more opposition than in the former engagement. Upset victories over the University of Maryland, Western Maryland, and Loyola have availed them the early season defeats. On Maryland, however, the cagers directed by Coach Kibler finally found themselves last Saturday night against St. John's, and if the same brand of ball is played tonight, the Shamrock, always tough to beat on the home floor, should triumph.

Lineup Uncertain

In all probability, Washington College will use the same lineup as last week, at the start; while Hopkins will depend on their usual five. Each team will insert substitutes without weakening combinations to any extent. A large crowd is expected to attend and a class contest is expected. Captain Del Proudfoot will lead the Starons. The probable lineup:

|            |             |
|------------|-------------|
| Washington | Hopkins     |
| Giraults   | F Siegel    |
| Gambler    | F Silver    |
| Westcott   | C C. Gaudin |
| Ware       | G D. Kelley |
| Rees       | G Margolis  |

Harry Huey, Junior Class President, Leaves College

Harry Huey, President of the Class of 1934, has dropped from college temporarily. He hopes to return next fall.

Huey will be missed for he was a regular on the basketball team, was captain of the PLM, Secretary of the Blue Key Fraternity, and Treasurer of the Varsity Club, and was coaching the Chertestown High School basketball team. He is a member of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity and of several other organizations.

Wesley Sadler Re-elected As Y. M. C. A. President

Wesley Sadler, a member of the Junior Class was recently re-elected President of the Washington College Y. M. C. A. In holding mid-year elections, the organizations followed the new plan devised last spring.

Other men elected to office were Richardson Sadler, vice-president; Emerson Slacum, secretary; and Lawrence Williams, treasurer. Under the supervision of Professor Goodwin, the Y. M. C. A. has sponsored a much improved program this year and has cooperated with the Y. W. C. A. in the joint Sunday evening meetings in Reid Hall.

CHAPERONES AT BLUE KEY INFORMALS

In our last issue we made an appeal for fuller attendance at the Blue Key Informal. We do not claim that it brought the students back to the hill on Saturday nights, but the attendance at these dances has increased. With the spirit of making things more satisfactory all around, we now advocate that chaperones at these dances be eliminated because they are absolutely unnecessary, and for other reasons that we shall give.

This discussion arises from the consideration that the Faculty Members who have been kind and accommodating enough to attend as chaperones time after time, get nothing in return but loss of time and for the most part, boredom. Such a situation is easily understood by those who consider that the Informal Dances are nothing except the old Frolics under a more dignified name. The Frolics might well have been defined as just a big get-together of students, to enjoy themselves by dancing. All week they had been watched over and governed by Faculty Members. The Frolics belonged to them. At these dances, these Frolics, now called Informals are conducted by the students by the Blue Key Fraternity, a student organization. Though much improved in the manner in which they are conducted, these present affairs are of course very different. With this in view, why should Faculty Members who could hardly enjoy the dances, be required to attend when the Blue Key Fraternity Members could perform any actual duties that might be requested of chaperones? We have not observed so far, what these duties are. We think the situation could be improved at a larger dance or a Cotillion where chaperones add dignity, form the receiving line, and have other such valuable functions. If the Blue Key needed assistance of any nature, the Student Council would be glad to render it. Certainly a group of College Students can conduct themselves orderly enough at these dances. We think they would be more inclined to follow the "straight and narrow" if they knew that Faculty Members were not present, but that Blue Key men or Student Council men were ready to take any necessary action.

The manner in which the chaperones have been neglected except by a few at each dance, is of course very different. We do not reflect the manner in which the students regard them. We do not intend that Faculty Members not be allowed to attend if they can, as some will, get enjoyment from the Student Affairs, they are welcomed.

A DEAN'S LIST

Practically every student at Washington College and at every other institution in the country where there is a similar situation, has condemned the policy of limiting the number of absences from classes. The problem has two very good sides, but we think a system different and better than the one now existing at Washington College might be devised.

First of all, we think Freshmen should be limited just as they now are, and be allowed only three absences in a three hour course, two in a two hour course and so on. The newness and difficulty of college work to them require that they be given all the class guidance that is possible. Thus our plan would apply to the three upper classes. In short it is as follows: Any student who is averaging a C or better, every case has been allowed to cut as many classes as he desired. A Dean, consisting of those students attaining such an average would be released twice a semester, in order to keep students informed. This plan would work very well, for those students who had the required average would not miss more classes than they had to keep it, and consequently would not miss more classes than they were now allowed to. There would be something to work for, students would be placed more on their own responsibility, which would be as it should be.

SLIPPERY ELM

By ALBERT E. DOBKINS

The fact that several people of note are concerned about the method of selecting captains for the varsity athletic teams was brought to our attention by Dick Gamber, Captain of football, and sent to the Editor. The importance of a capable leader for the success and welfare of any team must not be overlooked.

The present means of choosing a captain, a election by majority vote from among men who have won the varsity "W" and who are members of the Junior Class. Fortunately no serious difficulties have arisen in the past, but there has been no undesirable result in the short history of the present Freshman Class. Yet during our career there has been at least one instance in which the captain failed completely to prove worthy of the qualities of leadership accredited to him and the poor success of that particular team is a matter of reference to the past.

In order to prevent a recurrence of this kind, in order to eliminate the effects of any petty politics, and in order to bring about general improvement from more capable men, it seems that a better method of selecting captains might be tried.

A highly satisfactory means of which we know is picking a captain for each individual game by the head coach of the particular sport. Enough flexibility should be allowed the coach to name any player who in his judgment should captain the game in important games. In this way it is possible to have as many captains during the course of the season, as there are games on the schedule, or again, to have a captain for each game. This has been tried, the coach may be the man whom he thinks will best lead the team for the remainder of the game. It follows that there will be the best possible leadership for every game.

At the finish of the season from among the one-game captains the best one may be singled out by election as honorary captain for the season by all players who have won letters. This plan is used in a number of colleges and universities. Notre Dame's system has been the standard example, and could work especially well in a college of our size and make up.

The adoption of the new method will necessarily come through the Athletic Association. There has been no official action taken on the problem which is one more of improvement than of cure, but as quickly as student opinion is expressed and as soon as the present captains, Dwyer, Proudfoot, and Reinhold express their views, a meeting of the Athletic Association should be called and steps taken to bring the matter before the student body.

If inaugurated the plan will first come effective for the football season of 1935 and the other sports in that same year. The present Captains of course will not be concerned.

The problem requires serious consideration of affecting the athletic policy of Washington College. We solicit suggestions and the opinion of the students. When the time comes for this business to be presented before the student body in a meeting of the Athletic Association the students should be adequately enlightened and definitely decided to take intelligent action.

One of the best ways to distinguish a freshman from an upper classman is by the fact that the former will often be seen running to avoid being late for class.

Student Council Minutes

January 6, 1934.

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber and the minutes were read and approved.

Mr. Clark reported that Mr. Johns would like to ascertain the opinion of the Council in regards to Mr. Holland's case; viz: Mr. Holland had been having his meals sent to his room for over two weeks because of illness; no doctor had been notified of the attitude of the Council was that this should come under the jurisdiction of the Cafeteria; who after confinement of a student for 2 days notify a doctor and the Business Manager. Mr. Gamber is to call Newt Norton in order that the drinking fountain in Middle and West Hall be repaired and that the student be furnished with additional electric light bulbs.

It was noted that because Robert Bean had left school that the Sophomore class would have to elect a man to fill his place. Several rumors of cribbing in the mid-year exams were noted, no accusations were made.

The cafeteria committee is to consult with Dr. Mead again in regard to meals.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.
Signed,
John Mason Lord, Sec'y.

There is much news, and none fit to print, but I have saved the archives for the last issue of the ELM when ya Ed has promised a double column and the three camps "Winchells are going to merge." That sure is going to be the proverbial "E in the cimetank" for many camps highlights and lesser lights.

The columnist scooped even the Women's student gov't and is still a jump ahead of that worthy organization about a certain matter. The time: at night. Place: unlocked Biology Lab. Occasion: Exam week. Persons: none said, but they should have replaced the tarpaulin and cleaned up the cigarette stubs.

For those who begrudge the "po-fellers and gals a wee bit of space here, we might recommend that all students who have been expelled, including the Student Government and other College celebrities take the course in navigation. It is supposed to teach how to stow a cargo, for those who just have a ship that they who lack three sheets in the wind. One captain's motto on the floor was "Don't give up the ship." Anyway, he refused to let all comers break.

Wooden leg Winchells have good track men, but they had to leave the shot at Washington avenue, only the gal's maid couldn't find the shotgun in her haste to drive this fagan from her parlor (T) and daughter.

We heard the Student Council was going to require students to wash their legs before going into exam room. For the notes written on the student's legs all during exam week, the Council is to be commended. Brit's twenty four volumes to shame.

Oh Doctor! We have all had measles, either red or german, but now we have a case of the newest brand, the Whyto-Memell. Also Holard's Leg on the Hip. Then too, N. Y.'s fireworks man Danton is in the Sparklin line named Nary Lil, true to her name, has young Marilian in just so many Knotts. In reflecting how fierce competition must be against the night watchman and a columnist, one fact stands out. It drove out little "Al" H. with two cents the next day to abandon the mid-night oil for the light of his life and hie off to a dance in Wilmington. We can't see how Clough can publicize Collegiate adventures in Gettysville a lot of us are staring the Hepburn type. Yet no matter how thinly it is sliced, it's still

For four years the Senior class bridesmaid has always been a bridesmaid and never a bride—but they have read their five foot shelf, used Listerine, Ipana, Ascorbine, Citric-Acid, etc. and etc. And to date the bridesmaid has been waiting for their night of nights, when they too shall become the bride or fail because of dandruff.

There seems to be a decided trend toward the hermit increase. We regret this, yet it will give other people a chance never before realized. This observation was scientifically demonstrated by the length of the line at the Saturday night informal. More about that later.

Where do mothers get the things they tell their daughters not to do? What's that to do with the price of apples on a Sunday School picnic?

COLLEGE SENIORS

JOHN A. WAGNER

John A. Wagner entered Washington College after graduating from Baltimore City College in 1930. At this institution he has continued his work preparatory to going to the University of Maryland Medical College next year.

John has won the friendship of a large number of students because of his service to them. He has been the College Student doctor for four years, gaining experience for his chosen profession, and at the same time rendering aid in cases of minor accidents or illnesses.

Wagner was a member of the Varsity Football squad his first two years, and starred at a guard position in the Fresh-Sophs games in which his team gained a tie and then a decisive victory. He is a member of the Cotillion Club and Vice President of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity, of which he was Secretary in his Junior Year. Wagner was very instrumental in the formation of the Chemical Society and was elected President of that organization at its first meeting.

We feel assured that Wagner will make good in his profession for he has the qualifications, included among which are natural ability, a friendly personality, and a fine optimism.

JAMES D. DAVIS

James D. Davis, President of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity, completed the High School Course at Galena, Md., in 1930, after participating in his share of athletics and other activities. At Washington College he has continued his interests in activities, except in athletics, though he played in the Fresh-Soph football games and plays for his Fraternity Basketball team in the Intramural League.

Davis was Treasurer of his Fraternity in his Junior year. Also in 1933 he was Treasurer of the Cotillion Club, and now serves in the capacity of President. During his first two years he traveled each day from and to Galena, but this handicap did not hamper his work at the college to a noticeable extent. Since then he has remained on the campus, devoting himself to his various interests.

Jimmy is an able executive in the organizations with which he is connected and a general all-around ability should carry a long way. He is majoring in Economics.

MABEL BARCOCK BOYNTON

Mabel Barcock Boynton came to Washington College from a Wilmington High School, where her unusual versatility had already left its impression. Though a list of her affiliations there cannot be but summary, it includes membership in the French, Latin and Dramatic Club. She was vice-president of the A. K. Sorority, but was probably most notable for her rewarded skill in tennis, in which she won several coveted doubles awards. Participation on the basketball and hockey team, and on the Student Council claimed even more of her actively-spent time.

At Washington College Mrs. Boynton acquired, in her Freshman year, second place in the college-wide doubles tennis tournament, in her Senior year, a talented husband. But the interium is filled, too, with not only scholastic enterprise, but extra-curricular enthusiasm, marked by membership in the Gamma Sigma Sorority, Y. W. C. A., Mt. Vernon Literary Society, and, last year, the cast of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," of the Shakespeare Club.

Mrs. Boynton is doing major work in English, and is preparing for teaching in that field.

BURDETTE NUTTLE

Burdette Nuttle graduated from the Denton, Md., High School in 1930 and following the course of two seniors, matriculated at Washington College the fall of the same year. Working and striving quietly but effectively he has won important positions on the Campus.

Nuttle was elected to the Student Council in his Freshman year and the process has been repeated each year since. As a member of that body he has exercised sound judgment. He has been a member of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity for four years and was Secretary in 1933. After serving as Assistant Basketball Manager for two years, the Varsity Lettermen elected him to the Managership for this year. Probably his greatest honor was accorded when his class elected him to the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity last June. He has been very active in the social life of the College and is a member of the Cotillion Club.

Burdette is majoring in Economics and mining in Sociology. His abilities at Washington College indicate a successful life.

ERWIN L. KOERBER

Erwin L. Koerber left his native Preston, Maryland, in the fall of 1930 after graduating from High School there the previous June, to enroll as a Freshman at Washington College. His endeavors and activities at this institution are well known. "Curly" has been a staunch member of the Y. M. C. A. for four years, and adds to his works along this line the teaching of a class in one of the local Sunday Schools. He was an officer in the Middle Hall Club which is now non-existing and has taken part in Mt. Vernon Literary Society programs. As a Thespian, Koerber has done well. He is a member of the Shakespeare Club and will appear in "As You Like It" this year, having done well in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" last year.

Koerber plays Intramural Basketball and has been out for the Varsity Baseball and Lacrosse teams. He is majoring in History and filling the requirements for a Maryland Teaching Certificate. He has gotten a great deal out of college and has ideas to be reckoned with.

Sports, Here and There

By Charley Clark

In our last article written just as play began in the Maryland College Basketball League we said that Western Maryland "seems to be the underdog, ready to surprise at any moment." The Green Terrors certainly did surprise when they outplayed the Flying Pentagon for rather easy victories in both Westminster and Chestertown. Since then, however, they have taken the measure of the other state teams in tip-top fashion and consequently are playing at peace on top of the League, with little concern of being overthrown, though the latter is perfectly possible.

Shoremen Improved

The Kilber combination thus far has emerged on the long end of the score just once, but a great comeback in a sensational contest with St. John's last Saturday night indicated that the win column will soon be something more than a mere hope. Though the game was played in the last twenty seconds of play on Donahue, all-around athlete mink his only double dealer of the game, the reversal of form by the Maroon and Black compensated for the defeat.

The change of spirit too was very noticeable, with Captain Del Proudfoot playing one of the best games of his career. At times, he is playing the most consistent game, and keeps the team moving all the time, waiting for and making openings. Although Bill Sticksen missed an attempt to increase the one point lead held by the Flying Pentagon in the last half minutes of play, his spectacular shots have found the mark but kept him from it. The rebound, Duke Ryan has forced rapidly alone in the game, and Evans played in a veteran manner in his first Varsity performance. Gamble and Ward played fine games as did Shipley.

We cannot help but wonder why the team has not clicked in other games. It certainly is a known fact that in Coach Kilber, the Dean of Maryland Coaches is possessed, and Prof. Dumschott evidenced his efficiency while directing the Pentagon as Coach Kilber's absence due to illness. The schedule is no harder than usual, though some fine teams are playing in the League. Hopkins, to be sure tonight has been a serious contender since the Blue Jays struck their stride. Loyola is up to par, but Mt. St. Mary's is not as formidable at last year, when the state championship was won. We think the players have not taken the proper physical care of themselves, but that is only one of many theories.

A Good St. John's Team
Though not in the League play until next year, St. John's has a smooth working outfit as any College in the state. Captain MacCreary is a finished performer, while Butterworth at center is a great shot. The beliefs hereabout that his shots were mostly luck are unfounded, for he has averaged about fifteen points in each game for three years at St. John's. A player doesn't "luck them" that consistently. The University of Maryland is holding its own in the Southern conference play, and will be plenty ready to take the Shoremen to test in their nearby engagement.

INTRAMURALS

| Standing of the Teams           |              | Class League |              |
|---------------------------------|--------------|--------------|--------------|

| Alpha Kappa                     | 6 0 1000     | Freshmen     | 4 1 800      |
| Pi Sigma Tau                    | 4 2 667      | Junior       | 3 1 750      |
| Middle Hall                     | 5 3 825      | Senior       | 2 2 500      |
| Pi Sigma Phi                    | 3 5 375      | Sophomore    | 0 5 000      |

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity has thus far brushed all opposition aside in the Intramural League, and with six straight victories seem to be headed for the championship of the League. Al Hopkins, playing for Alpha Kappa and former Varsity performer but non-letter man has led his team in each victory. The long shot of Erie has been invulnerable, however. The Phi Sigma Tau and the Middle Hall aggregation, ranking second and third respectively, appear to be the teams to beat. Middle Hall surprised, but earned a victory over the Tau five on Monday night past.

Seniors Lead Class League

Scoring their second straight victory over the Junior class tonight, and by taking the measure of the Sophomore team on Wednesday night, the Senior combination appears to be the best bet in the Class League. Omar Carey, Varsity Football and Lacrosse player has found his shooting eye, in the best long shot in the League, and is effective under the basket. With Harries, center, he directs his team-mates, Reseman, Burkhardt, Hall, O'Farrell, and Hastings who are less experienced in the game, but each of whom has been a very valuable cog in the success enjoyed thus far. Reseman in particular has played a fine guarding game and misses few rebounds from either board.

The Junior team has the smoothest working group and the better basketball players for the most part. However they have not been able to defeat their upperclass rivals.

The Freshmen, standing second in the League, also have some fine participants in McLean, Greiss and McMahon, members of the Junior Varsity squad, and will be in the thick of the battle.

KILBERITES BOW TO ST. JOHN'S, 36 TO 35

Donahue's Goal in Last Few Seconds Decides Game

A sensational basket in the last few seconds of an overtime period gave St. John's College of Annapolis, 36 to 35, decision over the Flying Pentagon in the Washington College gymnasium last Saturday night, February 3rd. With less than one half minute to go and with Washington leading 35 to 34, as the result of a long shot by Ward, fate intervened in the person of Donahue, St. John's guard who gained control of a loose ball and let it go from beyond the center line. The ball went high into the shadows, and then dropped in to the basket without touching the rim. With it went the hopes of the Kilber five for its second victory of the season.

the home floor in the past two seasons. Washington led most of the way, but the inability to control a lead of eleven points was fatal. As soon as the Maroon and Black got a lead, the team slumped down and began to shoot off balance. As a result St. John's was able to regain the ball, and make some fine shots that tied the score in the last few seconds of the regular period.

Capt. Del Proudfoot led his teammates in scoring. But the work of Ward, Evans, and Billy Nicholson was outstanding. Evans made the most of his first chance on the variety, and he should be a valuable man in the remaining games.

POET'S KORNER

TO AN AMOEBA

(Dedicated to Dr. Carpenter)

"To be read slowly pronouncing each syllable."

Wriggle, wriggle little cell
How I wonder what the hell
Makes you wriggle all the time
In an undulating rhyme.
Moving neatly my cover slide
In a streamy, dreamy glide,
Tell me your gyroscopic ambulations
Strictly subject to micro-scopic calculations?

How can you tell
Your head from your feet,
When you know darn well
The ends will meet?
You are the lowest of all the terming creatures
About you I can see no redeeming features.

And then my Amoeba made reply
As he winked at me with his comely eye,
Yes, he winked at me and he shook his head,
And this is what the Amoeba said,
Now listen, friend, this may be hard to believe,

But I am the father of Adam and Eve,
Wise King Solomon and all his wives
Owe to little me their previous lives,
Erastus, Caesar, and the Queen of Sheba,
All have descended from the lowly Amoeba.
So hear me, friend, you and I are brothers,
Though some folks show it more than others.

Professor Goodwin Speaks At Honor Society Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Honor Society was held at the home of Dr. Mead on Tuesday, February 6th. The speaker at this meeting was Professor Goodwin, who gave an introduction to the field of philosophy. He defined philosophy as the search for truth, whether in the mind, in the material world, or in the realm of higher forces called sometimes God, Nature or what have you, and went on to show the relation of philosophy to everyday life and science. Philosophy is an essential part of every person's life, for our every action is dependent on our philosophy of life for its motivation.

Mr. Goodwin attempted to answer the questions prompted by his talk. In this discussion he maintained that the best way to become a philosopher was to learn as much about everything as one could, as knowledge made the search for truth easier.

The next meeting of the Society will be at Dr. Buxton's, March 6th.

CULTURAL COMMENT

By Joseph Freedman

For the first time in America James Joyce's monumental "Ulysses" has been published. Suppressed for twenty years, the Federal Court has recently lifted its prohibition, and it is now ready for the American public. The book is unique as a literary curiosity, for it marks in literature a new type of novel, "The Stream of Consciousness Novel."

Sinclair Lewis has just published "Work of Art," his most recent novel since "Ann Vickers." The novel, a story of the rise and fall of a hotel business, charged with all the vitality and creativeness of Lewis; does full justice to him, and assures him once more a permanent seat among notable American authors.

The New York Philharmonic Symphony Society has recently made a plea to the American public for $500,000 which is necessary if the society is to continue. A campaign is shortly to be instituted to secure this amount. The depression has proved that in the future, artistic enterprises can no longer depend upon the generosity of private citizens to maintain them.

Mr. Wm. Lyons Phelps listed this month's list of the 16 finest novels ever written. How many have you read?

- 1—Robinson Crusoe—DeFoe.
- 2—Gulliver's Travels—Swift.
- 3—Crimea—Richardson.

- 4—Tom Jones—Fielding.
- 5—Eugenie Grandet—Balzac.
- 6—Three Musketeers—Dumas.
- 7—David Copperfield—Dickens.
- 8—Scarlet Letter—Hawthorne.
- 9—Henry Edmund—Thackeray.
- 10—Madame Bovary—Flaubert.
- 11—Fathers and Children—Turgenev.
- 12—Les Misérables—Hugo.
- 13—Anna Karenina—Tolstoy.
- 14—Brothers Karamazov—Dostoevsky.
- 15—Huckleberry Finn—Twain.

Girls' Basketball Team Begin By-Weekly Practices

Not much is known as yet about the individual class teams in basketball, as there has been only one practice.

The Juniors regret very much that their center, Regt Cannon, will be unable to compete this year because of illness. They are very glad, however, that Mildred Tryzno will be with them again.

All the regulars of the Sophomore team are out, and it seems very probable that they will again have a splendid team.

The Seniors, although not having many players, have two good forwards in Anne Brown and Sarah Ellen Byrn.

The Freshmen have enough to make two teams and seem to have quite a few possibilities.

Practices will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays. Let's have all the girls out and see if the practices can't be bigger and better than ever.

AS A STUDENT SEES IT

By Maria Emmord

From all outward indications, the present conditions in the world situation, certainly point toward a new world soon. Nearly all experts of international affairs are agreed that in the near future a war will come.

A United Press article in the Wednesday evening Baltimore Sun states that Germany and Japan are both very strongly opposed to communism, as well as entertaining an intense hatred for the Soviet Union itself. Because there is mutual advantage in it, it is believed that France and Russia will join forces.

Poland, whose foreign relations have, in the past, been greatly influenced by France, has recently carried on negotiations with Berlin, so her position is now one of uncertainty. The "Little Entente" will naturally side with France while German influence seems to be spreading in some of the other small European countries. The United States, Great Britain and Italy, who are on the sidelines, will no doubt turn in the direction most profitable to them.

Alliances are taking place in the world now, both secretly and openly, and although many may disagree by saying that no country is in a fit condition to carry on a war, we must remember that the economic crisis has lasted for over four years without a solution and warfare seems to be the only remedy remaining.

Dinner - Dance By Phi Sigma Tau At Local Country Club

Affair Is First Of Its Kind At Washington College

The Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity of Washington College conducted a formal dinner-dance on Thursday night, March 1, at the Chester River Yacht and Country Club. The affair was the first of its kind ever held off the Washington College campus by students of the college. Its extreme success will motivate additional social functions of its nature at Washington College.

Treasurer Charles B. Clark, President of the Fraternity, introduced the Honor Guest of the evening, Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, who spoke on his attitude toward fraternities both of Washington College, and of other institutions of Higher Learning with which he has been connected. He also denoted approval of the Social function and intimated that more of its kind should be held at Washington College. Mrs. Mead who was invited to attend, was detained unavoidably in Baltimore.

Dr. Fred G. Livingston, Faculty Advisor of the group, and Prof. Jesse J. Coop, Honorary Member, also were present, accompanied by their wives. Dr. Livingston, who was formerly responsible for the formation of the Fraternity six years ago, and who has been its guiding hand since spoke very briefly on the growth of the Fraternity. Wm. Emory Burkhardt, a Senior member of the organization, was the last speaker, and of fifty people present sang the rest of the evening dancing and playing cards.

Besides those named above, the following alumni, Active and Pledged members, and their partners, were present: Raymond Moffett, Robert Furman and Charlotte Hallows, Hubert Ryan and Dorothy Kimple, Charles B. Clark and Patricia Pyle, Frederick W. Reinhold and Nina Hill, John Smithson and Jean Harshaw, William Emory Burkhardt and Leah Frederick, Patterson Beaman and Thelma Smith, Alfred Hodgson and Sarah Catherine Ross, Joseph O'Farrell and Lucile Rastin, Elmer Boyles and Elizabeth Hill, Michael Wallace and Betty Thibodeau, Gilbert Ingersoll and Doris Metcalfe, Robert Mitchell and Clara Shortess, William Knight and Georgina Reiman, Edward Lowe and Miriam Ford, Charles Dudley and Gladys R. Aldridge, Phil Shippey and Harriett L. Rogers, Lawrence Slawson and Lucille Legge, Lawrence Tourtee and Mary W. Westcott, William McCollough, W. Christine Catlin, and Philip Sterling and Marion Brown.

A committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Burkhardt, Hodgson, Beaman, Wallace and Clark.

Rabbi Lazerson Will Speak In Assembly March 8

Rabbi Morris S. Lazerson, an outstanding speaker of Baltimore, who has spoken at Washington College on previous occasions, will deliver an address in the regular Thursday morning assembly, March 8. The public is cordially invited to hear Rabbi Lazerson.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR INTERSORORITY DANCE

Music By Henderson's Orchestra Here March 10

The three sororities of Washington College, the Kappa Gamma, the Sigma Tau Delta, and the Gamma Sigma, will hold an inter-sorority dance on Saturday, March 10, for the first time since sororities were recognized on the College campus, late in the spring of 1931.

Last year the sororities cooperated with the three fraternities and took part in the Interfraternity Dance, not having a separate dance of their own. However, the general feeling prevailed that the Sororities by their importance, should sponsor an affair of their own. Consequently the Student Activities Committee was petitioned and the approval was given for the dance to be held next week.

The plans for the decorations of the Gymnasium have not as yet been completed, but other arrangements have been made. Henry Henderson's orchestra which broadcasts five nights a week, has been secured to furnish the music. Honored guests at the dance will include Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Mead and the sponsors and patronesses of each sorority. The Alumnae members of the sororities will be the guests of the present active members.

Phi Sigma Phi Entertains Recently With Dinner

The Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity, of Washington College entertained at a banquet held on the evening of Wednesday, February 28, in the banquet hall of the Chestertown Restaurant, to the President of the college, Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, the Fraternity's pledge of the present year, and its faculty and honorary members.

Included in the guests was Registrar W. R. Howell, Dr. K. S. Buxton, Professor of Chemistry, Mr. Frank Goodwin, Assistant Professor of Economics, and Mr. W. F. Johns, Business Manager of the college, and members of the Fraternity.

Dr. Mead spoke on the policy to toward Fraternities on College Hill, and Registrar Davis also introduced each other honored guest, who made a short address.

Inclement Weather Delay Lacrosse, Baseball Work

The opening of the Lacrosse and Baseball practice seasons, scheduled to begin next week, or soon thereafter, will of necessity be postponed until the recent heavy snowfall has melted, and the practice fields are in better shape.

Far from now known, the Lacrosse Team will open its playing season on March 28, the day after college closes for the Easter recess, when St. John's College will be playing in Annapolis. The prospects for a fine Lacrosse team are outstanding, and Coach Eklatits hopes to benefit from a nucleus of about seven regulars from last year's outfit, along with several others who saw service. The complete schedule has not as yet been decided.

Coach Kibler expects to begin baseball practice as soon as possible, though as now known, no games will be played before Easter. More definite information will be given later.

Is Honored

Dr. William R. Howell

Dr. William R. Howell, professor of Economics and Sociology at Washington College, has been selected a Fellow of the American Geographical Society of New York City.

This society is a scientific one for the development of geographical science and the election of Dr. Howell as a Fellow is an honor to both himself and Washington College.

Three Intramural Games Scheduled For This P. M.

Intramural games last night and yesterday afternoon resulted as follows: The Seniors lost to the Freshmen, Phi Sigma Tau beat East Hall, the Juniors overcame the Sophomores, and the Phi Sigma Phi triumphed over West Hall.

Three games are scheduled for this afternoon, beginning at 1:30 P. M. The Phi Sigma Tau will play West Hall, Alpha Kappa will tangle with Phi Sigma Phi, and the Seniors with the Sophomores.

Shakespeare Players Will Present "As You Like It" On Saturday, Mar. 17

Cast Will Consist Of More Than Two Score Players In Brilliant Costumes

The Shakespeare Club of Washington College will present on the seventeenth of March, in William Smith Hall, Shakespeare's "As You Like It," with a cast of more than two score players brilliantly costumed for the true Elizabethan stage.

One more the climax of the dramatic season at Washington College will be softly sounded by the tread of the sock on the bare stage like that of Shakespeare's play, on which he is said to have played himself in this very form of the Romantic comedies and portrayed the part of the ancient Adam.

Dr. G. Van A. Inghill, the director of the production, and Professor of English at Washington College, has, as usual, assembled a varied, able, and enthusiastic cast for Shakespeare's great play of Nature in which the beauties of the play and virgin woods are as sweet as those of Puck's famous the "Faithful Shepherdess," but where, also, the drama of mankind is ever vital.

Reassembled, the lovable heroine in the play, is being acted by Miss Ernest Jewell, who has earned deserved

ACTION OF THE STUDENT COMMITTEE PROTESTED

Dean's Cabinet Opposes Policy Concerning Dances

At a meeting of the Dean's Cabinet on Tuesday night, held jointly by Dean J. S. William Jones and Albert E. Doherty, President of the Blue Key Fraternity, the action of the Student Activities Committee which eliminates dances following Basketball games in the future, was strongly criticized by the members of the Cabinet.

The chief contention arose when the Blue Key Fraternity learned of the action of the Committee which was taken with entire disregard of the Blue Key which has very successfully been sponsoring Informal Dances twice a month on Saturday nights.

Though the action of the Committee to eliminate dances has no effect on the next week's basketball game, members present declared it a step backward in the advancement of social life on the Campus. After fuller discussion, it was decided to draw up a resolution to be sent to the Student Activities Committee, to the effect that in the future the Committee should give an organization which was being affected as the Blue Key in this case, a chance to appear before the Committee and present the organization's side of the question. This course of action has been taken.

Members of the Cabinet besides Dr. Jones and Albert Doherty who were present included, Richard M. Gamber, Charles B. Clark, Alfred Gardner, William Reinhardt and James D. Davis.

Many day students living in Kent, Cecil and Queen Anne's country, were unable to reach college during the past week, as snow-drifts fifteen feet high in places were not cleared from the highways.

Flying Pentagon Surprises With Win Over St. John's

Victorious By 28-27 Count; Play Delaware Tonight

(Special To The Elm)
Annapolis, March 3.—The Washington College basketball team defeated a strong St. John's quintet in the St. John's gymnasium yesterday afternoon by a score of 28 to 27. A desperate rally in the last five minutes in which the Johnnies added nine points while Washington scored none, just failed to bring victory to the hosts.

Washington led at half-time 16 to 14, having taken an early lead, and throughout the second half, despite better St. John's team-play, fought brilliantly to hold a winning margin.

Washington's Third Victory

The game evened the home-and-home series between the two teams, St. John's having won at Chestertown 27 to 26 in an extra period earlier in the season. It was the third victory of the season for the Maroon and Black five and the third defeat for the St. John's quintet, which had not lost in the last ten starts.

Giratis Put Locks In Lead

Washington got away in the lead when Al Giratis tallied a foul shot, and then his goal and Phil Shippey's gave the Shore team a five point advantage. Goals by MacCarte gave the Johnnies a 6 to 6 tie and from then on the locals were never headed.

The Maroon and Black shot six field goals and three foul; St. John's four goals and two fouls in the first half. Both made five double decisions in the second half, but St. John's sank seven free throws to three for the Flying Pentagon.

Meet Delaware Tonight

The Washington College team meets Delaware at Newark tonight, the second of a home-and-home series, having won the first contest here, 24 to 16 last week. The local quintet should win tonight.

Shakespeare Players Will Present "As You Like It" On Saturday, Mar. 17

Cast Will Consist Of More Than Two Score Players In Brilliant Costumes

Amiens, Mr. Joseph A. Mooney. Then, there is a courtier, "upon my word," Monsieur Le Beau, who is in proper, or improper, life, Bob Shaul, Charles, by Wesley Sadler, is a wrestler who figuratively boxes the compass in his bound of tricks. In his match with the hero Orlando. Erwin Koetter is growing older every day, a trait common to humanity in the part of the feeble Adam, an advising and complaining servant to Oliver. Touchstone is Shakespeare's most philosophic fool, not a "very material fool," in whose clown part William Oliver Baker is having some small success by striving to act natural. Sir Oliver Martext, of the country gentry, and a vicar, is vicariously done by the versatile Mr. Freedman. Two shepherds who might have been black sheep of their fold are Corin, by Mimi Skinner, and Silvius, by Robert Shaul, who couldn't be expected to maintain the grace of a courtier forever. William, "a country fellow" (well, at least from the country) is Miss Margaret Thornton.

Two sweet and gentle and unselfishly devoted to her dear "day" Rosalind, is one of the chief characters of the play to associate her charm with the rabble mentioned above. She is Celia, daughter to the ruling Duke Frederick, and is sincerely portrayed by Miss Nola Hill.

Miss Patience Fyle is adequately and affectively playing Phoebe, a shepherdess who might better have looked to Pan than Cupid, and that college-famous actress, director, Miss Lucille Esbin, will be seen as Audrey, a country wench whom Touchstone wooes, then says of her on their nuptial day "I will not take her on gift of any man."

Miss Harriet Rogers has been chosen to play Hymen, the Goddest of Marriage, and many knights and ladies as attendants on the Duke complete a brilliant company.

Many of these attendants are members of the College Glee Club, for Shakespeare's intention to make the dolls in the Forest of Arden ring with merry song, will not be disregarded on next St. Patrick's Day. Nor will the dolls make greenhouse of such singers as Amiens (Joe Mooney, one regular) who will thrill after the directing of sheets rent especially from England the music of the famous "Under the greenwood tree" and "Blow, blow, thou winter wind," to note but a pair of the jolly tunes.

Fortunately for the exclusiveness of its meeting, few have known of the class in stage make-up given recently by Miss Bell, who has instructed shy and fascinatingly, especially for aspirants to the stage, at Washington College. Its most tangible results are that each character in "As You Like It" will make himself up according to a careful interpretation of his part, and hence, it is the aim that each will, for the nonce, lose his own identity in that of the character he portrays not only verbally, but also physically. Of course, the class has resulted in much wasted talent, as in the case of Paul Pippin who will be unable to perform as the ghost in Macbeth this year only because Macbeth isn't being given.

The gorgeous Elizabethan costumes will be supplied by the club's regular costumer, Mr. Jones, of Baltimore. Special lighting effects will be under the direction of a technician's committee, and Mr. Paul Pippin will manage and create the sylvan scenery, while scenes other than in the forest will be nearly bare.

A vigorous advertising campaign has been launched to assure spreading to all quarters the news of the chance the people may have on March 17th to hear much of Shakespeare's finest blank verse, lyrics, foedery and wisdom, to hear Jaques' great speech of "All the world's a stage—", and to see modern passions and complications presented in a splendid, ancient way.

Debaters To Engage Blue Ridge College

Smithson, Sadler, Ingersoll,
Baker Debate For W. C.

The Washington College Debating team will swing into action next Saturday night, March 10, as Blue Ridge College, of New Windsor, Md., will be engaged, it was recently announced by Jack Smithson, President of the Debating Club.

The topic of Debate is, "Resolved, That the Powers of the President of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy." A Washington College team, composed of Smithson and Ingersoll, and accompanied by Professor John D. Mackay, will debate the negative side of the question at Blue Ridge, while at Washington College Bill Baker and Sadler will uphold the affirmative side against the Blue Ridge negative team. Professor Dumschott, who has been aiding the debaters in gathering material, will probably be in charge of the Affirmative team here.

Smithson and Sadler have been attempting to secure debates with other Colleges on the same question, and it is expected that shortly a complete schedule will be released. The debaters next week will be the first in which Washington College has participated since 1922.

DR. DOLE ENTERTAINS '34 HISTORY MAJORS

Comprehensive Exam Will Be Taken By Group In June

Twelve Washington College Seniors, who are majoring in History, were the guests of Dr. Esther M. Dole, Professor of History and Government at her apartment on Water Street, Chestertown, on Sunday, February 11. Professor Frederick W. Dumschott, Assistant Professor of History and Government, and Mrs. Dumschott, also were present.

After a delightful dinner and social gathering, Dr. Dole explained to the students the Comprehensive Examination, covering the four years' work in History, that will be given the Majors in that Department late this spring. The present Senior Class is the first to take such examinations, and those Seniors majoring in other subjects will likewise be subjected to the tests. Dr. Dole has arranged a schedule of group conferences of the History Majors, at which time the various courses in History will be reviewed.

Besides Dr. Dole and Prof. and Mrs. Dumschott, the following Seniors were present: Mabel Baeseck Boynton, J. Patterson Beasman, Margaret Ann Broyn, William Emory Burkhardt, Charles B. Clark, Albert E. Dolkins, Ralph E. Harries, Alfred S. Hodgson, Catherine F. McKenny, Joseph M. O'Farrell, Paul W. T. Pippin, Ruth Sewell.

Dr. Mead Speaks On History Of College

Interesting Accounts Related
On Feb. 22

Myth, fact, fire, near-tragedy and fun were the compounded subjects of the Washington's Birthday address, delivered by President. Gilbert W. Mead, to the college and visitors in William Smith Hall at 11 o'clock A. M. of February 22, on the subject of the history of the college in the first 40 years of the 19th century.

The faculty of the college proceeded to the platform in full academic regalia, and after more elaborate opening exercises than usual, Dr. Mead began his organized account of incidents and people integrally related to the college in its black age of 1810-1840, which is the result of his accumulation of obscure historical data accomplished during the past six months.

He first laid a foundation of history in referring to the records of the very origin of the college, and indicated the amazing fact that at its beginning, Washington College had nearly twice as many students as Harvard University at its birth. Advancing to the first decade of the 19th century, President Mead played on his verbal stage the drama of the college and its affiliates, which seemed a settled tragedy for 10 years after fire had destroyed the building and efforts to rebuild were fruitless. His players included the rum-guzz chimney sweep who cleaned the institution's eight chimneys twice in one day, and the student who delivered a French oration at Commencement and with no warning giving grew up to be Secretary to the Board of Visitors and delivered orations which tailed turkey.

The speech added another bit to the whole of historical facts about Washington College, which is being assembled from assorted myths, traditions and happenings. Someday they may all appear in a formal history of this venerable institution.

SOLANDT SPEAKS ON ANCIENT GREECE

Classical Society Listens To Travelogue

The Classical Society of the college held its regular meeting on Friday, February 16th in William Smith Hall. Professor Solandt was the center of attractions as he presented a profusely illustrated talk on ancient Greece, giving a new view point on ancient culture. The talk was in the form of a travelogue, beginning in Korfu off the western coast of Greece and ending at Athens in the East.

The members of the Society were introduced in the course of the adventure to the Micon Sea King civilization and to Doric and Attic cultures, from the time of Homer up through the days of the Turks. The particularly interesting phase of the trip was Professor Solandt's sharp contrast between the Greece of ancient days and the modern republic, a contrast that becomes the more wonderful the more it is comprehended. It was announced that at the next meeting on March 9, the Society will present as its guest speaker Dr. Esther Dole, professor of history.

Interfraternity Dance To Be Held

Executive Committee Is Making Arrangements

The Washington College Student Activities Committee has recently been petitioned by the three Fraternities of the College for approval of an Interfraternity Dance on Friday night, April 12.

Although few arrangements have been made as yet, it is expected that the Dance will be the leading Social event of the year. It will be the second annual Interfraternity Dance, for before last year each of the three Greek Letter bodies on the Hill sponsored a separate affair. The Executive Committee in charge of the plans is composed of Richard M. Gamber, Charles E. Clark, and James D. "THIS Granger package is what I call good common sense. It's just about as good as a tobacco pouch.

"Here's what I mean—it keeps the tobacco right, and you can fold it up smaller after every pipe. That makes it handy to carry.

"And I want to put in a word for the tobacco while I'm at it. Granger keeps a pipe clean as a whistle, and man, it is cool.

"I want to say Granger is just about the best tobacco I ever smoked."

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves ... because top leaves are under-developed ... they are not ripe ... They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves ... of the finest tobacco plants ... because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long, even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.

Beat Delaware

The Flying Pentagon clobbered the University of Delaware tonight at Delaware in an attempt to chuck up another win over the Blue Hens. Regardless of how many other contests have been won during the season, a double victory over the Newark aggregation is very desirable, particularly because of the close rivalry and the proximity of the two institutions. Following correct results in the fall of 1933, Delaware has won the two football games played with Washington, both by an 8 to 0 score. The three basketball contests played thus far, and triumphed in one of the two basketball games. This victory tonight will give the Washington College athletes a five-three advantage in the number of contests won.

Perhaps A "Slump"

As a Basketball season which witnessed great upsets came to a close in Maryland, one must endeavor to understand the great inconsistency of sports today. Of course, the paramount in mind is the cellar position occupied and deservedly took, by the Flying Pentagon in the Maryland Collegiate League.

When one considers the fact that Washington College clogs teams have always been on top, it is easier to understand that a disappointing season naturally comes sooner or later. It is worth after reason for such an occurrence may be given, including a lack of physical condition, inferiority complex, friction among players, ill luck, if one concedes that there is such, and many others. However, none carry a lot of weight. Personal performance cannot usually be traced to one cause. We attribute the unsuccessful season to the numerous failure of teams at large, the "SLUMP," which might be traced by any one of the above listed causes, by them all, or by something we do not know about.

The Loyals Basketball team is another example of the same thing. The Jewett boys share top honors with the Shoremen, except in the last year or two, but last Saturday night they had to defeat the Chestertown players to avert sharing the most undisciplined team in the League standing, with the latter.

Outstanding Players

Judged from our own observations and from information found in sports sections of the Baltimore papers, or from that given to us first-hand, we would list among the best Free State Basketball players, the following: Butterworth and MacCartee, of St. John's; Kelley of Hopkins; Lynch and Hopkins, of Mt. St. Mary's; Lusk of Loyola; Spycavage of Western Maryland; and the Buscher brothers and Vincent of the University of Maryland. Others played brilliantly at times but not with the consistency of the ones we have named. Giraits has been the leading Flying Pentagon performer, with any one of the squad playing at times sensationally and then miserably.

Blue Hens Conquered 24 - 16, For Second Win Of Season

The Washington College basketball team concluded its home schedule Thursday, February 22, downing the University of Delaware quintet 24 to 16.

The Washington cagers had an easy time out-encoring the visitors during the first period and had a ten point lead at the half.

This lead was seriously threatened in the second period when the Blue Hens' Ben Novak staged a rally that carried them within two points of the locals. However at this time Maroon five added pressure and slowly increased its lead to eight points in the final whistle.

Loyola Beats Shoremen In Final League Game

The Washington College court team was defeated 35 to 21 by Loyola in a league contest at Evergreen, Saturday, February 24. The contest determined the last place finish of the Shoremen in the Maryland Collegiate League.

The Shoremen took an early lead and left the floor at half time leading by five points. However, the situation was just reversed in the second half as Lusk, Bushy Loyola forward, led the rally that overcame Washington's lead and put the Jesuits ahead. Long shots by Bilancioni, Maroon and Black guard, kept the game close. But his team was not able to give him much support.

Lally Lacrosse Trophy Presented To St. John's

St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland, National Lacrosse champions in 1929, 1930, 1931, recently received the Lally Lacrosse Trophy, emblematic of victory in Canadian-American competition in 1931 at Baltimore. The Trophy, a four-foot mahogany obelisk, bearing a silver bas-relief of two teams in action and plaques of victory's names, is now on display at the St. John's Dining Hall, with other athletic awards, as the 1934 Lacrosse season favorable weather to begin practice. The Washington College stick team will stack up against the Johnnies in the first game of the season later in March. Coach Dittie Moore of the St. John's Ten, expects to bring the championship back to Annapolis this year, after a lapse of two seasons. There will be strong opposition from other state teams, principally John's Hopkins, the present Champion.

Coed Athletic Director

Miss Doris T. Bell, athletic director of women students at Washington College, is now conducting interschool basketball games in addition to her regular work in the Physical Education Department.

On Tuesday night, February twenty-sixth, the first girls' basketball game was played. The Juniors played the Freshmen, and the Sophomores played the Sophomores. The Freshmen won by the score of twenty-four to thirteen, while the Sophomores emerged victorious forty-one to five.

Caroline Helms, with able support from her team-mates, was the high scorer of the evening. The Freshmen showed a great deal of spirit, hurrying many more aspirants out than any of the other classes. Their team shows great promise and it looks as strong opposition will be given the champion Sophomore team.

Approximately two-thirds of the games in the Intramural League have been played, and Coach Ekatts plans to complete the schedules as soon as possible, in order that his time may be devoted to Lacrosse and that of Coach Kibler to Baseball, along of course with their regular Physical Education classes. The play of each team in both leagues has improved and it is felt that the extensive winter Intramural program has produced real benefits.

A. K. Beaten For First Time

On Monday night of the past week, the Alpha Kappa Fraternity was beaten by the Phi Sigma Tau team, for the first time this year. Nine straight victories had been won, including a one point win over the Tau team in the first contest between the two. The Tau men were out to win from the start, and played good basketball to lead at half time 11 to 6. Elmer Boyles conducted his spectacular play, sinking goals from nearly every angle on the court, and was ably assisted by his teammates, Novak, Kight, Wallace and Clark. Though enjoying a safe lead at the present, by virtue of having played one or two more games than the Tau team, it is very possible for the Tau team to tie the leaders for the League championship. If Middle Hall should beat A. K. and the Phi Sigma Tau defeat them also in their last game, and win the rest of their contests, the League leadership may go to the now second place team. Al Dobkins, however, is leading an A. K. team that will be hard to beat out.

Fresh Lead Class League

At this writing, on Thursday, the Freshman team is leading the Class League with a comfortable margin, having decisively beaten the Junior team on Monday night. On Wednesday night, the Senior team was leading the Fresh five, 17 to 8, two or three minutes after the second half began. However the game had to be called off, as all lights in the gymnasium went out and were not fixed in time to continue. It was expected that the second half of the game would be played entirely over again, either yesterday or today. Omar Carey had garnered eight or ten points while Harries, playing his usual steady game at center, had accounted for most of the rest, and the Senior team had victory practically clinched.

Middle Hall Has Good Team

Going back to the teams in the Fraternity and Dormitory League, the surprising showing made by the Middle Hall Club throughout the games, has been one of the features of the Intramural play. Greatly underrated in early games, the Middle Hall Club has a firm hold on third place. Davis at center, Gardiner and Barnhart at forwards and Mansoll and Watson at guards, compose a combination that has won consistently from every team except the A. K. and Tau, and took one of the three played with the latter aggregation. The splendid teamwork has been the biggest factor.

The East Hall Out Has Individual Players who rate equally as well, if not better than those on other teams, but seem unable to work together and consequently are far down in the League standing. So far West Hall has been forced to be contented with a single victory over the Phi Sigma quintet.

NORWOOD CARROL

Norwood Carroll claims both Wilmington, Delaware, and Preston, Maryland as his home town, though at the present he resides at the former. He attended High School at both places, and upon graduation, came to Washington College in the fall of 1930.

Here, "Charley" as he is more commonly known to his college mates has won many friends with his quiet manner, and excellent and clever wit. Not very well known to the majority of even his class-mates, he has worked hard and gotten many benefits from college.

For four years Carol has been a member of the college orchestra and this year is student director. During the summer months his occupation has been playing in orchestras on the Shore. Besides his interest along the music line, Carol has been a member of the Boxing Class for two years, and has played class basketball. He is majoring in the Science courses and in June will pass a B. S. Degree.

W. A. SEYMOUR

Abe Seymour attended High School at Trappe, Maryland, his home, and then crossed the Bay to finish his Secondary School Education at Severn Preparatory School at Severn Park, Maryland. There Seymour played on the Soccer team and was a member of the Varsity Lacrosse squad, as well as participating in many of the other affairs of the private school.

Leaving Severn School, Abe began his collegiate career at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and attended there for two years. At Hopkins he was a member of a National Social Fraternity and of other societies. In the fall of 1932 he enrolled at Washington College as a Junior. Here he has gone quietly about his work, and interested himself in the activities of several of the organizations on the Hill. He is a member of the Shakespearean Players, having been in the cast of "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" last year. Also he has been active in the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and in the Y. M. C. A.

Seymour has been majoring in the Science courses and will receive a B. S. degree in June. His quiet manner does not take from the effectiveness of his work.

JAMES T. ANTHONY

James T. Anthony was graduated from the Chestertown High School in the fall of 1930 and entered Washington College with a number of his high school classmates in the fall of the same year. While in high school, Jimmy was interested in publications and in other extra-curricular activities.

Jack activities. His favorite sport was track and he participated on several winning teams.

At Washington College, Anthony has not been able to engage in as many activities as he would like, because of his being a day student. However he has found time to take part in Play productions and has been a member of the Shakespearean Players since their organization three years ago. He was a member of the cast of "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" last year, and has a leading part in "As You Like It," this year. Jimmy started on his class team in the Annual Freshman-Sophomore games, was a member of the track and football squads in his Sophomore year, and in his Junior and Senior Years has been a member of Coach Klatka's Boxing Class.

Anthony has a philosophy of his own, and does not hesitate to uphold his contentions in any way that he is able. He is sincere in his work, and an excellent friend once his nature is understood. He is majoring in the Science courses and will receive an A. B. degree in June. At Washington College in his Freshman year he was the recipient of a Carnegie Honor Medal for his part in saving a local boy from drowning in the Chester river.

NOTICE!!

Due to the fact that members of the "Washington Elm" staff have become very lax and uncooperative in every respect, the Editor announces that in the future, all members not at the meetings of the staff during the week of publication, will be immediately dropped from the staff unless a very good alibi is the effect. Also all members who have not gotten articles in by the Wednesday noon deadline will be dropped. The action results from the consideration that at the present time, almost more or less of the total work needed on each issue, including writing, is by necessity being done by the Editor. Thank you for immediate cooperation.

TWO STEPS FORWARD

Last Thursday when the student body voted to adopt the amendment changing the method of electing captains of the athletic teams to selection by the Head Coach for every individual game, a bigger step forward was taken toward the realization of real school spirit than can be seen at present. The new ruling will eliminate all petty politics and strife that has in the past resulted and the best leadership will be available at all times. Only will there be the tangible gain of better success for the athletic teams but also the infinitely valuable sincere cooperation in all student activities toward the highest aim, the college spirit.

We predict a better athletic record for Washington College in the very fact of the practically unanimous desire of the students to improve conditions, as voiced by the favorable vote to adopt the unfavorable method of electing athletic captains, we see the spread of the friendly spirit to all student undertakings and we cannot but help believe that a true move has been made toward the true school spirit for Washington College.

***

A second step forward was taken when the members of the Dean's Cabinet presented to the Student's Activities Committee a resolution that in effect calls for student representation when policies concerning student activities are determined. In all probability the Committee will adopt the resolution but regardless of the outcome the real gain is the expression of the students for a voice in affairs pertaining to their very collegiate life. True that there has never been an serious issue. At the same time a justified criticism of us as a student body is our apathy in participation in matters that effect our own selves. We have always said and continue to maintain that the students are as important as any part that goes to make up the college. It is high time that the student body so expressed itself.

We have made the beginning toward placing ourselves where we belong when being guided in what we think is good for us. It works mutually, Washington foremost, and as part of Washington, for us, all that the college life holds.

LOVE IN A-ELECTRICITY LAB.

He was only a Magnet, but he loved Dyna Moneter, and that is what started the buzz in the Microphone Hummer. Until now he had been satisfied to follow the lines of least resistance, conscious of his attractive power over the opposite poles and satisfied to play with their affections until he tired of them. They being more fortunate than most men, he could simply turn his back upon them and away they went. "Crue!" you say, but that was his nature. Worse than that, he could do the same thing over and over, for they had no specific resistance.

But with the advent of Dyna Moneter it was a different story. With all his former vanity, staid, the same old game with the same old tactics. What was this? She warped his field, she crossed his lines, she could not be induced! It was the shock of his life. He became all hot and bothered, he almost went into hysterical! What could be her unending resistance?

This was without parallel, his plans had been interrupted. What could be the secret of her strange power factor? Where in the el omega did he get such impedance? He motivated to the other side of the room and sat down on the steps of the transformer by the Electron stream and tried to arrange his disordered atoms. It was a magnetic moment for his enemies. The bulbs made light of him, the Crook's tube glowed, with glory, Cathode Ray took a shot at him, Tangent Galvanometer became excited and waved her arms about from side to side. They all took turns at lowering his potential. Certainly Magnetic steel had suffered an lit drop.

But the most unbalanced of all was Gal Vanometer. True, she had had to steel Magnet's affection, but had they not played together so long! His would remain quiet and still in his arms of force, admiring his graceful lines, unless she was disturbed by some exclamation, and then she would wave madly about, flashing at him her sparkling eye. These were Faradays. Now she gazed mournfully at Magnet. She knew well enough what was the matter her sensitive nature had gauged the reason in a magnetic moment.

Now it was Magnet's turn to look backward. When he recalled the joy of their connection as a thermocouple he did not have the capacity to express what a deadbeat he had been. Urged by some invisible force he jumped into the Carbon Arc on the Election stream and started Ohm to Gal Vanometer. He met her at the Wheatstone Bridge and coiled his arm of force around her Figure of Merit.

The Electron stream still flows beneath the bridge but to this Faraday, Magnet doesn't know that Dyna Moneter works both ways.

Local Organization Will Aid In Peace Propaganda

Significant in the progress of the Washington College branch of the Y. M. C. A. was the celebration of the first initiation ceremonies ever to be conducted by any such organization in the history of the school, held in the Lounge Room of Middle Hall, Friday, February the twentieth, impressive and meaningful even amidst a full and enthusiastic turn-out of the members, concluded by talks by Professor Goodwin, and followed by refreshments to those attending.

A militant campaign in favor of peace propaganda was the outcome of the last meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Following the attendance of several of the members at Dover, Delaware, and at Hampton, Va., who have come back convinced of the immediate need of combating recent militaristic activities, the Organization in a spirited session, on Tuesday night, the 20th, has decided to sponsor a local program for the purpose of informing the student body of the threatening danger of war, as part of a new push for spreading enlightenment on the campus. The implications surrounding the disaster of the college in a recent poster "Promoting Peace" on the bulletin board with general neglect of serious thought, has brought forth a suggestion of the Y's distributing new books and such material (out of its own funds) to the library, and in the Lounge Room of Middle Hall, which the organization has been using for its meetings. Increased membership is anticipated with these efforts, and cordial invitation is extended to those intended to the future meetings.

SPEECH ON OPERAS GIVEN IN ASSEMBLY

Prof. John D. Makosky Describes Musical Plays

A marked variation from the usual program was provided at the weekly assembly, last Thursday, February 20th, when Professor Makosky, with the assistance of Mr. Moffett and Professor Coop, presented what might be called a lesson-concert on Opera. The audience was delighted with Mr. Makosky's animated comment, the clear and at times vivid explanation, and the selections played on a victrola, amplified by apparatus set up through the Physics Department.

The historical development of the Arion from the early fifth century to the present was traced, with the restful Largo from "The Barber of Seville" and two of Verdi's, the pux melody of "Providence" from "Traviata" and remarkable change of his Credo of "Lago, of Othello. At the end, if the student body could not agree with Mr. Makosky's idea of the opera being a type of entertainment, it could at least decide more reasonably on its tastes. At any rate, Mr. Makosky has called for an expression by the students of their appreciation of the program and the response will seemingly call for more of the same.

Varied Reasons Given For Students Attending College

Recent Survey Discloses In- teresting Facts

Students throughout the country give many different and varied reasons for attending the Colleges and Universities and these given are usually sane and reasonable. Many ideas are changed after entrance, and especially after a year or two of College life. A recent survey at one of the leading institutions of Higher Learning in the United States was made in order to ascertain some of the reasons. Out of the twenty-five students, asked, twenty-five different answers were given. Few still cling, it was found, to the youthful illusion about college. One young woman replied, "My parents and I thought it to be a good idea; now my parents do."

A freshman still eluding to youthful dreams told, "I came to college to prepare myself for earning a living."

While the senior, whose dreams are no longer like the freshman's said, "I came with the hopes of being a great engineer, now I am afraid it will be ditch digging."

Perhaps one of the more general answers came from a junior, who voiced the thoughts of many students fresh from state school, "I came to college to make more contacts, with people and to gain for myself the valuable education of getting along with people."

The young sophomore boy remarks: "I came to college to have a good time and I am glad I came."

The older and more serious young man said, "College education is an asset; it may be frozen but never the less it may help."

There is also the answer of the girl who had her gay dreams of college life shattered when she answered "I came because I was to lazy to find anything else to do. Now I wish I had found something else to do."

A senior girl says, I came to college to learn to get along with people, and I have learned that."

While another senior boy states, "I don't know why I came to college. I've been four years here and I figure it out, now it is your turn."

Then the young man, in his last years of premedic somewhat disgustedly, remarks: "I am going to college because you can't be a doctor without it."

However, the best answer remained for a sophomore woman to give when she truthfully states: "Frankly I came to get the famous M. S. R. degree. I am not failing."

Elly Ward's C. H. S. Team Defeated In State Play

The Chesterton High School basketball quintet, coached by Elly Ward, was defeated in the playoffs of the Junior Class at Washington College, was eliminated from the state championship playoff, on Tuesday, March 13th, by Cambridge High School, Easton, Md., by a score of 26 to 6.

Ward began coaching the team when Harry Hoy left school in January. The High School boys really won the Kent County Championship, and defeated Sudlersville High School in the first championship playoff, with ease.

Miss Jewell And Mr. Harries Take Parts Of Rosalind And Orlando

Eight o'clock tonight, March 17th, will mark the culmination of strenuous efforts of some thirty odd selected members of the Washington College Intelligencia to treat you "As You Like It."

Emily Jewell, whose talents and versatility have endeared her to all those who have seen her portray the lovely Juliet, the mischievous Puck, this time lives the part of the gay sparkling Rosalind. Watch her lover, Ralph Harries, go completely sentimental and gush forth passionate love poems. Hear his unremitting chant—O, heavenly Rosalind. Gaze with awe upon the transformation of this lion-like Harries, who conquers a wrestling strong man Sadler in a wrestling (not a mere boxing match) into a lamb like specimen of manhood.

Our Colla is portrayed by a familiar figure about town, Nola Hill, that cute little bit of femininity who extends her conquests of the stronger sex to the stage in this production. Hear her lover, Emory Burkhardt, more sweet than Harries as time goes on. See his change from a blustering, deep dyed villain, into a virtuous, shy hater lover par excellence.

Education Department Gives Notice To Alumni

Asked To Give Information About Teaching Vacancies

This year Washington College will graduate twenty-two seniors who must meet the requirements to teach in Maryland high schools. Three of the group will meet the requirements to teach in Pennsylvania. To date none of the group has been placed in teaching positions for the school year of 1934-1935.

Alumni in the teaching field, and who interested alumni of the college, can be of great help in the placement of Washington College graduates in high school teaching positions by bringing vacancies to the attention of the Department of Education at Washington College.

This year, probably more than in any previous year, there will be a scarcity of teaching positions. Interested alumni who know of vacancies or probable vacancies are asked to communicate with Dr. F. G. Livingston of the Department of Education.

Interfraternity Dance April 13

The Student Activities Committee of Washington College, after twice failing to sanction a Friday night dance for the Interfraternity Dance, gave its approval at its third meeting called on Wednesday night, March 14, for the date of Friday, April 13, on which the Interfraternity Dance will be held.

Immediately after approval was given, the Executive Committee of the Fraternities called a general meeting of the various committees to make arrangements.

Directs Local Cast In Shakespeare Play

Dr. Gertrude Van A. Ingalls, Professor of English at Washington College, is directing the famous Shakespeare Play, "As You Like It," which will be presented tonight in William Smith Hall, by the College Shakespeare Club. A large crowd is expected to witness the production.

These aren't all by any means but they are enough to enlighten the audience as to what to expect. And remember, students, for the paltry sum of thirty five cents you can sit back in comparative ease and quiet, and watch the leading lights of the campus go through their paces on this very memorable night.

SENIORS DISCUSS ROOSEVELT TABLET

Richard M. Gamber, President of the Senior Class, called a meeting on Thursday, March 15, of the committee which he had previously appointed for making arrangements for a card party to be held in order to raise funds that will help defray costs of a tablet, to be erected in commemoration of the Franklin D. Roosevelt visit at Washington College last October 21 to attend the inauguration of Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, as President of Washington College.

Because of a conflicting date of a card party that the coeds will sponsor early in April, and because the committee felt that little profit could be derived from such an affair, it was decided that the idea be dropped. By way of substitution, the possibilities of a Movie-Benefit at the New Lyceum theatre were discussed. A suggestion was very much approved of, the local theatre owner was to be approached in connection with the matter. It was also agreed that the Student Activities Committee should be approached, to find out about the date.

Besides Mr. Gamber, other members of the Committee present included Barrie Humphreys, Patricia Pyle and Lucile Rasin; Jimmy Davis and Charley Clark.

The Washington ELM Staff takes this opportunity to express condolences to Mr. Paul W. T. Phipps, 34, and Editor of the "Pegasus," for the recent death of his father. The same are extended likewise to other members of his family.

Large Crowd Will Witness Third Annual Play By Local Thespians

Watch Patience Pyle, the Shepherdess, add another wandering sheep from the Hillside to her fold—one Bob Shauld who temporarily deserts Pig Alley for the more bewitching haunts of Arden Forest.

Applaud the efforts of our Touchstone, Bill Baker, who can so forget his innate dignity as to become the perfect fool, and with no spurious airs. See him make a successful assault upon the heart of his country maiden, Audrey, Lucile Rasin, who is a most convincing specimen of backwardness. Watch Bill trip through the forest with Lucile, a puzzle but willing captive, in a twosome. "An ill favored virgin but all mine own," he says.

Turn out tonight and pay to see our Debkins enjoy a legitimate headache—cynically observing the vicissitudes of the inhabitants of this mortal world. Pay to hear his voice, this time, raised not in rousing song, but in a parody of the hunting song as rendered by selected members of the 33en's Glee Club under the able leadership of our Irish tenor, Joe Mooney.

Debaters Win Over Blue Ridge College Here, Mar. 14

No Decision Given After De- bate At New Windsor

The 1934 debating teams, during the past week have been very successful in debates with Blue Ridge College of New Windsor, Maryland. The subject being debated this year is: "Resolved, That the powers of the President of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy."

The negative team, consisting of Jack Smithson and Gilbert Ingersoll, traveled to New Windsor on Saturday and debated the Blue Ridge affirmative team without decision.

Because of the weather the visit of the negative team from Blue Ridge was postponed until Wednesday. The debate Wednesday evening was very lively indeed, the Washington affirmative team, Wes Sadler and Bill Baker, getting the decision by a vote of 2 to 1. The judges were Mr. Robert Hovey, of the First National Bank, Mr. William Union, of the Kent News, and Miss Bryan, teacher of English at the local high school.

Girls' Dance A Success

Saturday, March tenth, was a gala event in the social life at Washington College. As the long awaited Inter-Sorority Dance took place many a member of the college and were greatly recovered by their respective sororities.

Sigma Tau Delta had at their homecoming alumni Charlotte Hathaway and Ted Russell. Gladys Council and Gertrude Chauncy returned as Gamma Sigmas. Kappa Gamma had Anne Kreeger, Theodora Chapman, Dorothy Simmons Robinson and Elizabeth Sutton Duval.

Dr. Dole Speaks To Classical Club On Interesting Subject

Discussion On Roman Archi- tecture Draws Attention

Once more the classical society of the college has taken the initiative in the way of collegiate entertainment, and has presented a novel and unique program. Since its birth last October the organization has been actively engaged in creating, or increasing, a friendly atmosphere on the Hill. Believing that the classics can best be imbibed and enjoyed by leisurely contemplation, the Society is in the midst of an auspicious program, making the class room with the drawing room.

On Friday evening, March the 9th, the Classical Society presented at Reid Hall as its guest of honor Doctor Esther Dole, Professor of History, from its very incognito Dr. Dole has been an ardent friend of the organization, due to the academic proximity between the classic and history departments. Choosing as her subject "Roman Architecture" Dr. Dole presented a sparkling address, profusely illustrated, in which she stressed the similarity between ancient and modern edifices, and examined the high technical development of the Roman people in directions more radical even than our own 20th century.

Once more the grandeur and the glories of the basilica, and the temples of Jupiter and Venus arise in resplendent marbles and mosaics, gracing the gracious terraces of the mighty Caesars. Once more out of the dull ruins, like the phoenix of old, there ascended the eternal boulevards and triumphs of an age essentially triumphant and beautiful. For well over an hour the members wandered through the flora and the ornate palaces and bays of the emperors. Indeed it was with some misgivings that the 'tourists' finally bade farewell to the 'ancient city' from the rampart of Hadrian's Tomb on Yellow Tiber, lingering in a fond remembrance of fond contemplation at the dignity and majesty of the Seven Hills.

As a proper sequence to so engaging an excursion, the Misses Ragan and Smith, assisted by Miss Moore, offered a fine convivium of the evening by serving a chicken dinner, hence setting another precedent in all collegiate diversions.

Dr. E. V. McCollum Of J. H. U. Will Address Assembly

The speaker at the regular assembly on Thursday, March 22nd, will be Dr. E. V. McCollum, of the Department of Bio-Chemistry, Johns Hopkins University. Dr. McCollum comes to Washington College through the interest of Dr. Kathleen E. Carpenter of the Department of Biology. Dr. McCollum will also speak before the Honor Society as a special meeting to be held in Reid Hall at three o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The public is cordially invited to hear Dr. McCollum at the Thursday morning assembly.

ACTION OF ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE REVIEWED

A great amount of unfavorable criticism has been directed toward the Washington College Student Activities Committee during the past two or three weeks. This reaction culminated in the Committee, which consists of five faculty members and the Athletic Director, refused at first to make a decision which they had formerly rendered that disallowed a Friday night dance for the Intramural basketball game. The third meeting of the group, however, the members reversed their previous ruling, and the dance will be held on a Friday night. We have taken this matter for comment in order to make clear to misinformed Fraternity men and other students, the action of the Committee. Our viewpoint and statements are carefully unbiased.

The Committee at first refused a Friday night dance for the following reasons: first, because it is the policy of the Committee, in accordance with the other Powers of the College, to allow but five Formal Dances throughout the year on a Friday night, in order to stress and encourage Informal Dances; second, because it felt that the three Sororities which have an inter-sorority dance last Saturday night, would be discriminated against if the Fraternities were given a Friday night dance; third, because of the great effect on Saturday classes, caused by many absences following the dance. As we see it, these reasons are very just from the Committee's standpoint. It is their privilege to limit Formal affairs on Friday nights, their natural inclination to wish to prevent discrimination against the sororities, and because they are in charge of the aforementioned Saturday classes following a Friday night dance, it is their interests that lectures will not be given to empty seats for the most part. The five formal affairs now approved of on Friday nights are the Cotillions. In changing their decision, the Committee stated that their action did not set up a precedent for other years. It was hinted however that in coming years, the Committee would include the Interfraternity dance on the list of five Formal Dances approved of on Friday nights, cutting the number of Cotillions to four. It would naturally follow that the Sororities would also be included, and thus limit the number of Cotillions to three.

The Committee's course and the reasons thereof, are briefly but adequately presented above. The Fraternity representatives in this particular case have been met half-way, and have good cause to think only favorably of the action taken. On the other hand, the Committee is to be commended for facing the situation as they did, and changing a decision adhered to in two previous meetings. The various fraternity men on the Hill, and also a large number of other interested students should look at the matter from the position of the Committee. Whether or not the arguments of the Committee are agreed with as a matter of minor importance. College students can rarely understand the Faculty's side of a question. In this particular case, they apprehend no good reason for limiting Formal Affairs on Friday nights. Others think that with their right to cut a certain number of classes, they have the privilege of missing the classes on a Saturday morning after a dance the night before. Again, in the past just reviewed, it is known that the Sororities did not desire their dance on any other but a Saturday night. But these statements, regardless of their validity if they have such, are beside the point.

In conclusion, the Committee has, we think, made a step forward by allowing representatives of organizations which are being affected to be present at its meeting to voice their opinions. And by changing a very unpopular decision, the Committee indicated that it functions to work harmoniously with the Student organizations, and thus with the students.

SLIPPERY ELM

By Albert E. Dobbins

THE THIRD STEP FORWARD

In the last issue of the Elm this column carried a species of editorial headed "Two Steps Forward" in which we pointed to the progress made by the college when the student body expressed itself in representation, by presenting a resolution that in effect calls for student representation when policies concerning student activities are determined by the Student Activities Committee. Now we are able to point to a third step forward.

Mild strife resulted among fraternity members on the Hill when the Student Activities Committee arbitrarily fixed Saturday, April 14 as the date for the Inter-Fraternity Dance after the Inter-Fraternity Council petitioned for Friday as the time for the outstanding social event of the season. Naturally many of the fraternity men were incensed at the action which at first glance looked like indoctrination, to everyone it seemed a blundering error.

When the Activities Committee ever after appeal by individuals, voiced its decision as final, the situation as far as concerning fraternity men was disturbing. Many few of our students and the few some of the faculty of a result dangerous to the spirit of the college.

We immediately continued our personal crusade for student self expression in co-operation with the administration. Our protest was representative of fraternity men. Following at a meeting called Wednesday afternoon the Committee re-considered its judgment and will allow the Inter-Fraternity dance to be held on Friday, April 14th, which is the more desirable date. The new decision was received before our protest appeared publicly.

This action of the Committee means more to us than just granting the time for the dance when the students felt it. To us it shows that the Administration is gladly ready to bring about the best interests. Also it proves that the authorities are approachable when students will press themselves when their interests are concerned.

It is not our purpose to make an issue. It is our college and the combined unit will be greater than any individual part—the student body is an essential part.

The difficulty has been satisfactorily moved out. We hope that any future misunderstandings will be similarly corrected.

The entire thing means bringing all parts of the college closer together. We think if you will there is such a thing as school spirit and it will be stabilized at Washington. The Third Step Forward.

Dentist: "I'm afraid I'll have to drill."

Co-ed: "What's the matter, can't you fix my teeth without a rehearsal?"

The orator addressed the assembly with fervor.

"Fellow citizens," he shouted, "don't let them kid you. Don't let them stall you off by passing a law permitting beer, while we're all starving. Fellow countrymen, think! What goes with luxury?—Decay! What goes with wealth?—Decay! What goes with beer?—Fetters!"

"Fetters!" called the senior co-ed.

"Does one make false eyes out of glass?"

"Certainly. How else could you see through them?"

"What is the difference between a hobo and a college man?"

"A hobo wears clothes that other men have worn out. A college man wears out other men's clothes."

Aunt: "And what is your daughter talking at college?"

Mother: "Everything I've got!"

Bellhop (after guest has rung for ten minutes): "Did you ring sir?"

Guest: "Hell, no; I was telling, I thought you were dead."

The difference between a train wreck and a car accident is that the engineer isn't always necking the fireman.

Student Council Minutes

March 5, 1934

The meeting was called to order by President Gamber, the minutes were read and corrected. The letter in regard to a disturbance in the cafeteria was sent to Mr. Johns instead of Miss Potts.

The code of installation was given to Mr. Fink, Sophomore representative, by President Gamber. The council pledged its support in stopping the practice of cutting campus. The action of the Activities Committee in prohibiting Saturday night informals was briefly reviewed.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

To further confirm reports that this place is about to become more rigid than any place we know of—it will be noticed that this student body has its share in the "Brain Trust" (?) The latest step has become supreme dominance of the Activities Committee. (It started as a Committee merely to prevent conflict in Activity Days to a governing board which formulates affairs as to type, time, tempo, temperance, temperature and timbre). Of course they ask the Students what they think, but they have not the least regard of Students in any of their decisions. This is but an echo to the growing but to date latent criticism in the student group—!!!

COLLEGE SENIORS

SAMUEL CHARLES WALLS, JR.

Samuel Charles Walls, Jr., came to Washington College in the Fall of 1930, from Church Hill High School whence he was graduated in June of that year. At this secondary school, the jovial Sam was a member of both the soccer and basketball teams in 1929 and 1930, and in 1930 was soccer captain.

At Washington College, Sam Walls has demonstrated that fundamental principle first recognized so long ago, that the way to do most in college or life is to make a lark of the task. He is a chemistry major, and Biology minor, which points toward a future medical career.

In 1932 and 1933, he played intramural basketball with Middle Hall, and this year he is an active member in the Washington Chemical Society. Sam displays special skill in laboratory technique, and also particular skill in being a wholly good fellow.

MARIAN L. CLOUGH

Marian L. Clough was graduated in 1930, from the Centreville High School, where he played soccer, basketball and on the Dramatic Club boards. His higher academic training was begun at Western Maryland College, where at the end of his third semester he was promoted to the rank of Corporal in the R. O. T. C. Unit, and transferred to Washington College. At Western Maryland he played in the College Band, and belonged to the Y. M. C. A. and Irving Literary Society.

At Washington College, Marian Clough has been pleasantly sure of his convictions, and has shown a tendency to express them on paper. He belongs to the College Press Club, and writes two columns for the "Centreville Observer." He also is affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. and the Mount Vernon Literary Society.

The quiet chap's major is Economics and minor is Sociology. He expresses as his after-college plans to do graduate work in Economics, or to be occupied in Publicity work or Journalism.

WALTER KEIRGIN MOFFETT

Walter K. Moffett was graduated from the Chestertown High School in 1929. There, he had shown especial interest and aptitude in the sciences, and in chemistry in particular. He was known for his quick comprehension of details, and his technique with apparatus. These laudable abilities he has maintained in college along with the accretion of many new, excellent traits. In Chemistry, his major subject, he is an able Student Instructor, and his laboratory work has always been marked by its precision. His minor subject is Physics, in which he is deeply interested.

The social activity afforded by college has not been lost to him, for he is an enthusiastic member of the Centillion Club, and, on the other hand, is also a regular contributor to the seminars of these embryonic savants called in totum the Washington Chemical Society.

Walter was a player in the now defunct Golf Club, and is a candidate for baseball this spring.

Blue Key Minstrel Show Being Prepared

The final date for the Blue Key Minstrel Show has not yet been decided upon but "Colonel" Mike Wallace has been busy getting his trouper in shape.

Several rehearsals have been held recently and the unusually large number of candidates offer much talent.

It will probably be of interest to those who saw last year's show to know that such capable performers as Ellery Ward, Phil Skipp, Norris Duff, and John Lord, will be with the show again this year.

There will be solos by well known singers as Larry Williams, Jot Mooney, Charles Wells, Robert Fink, and Fred Taylor.

The show will be very similar to last year's minstrel and as such, will be worth while seeing.

Interannual Basketball Games A Success

With the completion of play in the two intramural basketball leagues, we look back to the benefits that have been derived and can state the whole has been nothing but a huge success. The coaches have done a fine job in conducting such a schedule, and improvement all around has been noted over last year. This is the third year that an extensive program has been carried out. When the present Seniors were Freshmen the Intramural Basketball game was participated in only by four class teams, whereas at the present there are in addition to these four, three Fraternity and three Dormitory quintets. Coach Eklatka is being chiefly responsible for the development of Intramural games at Washington College, working along with Coach Kibler, and guiding several of the teams. Coach Eklatka is from Western Maryland, his Alma Mater.

Baseball And Lacrosse Squads Begin Practice

Although so far the activities of the squads have been confined to indoor loosening up exercises, the crash of the willow as it connects with the bat is heard from the field. Coach Kibler, who is under the impression that the baseball team of last year is looked for.

Lacrosse equipment was issued yesterday to a long list of Senior players, and many of the last year's regulars and a few newcomers. Coach Eklatka is making a special plea to freshmen and sophomores to come out for the old Indian game, as this year will see the graduation of approximately a dozen players, for the most part, regulars. Experienced players will be lacking next season and the newcomers will have to make up the difference. The Marston and Black players have played a lot of good teams in the last three or four years, and newcomers can learn quite a few tricks from them. The college drew back this year will be lucky to reserve. The spirit of the players is fine, as practice begins, and the four best players in the country that will be met, will have their hands full some Saturday afternoon between now and June.

College Sports Take Much Criticism

Following an assertion of Forest Fletcher, President of the Southern Conference, that College boxing is "not a sport but more of a money-making, sleazy sports racket," C. M. Gibbs in his Gibraltar column in the Baltimore Sun very truthfully writes: "the fact that at times there is a trickle of sweat from some fellow's forehead, and that there are gate receipts certainly doesn't eliminate it from the field of sport. It seems that taking a shot at all forms of college sports has become the great national pastime. The fact that there are gate receipts is no argument. Anyone who believes that any wide schedule of college athletic activities can be maintained without gate receipts is really out of touch with the facts. It's like trying to make leather shoes without a leather, or to go horseback riding without a horse. It's had to do properly."

Mr. Gibbs never spoke truer words, and further comment is not needed.

Baseball Players Workout Indoors

Ed Evans Is Only Pitcher With Experience

Coch J. Thomas Kibler of the Washington College baseball team would gladly sacrifice two or three of his very numerous infielders and outfielders for a couple of good moundmen. During the past week he has been conducting limbering up exercises in the gym, and trying to figure out how Ed Evans, the only slusher of experience he has, could be expected to go the whole season without assistance.

The baseballers have an eight-game schedule at the present time, and are hoping for warm weather to prepare for the first opponent on April 28. Here it is a strong possibility that the schedule will be added to.

The following round has reported to Coach Kibler: Catchers, Blinco, Greaves, Brown and Wright; pitchers, Evans, White, Westlake; infielders, O'Farrell, Baker, Berry, Reinhardt, Hodgson, Doherty, Boyles, Moffett, Stacey, Abbott; outfielders, Tigner, Taylor, Weir, Johns, Goldstein, Kibler and Porter. Of the above group, Blinco, Evans, O'Farrell, Baker, Berry, Reinhardt, Hodgson and Tigner are lettermen of last year, when baseball was revived at Washington College following a lapse of four years. Prospects for this year are good at the present writing.

Jack Smith is manager of the squad.

The schedule:

|                       |      |

| April 28—Delaware     | Home |
| May 7—Hampden-Sidney  | Home |

By Philip Shipp

A rejuvenated Phi Sigma Tau basketball team led by Boyles and Nowak fought its way to a place in the championship series by downing a head-playing A. K. quintet 13 to 5 in a play off game for the Fraternity and Dormitory League Championship.

The first half was featured by close guarding and erratic play by the A. K. trailed at the rest of the 4 to 3. The first six minutes of the game were played without either team scoring. Then Dobkins, star A. K. guard, threw in a one hand shot that put the A. K.'s ahead. A one point lead looked big at this stage of the game. But Boyles took the ball on the next tap and dribbled down the side for a thrilling one-hand shot that changed the lead again. This basket seemed to weaken the Tau team, as Nowak and Boyles scored seven points in rapid succession. The game ended soon after.

First Championship Game
Led by Charley Clark, the fast stepping Phi Sigma Tau basketballers won out by a 27-12 victory over a bewildered Freshman team in the first game of the championship series Tuesday.

On successive baskets by Clark and Nowak, the fraternity outfit easily ran up a big lead. The red shirted team did not slacker. This basket threatened the game and the freshmen cause was soon hopeless in the face of such shooting and aggressiveness. Right after the hero role was played by Clark by his close guarding of McLain.

McMahon was outstanding for the freshmen.

Tau Win Championship

Sheer pluck and determination to win whatever the odds, carried the Phi Sigma Tau team to its first intramural basketball championship. The Fraternity and Dormitory League championship for the ball every minute, conquered a flashy Freshman team 26-21 for its second straight victory in the championship series. The game started off slowly, and remained close until just before the half when the freshmen went ahead 15-12 by virtue of spectacular long shots by McMahon.

The second half started off with a bang. The lead changed hands a number of times as each team converted its foul shots. Boyles, flashiest forward, and McMahon staged a private duel for scoring honors. McMahon went often work himself free for a well-earned shot, but a few seconds later Boyles would match it with a hair-raising long shot.

But the smashing game maintained by the Tau's soon had the green five lagging behind. It was evident that the advantage of the fraternity team in weight was telling on the Class League champs as Henne Nowak and his teammates stopped ahead and remained there until the final whistle blew.

The freshmen team has all entered around its two Mac's—big Mac and little Mac. While the pausing advantage of Clark and Kight helped Boyles and Nowak lead the Phi Sigma Tau team to its first victory.

Seven '33 Regulars Back For Lacrosse

Stickholders Begin Practice; Four Game Schedule

A four-game schedule confronts the Washington College Lacrosse "Ten" this season, consisting of the "Big Four" in American Lacrosse, St. John's, John Hopkins, Mt. Washington and the University of Maryland.

Coch Eklatka has seven of last year's regulars back again: Captain Fritz Reinhold at goal, Dick Gumber at first defense, Charley Clark at center, Pat Beaman at second attack, Al Gibbs at first attack, Omar Carey at outtime, and Dick Chambers at inhome. Players who saw service last year other than the seven named above are principally, Burkhart, Hines, Kibler, Watson, Ball. Other members of the squad back are Lord, DeSeio, Broughton, Clifford, Taylor, Gasted, Littel, Kemper. Dryer who narrowly missed making his letter in 1931, who has not played since is expected to fill in one of the close defense vacancies, while Henry Nowak, a newcomer will be given every opportunity to see plenty of Lacrosse. Paul Pippin, who will be unable to play because of a recent operation, will be missed, as he has been a regular point for two years. Earl Hastings stands the best chance of coping the second defense position, left open by last year's captain, Phil Wingate.

It is known of the material in the Fresh class. Mark Wingate has had experience in handling a stick, as has Phil Sterling. More definite information can be given in a week or so. Bert Hastings is manager of the team.

The schedule:

Dr. G. W. Preston Signs On "Insecurity" In Assembly

On March 15

Dr. G. W. Preston, Commissioner of Mental Hygiene of the State Board of Health of Maryland, was the guest speaker in the regular Thursday morning assembly on March 16. He spoke on "Insecurity."

That the breakdown of the young's self-respect is one of the most damaging faults of educators and guardians, is a belief of Dr. G. W. Preston. One's self-respect, he pointed out, hinged on the mental security or insecurity which the individual carries. Since this balance can so easily be affected by training or suggestion, common sense in life, he thinks, can be traced to earlier influences which distorted the normal aspect. This inherent tendency of insecurity, was the driving force of human action and a accomplishment, but it is in this same feeling, he showed, which accounts for the success of "B. O." advertisements and fake movie courses.

But more important, it is this psychological element which explains the hermit and the braggart, both of whom have erected these defenses against the insecurity preyed by social contact. Contrarily the mentality fit "get along, get fun out of life, are not a nuisance to others, and achieve though no matter how small the contribution." In essence you can make a person "dumb" by convincing talks, so don't do it.

Basketball League Holds Meeting

Coach Kibler Will Head League For Three More Years

Coaches and athletic directors of the five colleges comprising the Maryland Collegiate Basketball League met in Baltimore Monday night, March 15th, to wind up their business for the season recently closed, a campaign that found Western Maryland stepping up to take first-place honors from Mount St. Mary's, 1933 winner. However, after electing officers, selecting first and second All-Star teams and generally seeing that everything was in ship-shape order, the league decided to hold another session this week.

The purpose of this week's meeting is to definitely decide whether the league should be expanded next year to include St. Johns College and the University of Baltimore, two institutions that have sought admission.

The league is now composed of Western Maryland, Johns Hopkins, Loyola College, Mount St. Mary's and Washington. The inclusion of St. Johns and Baltimore would make it a seven-team league.

To show that they were entirely satisfied with the way President Tom Kibler of Washington College ran affairs this past season the league members re-elected the Maroon athletic director and coach for three more years, instead of a one-year term.

Earl J. Bender will continue as secretary and treasurer of the league for three more seasons.

The coaches of the league teams got together and picked an All-Star first and second team as follows:

First Team: Rysavage (Western Maryland) and Chalkley (Mount St. Mary's), forwards; Sadusky (Western Maryland), center; Kelly (Johns Hopkins) and Lynch (Mount St. Mary's), guards.

Second team: Siverd (Johns Hopkins) and Fitzgerald (Loyola), forwards; Hopkins (Mount St. Mary's), center; Gunber (Washington) and Hurley (Western Maryland), guards.

KIBLER AND DUMSCHOTT VISIT NEW ENGLAND

The visit was the occasion for the reunion of a group of athletes of that section who at one time or another were Washington College uniforms. Among those who got together were Jack Carroll, Clayton McGran, Henry Carrington, Jimmy Galvin, Jack Reiger, Tom Purcell, and Dominic Janelle.

Playing on the Basketball team as a regular, he led the team in scoring, tallying 149 points in an eighteen game schedule, and was considered by papers of that section as the outstanding player on the team.

James M. Cain

The story as told by Mr. Cain is realistic and leaves little to the imagination. It is written in a style that makes for easy reading and holds the reader's interest from start to finish.

CULTURAL COMMENT

By Joseph Freedman

At last we are to actually hear "Sweetest Shakespeare, Fancy's Child, Warble his native woodnotes wild." The scene is in William Smith's Arden Forest, and the time is tonight.

It is particularly interesting at this time to note the analogy between our own cast of "As You Like It" and the personages who have made stage history. Emily Jewell is following in the wake of such actresses as Mrs. Siddons, Ellen Terry and Ethel Barrymore—all of whom gained international distinction in the role of "heavenly Rosalind." Albert Doherty (Jacques) has as his predecessors MacCreedy and Kemble, while Will Baker is a worthy successor to the Toxboorne of Will Kemp.

The play is particularly well adapted to be given on St. Patrick's Day, as local color is amply supplied by the green forest of Arden, and the greenness of a few of the members of the cast is likewise a refreshing reminder. Finally, we are to see "Caprice and fancy reign and revel" in the dialogue, sparkling manner that would put even the old poet to shame.

***

William Lyon Phelps rejoices in the fact that there are still a few souls left in English literature that are the exclusive property of mature intelligent people. He cites as examples Boswell's "Life of Johnson" and Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy." If this is true we may be glad that the numbers of such people are so overwhelmingly great, for these particular books, and their ilk, are perennial favorites among practically all English reading strata.

***

We will do well to note the recent trend of the motion pictures. Apparently weary of the musical extravaganza we have suddenly become more serious minded, and history claims our attention. Catherine Great, Napoleon, Cullin, Camargo, the Rothschilds, Queen Christian—these are why a few subjects of a long imposing list that bids well for an auspicious year.

Dr. Lazaron Gives Fine Address In Assembly

As one of the college body put it, referring to Dr. Lazaron's address at the assembly last week: "It was the best one yet." Dr. Lazaron, Rabbi of the Putnam Place Temple in Baltimore, came through a heavy snow in time to deliver one of the most inspiring talks to the college in a good while, and, even if all too short, succeeded in eliciting an enthusiastic burst of applause from the assembled hearing him.

After first paying tribute to the former Dr. Thoma, the rabbi drawing from his record trip around the United States in the company of a Protestant minister and a Catholic priest, pointed out certain significant aspects which he had noticed throughout the country and which he thought were vital to the future course of our nation's history. These, he said, were marked by a tension characteristic of crises and whose dominant, happy or unhappy, was in the hands of modern youth. The faculty of the "War for Democracy" and the code in the seeds of hatred which it sowed, remarked Dr. Lazaron, were distinctly in evidence today. The drawing up of the different groups which make up these United States into self-centered, restricted bodies, raising new prejudices, new distrusts, all pointed to the ominous seriousness of the times. As to the possibilities, Dr. Lazaron, in an engagingly frank and without earnest manner contributed not a little hope, with the appealing example of that united effort which characterized the American people in 1917.

PRESS CLUB FORMED AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE

Prof. Goodwin Directs Activities Of New Organization

An organization has been formed at Washington College that will endeavor to keep "the folks back home" well informed in regards to activities of students at Washington College from their country. This Press Club is under the direction of Prof. Goodwin. At a meeting on March 8th a tentative plan of attack was drawn up. Each member will write a column for his home or school paper in which he will tell what the students from that vicinity are doing. There are four columns running in country newspapers now. It is thought that not least eight more will be started in the near future.

Prof. Goodwin is requesting that all who cooperate to the extent of placing any items of interest of which they may know in a box that will be placed in the lower hall in a few days. There is from time to time news that possibly should be sent to some particular locality. It is entirely possible that this news might escape the attention of the reporter.

Life Of Antonio Raviolo Reviewed Briefly

By Millard "Tarzan" Kemper, Sophomore

Antonio Raviolo was born in New York City. By the time he was 6 years old he was installed with a desire to keep still about it. On his 10th birthday he had a desire to see, wrapped 'em up in his other shirt, an caught a frate frane.

He crawled out of a box car in Chicago won day, an' desired to learn the english language an' spend his life in the fair city by the lake, and life is sumtime safe after dark. For a while he was so braceless that people perished that he would end up in congress.

Silver Pentagon's Minstrel Show Is A Large Success

Mike Wallace Directs Second Annual Production

Washington College and Chestertown have seen and applauded another Marx and Black Minstrel, for on the evening of Wednesday last, April 25, Mike Wallace's direction, under the Silver Pentagon Society's auspices, produced the second annual affair. Special songs and tickling tomfoolery by the end-men make this staging, despite its entirely non-technical nature, the most humorous, typically "collegiate" entertainment available to the students for seeing parody and hearing witticisms about the College family. A goodly number of them called for consistent answers over in Bill Smith the other night.

End-men Ward, Duffy, Proudfoot and McMahon responded nobly at times, and wittily always, to the hints of Interlocutor, Bartlett. Wardie capered about in a thoroughly African and amusing manner, and rivalled Duffy's fawish tripping with a gliding kick all his own.

After the chorus sang the "Minstrel and the College Ever", the audience was delighted with solo selections by many of the fine singers of the college, including Larry Taylor, Alfred Taylor, Rex Wilson, Art Greene, Larry Williams, Joe Mincey, Chuck Wells, Norris Duffy, Dave Wallace, Emerson Sluam and Ed McMahon. Duibert Proudfoot brought round the first round of applause with his selections on the harmonica.

The Director and the Silver Pentagon Society expressed particular appreciation and gratitude to Miss Doris Bell for her kind and most skillful criticism of makeup, the most exacting detail of the show, could have been done only through her knowledge and assistance. Thanks are also due to the Shakespeare Club, who permitted the use of its make-up material; the Dramatic Club, for its footlights; and Leonard Lekebusch, who disguised the end men.

Ralph Harries Will Deliver Senior Oration In June

Has Been Outstanding Speaker Of Class Of 1934

Ralph Harries, a Senior at Washington College from Toloma Park, Maryland, has been chosen to deliver the Senior Oration at the One Hundred and Fifty-Second Commencement of the College on June 11. He was selected by a Committee including Professor John D. Makosky, Head of the Public Speaking Department; John A. Wagner, Bartlett Nottle and Charles B. Clark, members of the Senior class.

Harries has been quite prominent at Washington College for the ability to express himself and his dignified manner and excellent voice has designated him as the best speaker among the College Seniors. He has been active in campus activities and is a member of the College staff. At this writing the content of his oration has not been determined.

President MEAD States

In a very few weeks, it will be all over but the shouting. Commencement is at the way.

A promise-maker was lamenting to me recently that he was near the end of college days. He said, "It's too bad to have it come to an end just when I'm beginning to know what it's all about, and is it not better to get it?" And he wasn't talking about classes or index, either.

Well, that's the way it has been going at Washington College for the last 152 years, and I venture that every class has had a senior or two who felt that way. If you want to get a real kick out of history, come into the office some day, and I'll tell you about the venerable valedictory oration delivered at our first Commencement by a member of the Class of 1783. He certainly took himself and the world seriously enough, and decorated his remarks with some of the most flowery oratory you ever heard. If anyone tried to get away with it in Public Speaking today, Mr. Makosky would probably froth at the mouth and pass out in a fit.

Anyhow, Commencement comes around as regularly as the calendar, and shoves us all one year nearer our ultimate port. I'm not trying to express what the end of the year means to a Freshman, or a Sophomore, or a Junior. I'm just asking you to take it on your minds, and ponder for a moment, and arrive at your own conclusion.

You're bound to have some memories. That's the thing the past always furnishes. Possibly some experience, too, which were worth while. Maybe some not so pleasant. But that's enough for the past.

Then there's the future. In most cases that will involve a plan for next year at Washington College. The College always plans ahead, so why shouldn't you?

The summer will pass somehow, whether you plan it or not. But keep an eye on next September, and all next year, up to the Commencement of 1935.

Learn to keep your eye on the future—and that goes for the weeks ahead as the winding up of 1933-34 examinations are coming—O, say day! Not so sad if you're far from sight. Now is the time for some of that foresight, as May advances, and all next year, up to the Commencement. Whatever it is you face, look to planning, and I wish you well.

For me, at least, this has been an auspicious year. I hope that, here, the case with you will be the same. Don't forget what I have said before. "Together we go forward."

Cottillion Club Holds Last Of Year's Dances

Last night, April 27, the Cottillion Club of Washington College presented in the college gymnasium the Senior German, last of its annual program of five formal dances. The decorations, artistically carried out in black and white, portrayed the Senior Hall of Fame, "as others see it." The night was furnished by Jimmy Adams and his Penitentiaries, a popular Delaware orchestra.

Baseball Team Plays Delaware Here Today

By Jack Smithson
Athletic rivalry with the University of Delaware will be renewed today when the Blue baseball team comes down for the first of a two-game series. According to advance reports the invaders will be weaker than ever before, but with the Thompson brothers still in the lineup matchup can be expected.

Eddie Evans will start the game in the box and with a warm-up we can almost consider it in the bag. Just who will compose the team which will be behind Eddie is not certain as Coach Killeb has been forced to dole out a bit of juggling around due to the determination of Alger Abbott to dislodge some member of the infield which started against G. W. This also may involve changes in the outfield where the hitting of Paul Brubaker reserve catcher has also caused uncertainty since it was found that he could also gather in fly balls. Al Brunsom will catch.

Judging from his work so far Charlie Berry, who was Delaware's star last year, is in for a big day, and with the help of Evans, Tignor, Ellancioni, Baker, Greene, et al, he should give our visiting outfielders plenty of exercise.

It looks like our chance to forge the link of Delaware in our athletic rivalry.

Local Group Petitions Omicron Delta Kappa National Honorary Fraternity For Membership; Blue Key Dropped

Blue Key Has Failed To Give Advantages It Should; Twelve Members In Petitioning Group

The Blue Key Fraternity at Washington College is a thing of the past. The charter of the National Honorary Fraternity was revoked at a recent meeting of the local chapter and National headquarters were informed of the action. Failure to provide advantages that a national organization of its kind should have attributed as the main cause for the procedure.

Petition O. D. K.

In the meantime, the Omicron Delta Kappa National Honorary Fraternity, which is more prominent than the Blue Key and better suited for Washington College, has been petitioned by the local petitioning group, consisting of former Blue Key members of the Juniors and Senior class. This group has again become the Silver Pentagon Society, which was made into the Blue Key in the late nineteenth twenties. The petitioning group includes Albert E. Dohbins, President; Michael Wallace, Treasurer; John M. Lord, Secretary; and William O. Baker, Charles B. Clark, Richard M. Gamber, Burdette Nuttle, and Charles J. T. Killeb. Twelve eligible members of the petitioning group consist of President Gilbert W. Mead, of the K. Circle of O. D. K.; Dr. J. S. William Jones, Dr. F. G. Livingston, and Coach J. T. Killeb.

Eligibility Requirements

- The eligibility requirements for membership are as follows:
  - Character shall be the primary consideration for membership in this Circle.
  - The membership in the local Circle shall not include more than twelve men.
  - Each candidate shall possess specific qualifications:
    - A consistent record of good scholarship in which he shall have maintained an average definitely above that required by the College for graduation.
    - He shall have at least junior standing in the college.
    - He shall have worked at least two years in the activity in which he desires to hold a major office.
    - He shall hold or have held at least one major honor and two minor honors, which must be distributed in at least three separate fields or activities.
  - Honors are designated as
    - A majors, B majors, C minors and D minors. A majors carry 5 to 8 points; B majors carry 3 to 4 points; C minors carry 2 to 3 points; D minors carry 1 point.

In addition, a candidate must have a minimum of twelve points to his credit.

Election shall be based strictly on the point system, i. e., those men in college who have earned the highest number of points shall be eligible for election, provided that no candidate shall be eligible until he has included at least a definite number out of his major group as specified.

Faculty members shall be chosen on the basis of conspicuous service to Washington College, especially in extra-curricular activities. Their term as active members shall be four years and one to be elected each year and one to retire as an active member each year. No faculty member can be re-elected to active membership without a period of one year intervening between the end of his last term and his reelection.

Activities Point System

Activities are divided up into five classes upon which points are based and given. The five fields include Scholarships, Publications, Social Leaders, Athletics and Music and Foreman.

Definite Information Later

The Petition at the present time is circulating among the Circles of O. D. K. and then will be taken up by the General Councils of the Honorary Fraternity. This action will take about two or three weeks longer, and more definite information can be released at a later date. Absolutely no trouble is expected in gaining the approval of the Petition, and more formalities are coming time.

Students Are Reminded Of Coming College Elections

(Note This Week's Editorial)
Students of Washington College are reminded that the Annual Spring elections of the college will take place within the next week or two. It is expected that at the regular meeting of the Student Council on Monday night, April 30, the date for nominations will be set as next Friday, May 4. Student Government rollings provide that elections be held one week after nomination, which in this case would make final balloting on May 11, if the Council sets the date as expected.

It is necessary that students be ready to vote intelligently at election time, as the offices to be filled are the most important on the campus. They include the President, Vice-President, and Secretary of the Student Council; Editor, Business Manager, Assistant Editor, and Assistant Business Manager of the Washington Elm; and the President and Secretary of the Athletic Association.

Watch for announcements and bulletin board notices, and know who to vote for at election time.

SPRING ELECTIONS SOON— AWAY WITH CHEAP POLITICS!

In two or three weeks the students of Washington College will cast votes for the various important student officers at the annual college-wide and class elections. We take this opportunity for comment in order to express our complete condemnation of practices that have taken place in this college in other years, and with the hope that by placing the shameful situation before the student body the group of students, the elections will be on a new scale.

At the start we realize that we are attacking a problem that extends as far as we know to every institution of higher learning in the country. In addition, we comprehend also that the national and state governmental systems are very much affected by the crooked political methods employed by those in a position to do so, both in elections and general procedure. However, regardless of where, why, and how it exists, there is no justification for it predominating in our college, which in reality and for practical purposes is too small to be fraternalistic and sororistic, a social nature, for they are the very root and bane of the childish, disgraceful and absolutely unconceivable actions in the election procedures.

We have been in direct contact with elections at Washington College for three or four years and know exactly how one fraternity team with another against a vast amount of work we separate with a complete hatred of the other two. Here we must state that there are naturally fine exceptions in the actions of a few individual members. Furthermore, the only group that we think may even partially be justified for attempting to solicit votes and place a candidate in office, is the non-fraternity group which is so discriminated against. We looked with favor upon the election of a non-fraternity man to the Presidency of the Junior class a month or two back. It seems that the Fraternities crossed themselves up. It was real fun to note their surprise.

The activities of the sororities in the elections has been as bad if not worse. We contend that women students should not vote for officers and members of the Men's Student Council; in which they have a council of their own in the election of officers. We think that it is very proper for them to vote for other officers, representatives or for whomever the election is being held. Still, the record of the sororities has been spotted with small, trivial prejudices and dishonorable and petty opinions which have resulted the results of elections. The same applies to the Fraternities.

We can well visualize the reception that will be accorded this editorial. We are unconcerned about any criticism that will be flung in our direction because of our stand, for we have stated facts, and have expressed opinions harbored every since we first were given an opportunity to see the present situation in operation. We are concerned only by our hopes that a change will come about, for we are not aiming to merely condemn, but to be influential in attempting to remedy a disgraceful situation that exists.

The direct control of elections by the Student Council has been most satisfactory and at the polls there has been no chance for the practices mentioned above. They have taken place in the hallways, fraternity houses, sorority rooms, dormitories and places unknown. That it has taken place is all too evident.

In conclusion, we hope that the students in coming elections will vote on the basis of the merits of the candidates for the positions to be filled. Forget that it is a temporary honor to become an officer, and remember that a vast amount of work is attached to each position, requiring abilities and the acceptance of responsibilities. Our last remark—To us, a student is without will power, lacking in initiative, and absolutely unfair to the program of the college. The candidate for whom he votes, and to the college if he not only allows a second individual to group to inform him for whom to vote, but goes ahead and does it.

SLIPPERY ELM

By Albert E. Dobkins

Coming into the verse of our Swan Song and having the perspective of four years of trial and error, we wish to recount major effects concerning the students and relating to college life.

The start made by the new regulations of fraternity running is a vast improvement. It has stopped the throat cutting of former years. The new code is not the perfect remedy, but it has curbed the practices of the present. The possibility of loss of companionship and loss of real friendship, the only great thing that college life at Washington offers, has been eliminated.

A second accomplishment is the recent adoption of the new method of selecting athletic team captains. We have harped too much on the matter already but a parting prediction is that the new system will reach farther than taking the election of captains out of fraternities and better success for the teams, but will reach into other parts of the college. Use time on our side in deciding the ultimate outcome as infinitely more desirable than the boasting of fraternity prestige.

Now we should like to see Saturday morning abolished. Much has been said on this subject pro and con and we leave our line.

If the six day classes a week is a necessary requirement to holding or gaining membership in college associations that might be explained to the students but it has failed in its avowed purpose of keeping students on the Hill over the week end and to study, so why continue it?

Concerning the assembly speakers we should like to have our say. The present program is unsatisfactory. We can appreciate the need for making contacts for the college, but why do it at the expense of wasting 264 hours each week of students' time. True there are other difficulties in securing good speakers but why excuse them at the consideration of the students? As a test for the popularity of the assembly speakers we should like to see the compulsory attendance requirement lifted and only the nucleus group present in the weekly audiences. We favor a meeting of the entire student body once a week but let's have programs of our own with one or two visitors as can be afforded rather than endure the weekly agony.

Student Council Minutes

April 23, 1934
 The meeting was called to order and the minutes were read and approved.

The Council discussed the question whether they should abolish or maintain their policy of keeping the doors closed on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Sadler reported that he had interviewed Dr. Mead in regard to dropping classes in the week of the mid year examinations. Dr. Mead suggested that the Council look into the practice observed in nearby schools in this respect. The faculty Dr. Mead reported, is always willing to hear any suggestions from the students. Mr. Sadler reported that a letter had been written to get information in regard to identification badges for freshmen. Mr. Gamber is to request Mr. Mead to announce that smoking is prohibited in the assembly hall.

President Gamber appointed Clifford Sadler, Emory Burkhardt and Sadler as a committee to look through and make the necessary revisions in the constitution.

The meeting was adjourned.

John Mason Lord.

Sports, Here and There

By Charley Clark

The spring sports program is all awag at Washington College as both the lacrosse and basketball teams are staging intercollegiate contests. The Lacrosse season as far as games are concerned is three-fourths over, but three more weeks remain before the last tilt with the strong Mt. Washington club, of Baltimore.

Hopkins Still Supreme

By defeating the Mt. Washington club last Saturday, which had to its credit victories over St. John's and University of Maryland, Johns Hopkins appears an outstanding favorite to reign again as intercollegiate champions. True, Mt. Washington suffered greatly from the temporary loss of Dargatz and Turbull, both kept out of the lineup last Saturday, but St. John's and Maryland have conceded little chance of defeating the Blue Jays. Judged from performances to date, St. John's has the better chance of turning the Baltimorean back Hopkins has held the championship for two years.

Shoremen Surprise Maryland

Throughout the contest last Saturday at College Park the Old Line players expressed amazement at the fine play of the Shore players who were playing. They readily admitted that they had expected to easily duplicate a large Hopkins and St. John's victory over the Maroon and Black runners. It is a shame that bad weather kept the locals from being set for the first two opponents as they were for the University of Maryland performance. The new defense players acquitted themselves in marvelous manner.

Baseball Prospects Good

Though George Washington trounced the Killer nine 11 to 2 last week, the Washington College players with the opening game nervousness tucked away, expect to take the Delaware diamond representatives in stride today and continue to pile up victories for the next five or six weeks, as a fine schedule has been arranged by Graduate Manager Conover extending over that period.

The team this year is a veteran combination, with only three players in the starting lineup who were new to the team just last spring. The main weakness is the pitching staff, for Ed Evans and Joe O'Farrell are yet the only two newcomers of any experience in collecting runs. Tignor is the player who carries the most dangerous bat, and his two safeties against George Washington indicate that the "big boy" is out for a big year with the Yellow.

The baseball team is especially fortunate to have a man as Coach Kibler in charge. His record, extending to the big leagues, is unquestioned as far as knowledge of the game and ability to handle men is concerned.

LACROSSERS LOSE TO HOPKINS, ST. JOHN'S AND U. OF MARYLAND. SHOW IMPROVED FORM AGAINST OLD LINERS

Only One Game Remains On Schedule, Meet Mt. Washington In Baltimore May 19

The Washington College Lacrosse team has to date staged three of the four games scheduled for 1934, having met the Mt. Washington Club yet to play in Baltimore on May 19. The month intervening between the game last Saturday with the University of Maryland and the final contest will be utilized in developing the 1935 team, as a fuller and better schedule is expected. Coach Ekblat is keeping the seven senior players in shape and allowing the younger men to benefit from their knowledge of the game.

Hopkins Takes Openers

The opening game of the season was played on Homewood field in Baltimore, on April 17 when Johns Hopkins, National Champions, trounced the local Ten 12 to 1. The Shoremen showed decided lack of playing condition, caused by only five days of outside practice as a result of inclement weather and the intervening Easter recess. The team suffered of three new defense men, replacing last year's captain, Phil Wingate, and Joe Bringshurst, both who graduated, and Paul Pippin, kept from the game by a recent injury. The team also a cause for the poor showing.

The Maroon and Black clad players started off well, holding Don Kelsey and his mates to two goals in the first quarter. The second period, however was much more successful from a Hopkins viewpoint as eight goals were scored. Poor clearing of the ball by the Shore defensemen, and failure to change ends when the play was the chief causes of the deluge or counting shots.

In the second half the Hopkins players showed that one goal in the quarter, but seemed content to let their overwhelming lead. Charley Clark, veteran center, tallied the only goal for the Washington College team when he netted a shot following a pass from Al Grissitt. Fritz Reinhold made some fine stops, and kept back of condition, the veteran carried over from last season, including Evers, Chambers, Grissitt, Reussen, Clark, Gamber and Reinhold, performed efficiently. Elly Ward, subbing for Dwyer in the second half, displayed aggressive form, and much promise.

The lineup and summary: Johns Hopkins Washington
Gilbert G. Reinhold
Yeady L. Ledner
Reynolds C. P. Dwyer

Orth H. H. Carr
Johns Hopkins 2 8 11—12
Washington 1 0 0 0—1

Mayland 6—Washington 0
A good University of Maryland Lacrosse Ten was completely surprised by a fighting Washington College team last Saturday, April 21, and at the end of the third quarter had been able to get only three shots past the specialists Fritz Reinhold, who was exhibiting real All-American form for the first time this season. In the fourth period the Old Liners counted three times, one goal of which was disputed by the Shore players to no avail. The overwhelming defeats by Hopkins and St. John's turned the Shoremen looked upon an easy prey and a breather for the College players, until the opening whiff blew. For the first time, the new defense, headed by the veterans of four years, Gamber, Grissitt, Clark and Reinhold, and helped wonderfully by two new comers to the lineup, Elly Ward, Joe Hall and John Lord, cleared the ball to perfection on all except two occasions, changed ends effectively on block plays, and individually held their respective men under control as well as the Mt. Washington players had done the week before.

The game was one of the best played on the College Park field in recent years, the day was ideal for running, the tactics used exhibited fine stickwork and aggressive play. From the result of the contest it can be judged that the Mt. Washington team will be in for a real struggle late in May.

The lineup and summary:

Love To St. John's

Coach Ekblat's men had another hot quarter at Salisbury, Md., where the first St. John's team of the season was met on Wednesday, April 18, in the second game of the year, and were on the short end of a 13 to 0 lashing. The contest ended in a rout. The game had been transferred from Annapolis where it was to have been played, by St. John's authorities in order to give the lower Eastern Shore people and especially High School athletes a chance to witness their first Old Indian game. A disastrous third quarter in which the Johnnies tallied six times in less than two minutes, earned an otherwise fairly close game.

A Sandy Field
In all fairness to the local players it must be stated that the St. John's team was at an advantage, by virtue of a larger number of good reserves, needed especially on a field as the one on which the game was played. The game was very muddy, footing uncertain and was more trying to players, especially the midfielders. This handicap however far from caused a loss, for the Annapolis team played well. Coach Lacrosse, Fritz Deinger, captain of the Maroon and Black players, played a heady and hard game, though bad ground made stopping shots extremely difficult.

New Men Show Promise

In attempting to develop new men for next season, Coach Ekblat is working his reserves with regularity, for seven seniors, and one first year reserve, Evers, Burkhardt, will need to be replaced next season. Men who are showing real promise beside the two new defense men, Ward and Lord, are Mark Wingate, Center, Wallace, Knight, Brown, De Socio, Pratt, Linthicum, Taylor and Schall on the attack; Watson, Dwyer, Sterling and Lattal, defense players; and Costek, Kemper and Grier, goal.

Diamond Players Drop First Game To George Washington

Loss 11 To 2 As Fitzgerald Stars For Victors

By Jack Smithson
Playing in the Griffith Stadium, home of the Washington Senators, the baseball team was stopped in its first start by the hard-playing George Washington University team last Friday by a score of 11 to 2. Handicapped by a strong wind, Eddie Evans was held for a total of 10 hits before he gave way to Joe O'Farrell in the 6th. Del Proudfoot finished the game. On the mound for the opponents, Vernon Griffith, adopted by Clark Griffith, had Coach Kibler's men to 15 hits, two of which were gotten by Tignor.

Led by Eddie Fitzgerald, former W. C. player, the home club took advantage of our boys' inexperience, stood to the large park and high stands to win by a score which by no means indicates what a good game it really was. It is unnecessary to say that the team looked better in defeat than it did in winning the first game last year.

Emerging undefeated from the first round of games played during the past week, the Junior chess team led the intramural speed ball league.

Last year's champs got off to a good start bylicking the senior team 9 to 6. They went on to swamp the freshmen 14 to 11, and then decided the first round with a well earned victory over the Sophomores 22 to 4. The first year nine retired in second place with a victory and a defeat while the Sophs came next with one victory in three games. The senior team seemed to have a firm grasp of second place with no victories and two defeats.

The Junior infield appears to be the best in the league, and Baseball is one of the best fields on the diamond. The other outfits have some good individual players, but lack the organization of the league leaders. Mikehell, Fontaine and Fink are outstanding on the Sophomores team, while Lohseder and Carroll are the stars for the freshmen and Seniors respectively.

JITNEY PLAYERS WILL PRESENT GOLDSMITH'S "SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER" AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE ON FRIDAY, MAY 11

Committees Appointed To Take Care Of Ticket Sales And Publicity Of Third Presentation Here

Friday, May the eleventh will witness a return to the college of the Jitney Players, this time in Goldsmith's charming comedy, "She Stoops To Conquer." No one who witnessed either of the two former presentations of the Jitneys will need to be reminded of the polished delicacy of the "Trip to Scarborough," or the skillfully managed melodrama of "Caste" last year.

The play, "She Stoops To Conquer," needs small introduction to college students, for it is one of the most famous works as well as the show-piece, of the polished 18th century stage.

Incredibly exact in its jibes at human life and living, the play is witty and pointedly satirical without ever being mean. Farner's "The Life and Times of Oliver Goldsmith" contain a passage illustrating this quality of the play of 1772. It notes: "There is never any misgiving about Goldsmith's fun and enjoyment. It is not obtained at the expense of any better thing. He does not snatch a joke out of a nursery, or an upbraid, or a mortification, or anything that, apart from the joke, would be likely to give pain, which, with all his airy wit and refinement, was too much the trick of Sheridan."

It is interesting to note that original research on the sources of both the Inn instance, and Tony's mother's travels has been done by Dr. Gertrude Van A. Ingalls, Professor of English at Washington College. In a monograph, first published as an article in the publications of the Modern Language Association of America, June, 1929, she discovers parallels in certain of the spectator papers which lead to interesting conclusions concerning Goldsmith's sources.

Committees have already been appointed to take care of the ticket sales, and publicity. It seems certain that students at the college will take advantage of the rare opportunity of May 11, and see exquisite acting in Goldsmith's nicest comedy.

Classical Society Takes In Five Honorary Members

Interesting Program For Remainder Of Year Announced

The Classical Society met in a regular business session on Thursday, April 26. It was announced that all members elected to the Society recently "honoris causa," have accepted the distinction. They are: G. W. Mead, Dr. J. R. Nicou, Dr. G. V. A. Ingalls, Dr. E. M. Dole, and Mrs. C. S. Scholud. This is the first time that honorary members have been elected to academic organizations on the Hill.

A permanent motto has been selected by the members, "Corpe Diem," chosen from Horace's ode, together with a temporary device of Ulysses travels, representing the wide scope of the Society's interests and activities. At this week's meeting two scholarly papers were delivered, one by Eloise Hepburn on "Greek Historians" and another by Kathryn Clifton on "Aristic Society." There was also discussed the program for the balance of the year, and an unusual schedule was announced, that will be of great interest to all students. The Society also announces the induction of Wm. Oliver Baker of the Junior Class as active member.

Name Titworth Portrait Artist

Maurice Molarsky, Artist From Philadelphia Chosen

Maurice Molarsky, noted Philadelphia artist, has been commissioned to paint the portrait of the late Dr. Paul S. Titworth which will be presented to Washington College by the alumni association of that institution at the 1934 Commencement in June.

Mr. Molarsky was chosen from a number of artists considered by the committee, which at the same time selected the photograph from which the portrait was to be painted.

Meanwhile the campaign among members of the alumni association for funds to defray the cost of the painting is going rapidly forward with contributions to a considerable amount also being received from Rotarians and Rotary Clubs of the 24th District, Rotary International, of which the former local college head was also formerly district governor.

Diamond Players Engage U. of Md. Here Today

Mr. Bishop, War Veteran, Leads Discussion

On Wednesday, May 2, the Y. M. C. A. sponsored a "Peace Conference" to determine the general attitude of the college students on the question of "Pacifism and War Propaganda." The discussion was led by a war veteran, Mr. Bishop, of Dover, Delaware.

A pacifistic attitude prevailed throughout the meeting. At the conclusion of the meeting it was unanimously voted that the Y. M. C. A. send a telegram to President Roosevelt requesting him to curtail all action relative to additional war appropriations.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was host to the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, May 6, at 7 P. M. Richard Chambers conducted the services. The theme of the program was built around Mother's Day. The program consisted of talks by Wesley Sadler, Arthur Griens, Ralph Harries, and solo selections by Joseph Mooney and Larry Williams.

Alfred S. Hodgson Plays Hero Role; Coeds Look On

Yesterday when four members of the Senior Education Class decided to accompany Dr. Fred G. Livingston to the J. Kellogg Smith school to witness a puppet show staged by students there, they realized what they were in for.

It seems that the Education Professor decided to make new tracks through axle-deep mire along a part of the route. It wasn't long before the mistake was known, for the only male student of the lot, Alfred S. Hodgson (alias "Queenie") immediately began the unenvied task of shoving the car back to firm ground. But—woe is me—he took too much of his own strength, to preserve his, and to keep the mud away.

Baker And Goldstein Will Head "Elm"

WERE ONLY NOMINEES

Castel And Slacum Will Be Assistants

William Oliver Baker of Chesterton, Maryland, is the new Editor of the WASHINGTON ELM, student newspaper publication at Washington College, while Louis L. Goldstein of Prince Frederick, Maryland, has been chosen Business Manager. Baker and Goldstein, both Juniors and who were Assistant Editor and Assistant Business Manager, respectively, this year, were elected without opposition last Friday when nominations were conducted. Of a total of 153 votes cast last week, Goldstein received 160, while Baker garnered 143. Thus other office seekers failed to receive the twenty votes necessary for nominations and the two new editors were automatically elected without further ado.

Both Are Experienced

Baker who succeeds Charles R. Clark as Editor, has been a member of the ELM staff for three years, working his way up to the Assistant Editorship for this year. He is an outstanding student at Washington College. He has won many honors while at Washington College, being especially outstanding as a scholarship man. He has been the recipient of the Freshman Scholastic Medal, the Sophomore Scholastic Medal and the Von Prittwitz German Medal. He is a member of the Scholarship Honor Society, of the Chemical and Clinical Societies, the "Pegasus" staff, the Silver Pentagon Society, the Shakespearian Players, the Intercolllegiate Debating team, and Secretary of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity.

Louis Goldstein follows in the footsteps of J. Patterson Beasman as Business Manager of the ELM and has already given evidence of his fitness for the position. He is also Assistant Business Manager of the "Pegasus" year book, and will in all probability be Business Manager of that Publication next year, his Senior one. Goldstein is a member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and of the Y. M. C. A. and has aided in the publication of the Freshman Handbook.

Castel And Slacum

Carroll Castel who polled a total of 71 votes, defeated Joseph Freeman, Phillip Skip, and Robert Clifford, who received 49, 35 and 24 votes respectively, to become Assistant Editor of the ELM. He has been a member of the Staff for two years. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and of the Cottillon Club and is a member of the Varsity Lacrosse Squad.

Emerson Slacum, defeated the only other candidate for the position, Carroll Castel by a vote of 130 to 43. He served in the capacity of Circulation Manager of the ELM this year. He is the newly elected Historian of the Phi Sigma Tau Fraternity, is Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and a member of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society and the Chemical Society.

EXIT YE EDITOR

It is with sincere regret that we realize that with this issue our career as Editor of the WASHINGTON ELM terminates. We are sorry because it has been extremely interesting and pleasant work, though at the same time we do not hesitate to note that the various phases of the activity have taken much time and effort.

However we are glad to step aside when we realize that we have had our turn as the Editor of the ELM, and can think of nothing more appropriate in expressing our true feelings as we retire than several lines that our predecessor as Editor, Philip J. Wyzn, wrote in his last issue in 1933. He stated: "We wish to make our departure from the Editor's chair so quiet and noiseless that the first indication the student body of Washington College will have of our leaving takes will be the sudden improvement in the brand of journalism when the new Editor takes the reins." We are unable to say that such improvement either suddenly came about, or that it occurred at all. Nevertheless it would be to our great disappointment if we realized that we had not profited from the experience of our predecessor and therefore that we had not made a few improvements small and unnoticeable though they may have been. Thus we expect the new Editor to improve on our work, and have only such indications.

Appearing last in our dissertation is our statement of the conditions of the accoutrements of the ELM. Each year the retiring Editor has formally willed to his successor the so-called accoutrements, designated as such several years back. The collection so generously and unselfishly presented to us last May consists of an empty gingerale bottle, a badly worn file, a 1928 calendar, two electric light bulbs, some dried orange skins, and two slightly worn pen points which were borrowed from the "Pegasus." Having been entrusted with such valuables, it is not only our duty but a privilege to report that each treasure has been carefully safeguarded by some of the staff's most lax and unindicating of course that there is always something for everyone to do. We are proud also to report that the collection has been augmented, and now includes several cuts of some of our most illustrious faculty members which have been used so often that even those whose countenances were reproduced in the ELM by means of said cuts, have requested that more recent ones be obtained. Thus we will close our ramblings of this fashion by advising our friend the new Editor to use extreme care in his protection of the accoutrements.

OUR FINAL FLING

We have commented editorially during the past year on many things. We have advocated certain reforms, condemned existing practices that we opposed, offered suggestions, and even when we were asked to do so, we have urged them more than ever that in the future campus groups remain free from cheap politics in the election of student officers, that students at Washington College take more interest in Cultural courses and in the events of our Nation, that a greater College Spirit be created—this is all. We have urged that government by the formation of better athletic teams which will depend on better material along that line. We argue for the aiding of athletes with all-around ability rather than men with interests along just one line even if it be the scholarship phase. Also we would like to encourage greater freedom in the matter of class attendance, thinking that worthy students should govern their own comings and goings with the course the necessary restrictions. Also, we hope that the Students Activities Committee continues to work with the students and allow for the best interests of all. Our Slippery Elm columnist has and is mentioning other things. We have offered such comments only in the spirit of building a greater Washington College that will be even more prominent.

SLIPPERY ELM

By Albert E. Dobkins

Now that we have reached the end of our rope we are tempted to pass on to you the end results of four years of trial and mostly error but it would be of no consequence and you will not suffer the loss nor the moral that goes therewith. Moreover, having reached the campus and we should be filled with the beauty of sublime nature in the form of long-rolling greens and thickly foliaged trees. What is more, if you have been to think you have accomplished your purpose of college—such thoughts. Therefore we should not stop to reminisce.

But if only some one would dynamite and blow us out of our spurs. The trouble with Washington College is we students. First we must be made to understand that we, the students, are as important as any part of the college. Secondly when we know exactly what we should approximate scholastically, socially, and athletically, we could set out to accomplish what we, thought our return should be. It is amazing to hear the student complaints of neglect of the consideration of the student body in the determination of administrative policies. Self determination is abundant when we don't even know what we want. Our guess is that left to ourselves we would remain exactly where we were.

The seriousness of the matter is most apparent in the social life on the campus and in athletics. We are going backwards year by year and the stepping place is not in sight. The halt and the beginning of new progress lies with the students themselves.

We can appreciate Washington in itself but remember the standard of the college will never be higher than the level of the student body.

Student Council Minutes

May 8, 1934

The meeting was called to order and the minutes were read and approved.

Mr. Fink reported the findings of his investigation in regard to the policy of neighboring colleges in holding classes in the week of mid-year exams. The committee on budgets for freshmen has had no reply as yet. The same ones are to serve at the same locations this Friday, at the same hours.

The committee on revising the constitution reported that, in their opinion there are no revisions necessary in the present constitution. As there were rumors of cheating going on in classes, President Gamm cautioned the council to be more vigilant in this respect. Because of complaints registered it was suggested that Dr. Livingston's tests be given in two rooms to reduce temptation to cheat.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Signed,

John M. Lord.

PURLOINED PHRASES

By Roland E. Leckhauch

Shel: "What is there about these clichés that makes you play so much attention?"
Ed: "Nothing."

Someone says the difficulty nowadays is to tell a girl and her mother apart. But why worry in these days when you can tell them both together.

Phil: "How does she dress?"
Ed: "I don't know. I've never watched her."

"When he tried to kiss me, I told him I was a lady."
"Of course, darling, appearances are so deceptive, aren't they?"

Friend: "Where can I reach your husband?"

Wife: "I haven't any idea. He said he was going down to the office to finish some work."

They were sitting in the parlor and—
The lights were low, and—
She was in good health—
He was feeling well too.

And then—Goldstein wants to know, "Where was Peter when the lights went out?"

TOLD TO ME

By I. Only Heard

Our "Swan Song":

The ball is about to knell—and the crowd to ring down on our act. Told To Me will be listed among the has-beens. It has been fun being the writer of such a column, except for the fact that some people take the "geriatric threats" too seriously. Then we experience the perils of a light-rope walker due to threats by numerous readers and some faculty members. So as our "Swan Song" we might take the liberty which served us so opening hours to this column. However we have learned that: (1) All men are a-fickle (except the editor and the writer); (2) Washington cosses are not like ivory (99 and 44-100 per cent) also refer to Iron number one; (3) The Faculty policies are antiquated, but, they really do try, oh, so hard; (4) Even Faculty members are as human as some of our liveliest undergraduates (but we were afraid to print anything about them); (5) If all beer bottles were laid end to end they would reach from every dispensary in Kent county to Reid Hall and the Kent dorms —we have no official regulations; (6) A date with a denial of Reid Hall is equivalent to taking out the entire dormitory—five minutes after ten thirty about sixty-five repeat in union the motto, "They Hold No Secret"; (7) There has been less Fraternity politics than in the past four years but for your cut-throat policies we recommend any of the fraternities on the Hill; (8) Despite geodetic surveys all channels on the Chester River lead to the same end—(9) Erase your own damn conclusions; (10) Believe it or not I Only Heard's candidate for president to the same has appeared in every issue of the Enterprise but six this year—such popularity must be deserved; (11) O'Farrell and Anne Whyte way for honors in their publication; (12) Woe is me; (13) As much as we hate to do it—Keebler belongs to the Junior category of the A. L.'s (reference to previous issue); (14) It is a wonder they wouldn't call Cohen, Mississippi Cohen (too much month); (15) Don Kibbie; (16) Dean Jones; (17) Censored.

The Retiring Editor Writes—

Chiefly To Next Year's Elm Staff
Though I have commented briefly in this week's Editorial column upon my retirement as Editor of the WASHINGTON ELM, I wish to add a few remarks which need not be quite as formal.

In the first place, I most heartily wish to thank those members of the Administration, Faculty, and Student Body, who have aided in whatever success the ELM may have enjoyed in 1933-34. From time to time I have been forced to mildly reproach members of the Staff who became lax in the part they should play—probably without realizing that each cog, regardless of its size, is absolutely essential for a perfect machine. From this, however, isn't to be concluded that I blame the shortcomings of the ELM, and certainly there are some, on members of the staff. I am willing to take the blame and to receive any but destructive criticism, as has been the case all year.

I do wish, however, to urge that William O. Baker, the new Editor, will be given much more cooperation from his staff as a whole than I have received. His work at the Printing Office will take his time, so write articles assigned and have them on hand at the time he dictates.

I have enjoyed working with staff members who were willing to do their share, and have primarily attempted to please as many people as possible with my issues. We have given more quantity at least this year, because we were more fortunate in soliciting national advertisements.

Lastly, I wish to state that in Patterson Reamson I have had one of the most efficient and cooperative Business Managers that an Editor could ask for.

Asking pardon for my camblings, I close.

Charles B. Clark,
Retiring ELM Editor.

William Baker Is New Debating Head

Club Has Carried On Extensive Spring Program

The Spring program of the Debating Club of Washington College has been pursued with considerable vigor. A meeting of the entire membership of the Society was held on the evening of April 27, when Dr. Fred G. Livingston, Chairman of the Education Department of the College, spoke on the controversial subject of Negro education. The talk was followed by an argumentative discussion, in which the participants found opportunity to employ apt and logical thought expressed in concise, meaningful language.

So great has been the interest in this most valuable student activity that a meeting devoted to informal debating was called for the evening of May 11. Here the members of the organization, and the membership is open to any student interested in scientific argumentation, were called upon at random, and participation is purely optional, to debate after five minutes preparation some well-known subject announced by the Chairman. Such activity is evidently essential for those interested in law, or any work requiring quick and effective thought and expression.

A recent election of the officers of the Debaters for the coming year resulted in the selection of William Baker as President, and Wesley Sadler as Manager.

Glee Club And Orchestra Will Appear In Salisbury

Have Presented Fine Concerts In Maryland And Delaware

The Glee Club and Orchestra are in the middle of an active season. After some months of preparations they have assembled a program worthy of their efforts consisting of classical and semi-classical selections which have been well appreciated by their audiences.

Recently they have appeared at Felton, Delaware, and at the Perry Point Hospital, Perryville, Maryland. Performances are scheduled at Greenwood, Delaware and Salisbury, Maryland. They will also be expected to give several selections at the Commencement exercises in June, in preparation for which, work is steadily going on, aside from the regular program practices.

While these musical organizations are strictly amateur, their work is highly commendable, due largely to the unflinching efforts of their directors.

Dr. Livingood and Raymond Moffet. They are doing invaluable work in developing the much neglected musical field here at Washington College and in giving the college much desirable publicity.

Senior Tea Will Be Held At Reid Hall May 19

On Saturday, May 19th in Reid Hall, the Senior Tea will be held. The guests will be the members of the graduating class, the faculty, and prominent residents of Chestertown. As has formerly been the custom, the Junior girls will serve, and Mrs. Gilbert W. Mead and Dr. Esther M. Dole will pour.

The drawing rooms of Reid Hall will be appropriately decorated with spring flowers, pink, yellow and white being the predominant colors. Dainty spring dresses against such a background will be truly picturesque. Delightful refreshments have been planned—a fruit salad, sandwiches, ices and cakes, and it is hoped that a large number of people will be present.

Dr. Alexander F. Skutch Speaks To Honor Society

Is An Eminent Botanist And Ornithologist

The regular monthly assembling of the scholastic Honor Society of Washington College took place on the evening of Tuesday, May 1, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Howell. Not only was the Society pleasantly entertained at the home of its senior faculty member, but it was exceedingly honored in having as its guest Dr. Alexander F. Skutch, of Belknap, Md., and Guatemala. Dr. Skutch came to Washington College as the guest of John A. Wagner, a student at the College, and a long-time friend of the eminent botanist and ornithologist. For it is in these two fields that the young naturalist has done his most noted work. He is a recognized authority, and the author of numerous monographs, on the flora and avifauna of Central America.

Dr. Skutch talked to the Honor

Society of the nature of Guatemala, and of some of his experiences within its varied boundaries. He is preparing a volume on Central American birds, toward the consummation of which work he has worked at the famous laboratories at Barro Colorado Island, in the Canal Zone. While at Washington College, Dr. Skutch was taken on a number of field trips by a bird-lover student, and commented on the richness of the avian habitation of the Eastern Shore.

Alumni Soon To Vote On Four Board Members

Within a few days nominations will be made and ballots sent out in connection with the election of representatives from Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot and Caroline counties to the Board of Visitors and Governors.

Under the provisions of a Charter Amendment the qualifications of a voter in the Alumni elections are as follows: "Any graduate of the College or Normal Department of Washington College and any student who left the college in good standing after having completed sufficient work to entitle him to a Sophomore or Senior Normal rating shall be qualified to participate in the election by the Alumni of Washington College of members of the Visitors and Governors of said college; provided that no student shall be entitled to participate in said election until after the class to which he or she belongs shall have graduated."

Those whose terms will expire are: Dudley G. Roe, of Queen Anne's county and Nelson H. Fooks, of Caroline county. Vacancies which ac-curred by the deaths of Lewis W. Wickes, of Kent county and W. Earle Withgott, of Talbot county, whose terms would have expired in June 1933, anyhow, will also be filled.

Every qualified Alumnus is eligible to vote in the election, regardless of place of residence. In other words it is not necessary to reside in the county from which a member is to be elected to vote.

All qualified voters are urged to participate in the election and are referred to an editorial on page two of this issue for further reasons why their participation is to be desired.

Dr. James M. Hepbron Gives Best Talk Of Year

Dr. James M. Hepbron, recipient of an honorary degree from the college last year, eminent criminologist from Baltimore, spoke last Thursday morning at the weekly assembly on "Administration of Criminal Justice" to a rapt audience, giving some inside information from his experience as head of Crime Commission, on the workings of the parole system today.

Presenting in "case form" the histories of the "noble youth", "guiltless minister", and "innocent Tuscolo Bandit", who because of the "sucker" sympathy of Welfare associations and otherwise good intentioned friends, he protested that "you don't convict innocent people—the trouble is we won't be able to convict anybody." Even more revealing was his estimation of some of the legal ethics of today, citing shyster lawyers methods, the judge on the bench of Baltimore today, once proven himself a perjurer, and the cashier of bank on the Eastern Shore, who in collusion with a prominent lawyer, successfully made away with about $50,000, and nothing done about it, "all a reflection on the legal profession"—as he remarked, "always 25 years behind public thinking".

Later in the afternoon, Dr. Hepbron spent some time with a college group during which he detailed further the problems of criminology today.

Miss Lavinia Engle Addresses Students

A clarion call to college undergraduates to accept the challenge to education which the times have presented, in the nature of becoming citizenship conscious, was made by Miss Lavinia Engle, member of the Maryland Legislature to the student body on Thursday, May 10.

The imposition of new leisure to the world as a result of the machine, necessitates a new constructive culture rather than commercial or mechanical advance, and, says Miss Engle, the dead spot in thinking towards government, education, must be abolished, if we are to maintain democracy. The failure in the past she exemplified in a recently conducted "leisure survey", and it is the duty of the higher educated to forget a mythical golden age of the past and look to a reconstruction which will carry us to a more satisfactory state, rather than restate it to any earlier condition, she concluded.

the cigarette that's Milder
the cigarette that TASTES BETTER

—and they do that to mellow

good tobaccos

WHERE THE RARE WINES come from they know that the two most important things in wine-making are the selection of the grapes and the long years of ageing in the wine cellars.

IT'S VERY MUCH THE SAME in the making of a cigarette. You have to get the right tobaccos, then put them away to age and mellow in wooden casks.

You can't make a good cigarette like Chesterfield in a day. It takes over two years to age the tobaccos for your Chesterfields—but it adds something to the taste and makes them milder.

Everything that modern Science really knows about is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

STAFF AND A HALF

Last Monday saw the meeting of the nucleus of the new staff of the new ELM. The event should have been publicly advertised and attended, for it showed a group of Washington College students of the kind that have made the institution prouder for a century and a half. All had been previously told that work on the ELM meant labor, albeit much fun. Yet the surprised and rejoicing editors found assembled people who were interested in doing a worthwhile thing in the proper way. This staff promises, if it stands the acid test of routine next week, to be one of the most congenial student groups on College Hill. Already their enthusiasm has moved them to write competitively, about ten from every line striving for the good old name. This department, it may be noted in the course of this rambling paragraph, will be done henceforth by a WINCHELL, but by a WOLCOTT. To a New Yorker, the distinction is at once clear. And the ELM must, of course, please its metropolitan readers.

AIMS AND TARGETS

With this issue, the thirty-fifth of the student, news publication of Washington College takes effect. This paper was not always the Washington ELM, for nearly a decade ago it assumed a news sheet form, and received a strong upward impulse journalistically, under the editorial administration of Mr. Harry Russell, then a student at the College, and now a well-known Associate Editor of the Chestertown ENTERPRISE.

Each year, and each staff, since 1925 has been progress in the making and writing standards of the publication. Many of these advances have occurred under the able leadership of the past year.

The incoming staff confronts, of course, many problems. They are chiefly of personnel organization and finances. Satisfactory arrangement of the latter during the summer will result in a weekly paper next Fall; such arrangements may not be possible.

The staff which has been assembled for this issue is composed largely of trying-out years. But it is as an enthusiastic. Every member realizes that his work must be well done.

and his articles well written before they will appear in the ELM. The studies must be accurate, concise, meaningful, and technically correct.

Every student at Washington College is invited, for he is truly interested, to work for his College paper. His work may not be accepted; a column in the ELM receives the same number of activity points as a column recommended for the Omicron Delta Kappa Honor Fraternity as the winner of a Varsity letter. The efficient coaches at Washington College do not award letters until the student has worked hard, and is relatively small number of "goers-out" are successful. The name must, of course, be true in a newspaper.

Students are not begged to work on the paper; they are offered the opportunity to have a good deal of fun, and make a good deal of gain, by working with it. Just as they have opened a year of pleasure to the new staff by electing its members to positions of creative importance. There is joy in doing, and the ELM administration appreciates the chance the student body has given it. The Editors feel obligated to honor their positions by trying to produce a work that will reflect credit on Washington College and its students when it appears at other institutions, however modest that work may be in its proportions. The students at Washington College, despite occasional spells of apathy so well depicted by MR. DOBKINS in his valdictory in the "Slippery Elm" are, fundamentally, active. Once a course of fruitful and worthwhile action is shown, it is usually happily followed. Students, the ELM is your newspaper.

It is too early to comment on matters of policy. That will come often enough later. Two points may, however, be indicated. One is that the ELM will be sent to every desirable college within a reasonable range for the exchange editor at each issue into the waste-heap if he wishes; and more particularly, pains will be taken to see that it reaches every high school of note in the country that the students there may know and follow, the things that Washington College, and Washington College students, are doing. The second point is that a strong effort will be

PURLOINED PHRASES

By Frederick Taylor

In our perusal of various collegiate papers at our disposal we have come across several articles worthy of note—we hope our readers are not impervious to suggestion.

Of interest to all, we find that Rochester University has abolished night classes. Letting students sleep in their beds at night, rather than in classrooms.

The following is a dictionary reprint from the New Mexico Roundup: Corp.—Sounding horns come on the end and which puts one on his Campus—Student corner suffering from acute despondency and probably in need of an operation; Editorial—A month whereby the student body may inform the student body what is wrong with it; Graduation—Relief for old age; Honor System—Just another aid for dumb students; Librarian—Local public gathering where one may study, meet a date, get bewitched out, copy someone else's theme, or possibly get a book; Student Government—A popular farce written and directed by accident.

We learn that Harvard has abolished Yale locks from its dormitories. In line with its rather startling policy of patriotism it will be a matter of time until the Yanks student body puts a ban on Smith College Drope, and Yale takes drastic action against the Harvard Classics.

"It's a free country," says Jean, "but the men want too many liberties."

From a nearby College comes the news that Lady Godiva was a girl who put discord before the horse, yet from among our midst Right tells us that she went to see the Lady Godiva set in B—because he hadn't seen it in years.

Some of the aims of the new ELM have been stated. The good work of the past year will be carried on. The future rules, but it may be said, at this College, EDITOR OF THE NEW ELM: LABOR OMNIA VINCIT.

EOS, ROSY-FINGERS

With profound bacchanalian addresses, and sonorous commencement addresses of future responsibility of the one hundred and fifty-second class of Washington College will soon be graduated. The old bachelors, or bachelorettes, was a bayberry wreath, and were often defined as "persons of an inferior academic degree, aspiring to a doctorate." They were Latin discards, and took their education seriously, and felt from it a sense of relief to the even crowd of none affairs.

None of Washington's bachelors this June will dispute in Latin; few will seek higher degrees; all will wear "bachelor caps."

But, as the President of the College has so many times said, the duty of this much-bled class of '34, is not to the past and its ways, but to tomorrow. Fortune to it.

John C. Powys Is Leading Modern

Critic Praises His Method

John Cooper Powys in an essay, "Suspended Judgment," speaks of the "exquisite use of literature so that it shall color and penetrate our life," and says, "I can only speak for myself; but my own preference—among writers will always be for those whose genius consists rather in creating a certain mental atmosphere than in hammering out isolated works of art, rounded and complete."

"Such an atmosphere, such vague intellectual music, in the air about us, is the thing which really challenges the responsive spirit in ourselves." At different times what we "need and require from the genius of the past" changes, and he says, "for my own part, looking over the great names, I am at this moment drawn instinctively to the one who has been them all—to William Blake and to Paul Verelaine."

For ME at this moment Powys himself can create better than any other modern this mental atmosphere. When I read his inspired poems, I am affected me for days after. I look at the world with the eyes of Walf; I think of his thoughts; I feel the magic of their authority like a warm blanket. And as I read, I find myself with his latest novel, "The World and Sand," and it "became another precious experience."

Weymouth, whose warm sunny and feel the breath of spring as such, and whose inspired poems, I am affected me for days after. I look at the world with the eyes of Walf; I think of his thoughts; I feel the magic of their authority like a warm blanket. And as I read, I find myself with his latest novel, "The World and Sand," and it "became another precious experience."

Although with Powys, as with most moderns, sex is the greatest force in the world, yet love of nature is so powerful that it casts over erotic passions, not a romantic hue, but a harmonious realism which obviates the need of a romantic hue.

Perhaps the criticism that Powys fails in his novels to fulfill promises of action, which have been carefully motivated, is deserved. But it is evasive for the civilized heart to ACT from love and to AVOID action when he has created it when it is not.

INDIVIDUALLY. And Powys people are individuals. They, that is the ones who represent those virtues which Powys holds highest, discriminate carefully between possibilities of action, but their decisions are never on the basis of accepted morality, and being true to itself in Powys's eyes means carrying out one's secret convictions in defiance of the world's judgment. If they are abstemious, it is not through a warping of the senses which Powys glorifies but through a fastidiousness of soul. To Walf, the author of the "World and Sand," "creativity is the only sin," but whereas those characters who have more of the author in them, as he himself has vowed, pass judgment on their own actions, they do not JUDGE others by their own standards. To do so would be an indignity similar to that which the world perpetuates.

TOLD TO ME

By I. Unley Heard

(Reading time—12 minutes on a dirt track. This depends on your I. Q. however. If you have an I. Q. above that of an intelligent moron you wouldn't bother reading it.) As a pinch-hitter for the writer of this column, I step up to the base with two strikes on me and no balls, which you must admit is bad. I have not been in the habit of keeping my ear to the ground, or to the dirt, as my illustration prescribes, but by a little stooping and unlatching of morals I may be able to do so.

In my journalistic plunges into the murky depths of college life I could hardly seem to sink so low, or bring up as much mud as the last writer of this column was able to do; but perhaps I can stir up some scum floating near the surface that may be palatable to my reading public. Of course, this scum can only be regarded as an intellectual dessert; for rich, digestible food I should suggest reading the past columns of this paper.

Incidentally, I have a suggestion to most concerning these columns which I think will serve as a good one to the farmers of this region, even more than one of Roosevelt's alphabetical brain-storms could claim to accomplish. These columns, plowed under in the spring, will help the corn and wheat to flourish as well as anything I know, except guano, which is merely a more concentrated form. (This is called the five year plan, and is guaranteed to work in ten years.)

Suggestions have come in for more special events at the inter-mural track meets. Ward suggests a better race among students have unequal muscles well developed for a good reason, as throwing the ball. Dobkin announces he will name a sandwich after this event—serving track meat. How about a bare-foot paper chase to Salisbury, the winner being awarded several jars of foot cream. This may not be a good plan, but just think, some of the entries may not be able to find their way back.

The Regatta Trio—Dobkins, Stacy, and Hodgson—will now sing "Row For The Olympic Games." Don't blame them if they hit any Sarah notes!

After watching the Rally Day held here Monday, we can see tomatoes isn't the only thing they raise on this campus.

We could suggest better job for the C. W. A. workers around here than being nursemaids to a stack of rifles—how about scraping the moss off some of our pedagogue. Or discontinue the all night lounge hour after Sunday night.

(Editor's note—The writer of this column left in a hurry for the Fiji Islands. All bombs addressed to him will be returned after thirty days.)

Christie says he can always study quiet when he is working with his girl. That's all operating in your co-education.

A small red faced creature approached us on the field last Monday and announced in a sad small voice: "Wier's my father!" I said we had no feeling that Alan had a part.

Judging from the sunburned faces and the number of absentees from classes lately we judge that the muddy Chester has come into its own again. I only heard Vilma Carter receive a letter from her mother, who said she'd like Reddick. Who's that? I'd like a little Brown to show this summer added the mighty Thompson.

Mt. St. Mary's is Tied in Ninth

After eight straight defeats the Washington College baseball team closed their season here Tuesday by not losing. Neither did the Shoremen win. The score was 8-8 at the end of the ninth inning, when the Shoremen halted the contest. Mt. St. Mary's was the opposition and two runs in the first half of the ninth enabled them to tie the score after Washington had gone to the front with a three run rally in the eighth. Evans, Washington's southpaw, was on the mound at the start. He was greeted with four hits which accounted for three runs. Two more hits and a home on balls gave the Mounts a pair of runs in the second and they added one more to a triple and a single in the fourth, to hold a 3-1 run advantage.

Proffond relieved Evans in the fifth and in Washington's half the Shoremen knocked out seven hits as eleven men went to bat and five runs came across the park. Up until that outburst Daugherty, Mount southpaw, had held the locals hitless.

Set down in the sixth by Henry Washington went on a rampage in the eighth. Griens was hit by the pitcher. He was advanced by Evans, who was knocked out by a double by Griens. Blinnich was walked. He and Tigner advanced on a passed ball and four scored on Berry's single. Proffond and Rinehart walked after Baker was out but Bayle's popped to second base to end the inning.

Washington's heavy hitters were up in the ninth but were in a row and the game was called on account of darkness.

Washington Boys

To Delaware Nine

The Delaware University baseball team outlasted Washington College in a closely fought game here Saturday, May 19. Both teams fought the opposing pitchers easy to hit, at least one run was scored in every inning. Going into the 9th inning the Blue Devils were leading 18-11 by virtue of five unearned runs in the eighth. But in their half of the last frame, Washington College scored a run and filled the bases with two outs. Brackl, pinch-hitting for O'Farrell, then laced out the third pitch for a lone home run, cleaning the decks. This last inning rally was checked when the next batter was out, thereby retiring the side. The final score read Delaware 18, Washington 15.

Proffond, with a home run, a fly, a bouncer and a single, and Bayle, with two hits including a home run, were the leading hitters for Washington College, while O'Connell starred for Delaware.

The winner has her name engraved on a cup. Sarah Ellen Brown is this year's defender of the title.

ATHLETIC PROMISERS PROMISING FOR '34

By Philip Skipp

From all indications Washington College will see a new deal in the realm of sports next year. Disastrous showings in every branch of athletic sports caused the coaches to come upon the realization that something must be done.

The football squad will not be head hit by graduation, and the team should win a majority of games played next fall. Much help is anticipated from such new men as: Bartolini, of Crosby High, Waterbury; Kilby, Bristol, Conn.; Anderson and Davis, Salisbury High; and from Henry, Brant, Cogh, Deak, and Huffman, from Cumberland, Md. Huffman will be remembered as a star football player here three years ago.

Most of these men play basketball, but the largest addition to the basketball squad will be; Wilnot, a Waterbury boy who was with a few weeks last fall, and Zelrowski, 6 ft. 7 in., all state center from Bristol, Conn.

The baseball and track teams will probably see many of those men in action. It looks as if some of the veterans will have to work harder than they have done lately, in order to hold their positions.

Elaborate Fete

Planned in June

The June Fete directed by Miss Doris Bell in which every girl in Washington College takes part has been and is one of the most beautiful spectacles on the Eastern Shore, and one which hundreds of people attend.

This year the princess is Lucille Rasin and the prince, Dorothy Kimball. The Fete is worn around the following plot:

"Once upon a time a beautiful princess and her ladies of the court were out walking in the wood they got lost and entered an enchanted garden under the spell of some evil witches. Once inside the garden they could not get out, no matter how hard they tried. To pass the time, the people captured in the garden did as the evil witches, seeking a wife for the prince appeared, bearing a golden hoop. Whoever could get through the hoop would win the prince. Every maid tried but could not get through until the princess slipped through the hoop. Then the prince and princess lived happily ever after."

Solo dances will be done by Lucille Rasin, Patience Pyle, Betty Schiller, Alexina Robinson, Alice Crabtree, Phoebe Pyle, Jean Harshaw.

Practice has been going on for some time and the costumes are rapidly being made so with the utmost cooperation of the girls Miss Bell will make this June Fete ever presented.

Archery Contest

Planned By Girls

Many girls have shown their interest in Archery for many years but this is the first year that a tournament has been planned. Claire Wyle is a top seeded player and is expected by many to carry off the honors.

tionally active in extra-curricular activities, including athletics. It is also notable that the general make-up of the ELM has improved under his administration, and more full-size issues have appeared in the past year than ever before in the history of the publication. This latter is evidently the result of skillful financial direction and advertising sales on the part of the business staff headed by Don Beaman, who has also been active in athletics.

Charles Clark, member and this year's president of the Phi Sigma Psi Fraternity, of which Beaman is also a member, is a native of Elizabethtown, on the lower Eastern Shore. At Washington College, besides a good scholastic record, he has won consecutive letters in lacrosse and football. In his senior year he was president of the Varsity Club, and Vice-president of the Student Council. He was also Vice-president of his class this year, a member of the Dean's Cabinet, of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society, and the Y. M. C. A., in which he has helped to edit the Student Handbook. He was, this year, speaker of the year at the ELM, and published by the Senior class, and has been, since his junior year, a member of the Silver Penetron Society, one of the most coveted honors of the literary societies.

Obviously, such varied participation in student affairs peculiarly equipped Clark to be the editor of the college paper. But a good capable editor means an adequate publicist, and only when the editor is free from financial worries, and this was always the case with Beaman as his business chief. His career in college has been as full an experience as that of anyone in his class, his associates state.

Coach Plans Swim Meet

Coaches Kilber and Eklais are carrying out the most extensive in-season sports program ever attempted at Washington College, and they have plans for further activities.

The speed ball league has been all state now for some weeks. As a result of recent defeats, the Juniors have fallen from first place and are now trailing a well-balanced Senior team, that is favored to win the championship.

The intra-mural track meet held during the last three days of the past week, was a great success, and it gave the coaches a good opportunity to look over some promising material for next year's varsity track team.

Coch Kilber is very enthusiastic about an inter-class swimming meet which has prospects of being held this coming week at the country club. The deficit plans have not yet been made, but it might prove profitable for some of the school's swimmers to go down to the river over the week end, and practice up on their strokes.

THINGS NOT WORTH KNOWING

Wisconsin has 2,245 cheese factories. Seven of its counties have more than 100 each.

Claudian blossoms that have a fragrance have been developed.

Workshops where blind men with women may earn a living are being established in Italy.

SENIORS CARRY OFF CLASS TRACK HONORS

The Senior Class, led by Charlie Clark and Dick Gamber, put up a strong finish yesterday afternoon to carry off first honors in the three-day intra-mural track meet held on the athletic field. They had already amassed enough points by Friday to win the event, but they added five more points yesterday by finishing first in the mile relay, giving them a grand total of forty-one points. The Sophomores, with their one-man track team, Phil Skipp, finished in second place with a total of twenty-seven points. Of this number, seventeen were made by Skipp, who was high individual scorer of the whole meet. The freshmen placed third with their twenty-one points, while the Juniors trailed in last place with fifteen counts. Charlie Clark, Reddish, and Ward were high scorers for their respective classes. Of the high-jump and field events, the Seniors cupped six first places, the Sophomores three, the Freshmen two, and the Juniors one.

After Final Game

The final lacrosse game of the season took a number of Washington college students to Baltimore last week end. In fact after the Senior class which was held in Reid Hall Saturday afternoon, the campus was quite deserted. During the rest of the week end, one could see any number of students wandering around the city, especially Saturday night when the Mayfair Gardens was literally racking with Easter Shells' dancers. Miss Jane Young entertained Mr. Alvin Broughman at her home, and Miss Dorothy Clark entertained at dinner, the Misses Margaret Wandler, Frieda Grainger, Betty Calkins and the Messrs. Bob Clifford, John Mason Lord, and Richardson Saylor. Miss Wandler and Mr. Clifford were week end guests of Miss Clarke.

SPORT CHATTER

By Phil Sterling

Well, folks, now that Washington College's sports season is officially over we fans must turn our faces elsewhere to satisfy our longing for the track, diamond, or lacrosse field. It isn't likely that any of us will find occasion to boast about our this year's athletic accomplishments. However, let's look forward to next season and hope that our Alma Mater will burst forth into a field of athletic glory. Before we leave the subject it is only becoming that we should pay a tribute to the coaches and players who have striven hard to put the Maroon and Black in the win column.

Army-Navy

The leading attraction of this week end is the fight struggle between the Army and the Navy. At Annapolis the embryo Generals and Admirals defend their colors on the track and diamond. While this is in progress the members of the grey and the blue will cross sticks in the good old Indian game at West Point. These contests promise to be plenty hot and your guess is as good as ours as to the outcome.

Hopkins Reports

There doesn't seem to be any doubt concerning the champion lacrosse team in the country. Their neighbors across the Bay, the Redskins, are old stunts and it seems to be a habit for them to come out on top. They have vanquished all foes in a decided fashion and here's hoping the hand-down another world's title.

Among The Pros

It'll be but a few days before we confine our athletic observations to the boys who clout the ball for their bread and butter, for the National League many of us are surprised to see Bill Terry's Giants resting in fourth place. Well, the season's young yet so maybe our hopes for the World's Champions will be smashed. The American League seems to be moving along smoothly except for the Cleveland Indians. They're pushing themselves right now, so you can never tell what may happen.

PEABODY MUSICIANS RENDER PROGRAM

By V. Brandolini
The regular Thursday morning student assembly at Washington College, held in William Smith Hall on May 17, featured a musical program by students from the Peabody Conservatory of Music, who were Earl Lippy, Archie Eian, and Arnold Kvan.

Mr. Lippy, with his clear baritone voice, pleased the students with his excellent renditions. Of special interest was the interpretation of Schubert's "In Abendroth," which bespoke his artistic abilities. This song, which is characterized by a pensive strain of light sadness, penetrates one's heart by its gentle force. His final selections showed his familiarity with popular modern songs in the degree that he was forced to enclose with the ever-welcome "Goodbye Bread."

Mr. Eian rendered France's prelude with fluidness. This recurrent melody was characterized by the middle register, and by the contrasting depression in the lower bass register. His next solo, "Liedchen," occurring in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," but arranged for the piano by Liszt, was typical of the rich Wagnerian style. The grand style and difficult execution pleased the students.

Mr. Kvan chose for his first two pieces, "Hymnen" by Halter and "Arioso" by Bach, which were well adapted to the tonal qualities of the cello. In both these pieces, the plaintive melody in the minor was interpreted with the feeling and freedom of a skilled musician. Because of the excellent bowing, dynamic and use of harmonies in the airy "Scherzo" by VanGoesen, Mr. Kvan was called back to encore with his Schumann's "Serenade." Here again, the simplicity, ease of execution of the difficult pizzicato passages proclaimed the artist.

Student appreciation fixed this program as one of the best this year.

Classical Society Ends Year's Events

By Joseph Freedman
The Classical Society met on Monday afternoon, May 21, in a final business session, for the purpose of officially winding up the club's affairs for the current year.
The program committee, of which Mary L. Moore is Chairman, announced that the Society will conduct an informal party at Betterton on Wednesday afternoon, May 30, at which time officers will be elected for the ensuing year. All members are urged to attend, as transportation is being provided.

Color Symposium Given By Biologists

By William McCullough
On Tuesday evening, May 15, the Biology Department, under the direction of Dr. Carpenter, held an open symposium at which papers prepared by members of the department, on color in the plants and lower animals, were read.

The papers were prepared from two different points of view. The functions and functions of the various pigments was the basis of the discussions prepared by Messrs. Seymour, Culver, and Wagner. The chlorophyll of green plants and the hemoglobin of the blood of animals was especially stressed. The use of color and pattern by plant and animal life as protection, concealment, and attraction of mates was the point of view of the papers read by the Messrs. Gritlin, Jarrell, Walls, Wallace, and Carroll.

This was the first symposium held on the Washington College campus for a number of years. It was well attended by both faculty and students. All who attended seemed both interested and pleased.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY HOLDS FINAL MEETING

By Robert Fink
Three demonstrations were given at the final meeting of the Chemical Society of Washington College, held May 15.

Mr. Wagner produced the unusual phenomenon of light in the absence of heat. An organic compound (trade name-Laminol) in solution, under certain conditions, produces a soft but intense blue light. Various forms of phosphorescence were shown.

Dr. Dudley generated sulfuric acid by the lead chamber process, and explained the process.

Mr. Snithorn exhibited the spectra of several elements.

The society will continue to function next year with more resources and activities.

Student Council Supports Budget

At the last meeting of the Men's Student Council, held on May 21, there were a number of topics brought up and discussed. It was decided that the committee on identification badges for freshmen should continue investigation. Due to the proximity of the final exams, the council urged the increase of its vigilance in apprehending violations of the honor system. Other suggestions were made in connection with the purchase of second hand books from the students, the disappearance of library books, and the continuance of the student activities budget.

The Dramatic Club Offers New Plays

Rigley is played by Robert Clifford. Rehearsals have begun in earnest and from all appearances a good performance is in store.

"Suppressed Desire" is also a satire. This play met with much praise when it was presented here several years ago, and from such a cast as has been selected to give it this year there is little doubt but this praise will be repeated. Miss Lucille Rasin is herself playing the part of Henrietta Brewster, who measures every inch of her life in the terms of Freud's wish—fulfillment and Unconscious.

Her husband, Stephen, portrayed by Wesley Sedler, is continuously annoyed by her incessant study of dreams.

Her sister Mabel, who's "Suppressed Desire" makes her a subject for Henrietta is being played by Miss Phoebe Fyle.

There is just enough variety in these plays to make the whole performance one of unusual character. Any one of them would be worth your money—just think of the bargain you are getting.

These glorious days of May brought the Circus to town and the call of the wild took the Miss Caroline Helms, Hattie Ragan and the Messrs. Dave Fisher, and Burdette Nattle to Philadelphia for the performance.

The spring round of teas began last Monday when Miss Anne Smith, of Chestertown, entertained members of the Gamma Sigma Sorority at her home on Washington Ave.

The Jarvis home at Still Pond was delightfully lively last Wednesday night when several friends gave Miss Helen Jarvis a surprise birthday party. The college was well represented, at least one member of each class being present.

The Misses Benny and Mary Nicholson, of Little Grove, entertained the Misses Louise Nicholson, Catherine Kirwan, Jean Young, and Ella Barkley at their charming home last Wednesday.

Kent Island has been the scene of many dinners and week end parties during the past season and again held forth last Friday when Miss Catherine Kirwan entertained several friends at a dinner and theatre party. Among those present were the Misses Ella Barkley, Marie Register, Louise Nicholson, Anne Whyte, and the Messrs. Earle Price, Thomson Brown, Lee Bell, Bill Reinhardt, and Robert Shaul.

The college is indebted to the members of the Kent County D. A. R. who held a benefit show at the New Lyceum Theatre last Thursday. More than half of the students of the college were present.

On Saturday, the 26th, the male members of the college will have to look elsewhere for dates since the three sororities will be enjoying themselves on their annual House Party at Betterton.

Mrs. Gilbert W. Meade will entertain Miss Mildred Blackledge, the National Secretary of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, of which Mrs. Meade is an active member.

Maryland, is also a lawyer and banker of repute in the city of Baltimore.

The address on this occasion will be delivered by the Honorable Hugo La Fayette Black, United States Senator from Alabama. Washington College is indeed fortunate to have the privilege of hearing this distinguished gentleman at such a time. Senator Black has attained no little prominence of a national character through his activities while in charge of the senatorial investigation of the ocean and air mail subsidies. The findings of this committee and the subsequent action taken by the federal government have figured largely in the headlines of the papers during the present year. Senator Black has been secured for the recreation through the good offices of President Mead, whose personal friend he became while the latter was connected with Birmingham-Southern.

At 12:30 in the afternoon of the same day a formal luncheon will be served in the gymnasium, which will be followed at 1:45 with the bi-annually meeting of the Board of Visitors and Governors, conclusively winding up the college year.
